STANDARD OIL SHOWS PLANS OF NEW PLANT

No Objection to It Apparent and Permit to Construct is Expected.

Plans for the proposed new plant of the Standard Oil Company at West Front street and Rock avenue, drawn by Clifford Ellis, were exhibited at fire headquarters yesterday by Mr. Ellis, who gave an explanation of them. A public hearing on the company's application for a building permit will be given by the Common Council at its meeting Monday night, and it seems to be the opinion that the company will be given permission to build according to its plans. It is estimated that the plant complete will cost about $50,000, and as Mr. Ellis explained, it will be the most pretentious one of the kind put up by the company.

If the company is allowed to follow its plans, the storage tank on East Fourth street, will be abandoned and the oil wagons and other equipment will be removed from the rear of T. J. Pruden's residence on East Second street, thereby doing away with those alleged nuisances and possible danger.

The company has an acre of ground at Rock avenue and West Front street, and it is proposed to place the warehouse and tank-house on the rear of the tract adjoining the railroad, while the stables will be built on the southwestern corner of the tract. These buildings will be constructed of brick, and equipped in the latest and most approved style.

It is proposed to erect four steel tanks, 10x40 each, two for gasoline and two for refined oils. Each tank will have about 3,000 cubic feet, and will be placed about seven feet below ground and will set in concrete reservoirs. The tank-house will be about ten or twelve feet above ground and each tank will be covered, thereby eliminating all possible danger of fire. The tanks will hold 400 barrels of oil each.

The plans call for concrete walks and driveways on the tract with handsome lawns, etc., which will tend to greatly improve that property. An ornamental iron fence will surround the property about twenty feet from the sidewalk on Front street and Rock avenue. The representatives of the company have gone over the matter thoroughly with the Fire and Building Committee of the Common Council and has willingly made all changes as suggested by the committee. It is positively stated by the company that there will be no objectionable odors from the tanks and that every possible precaution will be taken to prevent fire or danger to adjoining property.

There are no dwellings close to this property and for that reason the company selected the site. It is proposed to have a siding from the railroad run on the company property so that the tanks can be filled from tank cars with the least possible danger and with no annoyance to anyone living in the neighborhood.

It is understood that several property-owners in the vicinity who did object to the proposition, have since withdrawn their objections upon learning of the plans of the company. However, an opportunity will be given at the meeting of the Common Council Monday night for persons to speak for or against the improvement.

CHURCHES ARRANGE FOR UNION SUMMER SERVICES

According to the annual custom, during July and August, the members of the First Baptist, First M. E., Trinity Reformed and First Presbyterian churches will hold union services on Sunday evenings. Rev. Dr. C. M. Anderson, of the First M. E. church, to whom the matter was referred, has made a tentative plan for the services, which is subject to change. It is understood that during August the pastors will be on their vacations and that the supplies at the respective churches will take the service assigned to the regular pastor. The young people's societies will also hold union services at the church where the union preaching service is to be held. The schedule follows:

July 7, Trinity Reformed church, Rev. Dr. Philip B. Strong; July 14, First M. E. church, Rev. Dr. C. E. Herring; July 21, Rev. Dr. C. M. Anderson; August 4, Trinity Reformed church, Rev. Dr. C. E. ANOTHER CONFERENCE ON SEWER QUESTION

To Be Held Here Next Wednesday Night on Trunk Line Plan.

Mayor G. W. V. Moy, at the request of the Councilmanic Sewage Committee, has invited representatives from Dunellen, North Plainfield, Scotch Plains and Fanwood, to attend a conference to be held at the Common Council chamber, Wednesday night, June 5, to consider in detail plans for a trunk line sewer, the objective point for the disposal plant to be on the Darling farm in Piscataway Township. It is proposed to act under the laws of 1910 which gives municipalities the right to install such a sewage system.

At the conference Wednesday night it is proposed to consider the estimated cost and apportion the same to each municipality deciding to join in the proposition. Inasmuch as the Piscataway township authorities have absolutely refused to give Plainfield the right to locate a disposal works in their territory, it is expected that legal steps will be taken to prevent any action that Plainfield or other municipalitites may take in that direction.

IN SUPPORT OF MR. BUTTFIELD

Mayor, Councilmen and Sewage Commission Retort to Bound Brook Letter.

CALL IT "SCURRILOUS"

And Say Mr. Buttfield Took No Step in His Course Without Their Knowledge—All of Them Sign Reply.

Crisp answer is made today by the Mayor, the Councilmen and the Sewage Commission of North Plainfield to the letter of Garet Garrett and Henry G. Opdycke, of Bound Brook, sent to the Daily Press several days ago, in which strictures were passed on the manner in which Chairman W. J. Buttfield, of the North Plainfield Council's Sewer Committee, has sought to solve the problem of sewering North Plainfield. The letter of the borough officials and commissioners is designed to destroy the impression that Mr. Buttfield acted alone and independently in his course, and to make it plain that he took all his steps in the matter with the cognizance of the Mayor, Council and Commission. The reply characterizes the Opdycke-Garrett letter as "scurrilous." It is as follows:

"Editors, Plainfield Daily Press:
Plainfield, N. J.:

"Dear Sirs.—

"To correct the false impression given in a certain scurrilous letter recently published in your paper, we wish to state that every step in the program followed by Mr. Buttfield, in connection with the North Plainfield Sewage amtter, was taken only after deliberation with the Mayor and Council of North Plainfield, and the members of the Sewage Commission, and with their full consent and approval."

GRACE CHOIR BOYS SCORE IN CANTATA

Effective Solos and Catchy Choruses—Camp Fund is Swelled by $100.

The choir boys of Grace Episcopal church added $100 to their summer camp fund as a result of the cantata given by them in Grace Church Parish house, last night. "Jack and the Baked Beanstalk" was the title of the musical composition. Thirty-seven boys took part and the solos, choruses, and recitatives were executed in such a capable manner as to evoke the hearty plaudits of those present, and called forth numerous repetitions.

The cantata was divided into two parts: "On Earth," and "In Cloudyland," and dealt in musical form with the old prose nursery story with which all children are familiar. There were some delightful catchy choruses, the one about "Baked Beans" delighting.

The bass solo parts were excellently sung by Bert Tallamy. The character parts of the "Princess," "Jack," "The Little Old Lady," and the "The Dwarf" were capably sustained by Eugene Martin, Carlyle Wright, Irving Manley and John Patterson. The singing of all the boys pleased, but especially that of Irving Manley, who is the possessor of a voice of much sweetness.

The cantata was under the direction of S. Frederick Smith, the organist, who acted as accompanist. He was heartily congratulated at the conclusion for the splendid manner in which the whole cantata had been carried through by the boys. The other boys who took part were: Edward Ryder, Abbot Hullson, Charles Alpaugh, John Dorr, Carl A. Wright, Fred Heissener, Eugene Martin, William Whelan, John Cottrell, Daniel MacNamee, Harold Williams, William Beeken, John Meggy, Ralph Vincent, Archie Hawthorne, John Schieng, Donald Wean, David Patterson, Godfrey Clay, Thomas Fitch, Raymond Hansen, Ralph Kamp, Bert Tallamy, Jr., George Stover, Harold VanWinkle, Bertram Wiglow, Harold Stevens and Louis Steckweather.

COUNTRY CLUB GUARDS AGAINST FREAK DANCE

Trustees Ask Members to Frown on "Hug" and "Trot" Style.

Profiting by the experiences of several clubs in and around New York, where dances of a more or less objectionable character have crept in, the trustees of the Plainfield Country Club have taken precautions to prevent the possibility of unpleasantness at the local club. They sent cards to the members and also posted one at the clubhouse, expressing the hope that the club dances this season may not be disfigured by novelties, or styles, in dancing to which any of the members could possibly take objection.

By way of explanation, it is stated that while there has been no cause for complaint in this direction, the trustees thought it wise to bring the matter to the attention of he members before anything of that nature arose, thereby preventing any possible trouble in the future.

It is said that at some of the clubs in this section of the country, as well as elsewhere have experienced trouble regarding the latest dances, such as the "turkey trot," the "grizzly bear," and "bunny hug," and when the governing bodies have sought to stop them, some of the members have considered it an abridgement of their personal rights and considerable dissension has followed. For this reason the trustees of the local club thought best to take action at the opening of the social season. The card posted at the club reads as follows:

"The trustees venture to express the hope that our club dances this season may not be disfigured by novelties or styles in dancing to which any of our members could possibly take objection. It is suggested, as a matter of fairness to many members who have found these dances so delightful in the past, whether taking active part in them or as spectators that nothing should be done to convert an entertainment which may be wholly graceful and charming into one in the least degree inartistic or common place. It appears to be not entirely a matter of the freak dance, but rather a question of good taste in dancing generally. The trustees believe that the members themselves may be relied upon to see that any essentially objectionable style or method of dancing shall be not merely unpopular but emphatically bad form at the Plainfield Country Club." The notice is signed by Dr. F. E. DuBois, secretary, by direction of the Board of Trustees.

MANY AT CARNIVAL; WIND-UP TONIGHT

A bigger crowd than ever attended the Knights of Columbus Carnival on West Fourth street near Grant avenue last night. The Ferris wheel, circle wave and merry-go-round were highly popular and the diving girls and the boxing Kangaroo attracted so many spectators that the capacities of their respective tents were exceeded.

Ferrari's circus, Streets of All Nations, the big "Ten in One" circus, Minnie-Ha-Ha, the German Flea Circus, the "Race of Death," the minstrel show, Bonavita, Ora Cecil, and the many other special features furnish the widest possible range of amusement, and make this year's carnival far and away the best that has been presented under the auspices of the Knights of Columbus.

The auxiliary tent near the entrance to the grounds is well supplied with refreshments, which are dispensed by the wives, daughters and sweethearts of the members of the Watchung Council.

There will be a matinee this afternoon and the Carnival will close tonight. A monster crowd is expected and full arrangements have been made to handle it.

APPEAL FOR FUND TO MARK ROCK

Continental Chapter, D. A. R., Asks Public to Contribute to Cost of Monument.

A. L. C. MARSH'S DESIGN

At Least $3,000 Needed to Carry Memorial Idea Out Properly and Chapter Needs the Public's Aid in Securing It.

Appeal is made by Continental Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, for funds with which to set up a memorial on Washington Rock. Articles published in the past few days have made the public familiar with the fact that the Chapter has launched forth on a determined effort to place a suitable memorial on the famous rock.

At least $3,000 is needed for the memorial, and as a nucleus for the fund the Chapter has about $650 in hand or subscribed. An etching of a drawing of the proposed monument is shown in connection with this article. Referring to the design and stating the appeal for funds, the committee of the Chapter in charge of the monument movement says:

"The design for the memorial proposed for Washington Rock is shown herewith. It is the work of A. L. C. Marsh, of this city, and has been most generously donated by him to the Continental Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution.

"In this design, the central cairn of rough stone is built on the foundation of the original monument, placed there forty-five years ago. From it rises a flag-staff, surmounted by a gilded eagle, which will be visible from a long distance. From it will be flown, on occasions, the national flag and the ensign of the D. A. R. A rough retaining wall of the native stone, quite in keeping with the surroundings, serves the double purpose of preventing the future crumbling of the soil and of uniting the two rocks for they are two, not one, and stand some eighty feet apart.

"Within the cairn, it is proposed to place an iron box, containing papers, records and, more especially, a book, plainly and strongly bound, with the signatures of all who have contributed to the fund, but not the amounts subscribed. On the face of the monument there will be a bronze plate with a suitable inscription.

"To carry out this scheme worthily, at least three thousand dollars is needed. More could be used with advantage. The Chapter has on hand five hundred, collected some years ago for this purpose, with the addition of two subscriptions from chapter members, aggregating one hundred and fifty dollars.

"This is the case as it stands. The Chapter, though enthusiastic, is small and can not, without the help of the community at large, build a suitable memorial.

"We, the members of the committee, ask now for that help. Twenty-five hundred dollars, divided among a community of twenty-five thousand souls, is not a great sum.

"We are not asking large amounts from the few, but offering the privilege of sharing in this labour of patriotism to the many. No sum will be too small to be appreciated or too large to be put to good use.

"In the last quarter of a century monuments to mark historic sites have been going up all over this state—the play ground of the Revolution. Here at our doors lies one of authentic interest and singular natural beauty, neglected, almost forgotten. If this generation passes it by, it will be forgotten. Let us remember that the traditions of the past are the bulwarks of the future, let us guard them as a sacred trust and let us preserve for our children's children the heritage of our fathers. Let us mark the Rock now.

"(Signed)
"SUSAN RAPALIE READ, Regent,
"AMELIA GRAY HARMAN,
"JULIA REGER HONEYMAN,
"MARIE LOUISE MEAD,
"MARY I. S. McCUTCHEN."

"MEMORIAL BOOK" WILL BE PART OF MONUMENT

All subscribers to the Washington Rock Memorial Fund are asked to enter their names, but not the amount of their subscriptions, on the blank leaves provided by the Chapter for the purpose.

Reference has been made to the book which is to be placed in the memorial. The loose sheets to be later bound in this volume, a gift to the Chapter from Mrs. A. V. D. Honeyman, will be distributed through the community by mail and in person.

As, however, only a limited number can be reached in this way they will also be placed at the office of the Daily Press, through the courtesy of the editors, at the City National Bank and at the Plainfield Trust Company,

REJECTED SUITOR KILLS SCHOOLGIRL

Turns Gun on Self and Likely Will Die.

SENDS HER DECOY MESSAGE

In Note Tells Girl That Her Father Is Dying—After She Refused to Elope With Him, Frenzied, He Shoots Her Dead.

Phillipsburg, N. J., June 1.—Alice Lynch, pretty fourteen-year-old daughter of Martin Lynch, a Fayette street merchant, was shot dead by Brossolaus Tuschetchz, aged twenty-four, a rejected suitor, at the home of the girl's parents here. Tuschetchz then turned the revolver on himself.

Tuschetchz called at the parochial school of SS. Philip and James and informed the girl her father was dying and she was wanted at home at once. He accompanied the girl to her home and then admitted there was no truth in the story about her father and told the girl he wanted her to elope with him.

The girl declined the proposition to elope. She was immediately told by the young man that if she refused he would shoot her. The next moment he drew a revolver and killed her. The report of the revolver attracted the attention of a neighbor, who was about to seize the man when he placed the revolver to his head and fired. He was hurried to the Easton hospital, seriously wounded. His death was momentarily expected.

WHITING SUCCEEDS MURPHY.

Delegates to Vote For Roosevelt on Every Ballot.

Trenton, N. J., June 1.—Colonel Roosevelt's twenty-eight New Jersey delegates to the Chicago convention mapped out in detail their plans for participating in the convention. Former Governor John Franklin Fort was chosen as chairman of the delegation. It was also agreed that Borden D. Whiting should succeed former Governor Murphy as a member of the Republican national committee.

One of the resolutions adopted at the conference was pledged to vote for Roosevelt on every ballot until the adjournment of the convention. It was agreed that the delegates and their friends should go to Chicago on a special train leaving Jersey City Friday, June 14, preceding the Tuesday on which the national convention opens.

I. W. W. ORGANIZER ARRESTED

Rudolph Katz Accused of Picketing Near a Mill.

Paterson, N. J., June 1.—Rudolph Katz, an I. W. W. organizer, who has been selected by the Socialist party to make the run for congress in the Seventh district, was arrested for picketing near a mill in this city and sent to the county jail for six months. Unless he gets his conviction set aside he will have to do his campaigning for congress from the county jail.

Katz was at the mill when the workers were going into the shop. The owners of the mill objected and so did some of the workers, and the police were hurried to the place.

Burned by High Volt Meter.

Newark, N. J., June 1.—Semiconscious and unable to speak, Frederick Turner, twenty-four years old, of Nutley was found beside a voltage meter in the basement of the Public Service office. His condition is regarded as serious. It is believed that Turner, who is a lineman of the company, stumbled against the meter, which it is his duty to inspect daily. Currents of 2,400 volts go through the meter.

Found Dead In Cell.

Camden, N. J., June 1.—When the jailers of the county jail here went to the cell of Walter Severns of Clementon to remove him to the state penitentiary at Trenton, where he was to commence a fourteen year sentence for forgery, they found him dead on his cot. The superficial examination by the jail physician showed the man had died of natural causes.

Asylum Inmate Escapes.

Trenton, N. J., June 1.—Squeezing through the bars of a window, Joseph Robuf, an inmate of the State Hospital For the Insane, escaped and is still at large. The patient was in his room on the second floor, as usual. After donning his clothes he raised the window sash and forced the bars apart with his body.

Boy's Skull Broken by Automobile.

MEDICAL OPINION AS TO FOOD VALUE OF CANDY

New York, June 1.—The increasing consumption of candy in this country has been the subject of considerable comment at medical meetings here recently. According to the New York Medical Journal it is generally agreed that the food value of candy is beyond dispute and that it has a therapeutic use in certain forms of heart disease. This authority says:

"In the past five years there has been an increase of $47,709,000 in the value of the candy produced in the United States. This increase has undoubtedly been influenced in no small measure by the change in the attitude of the medical profession toward the matter of the consumption of candy.

"The drawback in permitting the child to eat unlimited candy lies in the absence of fat. If the parent is warned to introduce sufficient quantities of the carbohydrates by insisting upon the use of butter or oils in the diet, the child may generally eat pure candy without detriment and even with distinct advantage.

Carpathia Heroes Tendered Luncheon in Astor Home, Fifth Avenue.

HONOR TITANIC HEROES.

Captain Rostron and Surgeon McGee Entertained at Astor Home.

New York, June 1.—Two women who lost their husbands when the Titanic went down showed Captain Henry Rostron and Surgeon Frank McGee of the rescue ship Carpathia something of their appreciation. Mrs. Madeline Astor, the widow of John J. Astor, and Mrs. John B. Thayer of Philadelphia, whose husband was lost on the Titanic, told these two men, the one commander of the steamship that gave them shelter after hours of drifting in the open boats that left the sinking Titanic, the other the comforting physician who ministered to them on their way home, of their deep gratitude at a luncheon at the Astor home on Fifth avenue.

Captain Rostron and Dr. McGee found that there were to be but three at the luncheon beside themselves. They were Mrs. Astor, Mrs. Thayer and Mrs. Force, the mother of Mrs. Astor. Mrs. Thayer had come from Philadelphia, dressed in heavy mourning, but a few moments before the arrival of the captain. For a time there were reminiscences of the tragedy and what followed, and the women told of their gratitude. Then the party went into the huge state dining room, the windows of which have been darkened since the head of the house lost his life, and here, where the hospitality of the Astors have been shown to so many notables, the English captain and the physician sat at luncheon with the women they had saved from the deep.

GEN. ESTENOZ SEEKS PRESIDENCY OF CUBA

Paducah's Marines Ready to Protect American Interests.

Washington, June 1.—With 100 American marines on board the gunboat Paducah, in the harbor of Daiquiri, the landing of the first American force on Cuban soil since the last intervention is looked for.

President Rand of the Spanish-American Iron company called at the state department and expressed anxiety concerning the safety of American interests in the Santiago districts.

Officials of both the state and war departments were unable to find anything encouraging in any aspect of the Cuban situation. It was learned that the negro leaders are giving receipts for property confiscated by them, the receipts being signed in the name of Estenoz, who, with Ivonnet, is the head of the uprising. This procedure is taken to indicate that Estenoz contemplates completely to overthrow the Gomez government and assume the presidency himself.

GRAFT CHARGES STIR SHORE CITY

Palmer, Friend of Kuehnle, Fifth to Confess.

ATLANTIC CITY EXCITED

Said That Before Scandal Is Fully Ventilated Between Thirty and Forty Will Be Arrested—Dictograph Aids Sleuth In Getting Evidence.

Atlantic City, N. J., June 1.—Following a fifth confession in the graft exposures, this place is in a turmoil. W. J. Palmer, said to be the go-between for the Atlantic City councilmen in the million dollar concrete board walk job, is the latest to tell what he knows. It is said that before the scandal is fully ventilated between thirty men, political leaders and lieutenants, some business men, any number of the seventeen councilmen and other officeholders will be under arrest charged with accepting bribes or with extorting money for about everything that an ingenious political mind can capitalize.

There is evidence to show that the political ring and its affiliations for three years past has commercialized every municipal function. It has dealt in streets, new and old street openings, street paving and sewering—ditching was a $1,500,000 job—permits and franchises of all kinds and privileges of all descriptions. Also by confession it has been learned that by the extraordinary powers of the seventeen councilmen, or the majority of them who stood with the combination, there has been traffic in excise licenses by means of holdups and extra demands, that all places of amusement have been similarly treated and that the sums received from irregular places or resorts, gamblers and others brought in large sums continuously to the powers.

Palmer Makes Confession.

W. J. Palmer, a real estate dealer, but a warm personal friend of Kuehnle, the big boss, already under sentence to one year of imprisonment for crime in office, was the fifth to confess to William J. Burns at the Marlborough Blenheim. He said that he was the man who introduced the detective, posing as a New York contractor, to Councilman Phoebus; that he was in a room of the Continental hotel, Newark, when Phoebus and Councilman Lane arrived for their $500 allotments, and their talk was recorded by the dictograph. He gave other incriminating information.

The situation as it stands here is Harry F. Dougherty, councilman from the Third ward, is under $3,000 bail on the charge of accepting a bribe of 500; Samuel S. Phoebus, councilman of the Second ward, has confessed that he took the money in this case and in several other cases, notably the ditch contract and a paving proposition; William Malia of the Third ward has made a similar confession; Gustave Kessler, councilman of the Third ward and a cousin of Kuehnle, also has confessed, as has James W. Lane, councilman of the Fourth ward. The names of the three other councilmen who have been implicated will not be known until they are placed under arrest or make confessions.

Business Men Determined.

Atlantic City has been turned upside down in this way because a band of public spirited citizens, business men, proprietors of the large hotels, bankers and others came to the conclusion about two years ago that the political ring was getting a little too raw in its work and subscribed a fund to start investigation.

Some say they have spent at least $100,000 already and will spend more.

BRIDEGROOM IS KILLED.

Prospective Father-in-law Thought He Was Prowler.

Houston, Tex., June 1.—Lloyd Jackson, a wealthy youth, was killed by D. M. Moody just as the young man and Moody's daughter were about to hurry to a wedding ceremony.

Jackson was killed as he waited near a second story casement of the Moody home, and Moody asserts he shot because he thought he had caught a prowler about to enter his daughter's room.

In a dying declaration Jackson asserted that nobody had objected to the match.

THE ABUSE OF THE PENSION SYSTEM.

A writer in The Forum in 1899 speaking on the subject of Pensions said, "There is no subject in which the people are more deeply interested than this," and might have added, "and in which the people manifest no interest whatever." For during all the alteration and reconstruction of our political opinions and beliefs, the business of grinding out pensions by Congress still goes on as usual at the same old stand, and today one may read in the current news columns such items as the following:

"Both Houses of Congress have agreed to the modified pension bill, and it goes to the President for his signature. The bill increases the pensions to veterans by about $25,000,000 a year, bringing the total up to about $185,000,000—a much higher figure than ever before. And it is forty-seven years since the close of the Civil War."

It is surprising what a lack of interest is shown in the subject of pensions among the people at large. Is it because they favor the distribution among a class of our people of the enormous sums that are paid each year without regard to the question whether those payments are equitable and just? Or is it because they agree with a gentleman—a manufacturer whose business has complete tariff protection—who said to me that "it is a good thing, as it keeps money in circulation?" How would it be if these sums were exacted by direct tax so that the proportionate share of the taxpayer would be evident from an inspection of his tax bills? No one individual, of course, feels the burden of his share of this cost because it is contributed by indirection, hence we become callous to the seriousness of the matter, and when we read about the large payments by the National Government for this purpose and the constant increase we give but passing notice, and our minds immediately revert to the news of more personal concern.

It is not necessary or desirable to burden this article with a great body of statistics, but a few extracts from the Report of the Commissioner of Pensions for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1911, may be appropriate.

The number of soldiers and sailors on the pension roll at the close of the year was 570,050, the number of dependents and widows was 321,642, and the number of Army nurses was 406, total 892,098. The amount paid in pensions was $157,325,160.35. The cost of administration, pension-agency service, fees of examining surgeons, etc., $2,517,127.06. The total annual value of the pensions under the provisions of general pension laws at the close of the year was $148,222,880.80, the total number of pensioners being 869,775. The number of pensioners on the roll under special acts of Congress was 22,323, and the annual value of such pensions was $6,611,357. The increase in the number of "Special-act" pensioners during the year was 2,901, and the increase in the annual value of such pensions was $886,111. The amount paid for pensions since the foundation of the Government to June 30, 1911, is $4,230,381,730. Upon new issues of pensions in 1911, $163,610.06 were paid at attorneys' fees. Over 68,791,550 acres of public land have been granted to survivors of the War of the Revolution, the War of 1812, and the Mexican and Indian Wars.

No one I think will complain of a reasonable application of the pension system in our National Government; it is the abuse of the system that has been a disgrace of our National life for years. No one party is responsible for this condition. Republicans and Democrats alike, probably on the ground of political expediency, grant new pensions and increases in the rates without the slightest hesitation. The most flagrant example of this abuse is the "special pension act." The special acts passed last year were 2,901. With all the business that our National Legislature has to attend to, how is it possible that such a large number of special cases can receive proper and thorough investigation? President Cleveland found time and had the courage to give some attention to pension legislation, and made a record by his vetoes of unworthy special acts. Fifty pension bills vetoed by him were reviewed and repassed by Congress. Some one made an investigation of these fifty special cases and published the results in a pamphlet. The cases are very interesting. For example:

"Invalid. Pensioned at $6 for disease. Increased to $50 because of loss of right arm and injury to left hand while firing a salute July 4, 1863, while at home on parole."

"Widow. Soldier died in 1882 of intemperance, as shown to Pension Bureau. Committee decides that he died of rheumatism."

Invalid. Enlisted March 25, 1865, discharged May 11, 1865. Served 48 days. Pensioned for slight granulation of eyelids, claimed to have resulted from measles in April, 1865."

"Widow. Husband disappeared in 1875, and it was not certainly known that he was dead, but the committee presumed that he was dead and that he died of a disease due to his service."

Some of the abuses, perhaps, may be chargeable to the activity of pension attorneys, and upon investigation it might be found that most of the pension legislation is promoted and fostered by pension attorneys. $163,610.06 paid as attorneys' fees in 1911! Can any one give a good reason why a veteran really entitled to a pension should be required to present his claim by an attorney? Then, again, the ease with which pensions are obtained leads to many frauds being perpetrated and many unworthy pensions granted, and there is practically no publicity. How many people in Plainfield know who of our citizens are receiving pensions? Probably only the pensioner if the pension attorney were eliminated, and if the law required that a complete list of the pensioners in the locality be published in the local newspapers, a partial remedy might be found.

This article is not intended to be a protest against the pension system as a system, but against its abuse. It is just and fair that public servants, such as policemen and firemen, who give the best years of life to the service of the community for a moderate living wage, who have no opportunity to accumulate property for their subsistence in old age, who are constantly in danger of losing their lives in defense of the property of others, are entitled to our special consideration. The same may be said also of those who are in the regular military and naval service. No one, I think, can object to liberal pensions being paid to veterans of our wars whose earning capacity has been impaired by disease contracted or injuries received in the service of the Nation or have reached advanced years, and who are unable to engage in any useful occupation and are dependent upon others for support. But why go further? Why grant a pension to a soldier who served in a war merely because he served in the war, and whose earning capacity has never been impaired?

In my opinion, it rests with the veterans themselves to clear us of this National disgrace brought about by the abuse of a worthy cause. Let them give some thought to the reason for their service. Do men volunteer in case of war because of the compensation they will receive or because they may be pensioned after the war is over? No. Do they enlist because they wish to preserve the property and homes of those who must remain at home? Of course not. It is purely and simply from a sense of loyalty, of duty to their country. The loyal soldier is never a mercenary. He is always a volunteer. The armies of a republic are mobilized not by a draft, but by a call. As a loyal veteran of the Civil War has said: "The true rewards of loyalty cannot consist in recompense, gifts, compensations, or remunerations. The duty of loyalty is a moral obligation. The true reward of loyalty must be a moral satisfaction—honor." With what a proud sense of satisfaction the brave policemen in New York City must have received from Mayor Gaynor the medals for valorous acts in the performance of their duty. Imagine their feelings if he had handed them ten-dollar gold pieces!

If the loyal veterans of the wars would take cognizance of this high sense of loyalty, and refuse pensions while able to make their own living or possessed of sufficient means, and would make it their business to see that their representatives in Congress granted pensions only to those who had reached old age or were incapacitated either by injury or disease received or contracted in the service and who were without means of support, and to widows and dependents of those who die as a result of their military service, the pension disgrace would

MISS VON OHL TALKS ON PROPER RIDING

Attired in the attractive costume of the West, Miss Adele von Ohl, daughter of Mrs. Percy von Ohl, of this city, has been nightly entertaining crowds of people with her horsemanship at the Wild West Show which forms one of the attractive features of the Knights of Columbus Carnival. Miss von Ohl is one of the most accomplished horsewomen in the world. There is nothing that she does not know about the art of riding in any position. She is well-known here and has appeared several times at the local theatres in different capacities; and has been a success at Hammerstein's, and several of the Philadelphia and Chicago show houses.

Latterly her health has not been as good as usual and it is for that reason she is now touring the country with the Monarch Greater Show. Her native air, she declares, has done her a lot of good.

In an interesting article published by the Evening Mail, Miss Adele von Ohl tells how one should sit and handle a horse. The story was as follows:

"Having in mind the distressing case of a wealthy woman who met her death in Central Park the other day by being thrown from her cob and crushed beneath him, I sought light on the dangers of such a pastime.

"Adele von Ohl was the young woman who counseled me and set forth the fatal errors of horsemanship. Miss von Ohl is small and slight, with a complexion which has been turned into a rose by outdoor exercise, and big brown eyes that widen with earnestness as she cries, 'Oh, how I hate a side-saddle!' This little woman makes a very big challenge. She will meet at any time, at any place, under any conditions and on any sort of mount, any woman in the world who disputes her championship.

"Side-saddle, English saddle, no saddle at all; circus horse, park hack, broncho or Arabian steed; Miss von Ohl is not particular. She began when she was six to ride unbroken animals famed for their nasty tempers, and she can do more things with a horse than the bridle path in Central Park ever dreamed of.

"She listened gravely as I skimmed the details of the fatal accident in the park. The woman who died was an expert rider, it was said.

"'It doesn't matter,' said Miss von Ohl, 'no human being, however skillful, can escape from a falling horse if they cannot free their feet instantly. Every woman who goes into the bridle paths of the park, clad in the conventional habit and riding sideways, takes her life in her hands. Riding bucking horses on the western plains over rough ground is not a circumstance to the dangers of polite horsemanship as is usual in the parks.

"'Oh, yes, I began on a side-saddle—but I wouldn't touch one now. Sitting on a horse side-ways is the most unnatural position that a human body can assume. If it is done long enough it will deform anybody. More than half the weight is thrown to the right side, and the right leg therefore becomes abnormally developed. Side-riding twists the waist and curves the spine dangerously. And, oh, the poor horse! It is cruel to him. More than 50 per cent. of side-saddles make the horse's back sore.

"'Posting is another very bad thing both for rider and horse. You never see a cavalryman jumping off his saddle, and cavalrymen use the best riding methods there are. It only takes a horse a fraction of a second to stumble or step into a hole. What would become of a rider who happened to be up in the air at the instant? Don't post!

"'Now, what undoubtedly caused that poor woman's death in the park was that she could not free herself from the falling horse. A woman's habit fastens her to the horse, which should never be. Even if she wore a so-called 'safety' habit, which is open at the back, the elastic bands which hold it under her foot and about her knee, act as hobbles that cannot be kicked off or broken.

"'Another thing women do is to grip with the knees. This is one of the commoner mistakes. The body should be utterly relaxed and balanced, ready for a quick movement at any instant. Balance, balance, balance! That is the secret of good riding. Don't depend on anything but balance.

"'Turn your toes in! Nature made a complete adjustment between man and horse. The Indians know the trick and always ride with their toes pointing straight ahead or turned slightly in. When you ride that way every curve and muscle of your body fits into that of the horse's flanks and you and the horse are one. Ride with the toes turned out and the entire movement changes.'

"Miss von Ohl wears a broad-brimmed Stetson for all riding. She rolls up the brim on either side of the front, 'to keep it from blowing down against the eyes—a fatal thing.' She recommends a derby for park wear because it sticks close to the head, does not become displaced, and in case of a fall cannot cut the face with its edge.

"'Be independent,' she insists. 'The average woman rider knows little about saddling or mounting. If anything goes wrong during her ride and she is not attended by a groom, she is helpless. The average man on a park bench knows nothing about horses.

"'No woman can properly control a high spirited horse from a side-saddle with her feet bound by habit strings. I believe that was what cost Mrs. Knapp her life. I have been in many accidents myself where I know I would have been killed if I had not been balanced, foot-loose and as agile as a monkey.'

"I shall never see a woman riding in the park again, sideways, without a mental picture of Miss von Ohl as she illustrated her don'ts in lively fashion, jumping on and off a chair, and, saying, 'Never, never, never use a side-saddle—remember that.'"

There have been many cases like the following in Plainfield. Everyone relates the experience of people we know. These plain, straightforward statements will do much toward relieving the sufferings of thousands. Such testimony will be read with interest by many people.

Mrs. Anthony Wahl, R. F. D. No. 1, Plainfield N. J., says: "I had such distressing pains in my back that I could hardly stand and it was out of the question for me to stoop. I was all crippled up and I knew perfectly well that my kidneys were the cause of my trouble. A neighbor recommended Doan's Kidney Pills to me and on her suggestion, I used them. They gave me almost immediate relief and three boxes changed me from a chronic sufferer to a healthy woman. I still take Doan's Kidney Pills occasionally when a cold settles on my kidneys and they act as a preventive of any serious recurrence of my former trouble. You may publish this account of my experience for the benefit of other kidney sufferers."

WOMEN SCREAM AS TRAIN MANGLES MAN

Trying Death, He Jumps In Front of Express.

New York, June 1.—A man supposed to be J. Merson of the Bronx jumped in front of a southbound express train from the platform of the One Hundred and Forty-ninth street station of the West Farms division of the subway. His leap carried him across the track, but the wheels of the first car caught his left leg and cut it off. He was taken to Lincoln hospital in a dying condition.

The station was crowded when the man made his jump. Many women saw him and screamed. The motorman, Albert Hoyer, had already shut off power and applied the brakes for the station stop and brought his train to a halt within a car length.

The injured man was lying outside the rails with his leg completely amputated. Special Officer Scheller carried him to the northbound platform, where Sergeant Mooney and Policeman Plossett improvised a tourniquet and stopped the flow of blood.

EX-JUDGE IS FATALLY HURT BY AUTOMOBILE

Former Magistrate Higginbotham Hit Leaving Street Car.

New York, June 1.—Former Magistrate E. Gaston Higginbotham, who was ousted from his judicial position by the abolition of his court by the board of magistrates, was struck and mortally injured by an automobile in Brooklyn.

The auto, a limousine, owned and driven by Stanley W. Smith, was stopped and Mr. Higginbotham was placed in it. All speed was made to Seney hospital, where Dr. Ackerman said that the former magistrate was suffering from concussion of the brain and internal injuries and could not recover.

Mr. Higginbotham had just alighted from a car and was crossing the street when he was struck. He was thrown about twenty feet against the curb. A large crowd gathered, and he was quickly recognized.

Mr. Smith was not arrested, all information gathered by the police being to the effect that he was in no way to blame.

Mr. Higginbotham is forty-nine years old and lived in Brooklyn. He was appointed a magistrate by Mayor Van Wyck in 1901.

BORO H. S. JUNIORS ENTERTAIN SENIORS

Hosts at Dinner That Calls Forth Praise From Superintendent Krebs.

The Junior Class of the North Plainfield High School entertained the seniors and the members of the faculty at dinner, last night. The walls of the dining hall in the school were gracefully draped with the class colors, red and gold; while in a conspicuous place hung a red banner bearing the figures 1913 in gold. The tables were also artistically decorated and before each guest's plate was a pretty little souvenir of the occasion. The comestibles were in abundance and variety. The affair was most enjoyable, and a hearty tribute was paid by the supervising principal, H. C. Krebs, to the junior class and especially to the following girls and boys for the manner in which they had carried out the program: Miss Clara B. Smith, president; Miss Mildred McAuliffe, Miss Florence Coons, Miss Adele Herman, Miss Flora Krausse, Thomas Fetherston LeRoy Herman, Dick Underhill and Raymond Kline, of the entertainment committee, and Miss Marian Maier Miss Helen Hughes and George Townley, of the decoration committee.

Besides the seniors present there were Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Krebs, Mr and Mrs. B. J. Phelps, Mr. and Mrs Albert Early, Miss C. M. Stahlberger, Miss Rachel Love, Miss Myrtle Montague, Miss Eva Terry and Paul Mertz.

PARK AVE. TRUSTEES HOSTS AT A SUPPER

Guests Are Pastor and Deacons and Their Wives— G. E. Hall Toastmaster.

The Sunday school room of the Park Avenue Baptist church was the scene last evening of a delightful social affair, when the pastor, Rev. Dr. Gabriel Reid Maguire, and deacons with their wives, were the guests of the trustees at an informal supper. George E. Hall, president of the Board of Trustees, presided, and made a most engaging toastmaster.

The toasts included "The Church, by Dr. Maguire; "The Deacons," by David M. Runyon; "The Trustees, by Rev. St. John Fitch; "Our Ladies," by Mrs. G. R. Maguire; "Our Bible School," by Miss Florence G. Hawkins. Every department of the church and Bible school work was touched upon, and plans suggested for increased activities. The outlook for both church and school was never so bright and encouraging.

The floral decorations added materially to the attractiveness of the room, which was made especially inviting by the pleasing arrangement of details, which included very pretty favors.

The committee of arrangements comprised Mr. and Mrs. Hall, Mr and Mrs. John H. Doane, Mr. and Mrs. E. Frank Vail. The waitresses were Mrs. Ada M. Cuming, Miss Mary Giles, Miss Helen Cuming and Miss Marjorie Phillips.

WHITING CHOSEN AS NAT'L COMMITTEEMAN

Former Governor Fort to Head N. J. Delegation at Chicago.

Trenton, June 1 (Special).—Every man present responded with a hearty "aye" yesterday afternoon at the meeting here of the delegates and alternates to the National Republican Convention chosen last Tuesday, when a motion was put that the twenty-eight votes of New Jersey be cast for Colonel Theodore Roosevelt for President on every ballot until the convention shall adjourn. The motion was carried amid enthusiasm.

Former Governor John Franklin Fort was chosen chairman of the delegation and will carry out the instructions thus given. Borden D. Whiting, former State Railroad Commissioner, law partner of Everett Colby, one of the pioneers in Jersey progressiveism, and chairman of the Roosevelt organization in the campaign just closed, was unanimously elected as the New Jersey member of the Republican National Committee. He will succeed former Governor Franklin Murphy, the choice here being ratified at the convention in Chicago.

Mr. Whiting refused to discuss yesterday the question of whether he would demand his seat on the National Committee at the opening of the convention, instead of waiting until the new committee had formally been ratified by the convention. It has been reported that some of the new Roosevelt members of the National Committee would demand their seats at once. It was said yesterday afternoon that perhaps it would be unnecessary for Mr. Whiting to demand his seat. Senator Crane, of Massachusetts; Senator Penrose, of Pennsylvania, and one or two others who have been retired in favor of Roosevelt men, have announced their intention of vacating their seats on the committee at once, on the theory that they do not represent the new order of things. There was some rumor yesterday that Governor Murphy might take the same view, but if he shall not do so and it becomes necessary to contest for the seat at the opening of the convention, a friend of Mr. Whiting declared that the new member would be ready for the fray.

The other officers chosen were: Vice chairman, Judge Adrian N. Lyon, of Perth Amboy; secretaries, Francis D. Potter, of Bridgeton; Herbert N. Baily, of Hackensack; Frank L. Driver, of Newark, and Edgar A. Knapp, of Elizabeth; sergeant-at-arms, John N. Klein, of Essex.

The New Jersey candidate for vice president of the convention elected was John Rotherham, of Hudson county. Rotherham and George L. Record, old-time political enemies, were both present yesterday afternoon and as friendly as could be. In the Roosevelt fight, they joined forces against Colonel Dickinson, former Secretary of State, the Taft leader in Hudson.

The choice of candidates for membership from this state on the various convention committees was as follows: Credentials, former Senator John Boyd Avis, of Gloucester; permanent organization, Assemblyman John E. Gill, of this city; rules, Former Assemblyman James G. Blauvelt, of Passaic; resolutions, State Assessor George L. Record, of Hudson. The selection of all the officers and committeemen was unanimous.

The arrangements for the trip to Chicago was referred to a committee composed of Mr. Whiting, Harold J. Howland, of Essex, one of the managers of the Roosevelt campaign just closed, and Edward Ward, of Essex. The New Jersey headquarters will be at the Hotel LaSalle, where a suite of forty rooms and a parlor has been engaged. The party will leave Friday evening, June 14. The convention will open Tuesday, June 18.

Former Governor Fort was nominated for chairman by former State Senator Colby. In accepting, he made a little speech in which he referred to the present campaign as the greatest since 1860. He declared that the overwhelming result last Tuesday was due to an uprising of the people, and not to organization. He said that if the Progressives now sank selfishness and aimed to be the people, they could make New Jersey again a strong Republican state.

"But we will not call ourselves Progressive any longer," he continued, "for we are now the real Republicans of the state and will be so from this time forth, by vote of the primaries last Tuesday. We should realize this responsibility. If you do not attempt to boss the people, as those before you did, victory will remain with you, and I am sure you will not do that."

Chairman Fort congratulated those present on the harmony which reigned. And it was a harmonious meeting. The question was raised as to how the delegates were to get their tickets to the convention hall. Mr. Fort said they were always distributed through the National Committeeman and he understood former Governor Murphy had received the 150 allotted to this state. It was suggested that the secretary communicate with Mr. Murphy on the matter. Prosecutor Wilbur Mott, of Essex, thought the delegates were in position to demand them. The question was settled by referring it to the committee of arrangements.

PITCHERS FEAR BAKER.

Remember His Feats in 1911 World's Series—Are Now Guessing.

Manager Connie Mack has a young man on his team with his club this season who is going to rival Ty Cobb, Hans Wagner, Larry Lajoie, Christy Mathewson, Walter Johnson and others as a drawing card. Of course you know who he is—John Franklin "Home Run" Baker.

In every city in the American league the fans are wild to see that wonderful batsman, and even though they will howl when he fails to hit the ball safely there will be a desire, deep down in their hearts, to see him hit a home run similar to the ones which defeated the New York Giants in the 1911 world's series.

Those two circuit smashes last fall made J. Franklin Baker. By the way, he was plain Frank Baker before he spoiled victory for Mathewson and Marquard. Previously he had been a slugging batsman who occasionally hit home runs. So had Crawford, Schulte, Luderus and other players. But when he came to bat in a pinch and delivered the hits which were needed for victory he assured his fame.

There is a feature about Baker's home runs which were generally overlooked, though, until a recent game with Washington. Then, when he first went to bat and Johnson and Ainsmith, the Washington battery, immediately held a consultation, the theme of which was, "What will we give this fellow?" It dawned upon the fans that a new terror for American league pitchers had taken his place with Cobb and Lajoie.

If Baker does not suffer injury and retains his batting eye he is going to surpass his previous slugging performances during 1912. He is bound to be helped by the terror he has created in the breasts of American league twirlers. A few veterans, with perfect control, may prevent him from hitting the ball hard and safe often. But a big majority are going to lose control and nerve when J. Franklin steps to the plate.

Los Angeles Athlete Is Sure to Make the Olympic Games.

Because of his achievements in the Penthalon and Decathlon trials at Berkeley, Cal., Donohue has practically assured himself of a place on the team that will represent the United States at Stockholm this summer.

DO YOU KNOW—

That John Paul Jones, the champion mile runner of Cornell university, is an expert at baseball as well?

That in over 227 straight matches Champion Frank Gotch lost only nine and most of them under a heavy handicap?

That Manager Johnny McGraw says his youngster Schaefer is the fastest man in baseball, faster even than Devore?

That under the old prize ring rules, before the art of defense was developed, the fighters stood toe to toe and hammered each other?

That Johnny and Tommy Kilbane, who are not related and who at one time were the greatest of rivals at their weight in Ohio, are now the closest friends and that Johnny is teaching Tommy how to box?

IN WOMAN'S REALM

The KITCHEN CUPBOARD

WAYS WITH SPINACH.

SPINACH is often spoken of as the broom of the stomach. This is because of the useful work it does for the system. The salts which it contains are very cleansing to the blood.

Spinach must be washed well. Cut off the roots and decayed leaves. Pass it from one pan of water to another until it is absolutely clean and free from sand.

When Boiled.

Put the spinach on the fire in a kettle if you wish to boil it. Do not add any water. There will be enough clinging to the leaves. The spinach itself is largely water, and cooking will draw out the juices.

About half a peck of spinach will not be too much to cook at a time, as it shrinks in boiling. When boiled until tender drain and chop.

Melt a tablespoonful of butter, mix with it a quarter of a tablespoonful of pepper, a half a teaspoonful of salt and add this to the spinach, heating it again. Serve on toast with sliced hard boiled eggs and toast points.

A Nutritious Dish.

The following way of cooking spinach is said to keep in its nutritious ingredients:

Spinach With Butter.—Having washed and drained the spinach, cut it in pieces. Drop it in a saucepan in which you have heated three and a half ounces of butter to every pound of spinach. Add salt, grated nutmeg and cook quickly.

A Nice Salad.

Spinach Salad.—After having cleaned, boiled and chopped the spinach make a dressing with four tablespoonfuls of olive oil, a half teaspoonful of salt, a dash of pepper and one tablespoonful of vinegar. Mix with the spinach. Put in tiny cups or individual molds and set on ice for an hour. Then turn out and serve on lettuce leaves with mayonnaise or French dressing.

Combined With Eggs.

Spinach Omelet.—Beat the yolks of four eggs, add four tablespoonfuls of water, a teaspoonful of salt, a teaspoonful of onion juice and a dash of pepper. Put a teaspoonful of butter or of bacon drippings into a pan and heat. Add the eggs and put over a slow fire. Shake constantly, lifting the center so the soft part will go under and fry. With fork or knife run around the edges, spread the spinach on top and fold over. Serve on hot platter.

The spinach should be chopped very fine or rubbed through a coarse strainer. Season and heat before putting in the omelet.

Beautiful New Embroidery Used on Summer Gowns.

There's a very popular embroidery which combines punch work and medieval stitches. The designs are in daisy shaped flowers, though much smaller, against a background of the open punch work. The flowers stand out in relief, the petals being done in a series of solid buttonhole stitches which catch into the material only at the center of the flower and the tips of the petals. One finds work of this kind in beautiful old Italian laces.

A blue and white striped knitted wool sweater of blazer style is in line with the revived fancy for college blazers. It is $4.95.

Bloomers that fit smoothly over the hips, yet are comfortably full at the knees, are the preferred ones this season. The model illustrated will be found excellent for general wear.

Beauty Hints.

Nails that have been injured by cutting them too low are soothed and healed by gently massaging them with a good cold cream. Rub the cream well in around the nail.

Keep a dish of oatmeal on the toilet stand and rub it freely on the hands after each washing. This dries and softens the skin, preventing it from becoming red and rough when exposed to the air.

To keep hair brushes clean necessitates frequent washings, a process certain to soften the bristles. This may be remedied by dipping the bristles in a strong solution of alum water after they are thoroughly cleaned.

A veil is an excellent protection against the winds of spring. Chiffon or any loose mesh material is the best selection and may be removed when a lessening of the exposure warrants the elimination of this pretty and effective precaution. The shadow and Shetland veils now so fashionable give a becoming tone to the skin and have the advantage of coming from a warm bath of soap and water fresh and clean as new.

Almond oil is used to bring the desired whiteness to the hands. The hands should be dipped in the oil, then in French chalk and incased in a pair of old gloves over night. Another plan recommended as a hand beautifier is to wash with peroxide, letting it dry on the hands, then rub in a good cold cream and don old kid gloves. In the morning wash off with lemon juice, vinegar or cider, hot water and a good skin cream.

Sleep, if taken at the right moment, will prevent an attack of nervous headache. If the subjects of such headaches will watch the symptoms of its coming they can notice that it begins with a feeling of weariness or heaviness. This is the time a sleep of an hour, or even two, as nature guides, will eventually prevent the headaches. If not taken just then it will be too late, for after the attack is fairly under way it is impossible to get sleep until far into the night.

A Cure For Nerves.

Fresh air will string up any group of nerves not hopelessly demoralized. When you feel that "flying to pieces" inclination overtaking you, jerk yourself to order with the checkrein of determination and then, if you cannot regain self control, stop anything on earth you may be doing and go out of doors. If you cannot leave the home, lean out of a window or step for a little while on a porch. You will not lose any time—you will, in fact, gain time by increasing efficiency in whatever you may be doing. Sleep also is a great restorer of nerves to a normal tone, and sleeping with all windows open secures for us two nerve cures at the same time. In foods raw onions, carrots, lettuce and celery, with plenty of olive oil, are excellent nerve foods, all valuable as aids in the good work, but the chief remedy is strong will and the compelling of your body to obey your mind.

Cure For Fever Blisters.

Fever blisters, or cold sores, as some call them, are very disfiguring. They may come from suddenly chilling the blood when heated, or they may result from digestive troubles. The best cure, of course, is to find the trouble and remove it. Sometimes if they are rubbed vigorously when the first symptoms of their coming are felt they will disappear. The following remedy, too, is helpful:

Carbolic acid, six drops; glycerin, one teaspoonful; rosewater, ten drops.

Then, if a woman finds that her lips have settled into unpleasant lines, and sometimes they do, a few lip gymnastics are helpful. These should not be done to such an extent as to make lines or wrinkles on the face, but if the lips are moved about and pursed up until any fixed habits of expression that they may have formed are broken up it will add to their charm.

A Beauty Tip.

Learn to laugh. A good laugh is better than medicine. Learn how to tell a story. A well told story is as welcome as a sunbeam in a sickroom. Learn to keep your troubles to yourself. The world is too busy to care for your sorrows. Learn to see the bright side of things. If you cannot see good in the world keep the bad to yourself. Learn to hide your pains and aches under a pleasant smile. No one cares to hear them. Learn to meet your friends with a smile. The good humored man or woman is always welcome, but the hypochondriac is not wanted anywhere.

Homemade Cold Cream.

During the windy weather one requires a good, pure cold cream that can be applied in the day time without being noticeable. Here is an excellent recipe:

Take half an ounce each of spermaceti and white wax, with two of witch hazel and three of sweet almond oil. Let the wax and spermaceti barely melt over hot water before adding the oil. They should only just turn liquid before being removed from the heat. Mix in the oil, then with a silver fork add the witch hazel, drop by drop. Beat to a smooth cream, adding a few drops of any preferred perfume.

THE DECISIVE HOUR.

With the opening of the Bonnie Burn Sanatorium, which it is hoped will occur early in the fall, it will be possible to take proper care of any form of Pullmonary Tuberculosis, i. e. Consumption. At present, the State Sanatorium, at Glen Gardner, is only able to take incipient cases and as hardly any General Hospital in the State is able to accommodate cases of advanced tuberculosis, these unfortunates have had no opportunity for the improvement that may occur in many of the cases, and what is perhaps worse, it has necessary to allow them to go on living, often in thickly settled districts, in overcrowded rooms, with the result that they spread the disease among others much faster than it could be stamped out by the work of the Board of Health, Anti-Tuberculosis League, or other charitable agencies.

Therefore when the Freeholders of Union County decided to build a sanatorium for the care of tuberculosis, they very wisely decided that all classes of sufferers from these diseases must be provided for. They have built the new sanatorium, known as Bonnie Burn with especial care that, while both classes of these cases are provided for, they shall be kept separate. For an incipient case, partly cured and able to be discharged, may be re-infected by contact with a chronic or advanced case. The Freeholders have constructed the sanatorium on the pavilion plan. There are four pavilions, each one of which is absolutely detached from all other buildings. Two of these are built for the care of the incipient cases and all those cases permitting the fresh air treatment, and two of the pavilions are constructed for the care of more advanced cases; these pavilions have been so carefully built that the sickest patient may be as comfortably housed as in any hospital in the land.

Each pavilion with its attendant lavatory, drssing rooms, etc., has been so constructed that one half can be used for women, and one half for men. This arrangement enabling the trustees to apportion the sexes as may best meet the requirements. The present total number of rooms is 60 but each room or compartment is capable of holding two patients so that 120 patients could be accommodated at once, if necessary. It is the expectation of the Freeholders to add pavilions as may be necessary. This year, the Legislature of New Jersey passed a law making it obligatory on Boards of Freeholders to provide accommodations for tuberculous patients. It is greatly to the credit and honor of the Freeholders of Union County that they did not wait for this mandatory legislation but realizing the dire need of these suffering from this disease, they began about two years ago on this work of humanity and advanced philanthrophy. It is largely due to the untiring preservering efforts of Mr. J. Hervey Doane, of Plainfield, the chairman of the Hospital Committee of the Board of Freeholders, that this work is now so far advanced.

Referring to the law mentioned above, it is interesting to note that where a county has no accommodations for tuberculosis cases and while they are providing the same, for they must provide them now, such county may arrange with another county, the latter having a sanatorium, to board its tuberculous patients. Therefore should there be room, after the needs of Union County are supplied in this matter, no doubt there are many indigent tuberculosis patients who might be sent to Bonnie Burn from neighboring counties, as Somerset or Middlesex. Altogether, I think all who are interested in the suppression of tuberculosis will feel that in making it mandatory on counties to establish, either individually or noe with another, tuberculosis sanatoria and in the further fact that the law also provides that the state will assist each county to the extent of $3 per week for each patient in such sanatoria, the Legislature of New Jersey has taken a very advanced step and one in which we as residents of New Jersey may take great pride.

TO DEDICATE CHURCH.

Bernardsville, June 1.—Local Italians are making arrangements for a big reception to Bishop James A. McFaul, of Trenton, who is to dedicate their new church here on Sunday, June 9. Cosimo De Ballonia, Michael Angelo and Antonio Molinaro are at the head of the arrangement committee. The Ideal Band of Stirling has been engaged for the occasion and the church, the streets and the dwellings in the Italian colony will be decorated with bunting and Italian and American flags. There will be several famous Italian preachers present at the dedication, as well as priests from neighboring villages.

—Whatever may be the outcome of the proceedings instituted against Judge Archbald, of the United States Commerce Court, they serve as timely demonstration that means at present provided to reach a Judge who is accused of misconduct or wrong-doing in office are edequate.—Albany Journal.

DECREE OF DIVORCE FOR MRS. MARY E. NEWELL

Mrs. Mary E. Newell, of Fanwood has been granted, by Chancellor Walker, a final decree of divorce from her husband, James T. Newell, to whom she was married ten years ago. The husband entered no defense to the charge that he had deserted his wife and child four years ago. Mr. Newell is now living in New York city. Custody of the couple's son, eight years old, is given to the mother. Previous to her marriage, the petitioner was Miss Mary E. Wickett, of Roselle.

WOMAN FOR ELECTOR CHOSEN BY SOCIALISTS

Elizabeth, June 1.—One woman was selected by the Socialist party in state convention here as a Presidential elector. She is Miss Maud Thompson, of Orange, who is prominent as a vigorous lecturer on socialism. Out of a total convention membership of 228, there were thirty women delegates, and they took an important part in the deliberations of the convention. Jersey City won the contest for the state headquarters with 80 votes; Newark was second with 50, and Elizabeth third with 28.

Besides Miss Thompson, the Presidential electors chosen are Monroe Gibson, of Kearny; Jacob Hambacher, of Newark; Fred Hartmeyer, of Camden; Charles Kessler, of Elizabeth; Max Richter, of Union Hill; Edward K. Stretch, of West Hoboken; Albin Strobell, of Jersey City; Geo. H. Strobell, of Newark; J. Lindsay Van Nest, of Trenton; William Walker, of Ocean Grove; William Warner, of Gloucester, and Lewis Young, of Newark.

By amendment to the constitution, any man who has been a political candidate in any other party, or has been a member of any political non-Socilaist organization, cannot be a candidate of the Socialist party until he has been in good standing three years.

TOLERANCE OF SPRINKLING SHOWN BY BAPTIST CHURCHES

Rev. Dr. Len G. Broughton who goes from a Baptist church of Atlanta to be pastor of Christ Church in London, England, finds that his new church admits to membership by letter persons from other denominations without regard to the method by which they have been baptized. But on receiving members who join on confession of faith immersion is the mode of baptism. It is reported that the Mt. Morris Baptist church, of New York city, has voted to receive to full membership persons from other denominations who are Christians in good standing. Persons who have been members of other denominations, but have no letters of recommendation, may join by giving satisfactory evidence of regeneration and Christian conduct.

But persons who have not been members of any church are to be received on profession of faith and baptism as practiced by Baptist churches. A vote of this kind by a Baptist church indicates both a departure from the historic position of American Baptist churches and a desire for church unity. A few years ago a Baptist church of Newton, Mass., took a similar position, but the association of which the church was a member proceeded to discipline both church and minister, with the result that the minister became a Congregational pastor.

JOURNALISTIC OPINIONS.

FOLLY.

The Baltic recently came into port fully provided with life-boats—the first of the great liners to make this provision, which has been forced upon the transatlantic companies by the Titanic disaster and its proved causes.

And yet passengers loudly complained because so much deck-room was needed to accommodate the life-boats, and the space available for deck golf, shuffleboard and other such diversions was restricted in proportion.

Not many years ago, a liner found herself in a heavy fog with ice reported all around. She slowed down and crept through it for two days. The passengers held indignation meetings in her cabins because she did not go faster.

This sort of folly and selfishness is probably inseparable from human nature. There will always be a more than sufficient number of persons who set their temporary convenience or amusement above what may have been shown to be necessary for the saving of lives. The same thoughtless inconsistency is to be noted wherever self-indulgence and the lavish use of money have encouraged men and women to expect license for pleasure even on the brink of death.

There is nothing to do but ignore such narrow pursuit of immediate distraction, which is too short-sighted to see that it is standing directly in the way of protection against common peril.—Newark News.

GREATEST HORSE SHOW PROMISED

SEATS ENOUGH FOR ALL

Good Music to Enliven Show on Thursday, Friday and Saturday—It Will be a Record-breaker—A List of the Boxholders.

The ninth annual horse show to be held at the horse show grounds, Randolph road and Woodland avenue, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, promises to be the best in the history of the Plainfield Riding and Driving Club. There are more entries than ever, including the vest horses to be found in this part of the country. The classes for hunters and jumpers, as well as militia mounts will be a decided feature, while all other classes will be as attractive as ever.

It is the earnest desire of the club that the people of Plainfield and vicinity attend. A disappointment each year is that the local public does not show the interest it should, and it has been a source of amazement that the people of Plainfield do not appreciate the pleasure or significance of this annual exhibition. The event is not a social affair, as some people have possibly thought, but for men, women and children who love good horses and value this opporunity to see them.

Those who do not care to purchase grandstand seats may stand about the ring as there is lots of room and also seats in abundance. The following have engaged boxes for the show:

H. G. Runkle, Percy H. Stewart, L. E. Waring, Frederic Bull, George P. Mellick, L. K. Hyde, O. T. Waring, Charles J. Fisk, E. H. Ladd, Jr., Daniel F. Ginna, Rufus C. Finch, Howard Beebe, C. Wesley Holland, W. Palmer Smith, H. C. Irons, J. C. Gilbert, R. Henry Depew, George Megrew, J. W. Jackson, R. A. Fairbairn, Edward Lowe, C. W. McCutchen, Howard Colby, Edward McLean, Mrs. Chapman Fisk, Henry A. McGee, George G. Roblig.

There will be a band of music at the show each afternoon and the club, as usual, has made arrangements to provide for the comfort and convenience of patrons of the affair. The grounds are easily reached by trolley, the cars passing one of the entrances to the ground on Woodland avenue. Carriages may enter by the Randolph road entrance and provision has also been made for caring for automobiles.

ABDUL BAHAR PREACHES ON UNIVERSAL RELIGION

Abdal Bahai, the Persian religious leader and exponent of universal religion and universal peace, spoke on Saturday night in the Fanwood fire house to a good sized audience. He is a venerable man of the patriarchal type with long flowing beard, and his utterances commanded the respect and attention of those present. During his stay in Fanwood he was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Hoar. Yesterday he spoke in the Church of the Ascension, New York city, on the "Unity of the East and West."

Abdal Bahai came to America about a month ago and that he likes this country and intends to remain here is evidence by the fact that he has leaved a house in Seventy-eighth street, New York. He goes to Montclair in the middle of this month to rest.

ST. STEPHEN'S NEW ORGAN SOON TO PEAL

Instrument Will Be Heard at the Service in Netherwood Church Next Sunday.

St. Stephen's church is the possessor of a new $1,650 organ, which it has been able to secure with the aid of Andrew Carnegie, as stated exclusively in the Plainfield Daily Press recently. Mr. Carnegie has contributed one-half the cost, and the balance was raised among the parishoners and other friends of the church. St. Margaret's Guild of the parish was active in helping make up the fund.

The organ is now being installed and will be heard for the first time next Sunday morning at the 11 o'clock service. It is a two manual and pedal instrument.

LOIZEAUX COMPANY OWNS HEMLOCK FORESTS IN CANADA

The business that has developed into the J. D. Loizeaux Lumber Company was started in 1898 at the present East End yard stand, corner Berckman street and North avenue, in a very small way by J. D. Loizeaux. A little later F. C. Jennings took a silent partnership and the firm name was J. D. Loizeaux & Co. The business increased rapidly and in 1903 the business of D. C. Ivins was bought out and the coporation of J. D. Loizeaux Lumber Company was formed, at which time the West End yard, corner South Second street and Rock avenue, was established. This yard continues to the present day one of the largest and best equipped yards in New Jersey.

In 1907 the company, realizing that the southern hemlock was not only becoming scarce but the quality becoming poorer every year, decided to buy its own forests in Canada and manufacture its own lumber from this strong-fibered wood, and import it direct into their yards here. This department has been continually increasing and last year sawed over two million feet. The importations this year (they are about to receive their third cargo) will probably exceed three million feet.

All this from a very small beginning must impress the fact that the very best value has been given for the dollar received. The company covers a large field; besides Plainfield, it distributes to Dunellen, Lincoln, Bound Brook, Highland Park, New Market, Metuchen, Rahway, Elizabeth, Roselle, Cranford, Westfield, Summit, Berkeley Heights, Gillette, Stirling, Millington, and all their adjoining territories, numbering among its customers the largest and most favorably known contractors in this territory. They have furnished Metzger & Wells, the Philadelphia contractors, all the good for Bonnie Burn, as also M. Byrnes, the Elizabeth contractor, who has a contract there.

Besides lumber, they also do a large mason material business, being the largest distributors of Portland cement on this railroad from Jersey City to Easton.

The only other branch in the builders' material line is millwork. To meet this great need the company not only has a first-class planing mill in daily operation at the Rock avenue yard, but also keeps in stock carloads of doors of many woods, as well as carloads of glass, mouldings and nails.

The main office is located at 620 North avenue, this city. The officers are: F. C. Jennings, president; J. D. Loizeaux, vice president, treasurer and general manager; Charles E. Loizeaux, secretary; A. A. VanderVeer, assistant treasurer.

HIT BY WAGON.

A wagon driven by Edward Dacey, of Spooner avenue, knocked down Stephen Perrine, of Fourth street and Rock avenue, as he was crossing West Front street at Somerset street, on Saturday evening. Perrine was but slightly injured.

COUNTRY DANCE AT CITY HIGH SCHOOL

Farce Comedy, Games and Celebration by Baseball Nine Added Features.

The members of the Plainfield High School joined in a country dance, Saturday evening, in the P. H. S. auditorium. There were several hundred present masked and in typical country dress. During the course of the evening several members of the school presented a farce which was much enjoyed by those present.

For those who did not dance there were games in the library of the school, which was attractively decorated with flags and banners for the occasion.

While the dancing was in progress, the boys who had been celebrating the victory in baseball over the North Plainfield High School nine, made their appearance and gave school yells for all the members of the winning team. This was followed by speeches from Captain William Davenport, manager; James Dunwell. Lindsey Best also made a speech of presentation of the Collier cup to the school.

The farce, "A Propospal Under Difficulties," presented by the members of the school, was much appreciated. Those who took part were: Dorothy Andrews, Katherine Bingaman; Mr. Barlow, Warren Butler; Mr. Yardsley, Fred Mygatt; Jennie, the maid, Pauline Gates; Hicks, the coachman, William Peacock.

WARREN SCHOOL BOARD VOTES FOR STOLTZ SITE

The Board of Education of Warren Township, at a special meeting Saturday night, by a vote of five to four, sustained the verdict at the special election held in April and decided to purchase the Stoltz tract of land at Mt. Bethel and erect a schoolhouse thereon to cost about $3,000. The sum of $300 was appropriated to purchase the land.

Although at the special election the proposition to erect a new schoolhouse was carried, a division of opinion arose in the School Board afterward, as well as among some of the taxpayers and the matter has been held up. Four of the members of the Board voted not to sustain the election. Swackhamer & Bird were present at Saturday night's meeting in the interest of taxpayers who favor the proposition and were instrumental in securing the favorable vote.

Opposition to the plan arose chiefly because the land desired for the school will have to be taken by condemnation proceedings, as the owner does not want to sell. It was shown that as a majority of the taxpayers had voted in favor of the proposition, the Board must carry out their wishes.

HURT BY EXPLOSION OF GASOLINE IN BOAT

Mogue, Tuning up for Test, Passed Lantern Too Close to Open Tank.

William Maguire, of the West End, is detained at home suffering from severe burns about the face and hands the result of a gasoline explosion while testing out a motor boat at Bound Brook Friday night. The boat which was made by Mr. Mague, Clarence, James and George Pangborn, of this city, was completed on Friday and that night it was decided to take the boat to Bound Brook for a test prior to taking a trip on Saturday.

Mague was sitting in the boat adjusting one of its parts, and inadvertently left the gasoline tank exposed. He asked one of the Pangborns to hand him a lighted lantern, and Pangborn passed it over close to the tank. The gasoline fumes came in contact with the heat of the lantern and an explosion followed.

The Pangborn brothers were standing on the river bank and just escaped injury, but Mague's hands and face were severely burned, while the boat was damaged to the extent of $100. Mague was brought home by his companions and has been under the care of a physician ever since.

Miss Sharkey and Mr. O'Brien will be married at St. Mary's church on Wednesday, June 19, by Father B. M. Bogan, and a reception will follow at the home of the bride-elect's parents.

THREATENED HIS BEARD.

The hirsute crop which adorns the chin of Max Bussel, of 323 Spooner avenue, escaped being reaped and garnered, last evening, by a "close shave," though the method proposed to be employed by the reapers would hardly have attained that end. Max was trolling down West Third street near Muhlenberg place, stroking his flowing beard, when two men seized hold of him by the arms. One of them said, "Have you got a knife? Let's cut his whiskers off.". Max besought them not to commit the act of desecration. After both had vainly searched their pockets for a knife, they let him go and ran away laughing. He watched them enter a near-by house, and subsequently lodged a complaint with the police. A policeman was dispatched to the house indicated but there was no one int it answering to the description given by Max.

MASON HURT BY FALL.

Losing his balance while at work this morning on a scaffolding of a house in course of erection in Prospect avenue, Frank McInerney, a mason, of 821 Lenox avenue, fell to the ground receiving general contusions which rendered him unconscious. Payne, of Clinton avenue, through his counsel Swackhamer & Bird, has brought suit for damages against Health Officer John O'Brien, Jr., of this city, in compensation for injuries received in April, when he claims he was run down by an automobile driven by Mr. O'Brien. The accident happened on Clinton avenue. Mr. Payne was walking along the highway, going home, when, it is alleged, Mr. O'Brien came along in his automobile, going in the same direction, and struck him.

Mr. Payne alleges that as a result of the injuries received he was unable to work for several weeks. The suit, which is for $500 will be tried in the District court, New Brunswick, Wednesday. Judge W. G. DeMeza represents Mr. O'Brien.

PLEADS NOT GUILTY TO MANSLAUGHTER

Faber, Whose Car Killed Peter Murray, Arraigned—Motion to Quash Denied.

Elizabeth, June 3 (Special).—Charles A. Faber, of North Plainfield, who ran down and killed Peter Murray, of Fanwood, with his automobile on November 9 last, was arraigned at Quarter Sessions this morning before Judge Atwater, and pleaded not guilty to the charge of manslaughter through his counsel, Charles A. Reed. He was indicted by the May Grand Jury.

Faber's counsel made a motion that the indictment be quashed on the ground that the January Grand Jury had not indicted him. The court refused the motion but gave counsel permission to make a similar motion when the trial came up. Bail was fixed at $5,000, the defendant's father going his bond. The date of the trial has been fixed for June 17.

Peter Murray was employed by the Edison Electric Company, of New York. Returning home from work, in crossing South avenue towards his home he was run down and received injuries from which he succumbed.

Mr. Staats, in company with several companions went to Newark on a pleasure trip, and they visited Joseph Clark's hotel.

When the car was stopped, Mr. Staats forgot to throw off the clutch, and in cranking up his machine later, the auto started suddenly knocking him over. The wheels passed over his body. The car ran a distance of twenty-five feet, colliding with a tree, which brought it to a stop. Mr. Staats was assisted to the hotel and received medical attention. He returned home on the train at 1 o'clock this morning, accompanied by his companions.

DOUBLE KILLING IN WESTFIELD

D'Phienzo and Stirling Shoot Each Other to Death Over Card Game.

OLD GRUDGES VENTED

One Dies As Police Reach Scene, Other Lingers An Hour—Victims Were Cousins—Quarreled About Stakes of Game.

Two Italians while playing a game of cards at Westfield last night suddenly pulled revolvers and began shooting. They fatally injured each other. One was Carlo D'Phienzo, 48, of 110 Clark street, and the other was Joseph Stirling, 20, of Spring street. The men were cousins. Stirling expired shortly after Chief of Police O'Neill and several policemen arrived, and D'Phienzo lingered for an hour. The body of Stirling was taken to the morgue here and the other was claimed by his wife. Stirling was single.

Trouble had been brewing between both men, the police say, for some time past, and feeling was embittered by the card game. Stirling called at his cousin's house yesterday afternoon and suggested the game. The play had not proceeded far when trouble arose about the stakes. Hot words followed and both men drew their revolvers and fired almost simultaneously.

Two shots were fired by each D'Phienzo receiving one in the abdomen and the other in the neck. One ball pierced Stirling's abdomen and the other lodged in the shoulder.

The insurance is not more than half the loss. The flames are believed to have been started by a freight locomotive. The burning of the plant has caused a serious consideration here in regard to the ice question, as there is no natural ice supply, and the other manufacturing company confesses its inability to meet the city's needs.

COUNCILMEN ARE EXPECTED TO QUIT

Resignations Looked For Tonight at Atlantic City.

GRAFT DISCLOSURES GROW

Mayor Bacharach Figures That by Getting Control of the Powerful License Board He Can Clean Out Disreputable Places at Shore Resort.

Atlantic City, N. J., June 3.—Nabbed in the Burns net to catch municipal grafters who are accused of having looted Atlantic City through holding up every kind of contractor, four councilmen, who have already confessed to taking bribes on the now famous "boardwalk bill," will present their resignations to the city council tonight.

Two more are expected to follow and the men who have paid thousands of dollars for the services of Burns and his men to clean up the resort expect, with the aid of Mayor Harry Bacharach, to obtain absolute control of the license granting privilege for this year and halt political control of the dives throughout portions of the resort.

Mayor Bacharach Invoked.

Assured by Burns that he has evidence enough to force the resignations of at least two of the five members of the license board, reformers have already called on Mayor Bacharach, who has the appointing power, to name two men, known to be thoroughly honest and in favor of wiping out every objectionable saloon, in the places of the deposed men.

Councilman Kessler will resign from both the license board and city council tonight, when it is believed by the Burns backers that Councilman Mulock will follow the same course. This will leave on the board Councilman Victor Freisinger, present chairman of the board; Councilman Isaac Leonard, a Chelsea physician, who declares that he has had nothing to do with any grafting or other irregularities, and Councilman Hiram Mathias, one of the four who fought the boardwalk measure when it was up for passage.

To Reform Liquor Business.

The reformers believe that if they can have two good men named by Mayor Bacharach they will be able to force tremendous reforms in the local liquor business. Under the terms of the city charter, which does not expire until the new commission government goes into effect on July 11, the license granting starts on June 9 and is completed by July 1. They figure, therefore, that by getting control of the powerful license board, even for the few weeks, they can clear up the saloon situation in a manner that will eliminate everything but the highest class hotel bars and cafes and saloons on side avenues of the highest reputation.

BALLOON FROM PHILADELPHIA

Lands in Burlington After Altitude Flight of 3,000 Feet.

Burlington, N. J., June 3.—Arthur T. Atherholt of Philadelphia, in his big balloon Pennsylvania II., with P. M. Sharpless of Westchester, Pa., as a passenger, landed near Burlington after a twenty-two mile flight from Holmesburg. The voyage was made for height rather than distance, and the bag reached the altitude of 3,000 feet.

A newspaper reporter visiting on a nearby farm greeted Atherholt a moment after farm hands had pulled his balloon out of an oak tree.

MONTCLAIR COMMUTERS HOT.

Leave R. R. Tickets In Derby Hats and Have to Pay Cash Fares.

Montclair, N. J., June 3.—The heat, more particularly one result of it, has made some commuters in this city very peevish. They carry their commutation tickets inside their hats, in the sweat bands. When they changed from derbies to straw hats they forgot to stick the tickets in the "straws."

The conductors pounced on them and made them pay two extra fares—in and out. The round fare is only 60 cents, but the "imposition," as they call it, has made the commuters "notter" than the weather.

ECKARD P. BUDD DEAD.

Prominent Member of New Jersey Bar Was Victim of Apoplexy.

Mount Holly, N. J., June 3.—Eckard P. Budd, aged fifty years, died here suddenly of apoplexy just as he had returned from an automobile tour. He was a prominent member of the New Jersey bar and for ten years was prosecutor of the pleas in Burlington county.

He also served one term as a member of the state board of assessors. A wife and four children survive him.

SWIFT PUNISHMENT OFTEN LEAPS OUT OF THE JURY-BOX.

The employer figuring as the defendant in a damage suit instituted by an injured employee, must not be surprised to find the sympathy of the jury with the plaintiff.

This is a frequent occurrence; and the employer, in many instances, is called upon to pay heavy damages.

The only effectual means of escaping the burden by an adverse verdict is to secure the protection of an Ocean Employers' Liability Policy. The Corporation then assumes all of the expense and responsibility incident to the defense and settlement of the case.

WASHINGTON ROCK.

When we consider that the historic spot has remained unmarked for one hundred and thirty-five years, is it not high time that the patriotic people of this community provide the means for a suitable memorial to be placed on Washington Rock? This much belated undertaking has been started by Continental chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution. The splendid little band of noble-hearted women have gathered together some $650. The proposed memorial, they estimate, will cost approximately $3,700. Therefore, they appeal to the generously disposed and patriotically inclined residents of Plainfield and vicinity for $3,000 or more that their plans may be fulfilled. The appeal is not directed to the few but to the many. It is a popular movement and each and every citizen is asked to give according to his or her own means. One dollar from a poor man will be appreciated just as much as will $100, from a wealthy one. In effect, the idea is the same as that of the recent hospital campaign, that is, for every one to share in attaining the desired object.

The design for the proposed memorial to mark the spot where General George Washington watched the movements of the British troops was fully described in Saturday's issue. A central cairn will be placed halfway between the two Rocks, for there in reality two and they are some eighty feet apart. The cairn will be placed on a foundation built some forty-five or fifty years ago when an unsuccessful effort was made to erect a monument there. A rough retaining wall will join the two rocks. From the cairn will rise a tall flag-staff from which will fly the American flag. On a clear day this Emblem of Liberty should be visible within a radius of twenty miles.

All those subscribing to the fund will have the good deed recorded for future time for it is proposed to place within the cairn, on which will be a tablet suitably inscribed, the names of the contributors. We suggest that those who wish to give to this patriotic cause send their contributions to a member of the committee, which consists of Mrs. E. G. Read, regent; Mrs. Amelia Gray Harman, Mrs. A. Y. D. Honeyman, Mrs. Marie Louise Mead and Mrs. Charles W. McCutchen.

THE HORSE SHOW.

This is "horse show week" for Plainfield. The ninth annual exhibition of the Plainfield Riding and Driving Club will be held at its club grounds on Thursday, Friday and Saturday. The show is the finest advertisement Plainfield gets each year in succession, for it draws more people and more wealth than any other attraction. Plainfield itself is on show for the event gives the hundreds who come here from New York and other cities an opportunity to see our ideal suburban community, and it goes without saying that they leave with an excellent impression of the place and its people.

For some reason, which no one seems able to explain, our own people generally do not patronize this remarkable exhibition. Those who go once, of course, continue to attend each successive year, but it is rather astonishing to find how considerable is the number that has never seen one of these shows; a show second to none in the country probably with the exception of that held at Madison Square. The very finest horses in all classes are to be seen and when the management announces that the attraction will be "bigger and better than ever" this year the absolute truth is told. The total number of entries will be 350. This is at least fifty more than a year ago when the exhibition was a record-breaker in that respect.

Do not fail to attend on at least one day; it will well repay you.

Plainfield will have reason to feel proud of the proposed Elks' clubhouse to be erected on the south side of Watchung avenue between East Second and East Front streets for when the building is completed it will be a decided ornament to the business section. The structure will cost approximately $75,000 and will be superbly appointed. It seems strange in so well-to-do a suburban community as this that there are not more club houses. A few years ago a movement was begun among college graduates to band together and have a home for social purposes. The object was not attained. If a few of the hustling sort of men got to work on the scheme, it would not be long before a real live club would be organized and that would mean that within a reasonable time Plainfield would have a clubhouse for the use of university men and as there are over 800 of them in this city the home would be a prosperous institution.

You can take your hat off to Harvey Thomas. When he took charge of the Atlantic City Review paper he went gunning for the grafters in that municipality's notoriously rotten government. The bosses and boodlers were powerful enough to compel timi dmerchants generally to boycott the paper's advertising columns and they left no stone unturned in their effort to drive him and his paper out of business. No matter what was done to injure him, Thomas never faltered; he became fiercer than ever and the exposures made the grafters shake in their boots. Yes, you can take off your hats to Harvey Thomas, for he supplied the enthusiasm to those who contributed the means for the rounding up of the boodlers, many of whom Detective Burns' operatives have arrested and many more of whom will be taken into custody within a few days. They were "caught with the goods on."

New Jersey has fourteen cities of a population of more than 25,000 each, according to a report just issued by the Census Bureau. Newark leads with 347,469 and Jersey City is second with 267,770. Third in the list is Paterson with 125,600 and then come in turn Trenton, 96,815; Camden, 94,538; Elizabeth, 73,409; Hoboken, 70,324; Bayonne, 55,545; Atlantic City, 46,150; Passaic, 43,773; West Hoboken, 35,403; Perth Amboy, 32,121; East Orange, 34,371, and Orange, 29,630. Plainfield is nearing the 25,000, but is not growing as rapidly as it would were the Jersey Central to compete with other roads by building a tunnel under the North river.

Job E. Hedges has announced his candidacy for the Republican gubernatorial nomination in the Empire State, but then he's such a wit that it will be difficult to convince his friends that the gifted lawyer and after-dinner speaker is in earnest.

A FAMOUS FENCER

Master at Arms Jean Louis Was a Wizard With the Sword.

GREATEST DUEL ON RECORD.

In Front of an Army This Napoleonic Wonder Faced Thirteen Italian Swordsmen Experts and Spitted Them In Succession Without a Rest.

To give an idea of what a brave man can do if he knows fencing thoroughly and but keeps cool and collected in danger we will relate a historical duel. So extraordinary is this combat that it would be held a romance had it not been witnessed by a whole army. The hero is Jean Louis, one of the great masters of the sword of the beginning of last century, and the duel happened in Madrid in 1813. He was the master at arms of the Thirty-second regiment of French infantry. The First regiment, composed entirely of Italians formed part of the same brigade.

Regimental esprit de corps and rivalries of nationality caused constant quarrels, when swords were often whipped out or bullets exchanged. After a small battle between the two factions of the brigade had occurred in the streets of Madrid, in which over 200 French and Italian soldiers had taken part, the officers of the two regiments, in a council of war assembled decided to give such breaches of order a great blow and to re-establish discipline. They declared that the masters at arms of the two regiments involved should take up the quarrel and fight it out.

Imagine a whole army in battle array on one of the large plains that surround Madrid. In the center a large ring is left open for the contestants. This spot is raised above the plain so that not one of the spectators of this tragic scene—gayly dressed officers, soldiers in line, Spaniards, excited as never a bullfight excited them—will miss one phase of the contest. It is before 10,000 men that the honor of an army is about to be avenged in the blood of thirty brave men.

The drum is heard. Two men, naked to the waist, step in the ring. The first is tall and strong. His black eyes roll disdainfully upon the gaping crowd. He is Giacomo Ferrari, the celebrated Italian. The second, tall, also handsome and with muscles like steel, stands modestly awaiting the word of command. His name is Jean Louis. The seconds take their places on either side of their principals. A deathlike silence ensues.

"On guard!"

The two masters cross swords. Giacomo Ferrari lunges repeatedly at Jean Louis, but in vain. His every thrust is met by a parry. He makes up his mind to bide his chance and caresses and teases his opponent's blade. Jean Louis, calm and watchful, lends himself to the play, when, quicker than lightning, the Italian jumps aside with a loud yell and makes a terrible lunge at Jean Louis, a Florentine trick often successful. But with extraordinary rapidity Jean Louis has parried and ripposts quickly in the shoulder.

"It is nothing," cries Giacomo, "a mere scratch." And they again fall on guard. Almost directly he is hit in the breast. This time the sword of Jean Louis, who is now attacking, penetrates deeply. Giacomo's face becomes livid, his sword drops from his hand, and he falls heavily on the turf. He is dead.

Jean Louis is already in position. He wipes his reeking blade; then, with the point of his sword on the ground, he calmly awaits the next man.

The best fencer of the First regiment has just been carried away a corpse, but the day is not yet over. Fourteen adversaries are there, impatient to measure swords with the conqueror, burning to avenge the master they had deemed invincible.

Jean Louis hardly has two minutes' rest. He is ready. A new adversary stands before him. A sinister click of swords is heard, a lunge, a parry, a rispost and then a cry, a sigh, and all is over. A second body is before Jean Louis.

A third adversary advances. They want Jean Louis to rest. "I am not tired," he answers, with a smile.

The signal is given. The Italian is as tall as the one who lies there a corpse covered by a military cloak. He has closely watched Jean Louis' play and thinks he has guessed the secret of his victories. He multiplies his feints and tricks; then, all at once, bounding like a tiger on his prey, he gives his opponent a terrible thrust in the lower line. But Jean Louis' sword has parried and is now deep within his opponent's breast.

What need we to relate any more? Ten new adversaries followed him, and the ten fell before Jean Louis amid the excited yells and roars of an army.

At the request of the Thirty-second regiment's colonel, who thought the lesson sufficient, Jean Louis after much pressing consented to stop the combat, and he shook hands with the two survivors, applauded by 10,000 men.

From that day fights ceased between French and Italian soldiers.

This wonderful and gigantic combat might be held a fable were not all the facts above stated still found in the archives of the ministry of war.—Lippincott's.

POPULARITY OF BASEBALL.

Qualities In the Game That Endear It to the Public.

There must be special qualities in a game that can take and keep such a hold on millions of hard headed, healthy Americans from boys to earnest old men. What are these qualities? Here is an attempt to define them:

First.—Efficiency. No other spectacle shows the human being to such advantage on the side of efficiency. If polo be mentioned to controvert this it certainly cannot compare in the next three advantages to be mentioned, and the inferiority of the circus the astute reader can figure out also from what follows:

Second.—Visibility. A person who understands the game sees almost every play perfectly. He sees the delivery by the pitcher, the preparation and swing of the batter, the ball dashing away, the rush, grasp and recovery of the infielder, the race of the runner down the line, the catch of the baseman and is ready to dispute with the umpire whether the ball arrived a tenth of a second before or a tenth of a second after the runner.

Third.—Sustained suspense. An English student of American affairs, endeavoring to make his countrymen understand the hold of the game, stated that if they would imagine the most intense moment in the fifth set of a tennis match being played for the championship of the world they might get an idea of the intensity of interest that pertains to a ball game at almost any time in any one of the nine innings.

Fourth.—The democratic background. The interest of watching the experts is inseparable from the fact that almost every boy in the United States is brought up to play the game itself. One sometimes hears it said that watching the game is less desirable than playing it, which is creating an absurd dilemma, as the clerk in a great town, who may be able to spend two hours of healthy interest in the baseball park, could not possibly be indulging in the game himself and also because watching the game makes one all the more eager to play it if he has the chance, just as playing it makes him all the more eager to see how it is played by the greatest experts in the world.—Norman Hapgood in Metropolitan.

No Military Needed.

Thomas McKean, chief justice of Pennsylvania, was a man of gigantic stature and a fiery temper.

A mob in Philadelphia defied the efforts of the sheriff to disperse it. He so reported to Justice McKean, then sitting in full court.

"Have you read the riot act?"

"Yes, your honor. It had no effect."

McKean's eyes flashed dangerously. "Have you ordered out the military?"

"Yes. Shall I fire on them?"

"No; I'll disperse them."

McKean rose and rushed out of the court in his wig and gown, his face flushed with passion, into the midst of the riotous mob.

"I am Thomas McKean, chief justice, and I command you to disperse!" So saying, he seized two of the ringleaders, literally tucked them under his arms and returned to the court, while the crowd crept home, silent as frightened sheep.—Green Bag.

MACHINISTS' MEETING.

Representatives of the Potter Press Works, when questioned today as to their probable action over the demands of the machinists for a shorter work-day, said that they had nothing to say on the subject. The Hall Printing Company made the same reply. Plainfield Lodge, No. 167, International Association of Machinists will meet tonight to take final action. It is expected that the men will receive the asked-for strike sanction permitting them to quit work in case their demands are refused.

IN WOMAN'S REALM

The KITCHEN CUPBOARD

PREPARING MACKEREL.

FRESH mackerel may be broiled or baked, and in either of these forms it is appetizing. Fresh mackerel are so much more palatable than salt ones that, now they are in season, they are deservedly popular.

Served With Potatoes.

Broiled Mackerel—Cut off the fins, split and dress the fish. If convenient take out the backbone. Broil in the usual way. Serve on mashed potatoes molded to suit the shape of the fish Dress with melted butter; garnish with watercress.

Baked With Roes.

Baked Mackerel.—Clean the fish; take out the roes. Fill up with forcemeat and sew up the slit. Flour and put them in a dish, heads and tails alternately with the roes. Between each layer put some little pieces of butter and pepper and salt. Bake for half an hour. Serve with either melted butter or a maitre d'hotel sauce.

This Tastes Good.

Filleted Mackerel.—Remove the two fillets from the mackerel, first cutting off the head and tail and making an incision down the back and underside. Cut the fillets in two or three pieces, according to the size. Flatten them with a heavy knife dipped in cold water.

Thickly butter a pan or buttered pie dish, put in the fillets and dust them over with salt, pepper and a teaspoonful of lemon juice. Butter a round of paper and lay it over the fish.

Put the pan in a moderately hot over for about ten to fifteen minutes. When cooked lay the pieces overlapping each other in two straight lines down a hot dish and pour parsley sauce over it.

A Handsome Dish.

Mackerel Loaf.—After it has been cleaned cut a mackerel in thick slices. Place in a kettle, cover with a pint and a half of cold water. Add a slice of onion, a sprig of parsley, a bay leaf, two cloves and six peppercorns. Simmer for an hour. Take off the fish and separate in pieces freed from skin and bones.

To the liquid in which the fish was cooked add one tablespoon of gelatin which has been soaked in one-fourth cup of cold water. Season with salt and pepper. Strain into molds which have been wet with cold water, having pieces of the mackerel in the bottom.

Serve on lettuce leaves with the following sauce: Beat a half cup of cream stiff, add two tablespoons of grated horseradish, one-half teaspoon salt, one-fourth teaspoon paprika and one tablespoon of vinegar.

Anna Thompson.

FLOTSAM AND JETSAM.

Transparent Yokes and High Collars Are Modish.

The low cut waists and jackets of last year are rapidly going out of fashion entirely, and the transparent yoke and collar of net or chiffon is seen with almost every gown, no matter what the material. These yokes and collars are unlined, fit perfectly and are so transparent that they are hardly discernible and at the same time are so much smarter and far more becoming than when the waist was made open at the neck, either square or V shaped.

BLOUSE WITH BIG COLLAR.

The simple blouse finished with a big collar is charming. The blouse illustrated is very smart indeed with collar and cuffs having scalloped edges.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

BEEF INQUIRY ON TOMORROW.

House Judiciary Committee Has Power to Take Testimony.

Washington, June 3.—The congress investigation of the beef trust will be taken up by the house judiciary committee tomorrow.

This action was decided up at a conference between Chairman Clayton and Chairman Henry of the rules committee. It was agreed that the judiciary committee was clothed with ample authority to go fully into the affairs of the beef trust without any other steps being taken.

Representatives Edwards of Georgia will fire the opening gun of the fight when he will speak in advocacy of his measure, recently introduced, providing that the attorney general be directed to proceed with a dissolution of the combination of beef packers on the ground that they are an objectionable trust.

The committee has been voted $25,000 by the house to investigate the trust as an aid in determining what amendments to the Sherman anti-trust law are needed.

LOOKS BAD FOR LORIMER.

Latest Canvass of Senate Shows Fifty-four Against Him.

Washington, June 3.—Senator William Lorimer, according to the most reliable polls that have been made of the senate, will be ousted from his seat on the second vote on the question of his eligibility by a majority of from fourteen to seventeen. The latest canvass of the senate shows fifty-four votes against Lorimer, thirty-seven in his favor and three doubtful. A poll made by Vice President Sherman before he went to Chicago to urge Senator Lorimer to resign gave Lorimer thirty-nine votes as a maximum.

Two of these votes have changed within a few days, leaving the senator from Illinois but thirty-seven. It is possible that his vote may be even smaller when the test comes. The progressive Republicans to a man are against Lorimer.

MAY INDICT F. O. BEACH.

New Evidence In Assault Case to Go Before Aiken Grand Jury.

Aiken, S. C., June 3.—Prosecuting Attorney Robert L. Gunter will lay before the grand jury when it meets today a volume of evidence obtained by M. S. Baughn, who was employed by the town authorities to investigate the assault made upon Mrs. Frederick O Beach, when she was knocked in the head with a fence paling and her throat slashed one night last February while the Beaches were occupying their winter home here.

Mr. Gunter is of the decided opinion that an indictment will be promptly returned against Frederick O. Beach of New York, for whom a warrant was issued here in April, charging him with assault and battery with intent to kill his wife.

GIRL MUSICIAN A SUICIDE.

Margaret Crane Said to Be Kin of New York Banker.

Paris, June 3.—Margaret Crane, an American girl, was found dead in bed in her apartments in Rue de Colize, and all the indications seem to show that she committed suicide. The concierge of the apartments, where Miss Crane had been living for three months, speaks in the highest terms of the dead girl.

She says she was about twenty-eight years of age and the niece of Lamer, a New York banker. She had been studying music in Paris, but was discouraged at her progress and had apparently contemplated suicide for some time. She left a long letter, in which she expressed that her body should be buried in Paris.

Firemen Narrowly Escape.

New York, June 3.—Lieutenant Kenny and four firement of Engine company No. 46 saved their lives by rushing through a sheet of flames that burst suddenly behind them, shutting off escape by the stairs in a fire in the tenement. Fifteen families were driven out, fleeing in panic to the street. No one was injured, although the five firemen were singed in their dash to safety.

TWO KILLED WHEN AIR CRAFT SPILLS

Thousands See Buchstaetter and Passenger Mangled.

SHIP IMBEDDED IN EARTH.

Saws Required to Release the Bodies. Among First to Reach Wrecked Machine Was Grand Duke of Oldenburg, an Interested Spectator.

Bremen, Germany, June 3.—When the monoplane in which they were riding was overturned on a curve, Albert Buchstaetter, one of the best known German aviators, and his passenger, Lieutenant Stille of the German army, were killed in a 200 feet fall. The double fatality was witnessed by several thousand spectators. The machine was so deeply imbedded in the ground that it had to be sawed apart to release the bodies of the airmen, who were mangled almost beyond recognition.

The accident happened just as Buchstaetter and his soldier companion were starting on the northwest aviation circuit of 425 miles. When the throng realized the accident that had befallen the occasion there was almost a panic. Among the first to reach the wrecked machine was the Grand Duke of Oldenburg, who was an interested spectator.

Saw Ship to Get Bodies.

Willing hands were ready to extricate the bodies, but it was found this could not be done until the heavy air vehicle was sawed to pieces.

Fifteen professional aviators with members of the army aviation corps as passengers had entered the contest, but when the accident occurred the circuit was abandoned. The northwest circuit took in the cities of Muenster, Hanover, Brunswick, Lubeck and Hamburg.

Buchstaetter was an experienced aviator who had made several notable flights in 1911.

CANDLE SETS COFFIN AFIRE; TWO BURNED

Victims Keeping Vigil Over Dead Wife and Baby.

New York, June 3.—Watching beside the body of his wife Minnie and their [illegible]-year-old baby, Oscar Warner dozed for a moment after an all night vigil. Curtains blown against the candles at the head of the coffin set fire to the drapings of the coffin and the furnishings of the room. As his mother, Mrs. Jennie Warner, sprang up in alarm she knocked over another of the candles, setting her clothing afire.

Stopping only to tear off her blazing skirt, Mrs. Warner sprang to the assistance of her son, who was trying to beat out the flames about his wife's body with his bare hands. Before he could succeed the whole room was afire, and the intense heat sent Warner and his mother staggering out into the hall, where they fell to the floor, their clothes all ablaze.

Policemen wrapped them in their blouses, extinguished the flames and carried them to the street.

Warner and his mother were taken to the Polyclinic hospital. Their condition is said to be serious. Their hands, faces and bodies are badly burned.

ENGLISH LABOR MEN PROTEST

Twenty Thousand In Hyde Park Talk of Persecution.

London, June 3.—Twenty thousand railway men and their sympathizers made a demonstration in Hyde park to protest against alleged dismissals by the Central London railway because the men discharged were trade unionists and were prominent in the agitation for the carrying out of the conciliation scheme.

The meeting recommended the appointment of a royal commission to investigate the matter and also decided to support the employees of the Central of London and any decision of the executive committee which aimed at justice and the stoppage of the persecution of the men because they were unionists. Ramsey Thomas, M. P., made an address. His speech was of a moderate nature.

ACQUIT WOMAN OF MURDER.

Mrs. Quinn Faints When Found Not Guilty of Killing Husband.

Chicago, June 3.—Mrs. Jane Quinn, accused of shooting and killing her third husband, John M. Quinn, last December, in his bed, was found not guilty by a jury in the criminal court.

Mrs. Quinn maintained that her husband was killed by a burglar. She fainted when the verdict of acquittal was read.

THE AMERICAN FLAG.

Its Star Spangled Canton Is a Union, Not a Union Jack.

Those who speak of the star spangled canton on the American flag as a "union jack" do so erroneously. It is rightly called the "union," but the term "jack" is applied correctly only to the similar canton on the British ensign, in which the crosses of St. George, St. Andrew and St. Patrick are superimposed.

The number of stars in the union of our flag is regulated by the law passed April 4, 1818, which provides:

"That on the admission of every new state into the Union one star shall be added to the union of the flag and that such addition shall take effect on the 4th of July next succeeding such admission."

The Marine Journal says that the origin of the phrase union jack is uncertain, but that "the weight of evidence is to the effect that it was derived from Jacques or Jacobus, the French and Latin names of the Stuart king, in whose reign the superimposed crosses of St. George and St. Andrew were placed in the canton of the British flag to indicate the union of England and Scotland. In that generally accepted view of the case the name appropriately belongs to that part of the British flag, but it is a misnomer to apply it to the canton of the American flag, with which 'Jacobus Rex' certainly had nothing to do unless simply to set the example of placing a union emblem on the canton."

Theater Audiences.

The tricks of theater audiences have been remarkably similar in all ages. Alciphron, who wrote of the later Attic comedy, shows that the claque was known then and also "young men of the town" who took a malicious delight in hissing a play off the stage. Theophrastus, who died in 288 B. C., sketches among his "Characters" the man of superior taste, whose pride it was to hiss when everybody else applauded and to clap when the rest were silent, and the annoying person who would hum or whistle an accompaniment to every tune that pleased him. And Aristotle himself refers to spectators who brought out provisions during the dull parts of the performance.

Margaret Wore a Beard.

Bearded women have been very numerous. The most noted of the number was the famous Margaret of Austria, appointed by Charles V. to be governor of the Netherlands. She had a long, stiff black beard and, conceiving the idea that it added to the majesty of her appearance, was very careful of it and so combed and trained it as to make it seem much greater than it was.

FIGHT FLAMES ON CUNARD STEAMER

Carmania Is Fire Swept at Dock In Liverpool.

UPPER DECKS ARE WRECKED

Every Available Fireman Besides Hundreds of Police Fight Conflagration. Loss Will Not Be Known Until Ruins Cool Off.

London, June 3.—A stubborn blaze greatly damaged the Cunard liner Carmania at her dock here. The fire occurred at the same place—the West Huskisson dock—where the Lucania was burned a year ago.

There seemed to be a separate fire in half a dozen centers and columns of thick smoke poured from every opening amidships from the boat deck to the water line.

Engine after engine arrived from the city in response to the alarm of fire until every available fireman in Liverpool, besides hundreds of police, were engaged in fighting the flames.

Ship Lists to Starboard.

The Carmania soon had a considerable list to starboard which was caused by the immense volumes of water that had been pumped into her. The list kept on increasing. The upper decks apparently have been completely wrecked. These include all the finest staterooms. The steerage too seems to be gone, but it is impossible as yet to determine this as an investigation is impossible owing to the heat and smoke.

It was rumored that there were 1,000 barrels of oil on board the Carmania, and this caused a fear of a general conflagration which would involve the dock and other ships, but early today, although the fire on the Carmania was still burning, the danger of its spread was regarded as having passed.

CATCH MISS CLOWES; RETURNS TO ASYLUM

Millionaire Finds Wealthy Patient on His Estate.

White Plains, N. Y., June 3.—John Miles, millionaire milliner, with an establishment on Fifth avenue, New York, and one of the biggest property owners in this village, waited until he could get Dr. William L. Russell, superintendent of Bloomingdale asylum on the phone before he would attempt to dislodge from one of his vacant houses Agnes Clowes, an escaped lunatic from the institution who has been missing since Friday.

Miss Clowes went readily with L. D. Ferris and a nurse who came from the asylum for her and says she was glad to go back, and also says she would not have run away had she not been hungry. She said she had slipped away from her attendant while exercising in the asylum grounds and that she wanted to go to her home in New York because she was homesick. She comes of a wealthy family of New York city, the male members of which have been prominent in the banking business.

MYSTERY IN AUTO KILLING.

Powder Placed in Cylinder Explodes. Washington Officers Baffled.

Seattle, Wash., June 3.—The police of several cities are endeavoring to solve the mystery of an automobile killing. Powder placed in the cylinder of a machine exploded, and Henry Schireman, who was to have been one of the passengers, was killed.

A carload of automobiles was received recently by dealers in Colfax, and all were unloaded and put in a warehouse overnight. In the morning one of them was taken out to be used for demonstration. It apparently was all right, and a party of four men who were to go out in it were standing around when the driver started to crank it up. When the spark came the machine blew up and part of the cylinder head struck Mr. Schireman.

AIR CHARTS FOR AVIATORS.

Next Task of the Weather Bureau, Says Willis Moore.

London, June 3.—Willis L. Moore, chief of the United States weather bureau, gave the first of a series of lectures before the Royal institution.

He predicted that the time would come when weather bureaus would have the responsibility of mapping daily air routes for passenger carrying aeroplanes and expressed his belief that the dream of the meteorologist of forecasting coming seasons might be realized.

Stephen B. Buck Insane.

St. Louis, June 3.—Stephen E. Buck was transferred to the City sanitarium after physicians, under whose observation he had been since Monday, pronounced him insane. He is the only surviving son of the late Charles W. Buck, who founded the Buck Stove and Range company and accumulated a fortune.

SOLDIER TO RETURN TO U. S.

Newton, June 3.—Charles Arvanites, at one time part owner of a candy kitchen on Spring street, who was drafted to serve four months in the Greek army while on a visit some months ago to his native land, is longing for his adopted county. He writes to his relatives at Middletown, N. Y., where he located after leaving here, that he has still fifty days to remain a soldier, but at the expiration of his enlistment he will make haste back to New York State. Arvanites was in the United States long enough to become naturalized, but neglected to take out papers for protection.

HORSE RACES WITH ENGINE.

Rahway, June 3.—A horse belonging to Dr. Schweickert ran a race with a Pennsylvania train Saturday. Starting in Irving street the animal, with buggy attached, plunged through the railroad gates and started down the track toward New York. Seeing an oncoming train the horse turned about and set the pace down the track for two blocks. It was overtaken by the engine, which stripped the buggy and harness from the runaway. The animal then jumped the Milton avenue gates and ran half a mile before being caught. It was not badly hurt.

CLOSE RIVAL HEADQUARTERS.

Senator Dixon and Mr. McKinley Have Their Final Flings.

Washington, June 3.—The rival presidential headquarters of Taft and Roosevelt, presided over by Representative McKinley and Senator Dixon, respectively, have closed so far as Washington is concerned.

Senator Dixon went to New York to have a last word with Colonel Roosevelt and will go from there direct to Chicago to remain until after the convention. He closed the Roosevelt headquarters in the Munsey building and about the same hour the Taft headquarters in the Raleigh hotel closed.

Mr. McKinley interpreted Colonel Roosevelt's action in calling off the fight on Senator Root for temporary chairman as sounding a retreat. Senator Dixon's farewell fling was an attack upon the manner in which tickets for the convention were distributed.

Paint that Stays Painted
That has been my slogan for years. I aim to do the best possible painting—using only the best materials that the manufacturers can furnish and employing the most skilled mechanics that can be procured. I stand back of every job I do, and when I am allowed to use my own judgment in regard to the best method of doing it, I will gladly make good any work that by any chance proves defective.

P. H. S. WINS CUP; BORO NINE ROUTED

City Boys Make Twenty-two Hits and Score Twenty-six Runs.

The Plainfield High School baseball team won the Collie cup offered by Paul Collie, Saturday afternoon by winning the second game in the interscholastic championship series with the North Plainfield High School by the overwhelming score of 26 to 8. The contest was played at Hyde Field and was so one-sided after the fourth inning that it was uninteresting. Both teams fielded loosely and the P. H. S. boys took the opportunity of adding to their batting average by getting twenty-two hits, while Denny only allowed N. P. H. S. seven bingles. The score:

EASY FOR P. S. TEAM

Hit Hard and Score 18 Runs to Banks' 1—Flemly's Pitching is too Much for the Universal Jointmakers.

The fifth round in the Manufacturer's League brought forth a decisive victory in every one of the three games. Public Service, by hard hitting, ran up an 18 to 1 score against the Banks. The commercial game was the best of the three played and they managed to nose out a 12 to 8 victory against the Saurer people. The Spicer players fell a victim to the mighty twirling of Flemley by the score of 15 to 3.

COMMERCIALS AGAIN

Although without the services of their star pitcher, Howard Freeman, the Commercials weathered an able substitute in the person of "Rope" Van Zant, the former Plainfield High School twirler. He pitched a masterful game against the Saurers, allowing but five scattered hits and coming out on the larger end of a 12 to 8 score. The Saurers, who occupy the last wing in the league ladder played a superior fielding game but were unable to hit and run the bases

Fritz, the Commercial's left fielder, brought the crowd to its feet in the sixth with a grandstand catch in deep left that was ticketed for a homer. While running at full speed he leaped into the air and brought the trouble-making object to earth on two fingers.

ROUT FOR THE BANKERS

The Public Service team returned to its winning stride in its game with the Banks nine and came out at the larger end of an 18 to 1 score. Heavy hitting by the Public Service team brought tallies across the pan in every round but the second and fifth. E. Montross pitched a steady game for the Park avenue lads and held the game well in hand. Ricketts, on the other hand, was a trifle off color walking nine and hitting one.

The Spicer baseball team of the Manufacturers' League met a waterloo in the shape of the strong R. G. E. combination Saturday afternoon by the score of 15 to 3. Fleming, the R. G. E. twirler, pitched another game of winning ball and held the Fourth street men at bay the whole nine inning.

Seath and Dolan, the Spicer mound men, were hit unmercifully when hits meant runs. A feature of the game was a three base clout by De Nitze of the R. G. E.

DORFLINGERS DO UP 'PLAINSMEN

Frederickson Holds Township Cut-ups to Four Hits of Little Weight.

6 TO 2 WAS THE SCORE

Slocum, Ex-U. S. League, No Figure of Awe for the Unterrified Plainfielders—Snappy Playing Marks the Game.

Crescent Oval was the scene Saturday of one of the oft-repeated victories of the Plainfield baseball team over their dearest rival, Scotch Plains. The score was 6 to 2. Both teams put up a superior brand of ball and only two misplays were recorded during the game, both wild heaves by Mullen, and he more than made up for his errors by his sensational stabs at short and lightning throws to first.

It was expected that this game would be a pitching duel between Slocum and Frederickson, Plainfield's two young strikeout wonders, but the game turned out to be a one-sided victory for Freddy. The 'Plains could garner but four safties off his delivery, while the local swatsmiths touched Slocum's offerings up for ten hits.

By consistent hitting the Queen City aggregation managed to push a quintet of runs across the rubber during the third, fourth and fifth stanzas and added another in the seventh Scotch Plains' eleventh hour rally netted them two tallies which were all that separated Frederickson from a well-deserved shut-out.

Cosgrove and Dalton were the leading bat artists of the local nine, each securing a pair of singles. E. Stallings and J. Alberts each sent the sphere on a trip for three bases.

Eddie Stallings, who occupied the left garden for the locals, was the fielding star. Driscoll, the first baseman, was called away at the last moment by the serious illness of his sister, and Manager Dorflinger shifted his infield and signed up a husky lad by the name of Fitzhenry, of the Jersey City International League team, to play second.

DUNELLEN WINS LOOSE GAME FROM CRANFORD

With McLaughlin pitching big league ball and a team of ball tossers holding him up in great shape, the Dunellen's baseball team added another victory to their steadily growing string by taking the Cranford aggregation into camp with a 10 0 score, Saturday afternoon.

Dunellen's first tally came in the second round when Elliott hit for a single and pilfered second and third. He was brought home by a sacrifice hit from the bat of Giddes. Their second count came in on a two-base hit by Giddes after Dixon had taken the four ball route. Coyle, a local boy, was the leading hitsmith of the game with a trio of singles to his credit. Sensational catches were made by Clough, Giles, Barnes and Giddes, who traveled out on the sidewalk after a foul fly.

The approaching and putting competition which was postponed from Memorial Day was won by Miss Grace Ten Eyck and Peter C. Sweeny with a score of 9.

NO MORE FIVE-MILE RUNS AT PARKER FIELD

The third of the series of five-mile runs which was scheduled at Parker Field Saturday afternoon was called off because of the excessive heat and lack of interest displayed by local runners. The management has concluded it best to eliminate the three remaining runs and will turn their attention toward the Independence Day meet at Parker Field.

The two runs which were held were both captured by Jack Fritts with over a lap to spare between him and his runner-up, Alfred Day.

OUTCLASSED IN MEET.

The local P. H. S. boys were outclassed in the annual Rutgers meet Saturday afternoon. Morris Mann reached the finals in the 220 yard dash and made fourth place and was third in his heat in the 100 yard dash. He entered in the Junior class and was the smallest man in the race. Schenck in the 880 yard dash and Alfred Day in the mile run, were both outclassed, coming in last in the finals. There were over eighty entries in the meet.

JUST TAPS BY "BUNTS"

It has been a long time since an interscholastic baseball title was decided by a margin of 20 runs.

You ran away with the basketball cup, North Plainfield, but the baseball trophy was donated by one Paul R. Collier and it should not be otherwise. P. H. S. is his Alma Mater

Plainfield High is always ready to add another silver mug to its collection, Paul; but more than ready when it is donated by the familiar mug of an old graduate.

N. P. H. S. was handicapped by the lack of available baseball material. It seems to be a question of scraping up enough to make a game in all branches of sport, for she has not been able to turn out a winning team in the past few years in which more than a quintet of players were required for the lineup.

Cheer up, boroughites; the consolidation of the Plainfield and North Plainfield High Schools is carded to take place before many more such battles.

Another one for Plainfield, and Scotch Plains the victim.

Scotch Plains always pulls a large crowd of enthusiastic fans but the strike-out boys were an added attraction.

A lot of good natured rivalry was displayed between these two and Slocum's spirit as he cheerfully accepted the losers lot was a commendable one.

Lou had everything a twirler ever had on the ball but made the sad mistake of grooving it too often.

Then, again, the Scotch Plains' mound man was up against a lineup which included some of the best stick artists playing the game.

Driscoll, however, will be back in the local lineup next Saturday.

Eddie Stallings was given a big hand by the crowd each time he made the trip to the gutta percha.

His afternoon's work consisted of a healthy swat for three bases and seven beautiful put-out in the left garden.

Dalton's barehand stab and lightning throw to first in the seventh was tained with the big league stuff.

The Sunday-school League blew into the limelight Saturday with three games to add to the baseball program of Plainfield.

Nine games and every manager reports the attendance as fulfilling his expectations.

Some fandom this Queen City is getting to be.

Tommy Mullen was the whole show at short during the preliminary struggle and then went into the big farce and played his second cracking good game of the afternoon.

"Pep" is what helps the teamwork "Tommy." Give us some more.

"Rope" Van Zandt, the veteran High School slab artist, made his debut as a come-back in a Commercial uniform last Saturday.

He allowed the Saurer people but five scattered bingles.

Scotch Plains announced a United States League battery in the persons of Slocum and Hand.

Dorflinger came back with his latest acquisition, Fitzhenry, from the Jersey City team of the International League.

Two world's records were smashed at Celtic Park, yesterday, when Abel Kiviat romped home a victor in the 1,500 metre race when he covered the distance in 3 minutes 56 4-5 seconds.

Jim Duncan, competing from a seven foot circle, heaved the discus 145 feet, 9½ inches.

The first round of the Sunday-school baseball league was run off Saturday with every team participating. A formidable advocate for this year's pennant was disclosed by the Park Avenue Baptist Sunday-school, who romped home a 24 to 1 victor after a swatfest with the South Plainfield lads.

HOPE'S BIG INNING

The strong Hope Chapel nine of the Sunday-school Baseball League took the Temple Baptist team into camp on the latter's grounds, Saturday afternoon, by the score of 17 to 11. The game was close up to the sixth inning when the Hope aggregation pushed nine runs across the rubber, thus sewing up the game. Twenty-three strikeouts were recorded for the two pitchers and Hadley yielded twelve bingles, while Schott was touched up for nine.

Morris, Heron, Rimmer and Marsh were the leading swatsmiths for the victors, while Coombs, J. Huff, Conover and Hadley each secured a couple of hits for the losers.

PARK AVE'S. BIG SCORE

The Park Avenue Baptists hung up an early season's record when they put it on to the South Plainfielders to the tun of 24 to 1. The local lads presented a formidable lineup, headed by "Shake" Clarke, who held the South Plainfield team to two scratchy hits. Clarke was well backed up by a team putting up an errorless brand of ball.

HARNESS RACE CARD CUT TO TWO EVENTS

The trotting races scheduled for Decoration Day and postponed on account of the weather conditions were held on Saturday at the Plainfield Driving Park. The day was ideal but the attendance was sparse notwithstanding the fact that no admission was charged. On account of the absence of a number of horses that were in attendance on Decoration Day, and the hurriedness of preparation, it was decided by those in charge of the meeting to make the occasion a free mattinee and substitute ribbons for the original money prizes. There were but two races on the card for trotting and pacing and these brought forth keen competition and interest from the local entrants.

In the 2:20 event for trot or pace some fast and closely cantested brushes were witnessed. Dorothea Chimes, a beautiful chestnut mare, belonging to C. H. Heggert, of Metuchen, showed a clean pair of heels to the rest of the field, winning her feats in clever fashion. Her best time for the mile was 2:20¼; W. S. Rule, of Metuchen, "Greenmore," bay gelding, was second, in 2:22¼; Thomas Brantingham, of Plainfield, "Lady Bonanza," roan mare, was third, in 2:34¼, and Charles Thornton, of Plainfield, "Sheldon Lady," brown mare, was fourth. In the 2:00 race, Walter Tausig, of Metuchen, J. F. L., black horse, carried off the blue ribbon in 2:29¼; Joseph Boorream, of New Brunswick, "Miss Bessie," chestnut mare, was second, in 2:33¼; John Case, of Dunellen, "Midnight Herr," black gelding, was third, and Samuel Quackenbosh, of Metuchen, "Harry I," black gelding, was fourth.

The judges were: Thomas Berry, A. C. Blair, William Giles, James Lawless, Nathan Robbins, and the starter was W. R. Hutchings.

WEST END NINE WINS FROM BOUND BROOKERS

The preliminary game on the Oval Saturday afternoon, resulted in a walk-over for the West End A. C., who chalked up twelve counts against a trio by the St. Joseph's team, of Bound Brook. Miller, who was so unmercifully hammered by the Cuban Giants last Saturday, displayed a rare come-back in form and yielded but two scratchy hits, while Capano, the opposing mound man, was robbed of ten of his offerings.

A feature of the game was the base running of N. Luthman and Frezza, the dark haired guardian of the difficult corner for the Bound Brook High School and several other ball teams of that suburb.

QUALIFYING ROUNDS FOR JUNE CUPS AT THE P. C. C.

STRONG IRONSIDES DEFEAT 'PLAINS IN SUNDAY GAME

Scotch Plains lost its first Sunday game of the season, yesterday, to the Ironsides, of Newark. The score was 6 to 3. Slocum, who was in the box for 'Plains, was erratic and kept Hand jumping all over the diamond at times. The support back of him was poor, 11 errors being charged against the home team. At times however, they took a brace and played league baseball, shutting off the Ironsides' scoring and chance of breaking the 3-3 tie until the tenth when the visitors cinched the game by putting three runs over the pan on timely hits and two errors.

MACHINISTS MAKE READY TO STRIKE FOR 8-HOUR DAY

If Demand is Not Granted, Press Shop Workers Will Walk Out Tomorrow Morning--330 Men Are Affected.

Unless their demand for an 8-hour day is granted by 10 o'clock tomorrow morning 330 machinists employed in four printing press shops will go on strike. That was the decision reached at a mass meeting of Plainfield Lodge, International Association of Machinists, in secret session last night.

There was not a dissenting voice raised against the ultimatum. The men were prepared for a fight to the finish. They had received assurances and pledges of support from the lodges of the New York district, which have 2,000 members, and who have been successful in their campaign for an eight-hour day.

The firms that will be affected in the event of a strike are Walter Scott Printing Machine Company and Potter Press Works, of this city; the Hall Printing Press Company, of Dunellen, and the Carlstadt Printing Works, Bergen county.

The manager of Potter's Press Works was out of town when a reporter of the Daily Press called this morning and there was no one at the works in a position to offer an opinion as to what action would be taken if any. The manager of Scott's Printing Machine Company had nothing further to say than that the quarter-hour daily reducton was put in operation yesterday. Asked if he contemplated granting the other three-quarter hour reduction he would make no definite statement.

John McCormick, of the Hall Printing Press Company, of Dunellen, was equally non-committal. He said that Philip W. Hall, the president of the company, would return from New York this afternoon when a line of action would be decided upon.

One of the members of the union at the close of the meeting, told a Daily Press reporter that the local association was well equipped financially and could stand a prolonged strike, particularly with the support of the New York district.

Two hundred and twenty-five machinists attended the meeting, which was presided over by Louis Burger. H. V. Reilly, of Newark, secretary of the State Association, was in attendance as was also J. J. Kepler, of New York, National vice president. Jerry Sullaghan acted as secretary of the meeting.

Coatless, with shirt sleeves rolled up, the members sat for two hours. The only discussion arose as to the day and hour when they would strike.

Many favored a general walk-out this morning, but Mr. Kepler pointed out that this would be unfair to themselves, and would not give the employers the opportunity necessary to declare what they intended doing. His judgment prevailed over that of the impetuous.

The demands of the men are that their employers shall reduce the working hours per day by one-half hour; this reduction to come into force before January 1. Thereafter, by means of a sliding scale, the other half-hour will be shaved off before June, next, so that a year from now the full eight-hour day will be in operation.

It was the opinion of some of the members at the meeting last night that the employers do not take kindly to the proposition and are determined not to accede to the demands. It was pointed out in the course of the proceedings that the Walter Scott Printing Machine Company were willing to reduce—in fact had reduced—the work hours by a quarter-hour per day. But they had said nothing about the remaining three-quarters or whether it was their intention to ever take it off. Some of the men charaterized this move as a "piece of bluff" in order to win them away from the purpose they had in view.

CITY COURT.

In the city court this morning, before City Judge William G. DeMesa, Wells Creager, of 345 Watchung avenue, and Harold Martin, of 418 Third street, both hackmen, were arraigned on a charge of disorderly conduct by fighting. It seems that they had an argument over fares and resorted to blows to settle it. Policeman Charles Flynn made the arrests. At the request of their counsel, F. J. Blatz, the case was adjourned to June 7. The case of Prinston Archabold, for fighting, was adjourned until tomorrow morning. Benjamin Estrin, of 117 New street, was dismissed on a suspended sentence for slapping his sister-in-law on the face. From the evidence adduced it appeared that "Ben" had loaned her $118 to help her in business, but that she sold out and had not paid him back.

TAFT CLUB IS STILL UPSET OVER BALLOTS

Asks Council to Investigate Error in Primary Ticket—Candidates Suffered?

During the Council session last night a communication was presented from the Taft Club, protesting about the manner in which the sample and official primary ballots were handled at the primary election a week ago. The resolution had been adopted earlier in the evening at a meeting of the club, attended by about a dozen members, and read as follows:

"To the Honorable Common Council of the City of Plainfield, N. J.

"Gentlemen: We desire to call your attention to an apparent violation of the election law by the city clerk in connection with the primary election held May 28, 1912.

"The election law requires that the 'sample primary ballot shall be as nearly as possible a facsimile of the official ballot to be voted at the said primary election.' (See section 24.) The same section also provides that 'The sample ballot is an exact copy of the ballot to be used on primary day.'

"The sample ballots were furnished to the members of the Boards of Registry and Election by the city clerk and by said boards mailed to the registered voters as required by law.

"The object of sending a sample ballot to a voter is to enable the voter to familiarize himself with the names of candidates and the position in which these names will appear on the official ballot for whom he desires to vote.

"The object in requiring the sample ballot to be an exact copy of the official ballot is to assist the voter in marking his official ballot. As required by law the sample ballots furnished by the city clerk had printed at the top the following: 'The Sample Ballot is an exact copy of the ballot to be used on Primary Day. This ballot cannot be voted.' This statement was absolutely false and misleading. Neither the Republican nor Democratic official ballots were exact copies of the sample ballots issued by the city clerk.

"Let us call your attention to the Republican official ballot in which our club was principally interested.

"Under the designation "For Delegates to National Convention (Fifth Congressional District)" on the sample ballot the names of the candidates appeared in the following order. Those favoring La Follette first, those favoring Rosevelt second, those favoring President Taft third. On the official ballot used at the primary the names of the candidates appeared in the following order. Those Favoring President Taft first, those favoring Rooseviet second, those favoring La Follette third. You will see by this change that on the official ballot the names of the candidates favoring President Taft were placed in the position occupied by the names of the candidates favoring La Follette on the sample ballot and the names of the candidates favoring La Follette were placed in the position occupied by the names of the candidates favorable to President Taft on the sample ballot.

"There is no doubt this change defeated the very object of the law and worked to the disadvantage of the candidates favorable to President Taft.

"This Club stands with President Taft in favor of fair and honest election laws, in the protection of the sacred right of suffrage and the square deal to every man and believing that we did not get a square deal on primary day, we feel that you, who are our representatives in the Common Council and who are responsible to us for the acts of the City Clerk elected by you, owe it to us as Citizens that this violation of the election law be investigated by you that the responsibility may be placed upon the proper party and similar violation thereby avoided in the future.

"Believing that your Honorable Body will do everything in your power to right this wrong and assuring you that we will gladly give you all information in our possession and render you every possible assistance, we beg to remain,

"Very truly yours,
"THE TAFT CLUB.

CONSTABLE'S BADGE FOR ALEX. AYRES

Endress, Reville and Taylor Seek to Keep it From Him—Council Routine.

Following the adoption of the resolution by the Board of School Estimate certifying that $88,000 would be needed from the local taxing district for school purposes for the coming year, the Common Council, at its June meeting, last night, adopted on first and second readings an ordinance, determining upon that amount to be raised by taxation.

Acting upon the advice of Corporation Counsel W. M. Stillman, Mr. Mygatt's resolution that two assignments of tax certificates be made in favor of Charlotte M. Huff, upon her request, was adopted. The property referred to is located at 264 and 266 Watson avenue.

Councilman Gloak referred back several petitions, including one in reference to a sewer in George street, upon which no action was rcommended at present, and one from the East End Association concerning certain improvements. This will be taken up later. The petition asking that a change be made in the building line on Kensington avenue was refused, the explanation being that the question of opening up and extending that avenue is still in the courts. In answer to a question, Mr. Mygatt informed Mr. Gloak that the Kensington avenue matter had been put over to the October term of court.

In accordance with a resolution by Mr. Taylor, which was adopted, the Fire and Building Committee was authorized to purchase two miles of wire for the fire alarm system at an expense not to exceed $200. Two electric lights weer ordered placed on Arlington avenue, between Randolph

MORE SCHOOL ROOM BY SEPTEMBER, 1913

Supt. Maxson Outlines School Dept's. Plans to Stillman-Franklin Association.

The congested condition of the Stillman-Franklin School, its ill ventilated rooms, and general want of facilities to cope with present necessities were fully ventilated by a deputation from the school's Parent-Teacher Association at the meeting of the Board of Education last night. The board was urged to take steps to at a cost of about $250,000. Mrs. S. H. Voorhees, Mrs. William M. Sanford, Howard Williams, J. Stuart Simons and John B. Cottrell comprised the allegation.

In the course of the discussion which followed, Superintenden: H. M. Maxson made it clear that it was the intention of the board, when they had erected the addition to the High School to empty the Stillman School into the annex.

James F. Buckle did not think it would be advisable to build a new Grammar School at present on top of the project for the High School addition for which $225,000 was to be asked. He did not think the taxpayers would stand for it, as badly as it was needed and they did not want to kill the goose that laid the golden egg.

By providing twenty-one rooms which would adequately take care of the 7th and 8th grades, Superintendent Maxson said they were securing a temporary Grammar School. He expected the addition to be ready for occupation in a year from September. Then they would start to make plans for a primary school which would accommodate all the children of the city. The Stillman children would be housed in the new High School Annex in a separate block of rooms under the supervision of their present instructors, preserving its own organization.

The question of fire protection was fully gone into and assurances were forthcoming that every precaution would be taken to make the Annex safe and fireproof. A report on the growth of enrollment and increase of pupils in the different schools during the past decade was submitted by Superintendent Maxson. It appears in another column.

COUNCIL HEARS FROM CITIZENS

Two Arranged and One Impromptu Meeting Give Session Town Meeting Air.

S. O. PLANT PROTESTED

West End Residents Don't Want It Near Them—Objection to Somerset Street Widening—P. S. C. "Y's" Again Held Up.

The June session of the Common Council, last night, bore a striking resemblance to the old-fashioned town meeting, where everybody had something to say. There were two public hearings, one on the proposition of the Standard Oil Company to erect a $50,000 plant at West Front street and Rock avenue, and one on the proposed plan to widen Somerset street between Front stret and the brook.

In addition those directly interested n the plan to open Bradford avenue brought up that subject, and there was a lively argument when Councilman W. L. Gloak again tried to secure the adoption of an ordinance giving the Public Service Railway permission to install switches and "Ys" in the city.

The Council deferred action on the petition of the Standard Oil Company for the present, and it was announced that nothing would be done in the matter of widening Somerset street until after it had been considered furthr by the Street Committee.

The ordinance which called for the extension and opening up of Bradford avenue was killed on first reading by a full vote, after Mortimer Givens, who is now building a house on Clinton avenue directly in line with the proposed improvement, explained his side of the case. His statement that he had all his money tied up in the improvement and that the suspension of operations was a great expense to him, impressed the Council and it was decided to allow Mr. Givens to go on and complete his house.

The ordinance granting the Public Service Railway permission to install two switches and three "Ys" was held up until June 17, after considerable argument. Mr. Gloak wanted immediate action, but Mr. Holt was not present, and Mr. Mygatt thought that as he was especially interested, it would be better to allow the matter to go over until June 17. This was finally agreed to by the other members after Mr. Gloak, Mr. Mygatt and Mr. Clay had engaged in a somewhat lively argument, in which Mr. Gloak urged that action be taken at once regardless as to whether Mr. Holt was present. He said that no one would give him (Gloak) such consideration.

Mr. Mygatt defended Mr. Holt, declaring him to be a conscientious and faithful member of the Council and entitled to due consideration. Mr. Mygatt said that favorable action would give the company a perpetual right in the streets of the city and it was very necessary that the matter should be gone into carefully before a decision was reached.

When Mr. Mygatt rallied to the support of Mr. Holt, Mr. Gloak was led to remark that it was the first time he could remember when the Third ward member sought to defend Mr. Holt, and he expressed surprise.

Mr. Clay said that it was not necessary to rash the ordinances and protested against such action. It was finally voted to refer the matter to the Committees on Laws and Ordinances, Streets and Public Affairs.

When the proposition to widen Somerset street came up, there were three protests presented against the improvement, one signed by Carl Silbert and others, another by Christian Gloekler and others and the third by Schwed Brothers and others. These were referred.

Harvey Linbarger, who said he represented a majority of the property-owners on the street, made a strong plea for the widening, saying that it would be a great benefit to property, increasing its value. He also urged that a building line be established there for the future benefit of property-owners. The widening, he declared, would relieve the present congested traffic and prevent accidents.

Former Mayor N. B. Smalley spoke earnestly in favor of the improvement; also that steps be taken to widen Madison avenue. He deplored the fact that "one of the fairest cities in the east" should allow such a condition to exist, calling attention to the fact that there is a bootblack stand on one corner and a peanut stand on the other. He said that one would always find objectors to any improvement and if all these were listened to nothing would be done.

David M. Runyon, representing the First National Bank which owns fifty-five feet on Somerset street, said that the institution favored the widening, because it was the intention to build an extension from the bank on that thoroughfare sooner or later. He also advocated a building line.

Herman Schwed opposed the im-

MODEL SEWER PLANT WILL COST $12,000

Electrolytic Company Wants Contract Agreement Before Going Ahead.

Councilman Gloak, at the June meeting of the Common Council last night announced that a sewer conference is to be held tomorrow night ot which representatives of Fanwood, Scotch Plains, North Plainfield and Dunellen have been invited. The meeting will be held in the hope that one final effort, as Mr. Gloak expressed it, might be made to reach a conclusion.

W. Barton Hammond, representing the Hammond Iron Company, of Warren, Pa., which proposes to erect a test plant in this city for the disposal of sewage by an electrolytic process, was present and he said that if possible he would have his proposition in concrete form for presentation tomorrow night.

To avoid any misunderstandings, however, Mr. Hammond explained to the Council that the company's purpose in erecting a test plant here was that ni case the system did all that was claimed for it, the city would give the company a contract for installing a plant that would take care of the sewage of the entire city. Mr. Hammond said that it would cost the company $12,000 to build the test plant, and it would want the assurance of the Council that provided the system met all requirements it would get a contract. Mr. Hammond has just moved to Plainfield and he is now busily engaged in getting everything in shape for building the test plant and preparing the necessary contracts. These contracts will be presented to the Council to be passed upon before any work is performed by the company.

PLAINFIELD READY TO ENTHRONE KING HORSE

Greater Local Interest in Show Which Opens Thursday, Than Ever Before.

Everything is practically in readiness for the ninth annual horse show to be held Thursday, Friday and Saturday under the auspices of the Plainfield Riding and Driving Club. The club's handsome and picturesque show grounds at Randolph road and Woodland avenue have been put in the pink of condition and everything looking toward the comfort and convenience of patrons has received attention.

The first of the thoroughbred equines to be shown here arrived today and were taken to the club's stables, which from now on will be a busy place, with the countless grooms and stable boys putting on the finishing touches for the approaching exhibition.

There appears to be more local interest this year in the show and a large attendance of people from this city and vicinity is expected. The annual exhibition has come to be recognized as a distinct benefit to the city, bringing, as it does, people from all parts of the country, who naturally help Plainfield in a financial way.

About 350 entries have been received, insuring the best exhibition in the history of the club.

CITIZENS SUBMIT PLAN TO END SEWER MUDDLE

Prominent Property Owners, Stirred by Delay, Urge Council to Appoint Commission of Twelve to Fix on Definite Course.

Prominent property-owners of the city, impressed with the fact that there has been considerable delay in arriving at a satisfactory solution of the sanitary sewage problem, communicated with the Common Council, last night, making the suggestion that a committee be appointed by the Common Council to investigate conditions, weigh the merits of the different plans, and arrive at some definite conclusion. The communication and the signers follow:

"The several contributions with reference to the sewage question which have recently appeared in the press" (referring to the Daily Press) "over the signatures of Alexander Gilbert, F. L. Holt and W. J. Buttfield all indicate a grave divergence of views as to the proper course to be pursued in the solution of this most serious problem. In view of the importance of the subject and the vital necessity of securing its economical and permanent solution in a manner that shall be satisfactory to to people of Plainfield generally, we venture to suggest that a committee of twelve representative citizens be appointed by your honorable body to investigate the facts, weigh the merits of the several plans which have been suggested, and to quote Mr. Holt's article," (meaning that in the Daily Press) "'express their feelings in some clear and unequivocal way.' While we fully appreciate that the settlement of this problem is one that now demands prompt action, we believe that a reasonable time spent in an investigation of this character would be well repaid and prevent what in the minds of the people generally, might later be regarded as a grave mistake."

The signers to the communication are A. A. Tilney, Percy H. Stewart, S. D. Lounsbery, W. T. Kaufman, J. P. Stevens, F. W. Wallace, G. W. Endicott, Henry C. Irons, J. W. Sandford, Townsend Rushmore, H. P. Talmadge, O. T. Waring, A. V. Heely, Charles J. Fisk, E. H. Ladd, Jr., DeWitt C. Ivins, J. F. Harman, Arthur M. Harris, Robert H. Cox and William Palmer Smith.

Since the communication became public, still another suggestion has been made and that is that a small committee, say of three, representing the city and borough, together with a recognized engineer, take the matter up, consider all the methods proposed and decide upon one plan to be recommended for adoption.

FIGURES SHOW NEED OF SCHOOL BUILDINGS

Supt. Maxson Compiles Data on Steady Increase in Enrolment of Pupils.

That more accommodations are urgently required in the city's Public Schools to meet the growing increase in enrollment was made plain by the following report submtted to the Board of Education last night by Superintendent of Schools Henry M. Maxson. It will be used by the Board of Education as the principal argument in favor of the appropriation of $225,000 required for an addition of twenty-one rooms to the High School.

	Enrollment.	Increase.
1911	3634	120
1910	3514	154
1909	3360	187
1908	3183	57
1907	3136	111
1906	3025	37
1905	2988	27
1904	2961	162
1902	2715	18
Total in 10 years		937

"At 40 pupils per room this increase, if evenly distributed, would require 23 rooms. In these ten years we have increased our seating capacity 22 rooms.

"In 1901 the average number of pupils to each class room in the city was 43. The average last year was just the same, showing that we have been simply meeting the increase. Forty-three pupils is not badly overcrowding in the new buildings if the children came so that we could get the average number in each room; but it is over-crowding in the case of the older buildings. The State inspector has informed the Board that by State requirements we should never have more than 33 pupils in a room in the Franklin School. This is also the case with the Irving and the Bryant, which have rooms of the same size. In the Stillman School, the State requirements do not permit us to have more than 27 per room.

"But the average of 43 pupils per room is based on the even distribution of the children in the various schools and rooms. However, children do not come to us in that way They come unevenly as to location and grade. In the same building, one grade may have 30, another 70. If one class has 50 pupils and another 30, it looks like a very simple thing to take ten from the 50 and put with the 30, but this is not so if the 30 are first grade and the 50 third or fourth or higher. To put two grades of children with two or three years difference between them together is badof reach grade; the teacher cannot work them together, and each gets less value from the teacher's time than it would by itself.

"The highest efficiency of the school demands that we must have room to divide a class if it has 50 or more, and give each part a separate room; but there is no vacant room in any school building in the city today. The Bryant, the Irving, the Franklin, the Washington, and the Lincoln, already have classes that have no room but have to share a room with another class, one going in as the other goes out. Next year the Lincoln will have two such classes without room, the Bryant one, the Stillman one, the Franklin three, the Washington two, the Irving one, and the High School several. The State law requires that pupils who are 2 years below grade shall be grouped in a room by themselves with not more than 15 pupils to a teacher. If this law were enforced we should require probably 6 more rooms immediately for this purpose alone.

"Note also that while the average annual increase for ten years is 93, for the last 3 years the average annual increase has been 154 and the enrollment today is 200 more than it was last year at this time. This means that our needs are increasing four or five rooms a year."

TO HOLD A LAWN FETE.

The Philathea Bible Class of the Temple Baptist church will give a lawn fete on the church lawn this afternoon and evening. The lawn will be attractively decorated with booths and the national colors. There will be a program of vocal and instrumental music this evening.

DEMOCRATIC CLUB MAY KICK OUT TWO MEMBERS

When the Plainfield Democratic Club meets tonight it is expected that the temperature of the session will be fully in keeping with the weather. Report has it that the resignations of Councilman P. J. Reville and Frank J. Shattle will be requested. These two ardent Democrats have organized another club and in the recent primaries lent their support to Champ Clark while the older club was strongly supporting Woodrow Wilson. Neither Reville nor Shattle has ever been accused of being a weakling and therefore a hot time is forecasted.

It is reported that the club will also discuss the proposed adoption of the commission form of government for Plainfield.

BAKER'S WAGON DAMAGED.

A delivery wagon owned by L. Kornfield, a baker, of West Front street, in charge of D. Shwedel, a driver, lost a wheel on Woodland avenue, near South avenue, about 4:30 o'clock this morning, because of a loose nut which dropped along the road. The driver, with the assistance of two patrolmen removed the disabled wagon from the trolley tracks, but not quite far enough for it to escape being hit by a trolley car. One corner of the top was torn off by the trolley. After the accident the driver returned to the bakery and secured another wagon to deliver his bread.

IMITATE MUHLENBERG.

George P. Mellick, president of Muhlenberg Hospital, and chief manager of the institution's whirlwind campaign which netted $137,000, will speak at a banquet to be held tonight at Flushing, N. Y., where a similar campaign is to be inaugurated. The other speakers will include Mayor W. J. Gaynor and Job Hedges, both of New York city. W. E. Bowen, who conducted the campaign here, will have charge of the Flushing enterprise.

GOMEZ GETS GUNS FROM UNCLE SAM

Also Lays In 1,000,000 Rounds of Ammunition.

TO PAY FOR THEM AT COST

Time Limit of Ten Days Asked of United States to Put Down Insurrection Has Expired—Situation Daily Growing Worse.

Washington, June 4.—The state and war departments decided to grant the request of President Gomez for the purchase of 5,000 Krag carbines and 1,000,000 rounds of ammunition. This was done in order to render the Cuban government every possible assistance in putting down the negro revolution without actually intervening.

The material will be sold to the Cuban government at practically cost price and will be taken out of the ordnance stores of the war department. The rifles are being shipped from the Watervliet (N. Y.) arsenal and the ammunition from Frankfort arsenal, Philadelphia, to New York city for prompt dispatch by boat to Havana. The time limit of ten days which President Gomez asked of the United States on May 24 in which to put down the insurrection has expired.

Instead of the revolt having been put down, the situation has gradually grown worse. While the commander of the gunboat Paducah, awaiting developments at El Paya, has orders to land men the moment such action is required in his judgment, definite orders will be rushed from Washington the moment a report is received of harm to Americans. Action on the part of the American government was anticipated momentarily by the request of President Gomez for the purchase of arms.

Prepare For Emergency.

The Washington authorities are not leaving the solution to the shipment of the army rifles, however. Preparations are being continued in the state, war and navy departments for operations to meet any development.

Notwithstanding the Cuban government issued a statement that the negro movement is in reality crushed, the consul at Cienfuegos wired of extensive demoralization and that families are taking refuge in the towns while negro bands are making attacks from time to time. Several bands are reported to be in the vicinity of Crucez and Trinidad, and in Cenfuegos there are many strange negroes, who are thought to have come from Haiti and Jamaica to participate in the movement.

COUNCIL HEARS CITIZENS

provement, claiming that in the twenty-seven years he had been a resident here nothing had occurred for which that street could be blamed and he thought the street was wide enough. J. W. Harrison, of Madison avenue, argued against the widening of Somerset street and in favor of widening Madison avenue, his chief concern being for the improvement of the latter thoroughfare, on which he lives.

There was a delegation of perhaps twenty-five or thirty residents of the lower West End present to protest against favorable action on the petition of the Standard Oil Company to build a storage plant at West Front street and Rock avenue. The plans, as published in the Plainfield Daily Press were presented, and Clifford Ellis, of the company's construction department, explained them. He said there could possibly be no objection to the proposed plant. Mr. Ellis made the statement after the company's petition had been presented and the public hearing was granted.

Isaac Houston and Harry Bogert, acted as the spokesmen for the delegation present, and brought up various arguments against the petition for permit. The objectors contended that the West End was already well supplied with "nuisances," including the sewage beds, and the pest house, and they thought it unfair to place another alleged nuisance there such as a storage oil plant, which could not possibly be anything but a detriment to property values in that vicinity. One of the several petitions presented against the proposition contained the names of 180 residents of that section of the city. It was claimed among other things that there would be a stench from the plant and fire insurance rates would be increased.

C. E. Young, of Newark, who is president of the New Jersey branch of the Standard Oil Company, expressed the opinion that the taxpayers could trust the Fire and Building Committee. He explained that it was found impossible to enlarge the present plant and the company desired to build a modern plant that would meet the growing needs of the city. He denied that any number of tank cars full of gasoline would be permitted to stand on the company's siding, as alleged, and he furthermore agreed to "stand back of anything that might be a detriment to the citizens" of that section of the city.

In reply to the question as to what might happen if the tanks should be struck by lightning, Mr. Young said that in the twenty-nine years that he had been with the company he had never heard of an instance of tanks of refined oil being struck by lightning.

J. W. Harrison and Charles Kelway also spoke in protest against granting the permission asked for by the company. Once the Standard Oil Company got its grasp on a community, they said, there is no power strong enough to release it. They begged the Council not to grant the petition.

It was not the intention of the Council to act on the Bradford avenue extension last night, but Mortimer Givens, who has started the building of a house on Clinton avenue, on a line with the proposed opening, presented his claims for recognition in such a forcible manner that it was decided to put the ordinance on first reading. It was then killed. Mr. Givens presented a petition signed by twenty property-owners protesting against opening the street.

GIFFORD PINCHOT.

Among Those In Conference With Colonel Roosevelt at Oyster Bay.

PINCHOT AT OYSTER BAY.

Back From British Columbia to Get Into Fight.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., June 4.—Gifford Pinchot, former chief forester, came to Oyster Bay to confer with Colonel Roosevelt. He said he had been in British Columbia for several weeks advising the Canadian government as to the establishment of a forestry bureau and was out of touch with the political situation.

He came to Oyster Bay, he explained, to get back into the fight. With Mr. Pinchot were Andrew Rahn, one of the delegates at large from Minnesota, and Medill McCormick of Chicago, one of Colonel Roosevelt's most active field lieutenants.

TAFT IN CONTROL OF COMMITTEE IN OHIO

Presages Selection of Delegates at Large Today.

Columbus, O., June 4.—Taft men won out in district caucuses, gaining control of all committees connected with the Republican state convention and also of the new state central committee. The victories may presage the selection of six delegates at large at today's session of the convention who will support President Taft at Chicago.

The margin of control in the big committee is just one. Taft supporters have eleven and Roosevelt supporters ten on the state central committee and on the credentials committee. The resolutions committee stands 12 to 9 in favor of Taft.

At a meeting of the new state committee Walter F. Brown was re-elected chairman. He said he regarded the action as a personal victory.

At a meeting of the resolutions committee twelve members voted to report a platform indorsing the Taft administration. Nine members voted to bring in a minority report.

CHEAP POLITICS.

There seems to be a great deal of commotion about nothing on the part of the Taft Republican Club in its protest about the slight change in the form of the official primary ballot of last Tuesday over the sample ballot as sent out by the election boards. All through the communication there is veiled insinuation that City Clerk J. T. MacMurray tried to do something which he should not have done. Had the change in the ballots affected the election there might have been some excuse for "making a mountain out of a mole hill," but as it is evidently an effort to play politics, as is shown by the bringing into the petition of a lot of reference to the candidacy of Mr. Taft, there is little for the Common Council to do but ask for an explanation, which will immediately clear up the matter, except perhaps, in the minds of a few who do not wish to be convinced.

The matter was a printer's error, pure and simple, and in no way can the city clerk be blamed for it. The ballots throughout the entire Congressional district were supposed to be the same, except for a change at the top where the voting district and the name of the local clerks appeared. For this reason a number of the printers in the county found it would be more economical to do the work all at one shop, and an office at Elizabeth was chosen for the purpose. The local sample ballot was the first set up and printed, a proof having been submitted to Mr. MacMurray, and approved by him. The sample ballots were delivered, but the printer, after completing them, in lifting the form from a press accidentally broke it up, requiring resetting. The revised proof, was submitted to another competent city clerk and he made some suggestions, after which the sample ballots for that city were run off. These suggestions were what caused the change in the local ballots. When it came time to print the Plainfield official ballots the printer erred in not again changing the forms so that they would conform exactly to the samples used here, but left them as were the official ballots elsewhere. Mr. MacMurray knew nothing about the immaterial mistake until the sealed packages were opened on Tuesday for the election, when it was too late to make corrections.

There are some people in this world who love to twist matters to please themselves, and who refuse to believe anything which others say. There was no effort on the part of anyone to conceal the error in the ballots when it became known. Both local papers printed a full explanation of the error on Tuesday night, and the Daily Press explained that the printer was responsible. This publicity was given before a large number of voters had cast their ballots, and as Mr. LaFollette received but two or three votes in each district, it is very evident that the slight mistake made did not affect the result of the election at all. Therefore the Taft Club petition comes with little grace. It was adopted when but a dozen members of the club were present and some of these are well known as Mr. MacMurray's political enemies. The whole thing is a sample of cheap politics and is aimed to unjustly injure an efficient city official for partisan political purposes solely.

—Use Press want ads.

Those clever little Japs have made an imitation of the Elk's tooth that ordinarily defies detection and the country has been flooded with the bogus article. In fact it is asserted that at least 25,000 members of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elksk within a radius of sixty miles of New York are wearing these imitations as charms unconscious that they are really walrus teeth artificially colored. The way to tell the genuine from the fake is to place the tooth in a bath of muriatic acid and heat it for three or four minutes. If it be an imitation, the tooth will bleach and on being removed from the acid will feel as if coated with mucilage.

There snould be no hesitation in responding to the appeal of Continental chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, for contributions for the proposed memorial to mark Washington Rock. It is an appeal to patriotism. Contributions may be left at the Daily Press office where the chapter has placed a box for such purpose. Any contributions will be cheerfully acknowledged and promptly transmitted to the chapter. Each contributor is asked to write his or her name on a blank which will be enclosed within the cairn to be placed at the Rock.

Charles J. Fisk, our former mayor, is doing a good work by stirring up agitation for a crusade against the house fly. As he pointed out in a contributed editorial in the Daily Press a few weeks since the house fly is a menace to human existence and is primarily responsible for thousands of deaths among infants annually. The other night Mr. Fisk delivered an instructive address before the Ewing, New Jersey, Fly Fighting Society giving valuable suggestions as to how best to rid the country of this danger to health.

In the absence of Councliman Holt, who has interested himself in the matter, Councilman Gloak last night attempted again to have the Common Council take favorable action on a petition of the P. S. R. to place switches and Y's at various points along its local trolley lines. Councilman Mygatt's vigorous defense of Mr. Holt as a city father was most commendable. It served the purpose for the city fathers deferred action on the petition.

For the benefit of those who have not had the time to study the commission form of government plan, tomorrow's issue will contain a series of definite questions and concise answers on the subject. If our readers will spare five or ten minutes of their time to read this catechism, they will become perfectly familiar with the modern business plan for the government of municipalitites.

If you wonder why hundreds of passengers are alighting from each train at the North Avenue station on Thursday afternoon go to the Plainfield Riding and Driving Club's park and you will find the reason. The ninth annual horse show will have 350 entries and they are the finest show horses in the world. Price of admission is reasonable and everyone will enjoy the exhibition.

We doubt very much that it is the desire of the majority of members of the Taft Club to have that organization stultify its high ideals by making a mean attack on an acknowledged competent city official for local, narrow partisan purposes.

LANDMARK GONE.

The demolition of the old porch roof at the front of Peck's store and postoffice, in New Providence Borough, removes an old time landmark. Half a century ago that building was the Democratic headquarters of the village, the store then being conducted by the Bonnel brothers, of whom the elder, Nathaniel, was at one time sheriff. The Republican headquarters were at what is now Blatt's store, which was then conducted by the Valentines, and in which John T. Wilcox had the postoffice. In Civil War times party passions ran high, and the opposing political gatherings which were held at the rival stores were scenes of much animation and sometimes of violence.

HISTORIC JERSEY LANDS BOUGHT BY W. P. JENKS

The Mattox properties near Morristown which have just been purchased by William P. Jensk comprise some of the really historic ground of New Jersey. On the Joanna Mattox tract stood the first Baptist church built in this section. The church was organized in 1752, and the building was put up not long afterward. Before Revolutionary times, however, Morristown became a thriving village, and the church property was sold and land purchased fronting on "The Green."

The cemetery was left across the street, and until recent years the old headstones were still to be seen. On the estate of Mr. Jenks is located the Stark monument, marking the site of the brigade encampment. Rude huts were erected, and all through this section on the hill the remains of old stone chimneys are still to be found. The old Mountai nroad connected the Mt. Kemble road with the Jockey Hollow road, on the opposite side of the hill, both of interest because of marching troops and the passage of the founders of the country.

YOUNG ARIZONAN'S GUNPLAY COSTS HIM TEN DOLLARS

Residents of the eastern part of New Providence Borough have been much annoyed by the promiscuous shooting at birds and other objects which has been practiced by some persons on or about the McLaughlin place, and which reached its height a recent Sunday. On that day a finely-bred and valuable young bull terrier belonging to Albert E. Jackson was made the target for a shot, and was dangerously wounded in one hind leg. On going to the spot to inquire into and remonstrate against the shooting, Mr. Jackson found two young men, one of them being the son of Mr. McLaughlin and the other, as subsequently appeared, Harry Platt, of Flagstaff, Arizona. To his inquiries concerning the shooting they gave no reply save in a flippant manner.

Mr. Jackson promptly placed the matter in the hands of the local Society for the Preevntion of Cruelty to Anmals, which acted. Warrants were issued and served, and the suspected persons were taken before William Woodruff, th Justice of the Peace. As a result of the hearing Platt was fined ten dollars and costs. The defendant was understood to express the belief that he had a right to do all the shooting he pleased, at any time and at any thing, on his own premises.

His Hand Bath.

Arguing forcibly, if not convincingly, against the custom of taking a bath, still happily prevalent in certain quarters, an English writer relates the savory story of a Kentish farm worker whose horny hand he grasped. "Good Kent dirt," said the man, catching a critical glance. "Haven't had time to wash your hands before tea?" was the question. "Wash my 'ands!" exclaimed the man, then explanatorily: "I never washes my 'ands. When they gets 'ard I iles 'em."

Dickens' List of Names.

It is not really surprising that the names of Dickens' characters, odd as they are, should be found in real life, for it was from life that many of them were taken. Some, as we know, were copied from the names over shop doors, etc. But this was not the novelist's only source of selection. Among his papers John Forster found carefully drawn up lists of names, with the sources from which he obtained them, and the longest lists were those drawn from the "Privy Council Education Lists." Some of the names thus noted are too extravagant for anything but reality—Jolly Stick, Bill Marigold, George Muzzle, William Why, Robert Gospel, Robin Scrubbam, Sarah Goldsacks, Catherine Two, Sophia Doomsday, Rosetta Dust, Sally Gimblet.—London Chronicle.

IN WOMAN'S REALM

The Kitchen Cupboard

DELICIOUS VEGETABLE DISHES.

SPRING vegetables served in dainty forms may be made attractive features of the bill of fare. Here are some nice recipes:

Combined With Gelatin.

Celeriac Jelly.—Simmer in a pint and a half of chicken or veal stock a cupful of celery root which has been cut into small pieces. Add several slices of carrot, a slice of onion and a sprig of parsley. Season to taste and strain. To a pint of the broth take a quarter of a box of gelatin and soften in a wineglassful of water. Add this to the broth and again strain. Pour into a mold, preferably one that will form a hollow in the middle of the jelly. Fill the hollow with minced chicken and English walnuts. This may be served with mayonnaise dressing.

Delicious Potatoes.

New Potatoes With Sauce.—Select new potatoes as nearly of one size as you can. Scrape and take out the eyes. Drop a teaspoonful of salt into boiling water in a saucepan on the fire. When they are done, drain, dry and sprinkle a little salt over them. Then set the potatoes aside until the sauce is made.

For the sauce, bring a pint of milk to the boil. Rub together a tablespoonful of flour and one of butter, drop these into the milk and stir till it is thick and creamy. Season and pour over the potatoes.

Served With Sauce.

Asparagus Tips In Cases.—Take stale breakfast rolls and scoop out the inside, leaving only the crusts. Coat the outside and inside of the rolls with butter and set them in the oven to brown. Make a white sauce as follows: Take a tablespoonful of butter, one of flour and a cup and a half of milk. Salt and pepper to taste. Place the boiled asparagus tips in the cases and pour the white sauce over them. Put the rolls again in the oven just long enough to heat.

With Chopped Vegetables.

Mushroom Timbales.—Take six ounces of mushrooms, two ounces of tomatoes, three ounces of breadcrumbs, one heaping tablespoonful of butter, one egg, the juice of half a lemon and a little stock, mushroom liquor or milk. Beat the butter to a cream, add the yolk of the egg and beat a little longer. Chop up the mushrooms and tomato and add them, also the breadcrumbs and enough stock or milk to moisten the whole. Season to taste. Whip up the white of egg till stiff, then mix in very lightly. Fill the cases with this mixture.

Cookery Points

Luncheon Asparagus

Prepare two large slices of toast by slicing lengthwise of the loaf. The slices should be uniform in size and thickness. Toast a nice even brown on both sides. Lay one slice on the heated dish and moisten slightly with a little of the water the asparagus is boiled in. On the toast arrange a layer of nicely boiled asparagus with the tough ends cut off. Cover with a cream sauce to which you have added a little lemon juice and two beaten egg yolks. Place the second slice on the asparagus and add another layer of asparagus and the sauce. Decorate the border with parsley and potato chips or, when served as a luncheon dish, serve thin, crisp brown bacon slices with it. Fresh green peas boiled in salted water and drained, seasoned and a little butter added make a suitable combination and a nice border. Boiled rice or spaghetti increases the value of the dish when either takes the place of meat.

Bread of Rolled Oats.

Two cupfuls boiling water, one-half cupful molasses, one-half tablespoonful salt, one tablespoonful butter, one half yeast cake dissolved in one half cupful lukewarm water, one cup rolled oats, four and one-half cups flour. Add boiling water to oats and let stand one hour; add molasses, salt, butter, dissolved yeast cake and flour. Let rise, beat thoroughly, turn into buttered bread pans, let rise again and bake. By using one-half cupful less flour the dough is better suited for biscuits, but, being soft, is difficult to handle. To make shaping of biscuits easy take up mixture by spoonfuls, drop into plate of flour and have palms of hands well covered with flour before attempting to shape.

Fig Cake.

For the dark part of the cake take a half cupful of butter, one cupful of sugar, a half cupful of water, one and one-half cupfuls of raisins cut fine, two eggs, one teaspoonful of baking powder sifted into the flour, nutmeg, cinnamon and cloves, a half teaspoonful each. Bake in two layers. Take one pound of figs and save eight for the top of the cake. For the filling use the remainder of the figs washed and chopped fine, one tablespoonful of sugar and a little water. Cook until smooth. Make any delicate white cake, alternate the light and dark layers, using the fig paste between each layer. Frost the cake all over with icing, plain white preferred.

Sand Cake.

For sand cake or snow cake have ready the following ingredients: Powdered sugar, the weight of eight eggs; corn flour, the weight of six eggs; butter, the weight of four eggs; eight eggs and the juice of half a lemon. Separate the yolks of the eggs from the white and cream the egg yolks with the sugar in a basin. When quite creamy add the lemon juice, the butter and the milk, stirring all the time. Next work in gently and lightly the stiffly whisked whites of eggs and the corn flour. Have ready a well buttered and floured cake mold, and bake in a moderately heated oven for about one hour.

New Green Peas.

Wash the pods thoroughly in cold water. Shell out the peas and put the pods into a stewpan and cover with water. Boil thoroughly, then strain the water over the peas and put them on to boil. Boil them tender. Season with a teaspoonful of butter, salt and pepper and serve. In this way the pens have a much richer flavor and nothing is wasted. The water will make a delicious cream soup for the following day or may be used for making sauce for asparagus or other vegetables.

Endive and Potato Salad.

Cut some boiled potatoes in dice while warm and dress them with a little oil and flavored vinegar, a few drops of anchovy essence and a dust of cayenne, with a very little salt. Put them in a cold place for a few hours. Place a head of endive in a plate or bowl—let it be compact in shape—then put a row of chopped beet root between it and the potatoes. Sprinkle over the latter a small onion finely chopped and some parsley and thyme.

Beets and Cabbage.

Boil young beets tender and when done skin, slice and chop fine. Shred enough white or red cabbage to make quantity equal to that of beets when cabbage is also chopped fine. Stew it tender in just enough water to cover, adding a little butter, salt and pepper. Drain thoroughly and when mixed with the beets add a little boiled, hot salad dressing or pour over the vegetables a little soft butter mixed with lemon juice, salt and pepper. Serve hot.

Baked New Beets.

Many prefer them baked instead of boiled, as the flavor is best preserved in this way. Select beets of uniform size, wash carefully, and bake until tender, allowing more time than for boiling usually. When done, peel, slice and serve them hot, seasoned with salt and pepper and a little butter.

MRS. VAN VALKENBURGH.

Easily Wins Friendly Suit Against Husband to Protect Dower Rights.

MRS. VAN VALKENBURGH WINS

"Friendly" Husband Tells About Property Without Court Order.

New York, June 4.—Mrs. Nevada Van Valkenburgh, whose bank account is as large as her name is long, was happy when she "put one over" on her husband, Philip Van Valkenburgh, in the supreme court.

Recently Mrs. Van Valkenburgh withdrew her suit for a separation from Van Valkenburgh, but soon after began what she termed a "friendly" suit to protect her dower. She wanted certain information about Van Valkenburgh's property, and so she sued out an order for his examination before trial.

Van Valkenburgh was to appear in court, but instead his lawyer, W. M. K. Olcott, produced the desired information in the shape of four deeds to property, and it was not necessary to examine the "friendly" husband.

LOOK FOR BREAK IN STRIKE OF WAITERS

Hotel Men Confident Tide Is In Their Favor.

New York, June 4.—The hotel strike attained its greatest proportions and at the same moment signs appeared which indicate a collapse before the week is ended.

An invasion of the downtown district dragged out the waiters, busses and kitchen help of Mouquin's restaurant, many men at Haan's and the St. Denis. It failed to disturb the old Astor House. Kalil's and Whyte's and uptown the Marseilles, the New Grand, the Grand Union, for the second time, and the York suffered, all putting more men on the street than there has been at any time so far.

At the same time lack of money in the union treasury, opposition to the action of the union officers, discouragement over the inopportune season for a strike, inspired a breach in the union itself, sent striking waiters and kitchen men back to some of the hotels, looking for their old jobs with the prophecy that about Wednesday will see a big rush for jobs all over the city.

The Hotel Men's association, which has continued steadily to deal with the six beneficial societies of waiters to which the great majority of the strikers belong, was confident that the tide had turned.

The annual meeting of tht Plainfield Clericus, composed of Episcopal clergyman who occupy the pulpits In the towns between Somcrrllle and Elizabeth, was held yesterday at the home of Rev. CONSTARiE RIUIE FOR AYERS

Overseer of the Poor H. L. DeForest reported expenses of $519.50 for the past month. Horace Adams, clerk of the District court, reported receipts of $183.26 for the past month and a balance of $136 turned ever to the city treasurer. Street Commissioner A. J. Gavett reported the granting of 42 sewer permits and HuildinK Inspector Doane reported having granted 30 permits dnrinc May.

The petition for an extension of tbe sanitary sewer in East Seventh street from its present terminus, 2ou fe«f «-a!>t. was referred. W. L. Hcttlrld, Jr.. and others requeued the Council to take steps to widen East Second street. between Watchung avenue and Church street. This was referred.

Corporation Counsel W. M. Stillman having advised the Council that it could appoint A. D. Avers a con- Btable from the Fourth ward, understanding that a vacancy existed there. Mr. Ayers was appointed to that office to serve until January 1, 1913. Mr. Reville wanted to know where tbe vacancy existed, understanding that Peter V. Weaver and George R. Rockefeller are still serving in that capacity. It was explained that the Fourth ward is entitled to three constables. Councilmen Endress. Revil!*> and Taylor voted against the apliointment cf Mr. Avers, and Coun- el'mea Tolles. Gloak. Dunn. Mygatt, i Clay. Wilson and C. C. Randolph supported tbe appointment.

Councilman Reville called the attention of the Council to tb> fart that !n several Instances bnildings have been erected in this city too close to. the Ftrtet line, citing tbe plant of the* Spirer Manufacturing Company u one. He expressed surprise that: "such men aa Sir. Spicer and Mr. Babcock, who profess to hare the city's interest so much at heart" would do such thinsa. In this case, Mr. Re-Tille said that the building stood on the flag line. He thought tkat by referring to tbe matter It might tend to •waken s civic pride in other Intending builders.

LANDING AT RAKAHANGA.

A RMy Fas* ami Ona That Sevaly Triaa tit* Ntntt.

Rakahanga b a little coral atoll fa i tbe south sea. not very far from New Zealand. Few people erer rWt It. [and to Judge from the account in Mr. Frank Burnett's -Through Tropic Bens'* of tbe difficulties that attend a landing there cone would care to go a second time.

At Rakahanga tbe feeling Is that j only by a miracle can a safe passage i be made through what, by a stretch of tbe Imagination, la called tbe en- r.anee to tbe lagoon. Imagine a one» | good entrance obstructed by a wall of . coral rising to within a few feet of tbe ! surface of the water. This coral wall is built by that wonderful creator*, tbe coral polyp. Over It break with ! inconceivable fury huge ocean billows j that travel with the speed of race home*, lashing and churning the water Into a milk white foam and wltb a denfenlng roar throwing tbe spray to such a height that it may be seen miles away.

Tbe backwash of every breaker forms, on tbe outside of tbe wall of rock, n chasm fathoms deep, which is again filled up by tbe next rushing wave. To cross the abyss nnd reach tbe quiet shelter of tbe lagoon Is a difficulty that the Islander shows tbe greatest skill In surmounting.

j His boat—a long, low, dat bottomed ! affair, built much like a halibut dory. mnnned usually by six poddlers besides the steersman—Is brought to the very verge of the boiling rnldron. and there It Is beld till tbe opportune moment arrive*. Since that sometimes *?*s not occur for five or ten minutes j i the passenger has plenty of time to i reflect upon his misdeeds, to survey the sublime scene and to wonder bow j in the world that fearful turmoil of I water Is to be crossed.

Tbe delay does not'tend to compose bis nerves, b>;t If he is observant he will notice 'hat about every five or six minutes three giant billows In quick succession roll majestically in. When the la«t of tbe three has passed nnd the chasm has been filled up the ; paddlers give a frightful yell that terrifies the unsuspecting; passenger al- ! most to death, dig in their paddles and ! shoot the boat forward like an arrow ! from a bow.

I Before tbe bfcrkwasn can re-empty tbe chasm the boat is across. The I passenger has hardly time to grasp I bow It Is done before the paddlers bare sprung to the reef and pulled tbe boat clear of the next roller, usually a small one.

In entering the lagoon tbe chief risk Is that of an upsrt after crossing the chasm and a ducking In two or three feet of water, but on going out. If the boat does not reach the smooth water before the next succeeding swell breaks, woe betide It and its crew, for nothing will prevent its being swamped and carried, with all hnnds. back Into the awful abyss by the inrush of < broken water, out of which only tbe j strongest and most skilful swimmers < can emerge.

The Truth About Icebergs.

Many existing theories regarding Icebergs require modification. For in- > stance. It has generally been believed that for every cubic foot of Ice above I water there are seven IN?1OW. and a ; j I>erg, therefore, that tower*, say. 100 feet above t'he ocean level has a total j j height of SilO fe»t. Lieutenant Peary. 11 the conqueror of the norfU |>ole. de- : jclares that this Is not alwav* the case, j • "It is true." he saya. "th«t tbe heaviest portion of the berg Is submerged, but it Is wrong to say that seven«*'gbths of j i Its beicht Is under water. I flave noted j j several Instnnces where onlj- two-thirtU j j of a berg is submersed."—!V. Nicholas, j

SPORTS OF ALL SORTS

JUST TAPS BY "BUNTS"

The Plainfield High School failed to garner any points in the interscholastic meet at Rutgers College, Saturday.

The local High School track team was represented by Schenck, Day and Mann.

The Y. M. C. A. is planning to take up track and field athletics on an extensive scale and will enter a team in a number of coming meets.

Jack Fritts, the former Pastime A. C. athlete, will captain the team and should prove a consistent point-winner.

Others who will uphold the association on the track are Day, Gleason, Peacock, Holdt, Post and Bryniarski.

Carty is leading the P. H. S. swatsmiths this year by a good margin and also sports the largest collection of pilfered sacks.

The local High School has found it necessary to pitch "Iron Man" Dawn Denny in nearly all of her contests to date and he inevitably makes an impression on the opposing hitsmiths.

Lou Dixon, the former West End A. C. backstop, is holding Warry McLaughlin to perfection at the receiving end of the Dunellen aggregation.

The fast Dunellen team has a decided Queen City flavor with the old familiar faces of Britt Martin, Adam Schott, Billy Coyle, Warry McLaughlin, Lou Dixon and Barnes in its fold.

Horine, the Stanford University high jumper, arrived in New York, Saturday morning, unattended on his long trip from the coast.

He made his first appearance at Celtic Park Sunday afternoon but had to be contented with a triple tie for first honors.

His peculiar aerial twist enables him to clear the bar at a greater heighth than any athlete has hitherto accomplished.

Duncan and Viviat's record-breaking performances at Celtic Park Sunday, assures them of a berth on the Olympic team.

The victory of the Park Avenue Baptist lads over the South Plainfield Sunday-school places them in the limelight as the most formidable contender for the league championship.

One of the classiest fielders now playing ball in this section is a member of the Public Service baseball team.

This is Norman Fulton, the former Drexel University star, who is holding down the initial sack for the company nine.

Wherever his team has played this sunny-topped infielder has been a favorite with the crowd.

The Spicer league team, which started the season with a rush, has slowed up and is apparently losing ground.

There is a rumor circulating of a proposed baseball game between the feminine ball chasers of Plainfield and North Plainfihld High Schools.

Why not run this event off in the immediate future

The local school girls have been "rehearsing" almost daily and are in fine trim for such a match.

Come on, boroughites, here's your chance to come back.

Although playing with a crippled team the Hope chapel players managed to pull off a victory with the Temple Baptist nine.

Captain Grisley, Buckle and J. Heron were out of the lineup.

They were all helping P. H. S. administer to the boroughites.

By their victory over the Spicer men the Public Service aggregation obtained undisputed possession of third place.

By a similar method, with the Bankers as the victims, the R. G. E. installed itself in second place.

Pennington's annual game with Peddie Institute resulted in a 15 to 1 victory for the former. Russell Conroy, formerly captain of the North Plainfield High School team, occupied third base for the victors.

"Russ" clouted out two long hits, a triple and a double.

Conroy was also the large point scorer on the Pennington basketball team this fall, with a total of 225 counts.

A rumor is being circulated to the effect that "Bad" Bill Dahlen will be deposed as manager of the Brooklyn Superbas.

Willie Keeler has been mentioned as his successor.

Not fully satisfied with the mark he established in the Howard Stadium last year, John Paul Jones, the sensational Cornell winner, clipped a full second off his record for the half-mile.

He led the field a victor, in the Intercollegiate, in the excellent time of 1 minute 53 4-5 seconds.

Frank Bruggy, the former Bound Brook backstop, caught for the Providence team on Sunday.

He secured a triple and scored a run.

The strong Trenton High School team, which administered such an unmerciful beating to the local school boys, captured the scholastic championship of the State schools last Saturday in the final game.

The Walsh brothers, as usual, were the heroes of the game. They made two spectacular catches in the eighth inning and were the leading sluggers.

The Wm. Wrigley Jr. Trophy for the power boat championship of the world represents over $22,000. It is a perpetual trophy to be won each year by the club whose moter speed boat entry makes the best three out of five races in competition open to the world, free for all boats under 40 feet in length.

It is a reproduction in silver of a "Flying Mercury" presenting to Neptune a hydroplane motor speed boat. Neptune with his trident, dolphins and water surrounding are in bronze. The round pedestal is of green marble. The figure of Mercury and the model speed boat contain 1,000 ounces of sterling silver. The trophy stands 5 feet 5 inches high. The base is 47 inches in diameter.

Mr. Wrigley will provide annually a replica of this big $5,000 trophy, which becomes the personal property of the winner of each year's races. To provide this trophy annually will require an endowment of about $17,500, thus giving Mr. Wrigley's trophy a value of about $22,000. In addition to these prizes are a $1,500 cash prize for the winner and a $500 cash prize for the second boat.

The first races will be held at Chicago during the Water Carnival and Naval Review, Aug. 10 to 17 inclusive, 1912. It is expected that there will be boats from all over the world.

Water Carnival week at Chicago will include the other races in the Fourth Annual Regatta of the Western Power Boat Association, the International Yacht Race between the Royal Canadian Yacht Club of Toronto and the Chicago Yacht Club, the Lipton Cup Races of Columbia Yacht Club, fireworks displays, naval parades, swimming and diving contests and exhibitions by sailors, marines and naval reserves.

In all the competitions there will be handsome trophies or liberal cash prizes. William Hale Thompson, Commodore, Associated Yacht and Power Boat Clubs, Chicago, will be glad to supply information.

SHOT-PUT RECORD BROKEN BY BEATTY

Former Plainfield School Boy Smashes Intercollegiate Mark.

Russell Lawrence Beatty, formerly a pupil in Leal's School, was one of the record breakers in the intercollegiate track meet held at Franklin field, Philadelphia, last Saturday. The husky Columbia phenon was the first to smash a record when he heaved the shot through the air for a put of 48 feet 10¾ inches, winning the event easily from Kohler, of Michigan.

Lawrence, as he is best known to Plainfielders, was unearthed as a future champion by George L. Listman, formerly physical director of the local Y. M. C. A., and his shot putting powers has materialized from the coaching he received from Listman. The intercollegate record holder is an all-round athlete and broad jumper of no mean ability. He was a prominent contender in all branches of sport while preparing at Leal's and was awarded the Yale cup for general efficiency in athletics and studies. His work on Saturday places him among those who will make up the American Olympic team.

STILLMAN SCHOOL MEET WILL BE HELD NEXT WEEK

The fourth annual field and track meet of the Stillman Grammar School will be held on Parker field some time during the coming week and every indication points to a success which will eclipse that of the other three meets. On account of the number of school activities at this season of the year no definite date has been decided upon, but a meeting of the athletic association will be held within the next few days when the weight classifications and list of events will be announced.

In former meets of this kind the competitors have been greatly handicapped by having to journey to the Driving Park near South Plainfield and in a majority of cases insufficient transportation facilities have been provided. That objectionable feature is eliminated by Parker field's nearness to town.

BIG FIELD MEET.

A meeting of the Committee on Field and Track Athletics will be held in the Y. M. C. A. this evening to complete the arrangements for the big field meet to be held at Parker field July 4. A program of events will bed rawn up and weight classification decided upon. A competent corps of officials will also be named.

PICK O' THE LEAGUE TO GO AFTER SEMI-PRO NINES

Sporting Editor, Daily Press:

Dear Sir: An all-star team chosen from the Manufacturers' Baseball League, of Plainfield, will cross bats with the fast Scotch Plains team on Sunday, June 23, at Scotch Plains. This no doubt will be one of the most interesting games, and the greatest attraction in this section during the season at the 'Plains, as Managers Thompson said Stires have a wealth of semi-professional talent to pick a nine from, and are watching every player's performance in the regular league games who are eligible to make the team, with the idea of securing a combination that is a sure winner. They are waiting until the last momen to make the final choice, and the fans can rest assured that the selection will be something to talk about, not only including some of the present members of the league, but also several stars who know all branches of the game, who need no introduction to local fans, and who have just entered the league. There will surely be some surpises when these men appear in the suits of local shops, who are now in this league.

It will be well to say right here that this star team will meet Dunellen on the Fourth of July, and there will surely be some fireworks for the fans on hand to see.

Both the managers of Dunellen and Scotch Plains are aware that they are going to face a real bunch of warriors and will place their strongest line-ups in the field.

Yours truly,
C. C. THOMPSON.

P. S.—We have open Sunday and holiday games, Saturday after Aug. 17. C. T.

MERCER PENN'S CAPTAIN.

Philadelphia, June 4.—Eugene LeRoy Mercer, the track and football star of the University of Pennsylvania, was unanimously elected captain of the Red and Blue track team for next year. The selection of Mercer for the place of track captain confers an honor on him which has not been accorded a Red and Blue athlete for many years. Besides being the leader of his alma mater on the track the star held the place of captain of the Quakers' eleven last fall, and was also elected to head the team next year. He is one of the greatest athletes that ever wore the Red and Blue, and has one more year to represent his university on the athletic field, graduating from the Medical School next year.

ELECT TWO CAPTAINS.

Princeton, June 4.—Princeton's track team held a banquet in Philadelphia following the intercollegiates, and elected Rupert Broas Thomas, '13, of Flusing, L. I., to captain next season's Tiger team. Thomas is the new intercollegiate hundred-yard champion, and the only Princetonian placed in Saturday's games. Following the intercollegiates he was invited to compete for the Olympic team. With one race before the end of the season—that with the University Barge Club of Philadelphia on Friday—the Princeton crew has re-elected Rudolph S. Rauch, '12, of New York city, to captain the 'varsity eight.

P. H. S. FRESHMEN WIN FROM JUNIOR NINE

The Plainfield High School Freshmen team won in a ten-inning game yesterday afternoon, defeating the Juniors. This victory practically clinches the inter-class championship. The final score was 8 to 7. The Freshmen team has not lost any games in the class series.

The contest looked like a victory for the Junior boys, as they held a safe lead up to the eighth period. When the Freshmen came to bat in the ninth inning, the score was 7 to 4 in favor of the Juniors, but a two-bagger with three men on base by Linke tied the score and another run in the extra period won the game by a small margin.

Brick and Rosenson both pitched good ball for their teams, the first getting eleven strike-outs and the latter nine. Both allowed four passes.

MWTINE HITS HEYBURN'S HORTICULTURAL SIMILES

^ Washington June 4.—Senalor Martin<\ back frorc Uie licld of battie In New Jersey, bearded the Republican lion In its Senatorial lair (j^e ot*)ef day. While not discussing iBrtirulture. Senator Ileyburn. of Ijaho, drew up his knowledge or tree aTowth to illustrate a point, and said: i "When a tree is crowing, in its early stages, or at almost any stage, we ofttUt see sproarts that so up (rota the roots—suckers wo call them—and If you leare them pn tbe tree »ey dmw the life from the tree. Mr. Wnrtine here interrupts with, the horticultural query: "Suppose that la the ooui-M of Urn* the mala trunk, the original tree, become! <l»-eased, and limb after limb falls off; then what become!) ol tue sucker, rJ-tailed?"

Wtitroupon Senator Heyburn hazarded the Ruess, "1 presume prohabK it would die when the roots die."

"Not so," said the New Jersey Senator, reflecting upon his apple orchard" at Plainfield. The sucker establishes a new root for itself, ami becomes the dominating power over the old stump. I say, with all due respect the distinguished S?niitor, ttuii is about the condition of the Republican party."

Senator Heyburn resented the comparison connecting the Republican party with the rotten old hulk of a tree, and Senator Martine explained-

"I did not draw the simile between the tree and the sucker. It was the distinguished Senator from Idaho who drew the parallel between the tree aad the sucker. It am ony citing to the Senator * condition that occurs every day In tree and plant life, and since he made the simile he should not find fault with Its application."

The Senator from Idaho accepted the apology of the Senator from New Jersey and vent on with bis speech, minus the horticulture, ftxrsevelt to Fight Slated Cbairmafl of Convention.

MOT AND BARNES ATTACKED By T.R.

READS TAFT OUT OF PARTY

Declares That Root la Only Tool of William Barnes, Jr., and Cannot Bo Countenanced For Moment by Pro-Vressives.

Oyster Bay. N. T.. Jnn^ 4.—Declaring that late developments snow that Senator KUhu Root Is only the tool of William Barnes, Jr.. and as such cannot be countenanced for a moment by tbe progressives. Colonel Roosevelt came ont with a long statement in which he now declares that be will bitterly oppose the selection of Senator Ellhu Boot as temporary chairman of the national convention.

The statement came ont after a confereuce at Sagamore Hill which lasted fully six hoars and was attended by Senator I>Lxon, the Roosevelt camcampaign manager; William L. Ward, national commltteeman from New York; George \V. Perkins. Glfford Plnchot, Medill McCormick, Trust on Beale. delegate nt large from California; Frank Kellogg, who was RooKevelt's chief "trust buster," nnd Audrew Raubin, delegate from Minnesota.

After first discussing Root the colonel bitterly assails Barnes and next proceeds virtually to read the New York stale leader ami President Tnft out of the Republican party, saying that be (Roosevelt) rcprefieuts the I>ellefs of t!ic great majority of the Republican pnrty and tbat Mr.-Barnes and Mr. laft represent doctrines so bourbon nnd reactionary that every northern state where primaries have been held have repudiated them.

Says Root Is Reactionary.

Beginning his statement. Mr. Roosevelt says:

"In the past Mr. Root has rendered distinguished services as secretary of stnte nnd secretary of war. But In this contest Mr. Root has ranged himself against the men who stand for progressive principles within tbe Republican pnrty; that is. aenlust the men who stand for making the Republican party in relation to the issues of the present day what it was in tbe days of Abraham Lincoln. He stands ns the representative of the men and tbe policies of reliction. He Is put forward by the bosses nnd the representatives of six-cial privilege.

"What has recently come to my knowledge makes it clear that It Is a qifeUtion of the absolute duty of every progressive Republican to oppose the selection as temporary chairman at Chicago of nny man put forward In tbe Interests of the supporters of Mr. Taft in this contest."

Continuing. Mr. Roosevelt says:

"No progressive delegates can afford to vote for any man proposed by Mr Barnes nnd his allies, for any such vote IK against popular rule and nguiust tbe basic principle, not merely of the Republican party, but of decent American citizenship. This is not a faction tight in the ranks of the Republican party. It Is a fight between tbe plain people, the rank and file of the Republican pnrty, making np the immense majority of that party, on tbe one side and on tbe other tbe bosses, with, back of them, tbe great sinister special interests which are endeavoring to sustain the cause of privilege by perpetuating the combination between crooked politics and crooked business.

Vigorously Attacks Barnes.

"In those cases where Jbe „ Republican voters have had a fair chance to express their convictions," be continues, 'they have repudiated Sir. Taft completely, so that bo has been able to obtain less than one-eighth of the delegates, bis popular vote being only one In three or four, and In some cases only one In nine or ten.

-The great majority of tbe Republican -party have unequivocally repudiated Mr. Taft. If the trisbeajof tbe Republican voters could be given fair expression Mr. Taft would have but a corporal's guard In tbe convention. L'u der these circumstances it Is fitting and appropriate tbat Mr. Barnes should be chosen to lead the Taft force* at Chicago in tbe effort to override the expressed wish of tbe rank aud flle of the party and to give the candidate to whom tbe party bus explicitly and beyond all question repudiated."

Mr. Roosevelt then refers to Mr. Barnes' statement that tbe doctrlm* which be advocated are subversive of our form of government and says:

•The doctrines that I have advocated are, first, tbe right of the people to rule, and, second, their duty so to rule as to bring about not merely political, but also social and Industrial Justice. These doctrines are subversive only of the form of government for which fir. Barnes standsflhat Is, of government by tbe bosses for tbe special interests. Mr. Barnes in his preaching and in his practices embodies bow rule in Its most offensive form. The kind of representative government oe believes In is that which tbe representatives shall represent not tbe people.' bat Mr. Barnes and the other bosses. Mr. Tnft's nomination at Chicago can only be brought a'«>ut by nullifying tbe will of the people. The progiajui cannot possibly succeed If tbe COBventIon Is left to Itself.

|Ir. stoosevelt declares that wherever It has been possible to choose Taft delegates in defiance of tbe popular will It has been done and that even at this moment such an instance la afforded by Ohio.

Refers to Fight In Ohio.

"In Ohio,'" he says, -at the recent primaries the majority against Mr. Taft's nomination was 30,000. High minded and honorable men would, uader such circumstances, refuse to accept delegates who would perfoir-e represent not tbe majority, but tbe repudiation of the majority. Yet nt this moment the Taft managers In Ohio are straining every nerve and using every means to upset the people's verdict nnd gives the deieegntes nt large of Ohio to the man whom the people of Ohio by an overwhelming majority have declared ought not to have them.

"But In spite of all the*e efforts tbe convention if left to Itself will he heavily nimlnst Mr. Tnft. His whole chance of winning depends not u|x>n tbe vote of the national convention, but upon his hopes and plans for securing Improper nctlos by the national comtnlttee. The success of Mr. Barnes at Chlcngo, the possibility of his nominating Mr. Taft depends upon bis ability to thwart tbe deliberate judgment of tbe people The question of popular rule is Involved in this matter. Hut more Is involved. The whole question or keeping faith with the people Is Involved.-

Mr. Roosevelt closes by predicting that Mr. Barnes and his associates will be disappointed in carrying out hi* plans. He says:

"I believe that there nre In the na tlonnl committee enough men who. although they have in good faith supported Mr. Taft, will decline to permit themselves to be made tools of for the accomplishment of his nomination by unworthy methods. No man should be cboson as temporary chairman who is put forward by Mr. Barnes and by those men who represent the principles and practices of Mr. Barnes. Mr. Boot's own personality Isn't the Lsaue. .Ills victory would I>e the victory of Mr. Barnca; his defeat tbe defeat of Mr. Barnes."

—The people who stand on ceremony may not be exactly comfortable, bat at any rate they are better than the people who sit all over yon.

ELECTRIC POWER MORE RELIABLE THAN STEAM.

A manufacturer wants to feel that he can absolutely depend upon his power drive doing what it is expected to do. He makes contracts based on his ability to turn out work in a given time. And power to operate machines is, in most cases, a very important factor.

Where there is a steam plant an accident may cause a serious delay; a fire is a calamity.

Where Central Station Electric Power is used even a disastrous fire does not shut off the power supply for long as new connections can quickly be made.

A case in point is that of the Philadelphia Steel & Wire Company in Camden. On the evening of April 4 the plant suffered a fire loss of $200,000. The steam power drive was put out of business. Public Service Electric Company offered aid. It was accepted that night. Next morning at 10:30—before the ruins were cold—three motors were operating under Central Station Power. This was before the steam plant could even be cleaned, let alone put in condition to run. The following day more service was installed. Now the company takes all its power from Public Service. It finds such power more reliable, more dependable.

Do not wait for trouble. Do not wait for a fire. If you are a steam user let our experts take up your power problem with you. See if they can't give you better service? See if they cannot save you money?

A card or 'phone call will bring our man and will not obligate you.

BARGE CAPTAIN IS HELD FOR MURDER

John Heylin's Body Found In Raritan Bay.

HAD FIGHT WITH PRISONER

Murdered Man Told Others That He Was Afraid to Go Back to His Boat. Last Seen In Office on the Pennsylvania Docks.

New Brunswick, N. J., June 4.—Martin J. Cunningham, captain of the barge Edward McLane, is in the county jail, charged with murder of John Heylin, captain of a tug of the Powelton Barge company, whose body was found in Raritan bay, off South Amboy, on Friday afternoon. Cunningham was arrested in South Norwalk, Conn. He denies all knowledge of the crime.

Heylin's body was found with the hands tied together and weighted down with a heavy piece of metal pipe. He disappeared on May 26, when his boat and Cunningham's were lying alongside each other at the Pennsylvania docks. It is asserted that the night before Heylin disappeared he and Cunningham had had a quarrel and that Heylin appealed to the South Amboy police for protection.

Prosecutor Silzer learned that Cunningham's boat had gone to South Norwalk. Chief of Police McDonald of South Amboy went to South Norwalk and found Cunningham on his boat.

On the night before his disappearance Heylin went to the office on the Pennsylvania docks and said that he had had a fight with Cunningham and two others and was afraid to go back to his boat. He stayed in the office until about 3 a. m., when he started back. That was the last seen of him It is understood that other arrests will be likely to follow.

TRANSJERSEY WATERWAY.

International Navigation Delegates Go Over Proposed Route.

Newark, N. J., June 4.—After a tour over the route of the proposed inland waterway across New Jersey connecting New York and Philadelphia the 325 members and delegates of the International Association of Navigation arrived in Newark. The trip brought to a close the twelfth annual meeting of the congress, which was held in Philadelphia.

The delegates were taken across New Jersey by a special commission appointed by Governor Wilson on authority of the legislature. An appropriation of $10,000 was made by the state for the entertainment of the delegates and their guests. The party left Philadelphia and at Camden boarded a special train. They went to Bordentown, where the proposed canal is to debouch from the Delaware river. At Perth Amboy the delegates boarded the steamboat Majestic for Newark. Captain J. Matsumura of Japan made the principal address at the luncheon in Newark.

AUTOIST CARNEGIE HERO.

Dr. Percival Had Strenuous Time Encircling the Globe.

Hackensack, N. J., June 4.—A movement is on foot among the automobilists of the country, headed by M. J. Hammer of Detroit, Mich., to secure for Dr. Charles K. Percival of Teaneck a Carnegie medal for his plucky trip across the great salt desert of Texas. The doctor started out last year to girdle the world in an automobile, and early in the spring succeeded in covering 45,000 miles.

While in Texas he struck a sandy country and was compelled to walk a distance of twenty-two and a half miles in the boiling sun in a temperature of 120 degrees. He walked the distance in a little over ten hours and then had sufficient stamina to mount a horse and guide a detachment of soldiers to the desert where the stranded automobile lay. The doctor will resume his trip about July 1, to be gone over a year.

NEW MARCONI STATION.

Large Tract of Land Purchased at Port Monmouth.

Red Bank, N. J., June 4.—It was learned today that two men, representing the Marconi Telegraph company, had purchased a large tract of land at Port Monmouth to be used as a testing ground and experiment station for the Marconi Wireless company. The land, which is over a mile long and 1,000 feet wide, contains about 160 acres. Wireless apparatus will be installed at the new testing grounds as soon as Mr. Sinnis, a wireless expert, returns from a trip abroad, where he was summoned to testify in the inquiry of the sinking of the Titanic.

The installing of the testing instruments will be, it is said, under his direction. Port Monmouth is a little fishing village on the shores of Raritan bay. At the present time the nearest Marconi station is at Boston.

Our Annual Sale of Stockings—a sale that invariably attracts thousands of people—men, women and children—begins tomorrow and continues throughout the week—Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

They knew of our great sale last year, and they felt the necessity of lending a hand so that we might equal and surpass, if possible, last year's record of sales. These friendly makers have contributed large lots of first-class hosiery, making concessions on the prices in lieu of the fact that we bought so largely so that we are able to present enormous lots of brand new stockings just at the moment when so many folks are equipping themselves for the summer season, at prices saving you as much as half the actual cost.

There are many lots—more than we need list here—for those wanting hosiery will flock to the store and learn of the values at first hand; but we quote these few as indicative of the rest:

CLERICUS ELECTS OFFICERS. AT MEETING IN WESTFIELD

The annual meeting of tht Plainfield Clericus, composed of Episcopal clergyman who occupy the pulpits In the towns between Somcrrllle and Elizabeth, was held yesterday at the home of Rev. Sidney Cross, the rector of the Westfield church. There was a business session at which the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, Rev. H. H. Gifford, Elizabeth; scretary and treasurer. Rev. E. P. Little, of Elizabeth; executive committee. Rev. C. C. Silvester, Somerville; Rev. John G. Currier, Plainfield, and Rev. E. P. Little, Elizabeth.

After the business session luncneon was served, with Mr. Cross as host, and then the clerp;—?«n listened to an able paper delivered by Rev. St. Clair Hester, rector of the Church of the Messiah, Brooklyn, whose subject was "The Present-Day Opportunities of the Peacemaker." This was followed by a general discussion of the topic. Those present from Plainfield were: Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson, Rev. C. H. Nailery, and Rev. John G. Currier.

CONSTARiE RIUIE FOR AYERS

.•tid I^aramii> roads and one on Mr- Kinlrv place, r^ollllions to that eff^-t offered by Mr. Dunn being adopted.

Overseer of the Poor H. L. DeForest reported expenses of $519.50 for the past month. Horace Adams, clerk of the District court, reported receipts of $183.26 for the past month and a balance of $136 turned ever to the city treasurer. Street Commissioner A. J. Gavett reported the granting of 42 sewer permits and HuildinK Inspector Doane reported having granted 30 permits dnrinc May.

The petition for an extension of tbe sanitary sewer in East Seventh street from its present terminus, 2ou fe«f «-a!>t. was referred. W. L. Hcttlrld, Jr.. and others requeued the Council to take steps to widen East Second street. between Watchung avenue and Church street. This was referred.

Corporation Counsel W. M. Stillman having advised the Council that it could appoint A. D. Avers a con- Btable from the Fourth ward, understanding that a vacancy existed there. Mr. Ayers was appointed to that office to serve until January 1, 1913. Mr. Reville wanted to know where tbe vacancy existed, understanding that Peter V. Weaver and George R. Rockefeller are still serving in that capacity. It was explained that the Fourth ward is entitled to three constables. Councilmen Endress. Revil!*> and Taylor voted against the apliointment cf Mr. Avers, and Coun- el'mea Tolles. Gloak. Dunn. Mygatt, i Clay. Wilson and C. C. Randolph supported tbe appointment.

Councilman Reville called the attention of the Council to tb> fart that !n several Instances bnildings have been erected in this city too close to. the Ftrtet line, citing tbe plant of the* Spirer Manufacturing Company u one. He expressed surprise that: "such men aa Sir. Spicer and Mr. Babcock, who profess to hare the city's interest so much at heart" would do such thinsa. In this case, Mr. Re-Tille said that the building stood on the flag line. He thought tkat by referring to tbe matter It might tend to •waken s civic pride in other Intending builders.

LANDING AT RAKAHANGA.

A RMy Fas* ami Ona That Sevaly Triaa tit* Ntntt.

Rakahanga b a little coral atoll fa i tbe south sea. not very far from New Zealand. Few people erer rWt It. [and to Judge from the account in Mr. Frank Burnett's -Through Tropic Bens'* of tbe difficulties that attend a landing there cone would care to go a second time.

At Rakahanga tbe feeling Is that j only by a miracle can a safe passage i be made through what, by a stretch of tbe Imagination, la called tbe en- r.anee to tbe lagoon. Imagine a one» | good entrance obstructed by a wall of . coral rising to within a few feet of tbe ! surface of the water. This coral wall is built by that wonderful creator*, tbe coral polyp. Over It break with ! inconceivable fury huge ocean billows j that travel with the speed of race home*, lashing and churning the water Into a milk white foam and wltb a denfenlng roar throwing tbe spray to such a height that it may be seen miles away.

Tbe backwash of every breaker forms, on tbe outside of tbe wall of rock, n chasm fathoms deep, which is again filled up by tbe next rushing wave. To cross the abyss nnd reach tbe quiet shelter of tbe lagoon Is a difficulty that the Islander shows tbe greatest skill In surmounting.

j His boat—a long, low, dat bottomed ! affair, built much like a halibut dory. mnnned usually by six poddlers besides the steersman—Is brought to the very verge of the boiling rnldron. and there It Is beld till tbe opportune moment arrive*. Since that sometimes *?*s not occur for five or ten minutes j i the passenger has plenty of time to i reflect upon his misdeeds, to survey the sublime scene and to wonder bow j in the world that fearful turmoil of I water Is to be crossed.

Tbe delay does not'tend to compose bis nerves, b>;t If he is observant he will notice 'hat about every five or six minutes three giant billows In quick succession roll majestically in. When the la«t of tbe three has passed nnd the chasm has been filled up the ; paddlers give a frightful yell that terrifies the unsuspecting; passenger al- ! most to death, dig in their paddles and ! shoot the boat forward like an arrow ! from a bow.

I Before tbe bfcrkwasn can re-empty tbe chasm the boat is across. The I passenger has hardly time to grasp I bow It Is done before the paddlers bare sprung to the reef and pulled tbe boat clear of the next roller, usually a small one.

In entering the lagoon tbe chief risk Is that of an upsrt after crossing the chasm and a ducking In two or three feet of water, but on going out. If the boat does not reach the smooth water before the next succeeding swell breaks, woe betide It and its crew, for nothing will prevent its being swamped and carried, with all hnnds. back Into the awful abyss by the inrush of < broken water, out of which only tbe j strongest and most skilful swimmers < can emerge.

The Truth About Icebergs.

Many existing theories regarding Icebergs require modification. For in- > stance. It has generally been believed that for every cubic foot of Ice above I water there are seven IN?1OW. and a ; j I>erg, therefore, that tower*, say. 100 feet above t'he ocean level has a total j j height of SilO fe»t. Lieutenant Peary. 11 the conqueror of the norfU |>ole. de- : jclares that this Is not alwav* the case, j • "It is true." he saya. "th«t tbe heaviest portion of the berg Is submerged, but it Is wrong to say that seven«*'gbths of j i Its beicht Is under water. I flave noted j j several Instnnces where onlj- two-thirtU j j of a berg is submersed."—!V. Nicholas, j

CATECHISM ON A COMMISSION

Definite Answers to Questions on New Form of Municipal Government.

IT'S ALL IN A NUTSHELL

Every Phase of the Model Plan for Administering a City's Affairs Tersely Told for the Busy Man's Benefit.

Following is an explanation of the commission form of government, definite questions being framed and concise answers made, the referendum, recall and initiative features being reserved for discussion in tomorrow's issue:

What is Commission Government?

It is the placing of the municipal government in a board of five men, elected by the voters at large, instead of in a Mayor and Council of 28 men elected from wards, with the Mayor not a member of the Council.

Who should be most interested in Commission Government?

The tax payers.

Who are the tax payers?

Everybody who eats, sleeps and lives in this city and pays his bills pays the taxes. The owner of the house in which you live pays the taxes to the city; he is directly responsible for same, but he gets his taxes from you—the tenant—in the form of rent.

The man who owns and rents the store in which you buy clothes, food, etc., has his taxes to raise, he must and does make a corresponding increase in the price of goods which he sells to you.

The owners of property are directly responsible for all taxes, but in the final analysis the people who eat food, wear clothes and pay rent are the real and heavy payers in the community—and so the origin of the old saying that "We are sure of death and taxes."

How many Commissioners are there?

Five.

What is the salary of the Commission?

Each of the four Commissioners receives $3,000 per year, and the member selected President or Mayor, $3,500.

For what term are they elected?

Four years.

Are they expected to give their entire time to the city's business?

Yes, and every salaried appointive officer must do the same.

What are the qualifications of a Commissioner?

He shall have been a citizen and resident of Plainfield for at least two years immediately preceding his election. The certificates of nomination must set forth that he is a qualified elector, of good moral character, and qualified for the duties of the office.

How many Commissioners make a quorum?

Three.

How shall the Mayor be selected?

One of the Commissioners, at the first meeting of the Board, shall be elected mayor.

What is the Mayor's duty?

To preside at all meetings and act as the general executive head of the city.

Can he vote?

Yes

Can he veto a measure?

No.

Why has he no veto power?

That there can be no division of responsibility, and that any and every act of the Commissioners must be that of the majority.

Is it wise to have the Commissioners choose the Mayor.

Yes. If the Commissioners choose the Mayor, he is more likely to be in sympathy with his colleagues. Ordinarily the dominating political parties select the best men available for candidates for Mayor. Under the present system one must be defeated at the polls. Under Commission Government both men may be elected and the city will then get the services of both as Commissioners.

Who does the legislating for the city?

The Commissioners. Every resolution and ordinance shall be placed by a yea and nay vote, and must be in writing and signed by three of the Commissioners, ordinances by four.

What are the powers of the Commissioners?

They have all the powers now exercised by the Mayor and the Common Council. They may reappoint or abolish any of the Boards or Commissions in the city, such as Water, Police, Fire, Excise, Park, Assessors, etc. The only exception being the Board of Education, which is not affected by the new act.

If the Commission abolished any of these Boards, how would their duties be performed?

By the proper department heads, reporting direct to the Commissioner in charge of that particular division of the city's business.

How shall the Board distribute

EXEMPT FIREMEN AT THEIR ANNUAL FEAST

Enthusiasm Over Horace Adams' Election as State Secretary.

The Exempt Firemen's Association of North Plainfield, held its eighth annual banquet last night in Feaster's Hotel, Somerset street. There were twenty-seven members present. David Bodine was toastmaster, and the other committeemen were Louis J. Feiring, Augustus Feiring, Lambert B. Bodine, John H. Schenck, Julus J. Stahl, Horace G. Adams and George Hummer. An elaborate menu had been prepared and justice was done to the comestibles.

The election of Horace S. Adams to the position of State Secretary of the Exempt Firemen's Association, was referred to with enthusiasm in the speeches that followed. All of the members had something to say at length or in brief; and many pleasant recollections were revived and stories told of fire fighting experiences. William Dowd enlivened the proceedings with a number of vocal selections to which Dr. J. Hervey Buckanan played the accompaniments.

Among those present were: Willam Ricketts, William Debele, Harvey Coddington, William Dowd, Louis Rosenfield, J. D. Anderson, Frank Kesserling, Stephen Joseph, William Krewson, Winfield Conover, Charles Stahl and William Bamberger.

DUNELLEN GENEROUS TOWARD ITS SCHOOLS

Citizens Vote $1,000 Additional to Board and Endorse $50,000 Bldg. Project.

Citizens of Dunellen at a special meeting called last night by the Board of Education, voted in favor of an additional $1,000 for school purposes for the coming year. The polls were open one hour and the vote was nineteen to one in favor of the appropriation. A. F. Todd was chairman of the meeting and E. A. Johnson the secretary. After the special meeting was adjourned, those present were requested to rmain to consider the advisability of recommending the erection of a new school building in Dunellen.

Mr. Todd presented the matter, explaining that the board was desirous of getting an expression of opinion. He said that it was desired to erect an eight-room building at an approximate cost of $50,000, along architectural lines that would permit the erection, when necessary, of two wings adding eight more rooms, with either a court in the centre or an assembly room.

After the matter was thoroughly discussed, a vote was taken and all present favored the proposition. Wilson Frederick, of the board, then gave a report on the estimate of repairing the Lincoln and Whittier Schools so that they would meet with the requirements of the State Board of Health. The estimated cost for the Lincoln School was $5,000 and that for the Whittier School, $3,900. This matter will be decided upon later.

REAL ESTATE MAN CHARGED WITH FORGING $300 NOTE

Emmanuel Kalepsohn, of the Perpetual Realty Company, was arrested last evening on the complaint of Charles Giebeler, of South avenue, on a charge of alleged forgery of a note for $300 on the Perpetual Realty Company, which he gave to Giebeler for work done.

Kapelsohn was released on a bond of $500 this morning by City Judge William G. DeMeza to appear for a hearing on Friday.

A week ago in the District Court, a judgment for $300 with costs was awarded by Judge Walter L. Hetfield in favor of Giebeler against Kapelsohn, for work done.

Robert Newton Crane, attorney for Mr. Kapelsohn and the Perpetual Realty Company, said that the arrest of Mr. Kapelsohn was an outrage in that the judgment in the District Court has been appealed to the Supreme Court for review, and that the police court was being invoked to force Mr. Kapelsohn to pay the judgment which he has appealed to the Supreme Court and which remains undecided. It has been intimated that Mr. Kapelsohn will sue Giebeler and his attorney for heavy damages for false arrest.

EXHIBITS ARRIVE FOR HORSE SHOW

REST DUE HERE TONIGHT

Hunt Club to Entertain Exhibitors and Their Friends Every Night During Show—First Class Judged at 1 O'clock Tomorrow Afternoon.

Thus far more than one hundred thoroughbred equines have arrived in ths city to take part in the ninth annual exhibition of the Plainfield Riding and Driving Club, to be held tomorrow, Friday and Saturday, and a majority of the other entries will reach here during the day or late tonight so as to be in readiness for the opening tomorrow afternoon.

Among the prominent exhibitors will be Edward McLean, who will come here from the Lancaster, Pa., show with a string of fifteen of the finest horses in the country. J. W. Harriman with his entries from Avondale Farm, will be another strong contender for prizes. The hunting and jumping classes will be one of the big attractions, and will include entries from the widely-known Blenheim Farm at Baltimore. All of the other classes are well filled and when the show opens tomorrow afternoon at 1 o'clock, lovers of fine horses will have a rare treat in store for them.

The Watchung Hunt Club has arranged to entertain the exhibitors and their friends at the clubhouse on Plainfield avenue every night during the show. An excellent entertainment of a vaudeville character will be provided by John Taylor and some professional talent from New York. The clubhouse will be opened after 5:30 o'clock each afternoon. The Plainfield Riding and Driving Club again wishes to remind the people of Plainfield and vicinity that their patronage is desired and it is hoped that a large number of local people will attend the show.

AUXILLIARY TO CLAN WILL BE INSTITUTED TONIGHT

The institution of the Daughters of Scotia will take place tonight in Exempt Fireman's Hall at 208 Park avenue. All women of Scotch descent or wives of members of Clan McKenzie will be welcomed at the meeting, especially if they wish to become charter members.

The Grand Chief Daughter and her staff will be here from Hartford, Conn., to institute the auxiliary. It is hoped that there will be a large delegation to welcome them. Chief Donaldson desires that Clansmen will be present to welcome the Grand Chief Daughter and also to welcome the women into the order.

COLLEGE CLUB GIVES FINE ENTERTAINMENT

The last meeting of the College Club for the season was held yesterday afternoon at the Plainfield High School. As customary, this last meeting took the form of an informal reception to the girls of the graduating classes of Plainfield and North Plainfield High Schools, the Seminary and the Hartridge School. The entertainment for the afternoon was in charge of Miss Ruth Maxson, Mrs. Edgar Williams, Mrs. A. B. Jones and Mrs. Charles Titsworth, and consisted of a Dickens program. Tableaux were given from "Old Curiosity Shop," "Barnaby Rudge," "Nicholas Nickleby," "Dombey and Son" and "David Copperfield." Readings illustrating the scenes were given by Miss Addie Parker Jackson, in a most appreciative manner. Music suited to the period was much enjoyed. Mrs. Moyer and Mrs. Kennelly sang "Oh, Dear, What Can the Matter Be?" and "Billy Boy." Miss Bass sang "Sally In Our Alley" and Mrs. Moyer sang "Twickenham Ferry." Mrs. David E. Titsworth was accompanist for the afternoon and also gave a piano selection of Old English melodies. After the program the club and its guests adjourned to the school library, where refreshments were served and a social hour enjoyed. Mrs. Malcolm S. Watts was chairman of the refreshment committee.

MR. TOWNER TO ENTERTAIN.

R. H. Towner, of Park avenue and East Seventh street, whose horse won the Reynard cup at the recent steeplechase meeting of the Watchung Hunt Club, will give a dinner at the Watchung Hunt Clubhouse, Monday night to about thirty guests, including the board of stewards, as well as the owners of horses and jockeys taking part in the race for the Reynard cup. Following the dinner, an entertainment will be provided for the guests.

NOBODY IS CAST OUT BY DEMOCRATIC CLUB

Expulsion of Clark Men Does Not Materialize—Members for Moy's Renomination.

Councilman Patrick J. Reville and Frank J. Shattle were not "read out" of the Democratic Club at its meeting, last night. There was no reference to the rumored plan to put the two Clark men out. Mr. Reville was present, but Mr. Shattle was out of town on business. Mr. Shattle resigned as chairman of the organization committee, because of a pressure of other duties, and James T. McCann was elected in his place. There was some little discussion outside of the meeting as to what prompted the report concerning Mr. Reville and Mr. Shattle. No one was able to explain its inception.

Hartwell Stafford, the new editor of The Constitutionalist, was present and told of the progress of the newspaper, and outlined its policy. He stated that it was now in a position to give its members full information concerning the work of the Democratic party and would actively engage in the local and State campaign in the interest of the party's nominees. As a result a number of new subscriptions were received.

In addition to paying bills, the rest of the time was taken up in discussing both local and State situations. Regarding the mayoralty situation, it appeared to be the sentiment that the club should endorse Mayor Moy for a renomination. His administration was favorably commented upon and if Mr. Moy decides to stand for a renomination he will doubtless receive the support of the members of the club.

ANGLING FOR PLACES ON THE SMALL BOARD

Aspirants Include, 'Tis Said, Wilbur and Doane—Seven Will Get $1.500 Salaries.

Elizabeth, June 5.—Although the Union County Board of Freeholders will be reduced from twenty to seven members this year, many candidates for the smaller number of positions are already appearing. The salary of $1,500 a year makes the job more desirable than heretofore, when the members of the board were paid according to the number of meetings they attended and the number of inspections they made.

In connection with the election of the new board there are indications that the Roosevelt Progressive Republican League will take a hand in the nominations next September. This will probably be the first step on the part of the league to wrest control of the county from the present organization, which supported Taft at the primary election last week.

Among those mentioned as Roosevelt candidates for freeholder are Peter M. Kling, Herman Kaufman and William Richart. Mr. Kling is now president of the Board of Excise. The Democrats mentioned as candidates for the small board are Dennis F. Hennessy, J. Logan Fay, who was candidate for sheriff last fall; William Bourdon and Thomas J. Pierson, all of whom are now freeholders.

Among the Republican members of the present board who are expected to seek renomination are Henry Krouse, of Linden; John N. Cady, of Summit, director of the board; J. Hervey Doane and S. P. T. Wilbur, of Plainfield, and William H. Randolph, of Rahway.

The announced retirement of Mr. Kling from the Excise Board has brought out several candidates. Among these are Robert Hutchinson, of 429 Livingston street, Republican, and William J. Dunn, former tax assessor in the Second ward, a Democrat.

Others mentioned are former Councilman Martin P. Kenely and Joseph Levins. All the present excise commissioners excepting Mr. Kling are understood to be candidates for reelection. They are Thomas Y. Bye, Republican; Henry Fromm, Republican; M. P. Devine, Democrat, and Owen McLaughlin, Democrat.

MARTIN GAGHEN.

Martin Gaghen, 68 years old, died early this morning at his residence, 545 West Fifth street. He had been ailing for some time from heart disease. Solemn requiem mass will be celebrated in St. Mary's church on Friday morning at 9 a. m., and interment will take place immediately after in St. Mary's cemetery.

N. P. H. S. EXAMINATIONS.

The final examinations in the different classes of the North Plainfield High School commence tomorrow and will conclude next Wednesday. The commencement exercises will be held on next Friday.

THE SEMINARY COMMENCEMENT

Five Girls in Graduating Class That Made a Brilliant Scholastic Record.

ADDRESS BY DR. EATON

Announcement of An Additional Annual Prize—Armfuls of Flowers for the Graduates — Alumnae Luncheon to Be Held Tomorrow.

Fair weather smiled again upon the Seminary yesterday morning. Even the usual commencement high temperature was lacking. The graduating class numbered five: Eleanor Hatch and Helen C. Strong, who will enter Smith College in the autumn; Dorothy Beeken, of Fanwood, who goes to Vassar; Martine Wright Weeks and Dorothy Dudley Leal.

The program follows: (a) The Miller's Flowers, Schubert; (b) Madrigal, Chaminade; Marie Boies, Constance Harris, Florence Huntsman, Dorothy Langford, Emeline Manning; address to graduating class, "The Best Equipment for Life," Dr. Charles A. Eaton; Before the Dawn, Chadwick; Marie Boies, Constance Harris, Florence Huntsman, Dorothy Langford, Emeline Manning; presentation of diplomas, Miss Arnold; awarding of prizes, Mrs. Leighton Calkins; Slavonic Dance, Dvorak; Miss May, Miss Nicholl, Mrs. Edward Sharretts, Mrs. F. J. Hubbard.

The songs by the chorus of five girls were charmingly given to the delight of the audience.

Dr. Eaton's talk was by turns witty and serious. His hearers laughed one minute and the next found themselves confronted with a new idea or a familiar one in novel dress, which set them thinking busily till they were quickly recalled by some telling sentence or some straight-from-the-shoulder blow at the foibles of the times. The attention of the audience gave abundant evidence of their interest. It was much regretted by many that a stenographic report of the address had not been made.

The principal presented the diplomas and in a few gracious words bade her pupils to forget all the good advice they had received if only the thoughts had become part of their culture.

The class has made an unusually brilliant record, two of them, Dorothy Beeken and Helen C. Strong, receiving their diplomas cum laude, and two others, Eleanor Hatch and Dorothy Leal, magna cum laude.

A novel feature of the program was the presentation of the prizes recently offered by the Alumnae Association of the Seminary. These were given by the president, Mrs. Leighton Calkins, who explained in an admirable manner the intention of the association in offering the rewards. Dorothy Beeken received the ten dollar gold piece for good work in English during the past year. The award for general excellence went to Dorothy Leal. The prize in the department of physical training was won by Margaret Condict.

Miss Arnold then announced a prize which was also a surprise. An old friend of the school had just offered an award of ten dollars to be given annually hereafter to the pupil who does the best work in the course in United States history.

The quartet ended the program with Dvorak's Slavonic Dance, rendering well its brightness and gayety.

One of the charming memories of the day will be the picture of the graduates as they received from the blossom-laden line of girls, the armfuls of beautiful flowers sent by their many friends.

The next event at the Seminary will be the Alumnae luncheon on June 6.

DR. SCHENCK TO PREACH.

Rev. Dr. Ferdinand S. Schenck, professor of preaching in the New Brunswick Theological Seminary, will occupy the pulpit at Trinity Reformed church Sunday morning and evening in the absence of the pastor, Rev. J. Y. Broek. He is said to be a fine preacher. The Sunday-school will meet in the morning at 9:30, for the rest of the summer.

FIRST M. E. FESTIVAL.

Under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society of the First M. E. church, a strawberry and ice cream festival, together with a sale of cake and candy will be held in Vincent chapel, Friday afternoon and evening. In the evening there will be a fine musical program. The proceeds will be used to pay off the indebtedness on the new kitchen.

PLAN "COUNTRY FAIR."

An old-fashioned country fair will be held in the parish house of Holy Cross church tomorrow night under the auspices of the Young Women's Guild. There will be all sorts of attractions such as one would find at a country fair, including many novelties.

PRESS WORKS HANDS GO OUT; FIGHT FOR 8-HOUR DAY ON

Five Potter Veterans Refuse to Quit--325 Men in Strikers' Ranks--Strike Leader Thinks Struggle Will be Brief.

In accordance with the plan arranged upon at Monday night's meeting of Plainfield Lodge International Association of Machinists, 325 machinists employed in four printing press shops went on strike at ten o'clock this morning. In this number is included the men of Fuchs & Lang Printing Company, of Carlstadt, Bergen county. Five veterans of the Potter Press Works force refused to go out. The apprentices also remain, as advised. As already told, the men want an eight-hour day.

The shops affected in this city are Walter Scott Printing Machine Company, the Potter Press Works; and the Hall Printing Press Company, of Dunellen. The managers of the different companies refused today to give any information as to what action they contemplated taking.

Hugh V. Reilly, business agent of the union, and J. J. Kepler, national vice president, sought a conference with the employers this afternoon. They were unable to get in contact with the management of the Potter and Scott works, but Reilly got into communication with Philip Hall, head of the Hall works in Dunellen. Mr. Hall refused to discuss a basis of settlement.

It was said among the men that they had unofficial assurance that Mrs. Scott, widow of the Scott Works founder, was in favor of granting the demand of the union immediately.

The union went into secret session at 2:30 o'clock. Before the session it was said that the men engaged in erecting presses for the shops at different points out of town would be called in.

At the hour of ten o'clock all the men in three of the works quietly laid down their tools put on their coats and walked out. It was noticed as the men walked through the streets that many of them had roses in their buttonholes, giving them quite a festive appearance.

The Potter men were virtually locked out last night. They were told by the management that if it was their intention to quit at 10 o'clock this morning they needn't bother coming to work. Only the five mentioned in the foregoing reported today. It was said by the union men this afternoon that two of the five quit at lunch time.

As agreed upon the machinists assembled in Eagle Hall in Second street, where they were addressed by J. J. Kepler, who is national vice president and Hugh V. Reilly, the business agent of the association. The origin ofthe movement for an eight hour day was explained at length by Mr. Kepler. It was the intention to make the movement a national one, he said. Already it had shown healthy signs of a forward movement, and he believed that when employers understood it better they would all fall in line. Speaking of the local agitation he felt confident that the strike would be of short duration. All the printing shops had a surplus of work on hand and they must fulfil their orders.

The speakers could not see anything in the demand of the men that could be reasonably refused. Some of the largest firms in the country now have the eight hour day in force. They did not wish that concession immediately and did not wish to take the employers by surprise. A letter had been sent to them in April stating what the machinists wanted and for which they had now come out on strike. They appreciated the small concession that had been allowed by the Walter Scott Printing Machine Company of a quarter hour per day; but regretted that nothing definite was said about when the remaining three-quarters would be taken off.

That the fight would be short was Mr. Reilly's belief. The companies might put up a stiff fight but he felt assured that they knew the value of their men, and the justice of their cause, too well to delay long in granting the concession. Any reasonable offer that was made leading up to the end that they had in view would not be refused by him; but of course if the men wanted a signed agreement it was up to them. In the case of the Potter Company, whose machinists did not work on Saturday, it would be hard to deal, but he believed that some modus operandi could be arrived at between the men and their employer whereby the eight-hour day problem would be solved.

GIRL ORGANIST BRIDE OF WESTFIELD MAN

Walter M. Winter and Miss Florence Yaeger United at Pretty Home Wedding.

Miss Florence Marie Yaeger, of 826 Webster place, and Walter M. Winter, of Westfield, were married at 7:30 o'clock last night at the home of the bride by Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson, rector of Grace church. Fifty relatives and friends from New York, Brooklyn, Westfield and this city were present.

Miss Yaeger was gowned in white crepe meteor, with pearl trimmings, and she carried a bouquet of bride roses and lilies of the valley. She was attended by her sister, Mrs. H. L. Black, as matron of honor, who wore a white embroidered gown and carried a bouquet of pink roses. The best man was Fred Winter, of Westfield, brother of the bridegroom. The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Harry Yaeger.

The wedding march was played by Miss Esther Lightfoot, of Westfield, at the piano, and George Gilmore, violin. After the ceremony a reception was held, during which congratulations were offered and supper was served. The house was attractively decorated for the affair, green and white being the prevailing colors. The bride was the recipient of a large number of gifts.

Mrs. Winter is the organist at the Baptist church, Westfield, a position she has held for some time. Mr. Winter has a clerical position in the Westfield Trust Company. The couple are enjoying a honeymoon and upon their return will reside in this city for the summer.

ANTI-INFIDEL LECTURE BY BIBLE ASSN. SECRETARY

After a complete tour of the United States and Canada, extending over a period of more than three years, and speaking to overflowing houses in the principal cities E. W. Brenneisen general secretary of the International Bible Students Association, has gained a wide reputation as a Bible scholar, lecturer and organizer. He has been heard with great enthusiasm in over 300 cities. His wide experience in religious work and his extensive travels have given him a breadth of mind and fund of knowledge that well qualifies him to touch upon such an important and interesting topic as the one he will deliver here next Sunday on "Theories of Hell."

E. W. Brenneisen,
Gen. Secretary "I. B. S. A."

As general secretary of this great International Association, Mr. Brenneisen keeps in touch with religious life all over the world. His lecture on "Hell" has been so largely used for the reclaiming of infidels and agnostics that it has become known as the "anti-infidel" lecture.

Possessing fluency and force, Secretary Brenneison has become a power in religious circles, and all who can will do well to avail themselves of the chance to hear him next Sunday afternoon on this peculiarly interesting theme, considered by many to be his masterpiece. Through special arrangement the lecture will be free to all. Meetings begins promptly at 3 o'clock.

LEBANON HAS HERO OF 32 BATTLES IN WAR

Glen Gardner, June 5.—It has just been discovered that Lebanon Township has a resident, a veteran of the Civil War, whose battle record, his friends believe, is unsurpassed in the state. Lawrence Cravatt, seventy-five years old, the hero of thirty-two recorded battles, lives a few miles from this place, and often walks the distance to visit old friends. Mr. Cravatt enlisted in Company H, Eighth New Jersey Infantry, September 1, 1861, and after a service of nine months was discharged from the Budd's Ferry Hospital for disability.

After recovering he re-enlisted in Company H, Fifteenth New Jersey Volunteers, under Captain White. He served in this company for three months and was transferred to Company D, United States Artillery, under Captain Plotts. It was under Captain Plotts that he made his famous record, remaining until August 1, 1865.

On the back of Mr. Cravatt's discharge papers, which he cautiously showed a friend Sunday, is written the following: "Private Lawrence Cravatt engaged in battles with Battery D, Second United States Artillery, as follows: First and second Fredericksburg; Sullivan Heights, Gettysburg, July 2, 3 and 4; Culpepper Courthouse, Raccoon Ford, Stevensburg, Brandy Station, Taylor's Farm, Chancellorsville, Todd's Tavern, Coal Harbor, Millford, Starsburg, Hann's Shop, Matadedwin Creek, Ruffin's Farm, Old Church, Yellow Tavern, Beltom's Bridge, Twilliam Station, Smithfield, Middleton, Winchester, Strausburg, Mill Ford, Antietam, Salem Church, Lundy, Glen Altentown."

Besides the above Mr. Cravatt engaged in several battles while he was in the infantry. In spite of his age and rough army experience, he is vigorous and active and works nearly every day.

GOVERNOR GREETS NATION'S DOCTORS

Wilson Welcomes Many Physicians at Atlantic City.

NEW PRESIDENT INSTALLED

Medical Men From Every State In Union Witness Induction Into Office of Dr. Abraham Jacobs—Auspicious Opening of Big Convention.

Atlantic City, N. J., June 5.—Three thousand physicians and surgeons from every state of the Union and every country of the globe assembled in the Apollo theater to witness the induction into office of Dr. Abraham Jacobi, newly elected president of the most powerful organization of physicians on earth. Governor Woodrow Wilson and Mayor Harry Bacharach were on hand to greet the assembled doctors, who cheered the welcome of the state and city executives.

The meeting was the formal opening of the big convention, although business sessions of the house of delegates were held. The Rev. Francis J. McShane, pastor of the St. Nicholas parish here, made the opening prayer. In his address Dr. Jacobi called attention to the work of the American Medical association, which he lauded as the real force for the advancement of medical science in America.

Tells of Bad Milk Epidemic.

Members of the association here for the study and discussion of every phase of medical and surgical science met in the general convention, but separated for the score or more of "section" meetings, which take up every branch of medical and surgical science in detail.

Bad milk sold by Chicago milkmen caused an epidemic of sore throat of a peculiar nature, according to Dr. J. A. Capps of Chicago, who told of a mysterious spread of a peculiar sort of sore throat that spread through thousands of homes before it was traced to impurities in the milk supply. Experts who appeared before the section on surgery gave technical description of numerous operations, W. L. Rodman, a well known Philadelphia surgeon, being among the speakers. Dr. William C. Posey of Philadelphia, member of the executive committee of the ophthalmology section, was one of the speakers before that section.

BLAZE ON BOARDWALK.

Policeman Drags Out Woman Who Rushes Into Smoke Filled Building.

Atlantic City, N. J., June 5.—A lively blaze along the boardwalk in the vicinity of Connecticut avenue spread from the store conducted by Mrs. Charles Claussen to the adjoining stores of M. Sasseen, jewelry and laces, and Klein's delicatessen store. The damage will be about $12,000.

George Blair, a policeman, aroused Mrs. Claussen, but the woman had no sooner reached the boardwalk than she remembered leaving a number of valuables behind and fought her way back through the blinding smoke.

Plunging into the building, Blair found Mrs. Claussen struggling with a trunk and almost overcome by the smoke. He half carried her from the building, and she was prevented from again attempting to enter by the arrival of the firemen.

TO PUSH GRAFT CASES.

Governor Wilson Asks Justice Kalisch to Take Up Scandal.

Atlantic City, N. J., June 5.—Announcement that Supreme Court Justice Kalisch and Attorney General Wilson will start prosecution of the so called graft cases exposed by detectives was made here by Governor Woodrow Wilson. He said:

"Upon my return to Trenton I will request Justice Kalisch to take up the case at his earliest convenience, supplementing the request with one that Attorney General Wilson, who pushed the election cases and secured convictions recently, be appointed special prosecuting officer."

Justice Kalisch was sent here by Governor Wilson last year to sit in the election fraud and municipal fraud cases, and in nearly every trial a conviction was secured.

NO TAFT MAN FROM JERSEY.

Last Hope Gone When Ocean County Returns Came In.

Toms River, N. J., June 5.—Ever since the primary election Taft men have been making a sort of forlorn claim that perhaps one of the Taft delegates from the Third district had beaten out the low man on the Roosevelt ticket and that New Jersey would have one Taft man at Chicago.

Their hopes became slimmer each day as the belated returns came straggling in, and they were wiped out by the receipt of the last district. This was in Ocean county and was received by the county clerk.

In Time of Trial.

"In time of trial," said a minister in a Dorchester church during his weekly sermon, "what brings us the greatest comfort?"

"An acquittal," answered a lad in a rear pew, intending to be heard only by his chum. He miscalculated the strength of his vocal organs, however. —Boston Journal.

This is a frequent occurrence; and the employer, in many instances, is called upon to pay heavy damages.

The only effectual means of escaping the burden by an adverse verdict is to secure the protection of an Ocean Employers' Liability Policy. The Corporation then assumes all of the expense and responsibility incident to the defense and settlement of the case.

THE SEWAGE PROBLEM.

It is quite evident, judging from the somewhat surprising petition presented to the Common Council on Monday night, that many of the larger taxpayers are not at all satisfied with the work of the city fathers in their effort to solve the sewage disposal problem. These representative men declare that there is "a grave divergence of views as to the proper course to be pursued in the solution of this most serious problem," basing their claim, they assert, on the thoughts expressed by Daily Press contributing editors and of those contained in letters of prominent men published exclusively in this paper. The suggestion is made by them that the Common Council appoint "a committee of twelve representative citizens" to "investigate the facts, weigh the merits of the several plans which have been suggested and 'express their feelings in some clear and unequivocal way;'" The settlement of the matter, they add is one "that demands prompt action."

It is quite clear from the tone of the petition that the signers are not satisfied that the Common Council is acting with a reasonable degree of promptness in dealing with the problem. They are, at least, growing impatient. The plea is entitled to consideration, no matter how much some may disagree with the opinion of the signers for among them are A. A. Tilney, Percy H. Stewart, S. D. Lounsbery, W. T. Kaufman, J. P. Stevens, F. W. Wallace, G. W. Endicott, Henry C. Irons, J. W. Sandford, Townsend Rushmore, H. P. Talmadge, O. T. Waring, A. V. Heely, Charles J. Fisk, E. H. Ladd, Jr., DeWitt C. Ivins, J. F. Harman, Arthur M. Harris, Robert H. Cox and Willima Palmer Smith.

It is a question, however, whether the proposed committee of twelve "representative citizens" will be able to accomplish any more in a given time than has the city administration of twelve composed of the mayor and the eleven councilmen.

It having been shown at the public hearing held by the Common Council on Monday night that a majority of the affected property-owners are eager for the widening of Somerset street between Front street and the borough line, there does not appear to be any reason why the improvement should not be made. As former Mayor Smalley stated, there is a peanut stand on one corner and a bootblack stand on the other and the thoroughfare is too narrow for the traffic demands. The sole objection made at the hearing was that the street had been in its present condition for years, but surely that plea is not worthy of serious consideration.

In the next twelve days the residents of Flushing, Long Island, propose to raise $100,000 for their new hospital. The campaign was formally launched last night at a banquet at which George P. Mellick, president of Muhlenberg Hospital, explained how Plainfield contributed $137,000 to its worthy institution within a like period of time. W. E. Bowen, who had charge of the undertaking here, serves in a similar capacity at Flushing. Probably the people of that town may think that $100,000 is a huge amount to raise in less than two weeks but when the campaign is closed they will find that the fund will pass the mark.

The commission form of government for cities is explained in a most interesting way on page one of this issue. Ere long the proposition to adopt that type of government in Plainfield will undoubtedly be put to a vote. Holding to that view, we are striving to enlighten the taxpayers concerning every phase of the subject. Therefore, your attention is directed to the "catechism" published today.

The contributing editor for next Saturday will discuss a subject now being agitated here; one which means much for the future welfare of the municipality. The theme will be handled by one who figured prominently in New Jersey as an editor some years ago and is now the editor of at least two magazines. He is considered an authority on matters of government.

"The secret of the success of the commission plan lies in the fact that the governmental power is taken out of obscurity and placed upon a pinnacle of light where all the citizens can watch it."

JOHN CONRAD SCHMIDT DIES SUDDENLY AT 67

BUSINESS COLLEGE TO TAKE PLACE OF DRAKE'S

Miss Pauline Denton, of this city, and C. H. Bowser, who have been teaching at the Drake Business College for the past year or more, have formed a partnership and taken over the business of the college which they will conduct in the future. The name of the college is to be changed and the new management has offered a prize of $5 to the person suggesting the best name. This contest will close at 9 o'clock tonight. Thus far seventy names have been received.

Thirty-two young men and women have been graduated from the college this year and there is a class of ten to be graduated within a short time. Later on arrangements will be made to exhibit the work of the pupils. Miss Denton is a graduate of the Plainfield High School and since entering the college as a teacher has been successful in her work.

TAFT FAILS TO CAPTURE ONE JERSEY DELEGATE

Toms River, June 5.—Ever since the primary election, Taft men have been making a sort of forlorn claim that perhaps one of the Taft delegates from the Third district had beaten out the low man on the Roosevelt ticket and that New Jersey would have one Taft man at Chicago.

Their hopes became slimmer each day as the belated returns came straggling in and they were wiped out yesterday by the receipt of the last district. This was in Ocean county, and was received by the county clerk yesterday morning. The unofficial figures, taken from the filed returns, now show the Republican primary vote in the Third Congress district to have been:

100 TO 12 SHOT WINS THE DERBY

Epsom, England, June 5.—The one hundred and thirty-third running of the Derby stakes of 6,500 sovereigns, distance about one mile and a half, took place here today and was won by the gray filly Tagalie, owned by Walter Raphael.

The third horse was August Belmont's brown colt, Tracery, by Rock Sand out of Topiary. Twenty horses ran.

King George and Queen Mary attended the race.

NOVEL FEATURE AT ENDEAVORERS' SOCIAL

The Christian Endeavor Society of Trinity Reformed church gave a birthday social and entertainment in the lecture room, last night. Each person attending was required to pay as an admission fee, a penny for each year of their age. A considerable sum was realized. Those not wishing to disclose their age were privileged to give $1 as an admission fee.

The program was a novel one, consisting of a representation of each month. For instance, January was represented by several young men appearing in overcoats, while "Jingle Bells" was being played on the piano. A company of boys, carrying firecrackers and American flags, represented July, while those present joined in singing "America." As each month was called, those having birthdays in that month gave their contributions. During this part of the program Miss Etta Raybert sang "April Girl," when the month of April was called.

Another feature was the singing by a male quartet, comprising Paul Mertz, Ralph Martin, E. D. Young and William Bellerjeau. The program was concluded with shadow pictures, representing various widely-known advertisements.

The rooms were elaborately decorated for the affair with flowers. During an intermission refreshments were served. The committee in charge comprised Miss Harriett Randall, Miss Anna Bach, Miss Lena Bohan, Mrs. F. N. Farnham, Henry Seader, Fred Soper, Jr., and Lester Reninger. As the affair was concluded the young people joined in singing "Blest Be the Tie That Binds."

PROGRAM OF PRINCETON'S COMMENCEMENT EXERCISES

Princeton, June 5.—The official program of exercises for Princeton commencement starts Friday, June 7, when the regatta for class crews will be held on Lake Carnegie. The big athletic event of commencement will be the baseball game with Yale on University field on Saturday, June 8.

There will be a performance of the Triangle Club play in the evening. The baccalaureate sermon will be delivered by President Hibben at 11 o'clock on Sunday in Alexander Hall.

The program for Monday, June 10 will be as follows: Annual meeting of Phi Beta Kappa society, Murray Dodge Hall, 9 a. m.; annual meetings of Whig and Clio halls at 10 a. m.; opening exercises of class day, Alexander Hall, at 11 a. m.; meeting of the board of trustees at 11:15 a. m.; graduating class ivy exercises, cannon exercises, 3:30 p. m.; glee club concert, Alexander Hall, at 8:15 p. m.; sophomore reception at 9:30.

Tuesday, commencement day, 166th annual commencement at Alexander Hall, 10:30 a. m.; academic procession forms at 10:15 a. m., in front of Nassau Hall; polls open for alumni trustee in secretary's office, university library, from 12 to 1 p. m.; baseball, alumni vs. 'varsity, on University field, later in the afternoon.

WINS SUIT FOR PAY, WILL CLING TO JOB

New Brunswick, June 5.—Ferdinand Stahlin, who contends that he is still superintendent of the water department, has more firmly established that contention by winning a judgment in the District Court Monday against the water commissioners for two months' salary, amounting to $333.

Stahlin was dropped when the Republicans secured control of the city Water Board, and Charles H. Morris was elected in his place. Stahlin was elected last January before the Democratic board retired and the Republicans contend his election was illegal. Judge Freeman Woodbridge Monday held to the contrary.

SENATOR NIXON DYING.

Nevada Lawmaker's End Near After Slight Operation.

Washington, June 5.—Senator George S. Nixon of Nevada was believed to be dying at a local hospital from toxic poisoning following an operation last Thursday for the removal of a nasal abscess.

The chaplain of the senate in his opening prayer in the senate prayed fervently for the recovery of the senator from Nevada.

Senator Nixon is a Republican and had just been re-elected to the senate for the six year term beginning next March. He prevailed at a recent state wide primary.

Beginning life as a telegraph operator, Senator Nixon later went into mining when the gold craze struck Goldfield and Tonapah, and he made a fortune.

He is president of a national bank and of a trust company at Reno, his home.

Albert Naylor, musician, 256 East Second street, Plainfield, N. J., says: "Sseveral years ago I suffered from an ache in the small of my back and sharp pains when stooping or lifting. I took Doan's Kidney Pills as I was told that they were good for such troubles and by the time I had finished the contents of two boxes, I was feeling better in every way. I have often recommended this remedy to people I have heard complaining of kidney trouble."

IN WOMAN'S REALM

The KITCHEN CUPBOARD

FISH, FLESH AND FOWL.

THESE recipes will be useful when nourishing foods that may be easily prepared are needed. In warm weather the demand is for food that may be cooked quickly to the elimination of long hours of work over the hot stove.

Fish Timbales.

Codfish Timbales.—Remove the bones from cold cooked codfish and shred it in fine pieces. Mix with stale breadcrumbs, add butter, cayenne and salt, if needed, and a little onion juice and fresh chopped parsley. Put into timbale dishes, sprinkle tops with bits of butter and some dry crumbs and bake a pale brown.

A Time Saver.

Quick Roast.—Beef may be roasted more quickly if it is first put into boiling water and boiled until almost done. Do not use any more water than is absolutely necessary. The water should be salted toward the last. Take the beef from the pot and place it in a pan in which is melted butter or beef drippings. Brown the meat, turning it that all sides may be roasted.

When done place on a hot platter and thicken the gravy in the pan with a little flour and add some of the broth in which the beef was boiled. A saving of half the time taken for roasting may be accomplished in this way.

A Rich Soup.

Bisque of Chicken.—Prepare the chicken as if for stewing. Cut up the fowl and put into a stewpan with a quart of cold water for each pound of meat. Mince an onion and three or four stalks of celery into the stewpan; then place a cover over it and let it cook slowly until the meat can be separated from the bones.

Take off the fire and when cool skim, take out the bones and chop fine. Place the soup back on the fire to boil. Into a small saucepan pour a cupful of milk and a pinch of soda. Place these on the fire and thicken with a tablespoonful of butter rubbed into a tablespoonful of flour. Season with a teaspoonful of minced parsley.

Stir the chopped chicken into the now boiling soup and then add the thickening. Boil for about a minute and it is ready to serve.

Downing the "Beast."

A Democrat recently deemed by a sizable faction of the Colorado Legislature as being of senatorial size has now been declared by the people of Denver to be unfitted to continue as mayor of their city. Speer is his name and he was defeated for reelection last week. Apparently he did not make a good mayor and it is probably fortunate that the Legislature in 1911 was unable to agree upon him to end the senatorial deadlock.

In Speer's defeat is read the story of a people long patient under misgovernment, but finally aroused to rebuke the authors of their unhappiness and put them out of office. This victory of a citizens' ticket spells disaster to both Democratic and Republican machines and seems to presage an era of good government.

Judge Ben Lindsey scores a personal triumph in the citizens' victory at the polls. He was one of the leaders of the regenerative movement and one of the hardest workers in the campaign, fighting what he has long termed "the beast," the combination of politics and business which had so long thwarted his own work for the betterment of that community.

It is interesting to note that much of the credit for Denver's great victory is given to the women voters. They have been consistent supporters of Judge Lindsey in his various conflicts with the interests and this time rallied more strongly than before on the side of good government and community progress. The nation takes satisfaction in the triumph of another community over misgovernment.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Mrs. Anna Pitzer, the dignified, gray-haired sister-in-law of Speaker Champ Clark, has been selected as one of the twelve delegates allowed to Colorado in the National Democratic Convention to be held in Baltimore. Mrs. Pitzer worked hard for woman suffrage in Colorado, where she has resided for many years.

Great Day With Jane Addams.

When Jane Addams visited Kansas City, Kan., recently, on her way to the annual convention of the Kansas Equal Suffrage Association at Wichita, a motor parade escorted her through the business streets to the packing house and factory district in the west bottoms, where she spoke to hundreds of workingmen at the noon hour. The automobiles were decorated with suffrage pennants and banners, and she was cheered by crowds who lined the streets. At the convention Miss Addams was quoted as saying the day in Kansas City was one of the greatest in her life. The parade, the meeting for the workingmen, and all the arrangements were worked out by Mrs. Fansy Hammond-Clark, of Rosedale, daughter of Dr. Doretta Mann-Hammond, a pioneer suffrage worker who campaigned in Kansas in the early days. Mrs. Clark is said to be scarcely five feet in height, but a wonderfully resourceful worker and a dynamo of energy. She is ably abetted by her husband, Dr. C. Charles Clark, who as city attorney of Rosedale, sometime ago destroyed all the slot machines. The doctor has placed his motor car at the disposal of suffrage, day or night, and with his wife has made many campaigning trips over rough country roads. Their small son and daughter took part in the parade, the boy dressed in bright yellow rompers, with "Votes for Women" across his breast.

Jane Addams gave some painful facts in her recent address before the Conservation Congress of the Men and Religion Forward Movement in New York. She said that under the laws of Illinois "the punishment for rape is the same as that inflicted for the theft of fifteen dollars' worth of property, and a man may not be extracted from one state to another for so slight an offence." Her address is given in full in the Survey of May 4. Everyone should read it.

Many of the summer Chautauquas held in Wisconsin will have suffrage speakers on their programs, and plans are on foot to distribute in the state sevral thousand copies of the speech on suffrage lately delivered by Congressman Taylor, of Colorado.

The executive committee of the Michigan Grange, in session last week, strongly endorsed the proposed woman suffrage amendment to the State Constitution. This organization has a membership of 60,000 and wields an enormous influence in state politics.

—Maud—When you broke the engagement, of course you returned the diamond ring he gave you. Ethel—Certainly not. I don't care for Jack any more, but my feelings have not changed toward the ring.—Boston Transcript.

TEMPLE BAPTIST CLASS HOLDS BERRY FESTIVAL

The Philathea Bible Class, of the Temple Baptist church, of which U. B. Crane is the teacher, gave a strawberry and ice cream festival on the lawn at the church, last night. There was a large attendance of people and the affair was a success. Ice cream, cake, strawberries and candy were offered for sale and the entire supply was sold.

During the evening there was a musical program, including vocal solos by John Page, Ramsey Wilson and Paul Jones. The proceeds from the affair will be used for church purposes and the class is much pleased with the success attained.

HOW PLAINFIELD TRUST CO. HAS GROWN IN A DECADE

On June 4, 1902, The Plainfield Trust Company opened for business with a capital of $100,000. On June 4, 1912, having completed the first decade of its existence, it reported a capital and surplus of $369,838 and deposits of $4,021,865. In addition to this deposit line of over four million dollars, the company holds over a million and a half dollars of trust funds. It is paying an annual dividend of 10 per cent. on its capital stock.

These figures indicate a remarkable growth and are evidence of the confidence in which the institution is held by the people of Plainfield—a confidence that is based not only on the character of the service which it has rendered but on the personnel of its officers and directors.

G. F. S. OF GRACE CHURCH HOLDS CLOSING SOCIAL

The Girls' Friendly Society of Grace church held its last meeting for the season in the parish house, last night. It was in the nature of a social and the thirty young women present had an enjoyable time. In addition to a program of games and dancing, there was an informal musicale, including violin solos by Miss Alice Titus, accompanied on the piano by Miss Marion Coombe and vocal selections by Miss Mabel Rogers, accompanied by Miss Coombe. The rest of the evening was given up to dancing and games, with refreshments being served during an intermission.

The society has carried its work on successfully during the past year, each meeting being well attended and full of interest. Miss Rogers is the associate head of the society, while Rev. J. G. Carrier, curate of the church, has general direction of the work. The society will resume its meetings in October.

NEW RAILROAD WILL USE OLD TUNNEL AT MONTCLAIR

There is a strong probability that the old tunnel started under the mountain between Montclair and Verona many years ago, and which was abandoned before its completion, will be used as a route for a new railroad, which will make connection with the Morristown and Erie Railroad and thus afford a direct route from Montclair to Morristown.

Richard W. McEwan, president of the Morristown and Erie, is the moving spirit in the enterprise. He declared yesterday that he intends to obtain options at once on the right of way. The survey for the new road is in progress, and as the Morristown and Erie owns part of the land necessary to a right of way, the proect appears to have tangible shape.

The advantages of the tunnel route are many, and it is believed generally that its completion will revolutionize transportation in the Roseland section of Essex county and Hanover township in Morris county. It will shorten the distance between Morristown and the Hudson River by nearly five miles, with a corresponding reduction in time.

STRAWBERRY FESTIVAL.

The Epworth League of the Monroe Avenue M. E. church will hold its sixth annual strawberry festival in the church tomorrow night at 8 o'clock. There will be no charge for admission, but the tickets to be sold at a nominal price will entitle the purchaser to refreshments. Ritz ice cream will be served. The fish pond will be a feature which will please the children.

TO PLAN SUMMER WORK.

The executive committee of the City Union of The King's Daughters will meet at The Day Nursery on West Front street at 10:30 o'clock tomorrow morning. At that time the camp committee, together with the new trustees will be present to plan for the summer camp work and officers of the union will be elected for the coming year.

KING'S DAUGHTERS.

Th Brightside Circle of The King's Daughters will hold its closing meeting for the season at the home of Mrs. F. W. Jones, 16 Mountain avenue, tomorrow afternoon. A full attendance is desired. After the business there will be a social hour.

—Among the specials at Neuman Bros.' tomorrow will be a large assortment of fresh vegetables.

SPORTS OF ALL SORTS

JUST TAPS BY "BUNTS"

The P. H. S. faculty are practicing regularly and will give a good account of themselves in the annual game with the graduating class.

Several new acquisitions have been made to the faculty during the past year and will greatly strengthen the knowledge grinders.

Professors Bears and Doggett are the most prominent of these.

The rest of the lineup will include Professors Howe, Hubbard, Best, Bostwick, Mcnab, Evans and Broadbent.

Russell Lawrence Beatty, the former Leal's Academy student, stands a good chance of representing Uncle Sam in the coming international meet at Stockholm.

He should prove a sure point winner in the shot-put event.

Beatty not only holds the collegiate and intercollegiate mark in the shot-put, but is an all-round athlete.

He is an adept at hurling the discus and holds the Columbia record for the running broad jump.

The United States League magnates are resorting to heroic measures in order to keep the organization from blowing up.

At a recent meeting a complete new schedule was drawn up.

This revised schedule was the direct result of the cancellation of the Cincinnati-Chicago game carded for the former city last Monday.

Now that active steps have been started to organize the monster athletic meet for July 4 it remains for the athletes to get in line.

This is the first practical step accomplished by the recently organized athletic association at the Y. M. C. A.

Physical Director Ortlin, of the Y. M. C. A., will leave in a short time for the annual physical director's conference at Philadelphia.

A number of local followers of collegiate baseball will make the trip to Princeton next Saturday to witness the Yale-Princeton game.

In the event that Princeton turns the tables on Yale a deciding game will probably be staged on the Polo grounds.

Garden, the consistent Yale performer in the pole vault, who has heretofore been satisfied with second place against Harry Babcock, the Columbia star, came in for first honors in the intercollegiate Saturday.

He was forced to break the world's record in order to bring home the bacon.

Mercer, Pennsylvania's 1913 track captain, is not only a great sprinter but is one of the greatest all-round athletes ever registered at the University.

He is also captain of Penn's 1913 football eleven.

By a run in the tenth, the Freshman class of the Plainfield High School defeated the Junior boys and thus landed the interclass championship of the school.

This is the first time that the 1913 boys have lost a series of any kind for the interclass championship since they entered the school.

They have been the basketball champions for three years and baseball leaders for two successive years.

Tennis is proving a popular diversion on Parker Field these fine spring afternoons.

Nets have been furnished by the Commission and the players need only to supply the rackets and balls.

Alfred Day, who represented the local Y. M. C. A. in their recent five-mile road race, with "Willie" Weber's team, of Elizabeth, again found himself pitted against the plucky little Elizabeth captain in the mile event at the Rutgers interscholastic games last Saturday.

Weber took third place in this event.

Later in the afternoon Weber carried off first honors in the half-mile in the fast time of 2:04 2-5.

Ezra Wenz, a team-mate of Weber's, came home first in the mile in the remarkable time of 5:37.

AUTO PROBE ENDED.

Roselle, June 5.—Chief of Police John Kinney, who, with County Detective John A. Galatian, investigated the automobile accident Monday morning, decided, after interviewing Herbert Jones, who drove the car, that there was no cause for an arrest. Jones drove the car into a ditch to avoid a Baltimore and Ohio Railroad train. He had borrowed the car from Stephen S. Palmer, a friend.

their duties and powers?

The Board, at the first meeting designates one of its members to head each of the five departments, as follows:

Department of Public Affairs,

Department of Revenue and Finance,

Department of Public Safety,

Department of Streets and Public Improvements,

Department of Parks and Public Property.

The member chosen by the Board to act as President, known as Mayor, shall be head Director of Public Affairs, and the Vice President shall be Director of Revenue and Finance.

How often will the Board hold meetings?

They shall hold regular meetings at leasa once a week, at a time to be fixed by them and special meetings upon call of the Mayor or of any two Commissioners.

Can the Board hold any closed meetings?

No. All meetings, regular or special, are open to the public.

Are the Records and Minutes of the Board open to the public?

Yes. Any citizen may have access to the minutes.

Are the financial operations of the city to remain a closed book under the Commission Form?

No. The fullest publicity is required of all matters of the Board.

How shall the public know where the Commission expends our money?

Each month the Commission shall publish in at least one newspaper, or print in a pamphlet, a detailed itemized statement of all receipts and expenses, and a summary of the proceedings of the month, and furnish copies to all applicants.

Will the business of the city continue to go without audit?

No. At end of each year the Board shall cause a full and complete examination of all books and accounts to be made to competent accountants, and shall publish the results as provided for monthly expenditures. (See preceding answer.)

Who audits the books of the city?

A board of competent accountants employed by the Commission.

How can citizens receive copies of these financial statements and reports?

By applying to the city clerk.

How many Commissioners will have to vote for ordinances before adopted?

Four of the five Commissioners, or, in other words, a 4-5 vote.

What vote is required to pass an ordinance under the present city government?

A majority of the members of Common Council can pass it over the veto of the Mayor.

Is it not possible for the Commissioners to jam through the passage of an ordinance or resolution appropriating money or ordering any street or sewer improvement, or authorizing the making of any contract, or granting franchises or the right to occupy or use the streets, highways, bridges or public places without the knowledge of the public? Are there no restrictions?

Under the Commission rule every ordinance or resolution appropriating money, ordering street improvements, making any contract, granting any franchise, or right to occupy public places, must be complete in the form in which it is finally passed and shall remain on file for public inspection for at least two weeks before the final passage, and every ordinance must in addition be published before being finally voted upon; must be approved by four of the five Commissioners; must remain on file 10 days after passage before it becomes effective, during which time a 15 per cent. petition will halt its operation or require its submission to a popular vote.

How are franchises or rights to occupy public places, streets, bridges, etc., granted or extended or renewed?

Only by ordinance and every ordinance must be published before passage, must be on file for public inspection two weeks, and must be approved by four of the five Commissioners.

Must every ordinance be published in the newspapers before passage and approval?

Yes. At least once in a newspaper.

Could any saving be effected in the expense of city printing if this requirement was followed

Yes. Thousands of dollars annually. The Waste of public funds in public printing is notoriously large.

Is there any protection against the Commissioners increasing the net bonded indebtedness of the city?

Yes. An ordinance increasing the net bonded indebtedness of the city, in excess of ten per cent. of th assessed valuation of city property, must be submitted to the citizens at a special election, and must receive a majority of votes actually cast at such election.

Who shall determine the class of work to be performed in each department and the persons who are to do the work in said departments?

The Commissioners will have power to prescribe the duties of each department, and to mave any employe or officer from one department to another, when they deem it necessary to do so for the efficient government of the city.

How will this aid the accomplishment of an efficient and economical government of the city?

In the busy season of the tax department they can move clerks from another department to assist in the work of the tax department, and in the busy season in the water department they can move clerks from the tax department, or any other department, into the water department to aid in the work there, thereby leaving every departmnt with a normal amount of work at all tims, instead of having periods when some departments are overworked and other departments with little to do.

Who appoints the officers or employes of the city?

The Commission.

Who can remove any officer or employe from office?

The Commission, but the Commission must assign a cause and give a public hearing and decide on the sufficiency of the cause for removal before such removal can take place.

Who shall set the salary of all officers or employes of the city?

The Commissioners. And the salary shall be payable monthly, or a shorter period, as the Commissioners shall determine.

Who shall preside at the meetings of the Commissioners?

The mayor

Who shall be vice president?

The director of the department of Revenue and Finance, and in case of a vacancy in the office of Mayor he shall perform the duties of that office.

Can an elected officer or appointed officer or employe in the city have an interest in any contract, directly or indirectly, for work or materials for any person, firm or corporation, or for services to be furnished or performed for any person, firm or corporation, street railway, gas works, eletcric light power plant, heating plant, telegraph line or telephone exchange within the limits of said city?

No.

How can they be punished for this offence?

Such officer or employe so offending can be punished as now provided by the criminal law or ordinance.

Can any employe or officer of the city have free transportation?

No, except firemen and policemen in uniform.

How does the act affect policemen, firemen, war veterans?

This act would not in any way affect the term of office of any policeman, fireman, or any employe of a police or fire department, any war veteran or any employe now protected by any tenure of office act.

Do the public schools come under the control of the Commissioners?

The public schools are exempt.

Can a Commissioner or subordinaee officer, elected or appointed, promise a position for political influence to aid him in his election or appointment?

No.

Who nominates the Commissioners to be voted for at the election?

The voters of the city.

How many voters does it take to nominate a Commissioner?

One-half of one one per cent. of the number voting at the last general election.

Do the voters nominate by petition?

No. Each voter nominating a person must nominate on an individual certificate to be procured from the city clerk.

What is the advantage of this?

It prevents political rings or political bosses from standing in the way of hte nomination of any citizen who would make a desirable Commissioner. Any person may thus be nominated for Commissioner.

How many nomination certificates can one person sign?

Only as many certificates as there are offices to be filled.

What is the advantage of this method of nomination?

It makes the nomination of any voter easy and possible and without expense and without the intervention of a local boss, ring or political machine or any organization seeking to control the primaries

Who is likely to be nominated for Commissioner?

Any man who has the respect and confidence of his neighbors.

How are the voters of the city told of the nominations before the primary election?

Can the public learn the amount and source of an official's election expenses?

Yes. Every elective officer, within ten days after taking office, must file with the city clerk, and publish the same once in a newspaper, his sworn statement of all his election and campaign expenses, and the names of those who cantributed to the fund. Should he fail to do so, he will be subjected to an indictment for crime, and also be subject to removal from office.

Rothberg's Is Commencing to Mean Something

I hear wailings of slack business now and then. I hear people chortle that the country is going to the "daschunds."

But it seems that the stores that sell the best merchandise at the lowest prices need never worry.

I haven't been established very long, but nevertheless the letters "S R" are commencing to stand for something, and the army of well-dressed, purse-caring men who "Get Rothberged" are my best advertisements.

Let me show you what smart wearing apparel really means.

ACCUSES GOMPERS OF SENDING BRIBE

Money Sent by Him to Darrow, Witness Says.

FRANKLIN MAKES CHARGE.

President of American Federation of Labor Makes Vigorous Denial—Says He Doesn't Know Franklin and Never Had Any Dealings With Him.

Los Angeles, Cal., June 5.—Bert Franklin, under cross examination in the trial of Clarence S. Darrow for alleged bribery in connection with the McNamara cases, said that Samuel Gompers, head of the American Federation of Labor, sent the money direct to Darrow to be used in the bribery of George N. Lockwood. Franklin said Mr. Darrow had given him the information.

Franklin testified at the same time that Darrow had told him he need not worry about Job Harriman being implicated in the case. Harriman, Darrow told the witness, could account for the visit to the safe deposit vault the morning he secured the $4,000 by the fact that he took out $500 to pay a mortgage, said Franklin.

The conversation in which Gompers' name was mentioned was incidental to a newspaper account purporting to show that the $4,000 used in the Lockwood case had been marked money.

Gompers Is Accused.

"I asked Mr. Darrow," said Franklin, "if he had seen in the papers that the district attorney had traced the money from the safe deposit vault into the hands of Mr. Darrow and from there into my hands; also that it was marked money. He said the money was sent direct to him by Samuel Gompers."

Franklin also testified that Darrow had asked him for a description of the cells and accommodations in the San Quentin and Folsom prisons.

"I told him the best I could," continued the witness. "I was thinking seriously about that myself."

Vigorously Denied by Gompers.

Washington, June 5.—Samuel Gompers said of Detective Bert Franklin's testimony in the Darrow trial at Los Angeles:

"That is an absolute falsehood made of whole cloth. I do not know Franklin, and I never have had any dealings with him. I did not send any money to him or to anybody. I do not handle any money. There is nothing to this, and it is absurd on the face of it. I have documentary proof which disputes his story. I do not care to give the correspondence out at this time."

SERIOUS RIOTS IN BELGIUM.

Many Persons Killed Following Protests of Laboring Classes.

Brussels, June 5.—Belgium is in a state of eruption on account of the recent elections, and rioting throughout the country has taken on a revolutionary character. Many persons have been killed or wounded in various cities, and a large number of reserves have been called to the colors. The agitation in the industrial centers is rapidly increasing. Every hour brings news of fresh protests by the laboring classes against the governmental victories.

The Socialist central committee announced that it will proclaim a general strike today.

T. R. WINS IN SOUTH DAKOTA PRIMARIES

Wilson-Clark Fight Doubtful. Sterling Leads Gamble.

Sioux Falls, S. D., June 5.—Thomas Sterling's election to the United States senate is claimed by Sterling headquarters at Redfield. The defeat of Senator Gamble is not conceded.

Late returns on national delegates leaves no doubt that Roosevelt has captured the ten delegates from South Dakota over Taft and La Follette. The contest between Clark and Wilson is in doubt, both sides claiming to have captured the ten delegates to the Baltimore convention.

The chances favor the election of the Wilson delegates, although the Clark managers did not concede this. There were two Clark lists of delegates in the field, and this divided the anti-Wilson vote.

TITANIC INQUIRY COST $6,600.

$53 to Ismay For Mileage and Fees Among the Items.

Washington, June 5.—The Titanic investigation by the United States senate cost the country $6,600.

The senate committee on contingent expenses, of which Senator Briggs is chairman, received the schedule of vouchers from the investigating committee.

The digest item of expenditure was $3,300 for stenographic notes and other things incident to the public hearings.

J. Bruce Ismay was allowed $53 for mileage and witness fees. For the fees and mileage of all witnesses $1,100 was expended.

DUCHESS OF CONNAUGHT.

Seized With Appendicitis, She Is Rushed From Palace to Hospital.

DUCHESS OF CONNAUGHT ILL.

Taken to Hospital Suffering From Attack of Appendicitis.

Montreal, June 5.—Much consternation has been caused in Canada by the fact that the Duchess of Connaught was seized with an attack of appendicitis in Quebec and that her condition has caused so much anxiety that it has been considered advisable to remove her to the Royal Victoria hospital in Montreal. The special train bringing her royal highness arrived in Montreal, and the duchess was at once taken to the hospital, where it was stated that there was no immediate cause for alarm.

The royal party went to Quebec on Saturday, where they had numerous social engagements covering a week or ten days. The duchess was indisposed suffering, it was supposed, from indigestion. In the evening her condition had become feverish, and Dr. Carrow, a Montreal specialist, diagnosed the case as one of catarrhal appendicitis and advised the removal of the duchess to the Royal Victoria hospital.

HARMON MEN CLAIM DELEGATES OF OHIO

Wilson's Supporters Say They'll Fight Unit Rule.

Toledo, O., June 5.—A fight to the finish on the unit rule proposition, with Governor Harmon's backers having a slight advantage over the anti-Harmon men, is inevitable at today's session of the Democratic state convention which opened here. The Harmon forces elected the majority of the members of the various committees and defeated Senator Pomerine for permanent chairman of the convention because he persisted in opposing the unit rule.

George S. Long, Governor Harmon's secretary, who acted as temporary chairman and delivered the keynote speech, was made permanent chairman by the committee on permanent organization.

Harmon leaders are jubilant and issued a statement saying in part:

"Harmon's opposing forces having been put completely to rout, Governor Judson Harmon will absolutely dominate the Democratic state convention tomorrow. The way is now clear for the sending to Baltimore of the solid delegation of forty-eight who will cast their vote as a unit for Governor Harmon."

The Wilson men, headed by Mayor Newton Baker, will fight the unit rule on the floor of the convention to the last ditch, and a hot time is anticipated. Congressman Cox of Dayton will likely be nominated governor on the first ballot.

MRS. LONGWORTH SAD.

Roosevelt's Daughter Can't Be In Close Touch With News.

Washington, June 5.—The most disappointed person in Washington, now that Senator Dixon's Roosevelt booming bureaus have been moved to Chicago, is Mrs. Alice Longworth, the colonel's daughter, and the reason is that from now on Mrs. Longworth won't be able to keep in close touch with her father's campaign.

While the Roosevelt bureau was running here it was a standing rule that every scrap of news relating to the colonel or his third term fight should be telephoned instanter to Mrs. Longworth. She received everything and knew as much about the campaign as the most seasoned politician here.

BIG GUNS ARE OFF TO CHICAGO FIGHT

Judge Duell Says "Roosevelt on First Ballot."

T. R. AGAIN FLAYS BARNES

Refers to Report of Legislative Committee to Investigate Mr. Barnes' Home City and County—Says Ohio Action Is Defiance of People.

New York, June 5.—Two sections of the Chicago Limited that left the Grand Central station had on board a batch of politicians, for the most part national committeemen. Just as the gateman was about to slam the gate Bainbridge Colby, one of the lawyers who is going to present the case of the Roosevelt contestants to the national committee, showed up. It was a close finish.

Some of those who went were William L. Ward, national committeeman and Roosevelt adviser; Judge C. H. Duell, chairman of the New York city Roosevelt committee; John W. Hutchinson, Jr., and Mrs. Hutchinson, eastern Taft manager; Lafayette B. Gleason, secretary of the New York state committee, and his wife; Chase Brooker, a Taft man and national committeeman from Connecticut; T. Coleman Du Pont, national committeeman from Delaware and one of the president's supporters, and Senator J. M. Wainwright.

Dixon Off by Himself.

Senator Joseph A. Dixon, Roosevelt's manager, went to Chicago all by himself on the Pennsylvania. He will get there at the same time as those that took the Central. He took a parting shot at William Barnes, Jr., chairman of the Republican state committee, who said that Mr. Roosevelt's candidacy represented nobody but the colonel. Mr. Dixon said that the Roosevelt forces were sure to win at Chicago and that the Ohio delegates at large instructed to vote for Mr. Taft were stolen from the colonel by a "three card monte game."

"It is not humanely or physically possible," continued Mr. Dixon, "for Mr. Taft to get a majority of the delegates to the national convention. His campaign has absolutely collapsed. That will be evidenced on the result of the first roll call in the convention."

Referring to Mr. Barnes' statement he said, "If I were Mr. Barnes I would not get into a controversy with Mr. Roosevelt in view of the legislative investigation which took place last fall."

"Roosevelt on First Ballot."

At the Grand Central Judge Duell said that the Roosevelt men were going to win on the first ballot.

National Committeeman Ward said that it would be a good fight and that he was satisfied with the situation.

Committeeman Du Pont predicted a big scrap.

The departing committeemen were interested in the remarks made by Mr. Barnes to the effect that if he did not receive a proxy from Mr. Ward he would not take any other proxy. Dispatches from Chicago said that Mr Barnes was going on a proxy of a committeeman to Chicago from another state, and he has replied by saying, "I would like to be on the national committee, but I will accept no proxy unless the offer comes from Mr. Ward, the committeeman from this state, my own state."

T. R. Again Attacks Barnes.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., June 5.—Theodore Roosevelt in a new statement expresses his opinion of the action of the Ohio state convention and alludes scathingly to the defense put up by William Barnes, Jr., against the attack made upon him yesterday by the colonel.

Mr. Roosevelt's statement in part is as follows:

The plain people of the Republican party of Ohio have just held a statewide primary, in which they have repudiated Mr. Taft by over 30,000 majority. The politicians by adroit manipulation have succeeded in giving Mr Taft the six delegates at large in frank and cynical defiance of the emphatic action of the people themselves. This is, of course, pure political brigandage.

This action in Ohio is merely a fresh and conclusive proof that Mr Taft and his advisers care nothing for the will of the people and are eager to get the nomination without any reference to the methods by which it is secured. It is a crowning illustration of Mr. Taft's theory of government of the people by a "representative part" of the people.

Mr. Barnes has been chosen to head the Taft forces at this stage of the fight. He has just flown to a defense of the Rochester platform. In his defense he refers to generalities about issues which have no more reference to the issues of the present day than if he should quote from Magna Charta. The platform was designed in defense and advocacy of the twin principles for which Mr. Barnes stands, the right of the bosses to rule the people and the supremacy of privilege over the rights of humanity.

Refers to Albany Graft.

How the principles advocated by Mr. Barnes, who has been selected to lead the Taft fight at this juncture, work in practice is set forth in detail in the report of the special committee of the New York state senate appointed to investigate the city and county of Albany transmitted to the legislature on March 29 last. It speaks for itself, and I commend it to those men, including Mr. Taft himself, who may wish to see just what the judgment of a legislative committee of Mr. Barnes' own state is as to the working of Mr Barnes' theory of government in his own city.

Former Governor Taft Dead.

Providence, R. I., June 5.—Royal Chapin Taft, former governor and for years a leading banker and manufacturer, died, aged ninety.

GRADE CROSSING BILL ARGUMENT JUNE 13

Trenton, June 5.—Sitting in banc for the first time since the famous "rump Senate" case in 1894, the nine justices of the Supreme Court will devote Thursday of next week to hearing argument upon the application of Attorney General Wilson to determine whether the Pierce grade crossing bill is a law of the state.

Mr. Wilson appeared before the court at the opening of the June term yesterday and asked that an early date for argument be fixed. He was desirous, if possible, that the case should go on immediately in order that there might be no unnecessary delay.

The act of 1873, under which the review of the proceedings is being conducted provides that the final hearing must take place before the chief justice and at least three other justices of the Supreme Court. This in any event would interfere temporarily with the work of two branches of the court.

The court decided, however, that on account of the public importance of the question involved it would be preferable that the entire bench consider the points involved.

For this reason the court decided to fix a day when the regular work of the three branches will probably have been concluded. The day set will be given over entirely to the grade crossing litigation.

Attorney General Wilson, acting by direction of Governor Wilson, will appear as a prosecutor in the proceedings, claiming that the Pierce bill has not become a law, because it was vetoed by the Governor, and also contending that the action of the House in ordering it filed with the secretary of state did not serve to overrule the veto.

Senator Carlton B. Pierce, introducer of the original bill, has interposed himself as a party defendant and will appear on the other side to contend that the bill is a valid statute. Senator Pierce was in court yesterday when the decision was reached as to the time for argument.

Even though your regular account be kept in New York it will be found very convenient to maintain your household account here in Plainfield.

REVISED SCHOOL PLANS ARE APPROVED BY BOARD

New Providence, June 5.—Certificate of approval of the revised plans for the new school issued by the State Board of Education was received by the Board of Education of this place Monday.

When the original plans were prepared by Architect Jacob Wind, Jr., of Union, they called for hollow tiles from the cellar to the second floor. Concrete foundations and hollow tile with concrete to the second tier of beams have been substituted. It is now expected that the contractors, J. Westlecraft & Sons, of Bernardsville will have the structure ready for occupancy for the reopening of school in September.

The resignation of Charles Springsteen from the board on account of his removal to Plainfield, was accepted and George M. Reed, of Berkeley Heights, was appointed to fill the vacancy. The two vacancies in the township corps of teachers were filled by the appointment of Miss L. Ella Mershon, of Newark, and Miss Clara Sheesley, of Mifflin, Pa.

MARRIED FIFTY YEARS.

Rahway, June 5.—The golden wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. James E. Ward, lifelong residents of Rahway, was celebrated at their home on Main street. It was attended by many friends and relatives in and about Rahway. Both are in pretty good health, despite their advanced years. The record of the marriage reads as follows: "Miss Lydia A. Clarkson, born in Milton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James B. Clarkson, and James E. Ward, were married June 3, 1862, at Rahway, by Rev. William Rollinson, pastor First Baptist church, the event taking place at the home of the bride's parents on Clinton street. Mrs. Anna Watson and brother, Joseph Clarkson, were the attendants. Fifteen guests were present." Of those present at the original cermony, Mrs. Watson alone was present at the ceremony.

RISKS HIS LIFE IN EFFORT TO SAVE NEW STRAW HAT

Charles P. Lyman, 22 years old, of Washington avenue, is lying in the Holy Family Hospital, Brooklyn, in a very critical condition as the result of injuries sustained early this morning in an acrobatic attempt to recover his new straw hat. Lyman climbed an "L" pillar at St. John's place and Fifth avenue, Brooklyn, in an effort to get the hat which lay on the tracks, and becoming alarmed at the approach of a Bath Beach train train lost his balance and fell into the street, thirty feet below.

The young man was returning from Coney Island on the rear platform of the last car in a Bath Beach train, when, as the train pulled out of the Union street station, a gust of wind swept his hat from his head. Lyman saw it lodge on the tracks and noted the place carefully, resolving to return and look for the hat. He got off the train at the next station, St. Mark's avenue, and walked back under the "L" until he came to a spot which he decided was directly beneath the point at which his hat had been blown from his head.

Throwing off his coat, the young man, who is athletic, proceeded to "shin up" one of the steel "L" pillars. The street was deserted and no one was around to warn him of the risk he was taking. The young man reached the tracks after much exertion and was groping around in the dark after his hat when another Bath Beach train thundered along. Lyman was confused in the uncertain light furnished by a few street lamps and at first was at a loss to decide upon which track the train was running. The roar of the grinding wheels warned him that he had no time to lose and in frantic haste he swung himself off the elevated structure and tried to lock his legs about the steel support underneath. Confused by the noise of the train he secured only a slight hold on the pillar and fell backward into the street.

Patrolman Fitzgerald heard the body land on the pavement and rushed pu. Finding Lyman unconscious he summoned Dr. Ryan, who took the young man to the Holy Family Hospital in an ambulance. At the hospital it was said today that Lyman has a fighting chance for life. His father, Charles H. Lyman, notified by the police of the accident, this morning left for Brooklyn at once.

HENRY FLOYD MILLER WEDS MISS FOWLER

Two Clergymen Perform the Ceremony—Couple Will Live in New York.

Miss Florence Fowler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry S. Fowler, 45 Fairview avenue, North Plainfield, was married yesterday evening to Henry Floyd Miller, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jeff Miller, 2 Almont Place. The ceremony was performed at the home of the bride's parents, Rev. Dr. C. E. Herring, pastor of the First Presbyterian church officiating, assisted by Rev. Henry E. Oxnard, of Bedford, Mass., uncle of the bride.

The reception room was tastefully decorated in green and white, while carnations, white peonies, roses and Southern smilax added to the effectiveness of the color scheme.

The bride, who was given away by her father, was gowned in white crepe meteor, trimmed with Duchess lace and veil of princess, with cap of lace to match and orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley.

Miss Helen Fowler, who was maid of honor, wore white silk marquisette over green satin with a wreath of white rosebuds and bouquet of white roses. The flower girls, Miss Charlotte Fowler, Miss Helen Fowler and Miss Florence Watkins, wore white frocks and carried baskets of daisies. William Leslie Fowler was best man.

At the reception which followed the ceremony ninety guests were entertained. The music was played by Miss Frances Palton Jones, of New York.

The couple left for New York and a tour of the Northern states. On their return they will make their home in East Orange.

FOOT RUN OVER.

While trying to climb on a coal wagon yesterday afternoon at Plainfield avenue and Randolph Road Edward Mooney, of New Brunswick, slipped and fell, the wheel passing over and crushing his foot. The ambulance was called and Patrolman Craig took him to Muhlenberg Hospital, where after examination by X-rays the injury was not regarded as serious. Mooney was in town looking for work. The owner of the coal wagon was not discovered.

LIST OF CONTRIBUTORS

Quick Response to Continental Chapter, D. A. R., Appeal—Is Your Name Among the Donors to Patriotic Cause?

The following entirely unsolicited letter from a former prominent resident of North Plainfield, has been received by a member of the Washington Rock Memorial Committee:

"I have noticed with much interest the efforts which are being made to safeguard and fittingly perpetuate the memories of Washington Rock!

"It is refreshing, in view of the past and present unseemly political strife between our 'Great Men,' to know that there are those among us who let their minds drift back to a time when we had men who thought first of their country and its safety, themselves afterward.

"As it requires the ever-needful to carry on this work, let me add my small help to your fund, with the hope that you may have a very general response to show that we still have a goodly number of true Americans in this dear land our ours."

Accompanying this letter was a check for one hundred dollars.

ALL WORK HALTS AT SCOTT SHOP

Plant Not to Resume, It Is Said, Until Strike is Definitely Settled.

OTHER SHOPS CONTINUE

Reports That Strike-Breakers Were Being Sought is Denied at Potter's and Scott's—Strike Leader Seeking Conference With Bosses.

The situation in the machinists' strike remains unchanged with the exception that the Walter Scott Machine Company has closed down and will not resume business until the strike is definitely settled. Rumors were prevalent among the strikers that the Potter Press Works and the Hall Printing Press Company, of Dunellen, were also going to close down this morning, but inquiries at the works did not confirm these reports.

Reports that D. J. Scott, manager of the Walter Scott Printing Press Company, and David E. Titsworth, manager of the Potter Press Works, had left the city for the purpose of securing non-union men were denied by representatives of these firms. D. J. Scott, it was stated, was travelling in the West, and Mr. Titsworth left here on business before the strike took place and had not yet returned. Philip Hall, of the Hall Printing Press Company, was called up on the 'phone but refused to discuss the matter further than to say that the business would be continued as usual.

The general feeling among the men is one of optimism. They feel confident that the strike cannot be prolonged. It was stated as one of the reasons for the firms not acceding at once to their demands was that the manufacturers were waiting to see what action President Taft would take on the Underwood bill, which provides for the free admission of printing presses into this country. The manufacturers contend that if the bill becomes a law an eight-hour day will seriously handicap them in their competition with the foreigners, who work longer hours than in this country, and where the cost of labor is comparatively cheaper.

J. J. Kepler, national vice president, addressed the men in the Eagle Hall this morning, assuring them that victory was near at hand and to be of good heart. The strikers also feel in a confident mood and are hopeful of resuming work on Monday morning under the new regime.

Mr. Kepler will try to get in touch with some of the manufacturers today and arrange for a conference. He says that the heads of the firms express their willingness to talk over the matter in a friendly way. He will make known the result of his efforts at a meeting of the men in the hall this afternoon.

COCAINE THIEF GETS HARD LABOR SENTENCE

Sold the Drug to "Fiends"—Edward Coffey's Case Off for Week.

Elizabeth, June 6 (Special).—John Pagin, Patrick Sullivan and John Michael, three men who held up and robbed William Cunningham, a Westfield bartender, a few weeks ago, taking $27, were sentenced to sixty days each in the county jail yesterday afternoon by Judge Atwater.

Edward Coffey, the Plainfield youth who went to Portland, Maine, after escaping from the Plainfield police station shortly after his arrest for burglary, and who was brought back on requisition, was not sentenced. His case was postponed for one week. Judge Walter Hetfield, and the lad's mother were in court in his behalf. He seems to be suffering from some nervous ailment and his physical condition is not good.

Neil Vanderwende, who was arrested in Rahway on a charge of burglary in connection with the theft of twenty-seven pounds of cocaine from the Merck Chemical Company, in Rahway, was given an indeterminate sentence of from two and one-half to seven years in State prison at hard labor. He sold the cocaine to New York City "friends."

TO GIVE OUTDOOR PLAY.

The pupils of the Hartridge School will give their annual play at "Oakwood," on Plainfield avenue, this afternoon at 5 o'clock. The play this year will be the "Merchant of Venice," and a fine performance is promised. Friends of the institution are invited to witness the outdoor play. Tomorrow morning the annual graduation exercises will be held at the school on West Seventh street.

—Among the specials at Neuman Bros.' tomorrow will be a large assortment of fresh vegetables.

CONFERENCE IS WORD OF POWER

It Draws Another Earnest Body of Officials Together for Sewer Talk.

WITH USUAL RESULT

Which is Nothing—Will Attract Officials Again Next Wednesday, by Which Time Boro May Like Same Site City Does.

On the invitation of the Plainfield Common Council, there was a conference of representatives of North Plainfield, Dunellen, Fanwood and Scotch Plains at the Council chamber, last night, the purpose being to ascertain whether the other municipalities would join with the city in locating a sewage disposal works on the Darling farm in Piscataway township. Each municipality was well represented. Authough the whole evening was taken up with a discussion of the subject, practically nothing definite resulted and an adjournment was taken to Wednesday night, June 12, to allow North Plainfield to give further consideration to the subject.

The representatives of Fanwood and Dunellen expressed themselves as favoring Plainfield's proposition, but North Plainfield offered objection to the Darling site, preferring the Cramer site.

Councilman Frank L. Holt was made chairman of the meeting. The plan to be considered, he explained, was to have each municipality stand its expense of reaching a common point of juncture in the western end of the city, from which point the trunk line would be built to the Darling farm, where it was proposed to place the disposal beds.

Mr. Holt said that a careful, but not an authoritative or official estimate of the cost had been prepared for the construction work, the sum being $300,000, and the apportionment had been prepared as follows: Fanwood and Scotch Plains, 4 per cent. of total cost; North Plainfield, 22 per cent.; Dunellen, 7 per cent., Plainfield, 67 per cent. Of course, it is understood that should this plan be adopted, each municipality would bear the cost of piping its own town and laying the pipe to a point of juncture, which might be Greenbrook road and Rock avenue.

In answer to a question, Mr. Holt informed the Fanwood representatives that possibly some satisfactory arrangement could be made where that municipality could use the trunk line through the city, but it was the belief that some of that pipe would have to be enlarged to care for the increased amount of sewage to be handled.

It was further explained by Mr. Holt that the system was planned to include the Imhof tank, unless in the meantime some better method should be found. It was also proposed to proceed with the work under the act of the Legislature of 1910.

The representatives from Fanwood expressed themselves as being pleased with the idea. Mayor W. H. Hoar and Burton P. Hall, of that place, spoke on the subject, stating that they realized that such a proposition was Fanwood's only salvation in solving the sewage problem and they would be glad to co-operate with the other municipalities. WANT A STATION AT NETHERWOOD

TO PROVE IT IS NEEDED

The Association's Committee to Show That Road's Business There Warrants Building Station on West Bound Side of Track's.

Along its line there is but one stop where there is no west bound station of the Jersey Central and that single excepton is at Netherwood in this city. Despite the fact that its passenger business there exceeds that at Fanwood and many other places between here and New York and here and elsewhere the road's management has persisted in its refusal to build any sort of a station at the point named. Hence passengers alighting or boarding a train at Netherwood are subjected to the inclemencies of the weather much to the displeasure of the people who reside in that section.

The Netherwood Improvement association, an organization of Jersey Central commuters numbering several hundred, have planned a campaign to get some sort of a station building along the west side tracks and they appear to be sanguine of good results. A committee of the association was told by the proper official of the road that if it could be shown that the business warranted the improvement a shelter would be built. That's why patrons of the road during the last few days have noticed several men counting noses as the trains stop at Netherwood. They want to prove that it is a busy stop.

Some day, according to members of the association, it is to be expected that at night the railroad's parks at the Netherwood station will be properly lighted.

OTHER FEATURES OF A COMMISSION

Definite Questions and Answers on Recall, Referendum and Initiative.

PEOPLE'S GOVERNMENT

Explanation of Three Important Provisions of Municipal Administration in Modern Method of Conducting Business.

Excepting the initiative, recall and referendum features, every phase of the commission plan of government was explained in definite questions and exact answers published in the Daily Press yesterday. Following is a catechism on the initiative, referendum and recall:

Recall.

Can we remove a Commissioner before his term expires?

Yes. One or all may be removed at any time after serving one year.

How?

If the voters are dissatisfied with the acts of any Commissioner, a special election is required to be called upon petition of 25 per cent. of the voters of the last preceding election. At this election the Commissioner upon whom the recall is being attempted is a candidate for re-election and any other candidates for his position appear on the ballot. If the Commissioner in office receives the highest number of votes, he retains his position; if not, any other candidate receiving the highest number of votes is elected in his place.

Is there any limit to the recall?

Yes. A Commissioner is subject to but one recall election during his term. If he succeeds himself at a recall election he is exempt from further recall during the balance of his term.

Is not this limited recall provision without value and would it not permit the passage of unpopular or even vicious ordinances and open the doors

Despite the threatening weather with an occasional shower every preparation was complete for the opening of the ninth annual horse show of the Plainfield Riding and Driving Club at 1:15 this afternoon. There was considerable disappointment over the change in weather conditions from yesterday, but the officers and others in charge of the show are optimistic and hope that the sun will soon break away from behind the clouds and aid in the making of the exhibition a success. Today's weather put a damper on the showing of fine gowns, but it did not precent the women from attending.

The show opened with Class 17, 2 pairs of harness horses over 15.2 hands. The official time schedule for today follows:

Class 17, 2 pairs harness horses over 15.2 hands, 1:15; Class 12, 2 single harness horses not exceeding 15 hands, novice, 1:25; Class 26, 4 combination ponies, 1:35; Class 32, 12 saddle horses not exceeding 15.2, 1:50; Class 16, 7 pairs harness horses over 15.2 hands, novice, 2:10; Class 60, 5 officers' charges, 2:30; Class 54, 7 single harness horses, local, 2:50; Class 10, 3 pairs harness horses, ladies to drive, 3:05; Class 44, 7 green hunters, middle and heavy weight, 3:40; Class 63, 3 breeding stallions, 4:00; Class 36, 7 saddle horses, ladies to ride, 4:15; Class 37, 9 saddle horses, 15.2 hands or under, novice, 4:30; Class 58, 7 combination horses, local, 4:45; Class 61, 5 militia mounts, 5:00; Class 62, 2 military teams, jumping, 5:10; Class 48, 20 hunters and jumpers, open to all, 5:20.

Instead of placing all the militia classes at the end of the day's program this year they are arranged so as to divide the interest among the other classes, which is considered an excellent idea. This is also true of the classes for hunters and jumpers, there being classes for green huntrs, middl and heavy weight, and one open to all.

The following will act as judges at the show:

Roadsters, E. R. Bowne, of Garwood; harness horses and ponies in harness, Charles A. Boudouine, of New York; hackney and breeding classes, James G. Marshall, of Morristown, and Charles A. Boudouine, of New York; saddle horses and ponies under saddle, Joseph Larocque, of Bernardsville, and James G. Marshall, of Morristown; officers' charges and militia mounts, Col. Charles I. DeBevoise, of Brooklyn; hunters and jumpers, Clarence F. Levin, of Avon, N. Y. Dr. E. R. Voorhees, of Somerville, wil be the veterinary judge.

FEATURES OF COMMISSION

for graft by a vindicated Commissioner?

No. The limited recall provision provides all the moral effect necessary to keep the Commissioners on the lookout and anxious to meet the wishes of the public.

Also by the referendum and initiative the public have control of all legislation and can always force an important ordinance to a popular vote at a special election. The Commission, under such conditions, will not turn a deaf ear to any public demand.

What has been the effect of the recall elsewhere?

Of the 130 cities or more now operating under Commission Government features but five cities have found it necessary to resort to this drastic means of holding the Commission responsive to the public demand.

Why was the recall limited to once during the term and only after the first year.

In order to give a new Commissioner an opportunity to fully establish his policy and methods in 12 months without hindrance and leave him free to continue his policy if vindicated at the special recall election.

Initiative.

What is the Initiative?

A plan by which the people may propose or initiate any ordinances and wich requires the board to lether pass them or submit said ordinances to the popular vote.

If the Commissioners refuse to pass laws the citizens want, what is the remedy?

The citizens can present an ordinance to the Commission by petition, which, if signed by fifteen per cent. of the voters at the last election requires a special election should the Board fail to pass it in 20 days. But preceding a regular election a petition of 10 per cent. forces the Board to adopt any proposed ordinance within 20 days or submit it to the voters at the regular election.

If the people should force the adoption of ordinances by a reluctant Board, could not the Board revoke them?

No. Any ordinance proposed by the people by petition, whether adopted by the Board or by vote of the people cannot be repealed or amended except by a vote of the people.

Referendum.

What is the Referendum

A plan by which the people may protest against any law or ordinance and require the Commissioners to submit or refer any proposed ordinance to popular vote or abandon it.

How can any ordinance proposed by the Commissioners be blacked by the people?

A petition of 15 per cent. of the voters protesting against any proposed ordinance either requires the Board to reject the ordinance or submit it to popular vote.

Could not the Board rush through ordinances against the best interests of the people without giving time for the preparation and presentation of a referendum petition?

No. In the first place every meeting is public; secondly, every ordinance must be on file for public inspection two weeks before final passage; thirdly, no ordinance shall go into effect until 10 days after passage; consequently the public has at least 24 days' knowledge of the proposed ordinance and ample time to prepare the petition of protest against its passage.

In General.

What are the chief characteristics of our Commission law?

Centralizing responsibility upon a small number of elected officials.

Non-partisan elections.

Abolishment of ward lines.

Referendum.

Initiative.

Recall.

What are the chief results to be obtained?

Economy of administration, greater efficiency, application of business methods.

Is not the Commission plan new, novel and un-American.

No. The idea of the people having a direct hand in the selection of their officials and direct control of their acts is as old as government itself. In New England for generations communities have been working under a simple democratic system, placing the entire management in the hands of a small body of select men, declared by Thomas Jefferson "the wisest invention ever devised by the wit of man for the perfect exercise of self-government and for its preservation."

When did this particular form of Commission Government begin?

In 1901, after the flood, Galveston came under the rule of a Commission and as a result of its success there Des Moines further developed the system, which is spreading, with slight modifications, throughout the country. In Texas practically all the cities, 23 in number, have followed Galveston's example with equal success.

Where has the Commission been tried?

Already nearly 160 cities in 23 States have adopted Commission Government features.

Has it ever been discarded?

No. No city that has tried Commission Government has ever returned to the old antiquated, cumbersome system.

Police Justice John A. Borden, of this city, is likely to be elected senior vice commander.

JERSEY ROOSEVELT LEAGUE FILES EXPENSE ACCOUNT

The sum of $12,825.92 was spent by the Roosevelt Republican League in the primary campaign to bring about the election of delegates favorable to the Colonel. Some of this outlay was in the nature of contributions to the Roosevelt organizations in other counties.

The largest single item of expenditure was for the expenses of the Colonel's special trains, the outlay for that purpose being $2,345.65.

The largest contributions came from the Roosevelt National Committee, $2,650; Everett Colby, $2,500; former Governor J. Franklin Fort, $1,800; former Governor E. C. Stoks, Franklin Conklin and Edgar B. Bacon, $500 each; William Fellowes Morgan, $400; E. B. Osborne, $300. The rest was contributed in sums ranging from $5 to $277.10, the latter being subscribed by the Montclair Roosevelt Club.

FINE OWNER OF LOT ON WHICH 'SKEETERS BREED

Newark, June 6.—A fine of $10 was imposed on David Harris, of Upper Montclair, yesterday for allowing mosquitoes to breed on a low spot of land owned by him on Northfield avenue, that town. The evidence against Mr. Harris was procured by inspectors employed by the Montclair Board of Health.

The case was tried before Recorder Yost in the Montclair Police Court. A glass containing mosquito larvae, said to have been procured from Mr. Harris' land, was shown in court.

The inspectors have procured alleged evidence to show that mosquitoes are propagating on land in the southeastern section of Montclair near the East Orange line. A summons had been issued against Charles H. Bloemecke, agent of the property on which the mosquito breeding pool is said to exist, but he disregarded it because, he asserts, he is not the owner of the land.

Health Officer Chester H. Wells, of Montclair, said yesterday that a search would be made to determine who the real owner is.

YOUR TAXES TOO HIGH? JUST TELL NEW BOARD

Trenton, June 6.—All taxpayers of New Jersey who feel aggrieved because of discrimination or unfairness by the valuations placed upon their own or other property are invited to send in their complaints to the commission recently appointed to investigate taxing methods in this state. The commission has received a good many such complaints, and at its meeting yesterday afternoon it was decided to welcome further correspondence of the same kind.

From a perusal of the complaints already received the commission believes that many valuable suggestions may follow a general expression on the part of taxpayers who believe they are being discriminated against. The commission has opened headquarters at room 518 in the Commercial Trust building, Jersey City, to which all communications should be sent.

The commission also accepted yesterday an invitation from Mayor Haussling and President John F. Carroll, of the Newark Tax Board, to visit the Newark City Hall next Monday at noon. At that time the commission will examine the books and other records of the Newark Tax Board and will obtain a general idea of the work of the Newark board.

150-MILE WIRE FENCE.

New York, June 6.—The State Board of Water Supply opened bids for the construction of what probably will be one of the longest wire fences in theworld. The fence, which is to enclose the new Ashokan dam in the Catskills and the aqueduct property leading from it to this city, will be 150 miles long. The posts are to be of concrete, and stone walls will enclose the property through villages. The estimated cost will be $300,000. Five hundred tons of wire and 400 tons of steel for reinforcing the posts will be used. The bids are not yet tabulated.

GRAFT SCANDAL IN SHORE CITY GROWS

Eighty-four Are Now Said to Be Involved.

TO BE HEARD WEDNESDAY

Samuel Phoebus, Who Resigned From the Council After Admitting He Had Accepted Bribe, Is Said to Have Told Detective Burns All.

Atlantic City, N. J., June 6.—Eighty-four men are involved in the grafting scandal here, according to reports, and when the grand jury reconvenes next Wednesday it is likely evidence will be presented which will bring about indictments.

Supreme Court Justice Kalisch, who was named by the governor to clean up the resort, responded to the request of District Attorney Goldenberg and postponed the meeting of the jury from next Tuesday until the following day because on Tuesday the citizens vote on the question of nominating candidates for the five commissioners who are to take office in July.

District Attorney Goldenberg stated that it is probable the attorney general will be here with his staff on Wednesday.

Phoebus to Tell All.

Samuel Phoebus, who resigned from the council after admitting he had accepted a bribe, is supposed to have taken the Burns men into his confidence and related what he knows of the inside operations in the city council for the last five years.

Justice Kalisch will be here Wednesday, and it is anticipated that he will recharge the grand jury and direct its attention of corruption.

A blanket indictment to cover every offense charged is discussed among the officers here, but it is doubtful if it will be employed, as those in charge of the prosecution are favorable to having separate indictments in all cases where specific charges are preferred.

SIX BOYS DYING AS POWDER EXPLODES

Youths Touch Off Can They Found In Lot.

Jersey City, N. J., June 6.—Six boys horribly burned about the face and body by the explosion of a can of gunpowder were brought to the City hospital in Jersey City by Harry Lehman, proprietor of a garage. Lehman had witnessed the explosion and, canking up a touring car that was standing in the garage, used it as an ambulance. At the hospital it was said that the injuries of the boys are so serious that they may not recover.

While playing together near a fireworks factory about a quarter of a mile from the Hudson County park playground the boys found the can of gunpowder. In the party were Edward Schemel, fifteen; David Wasserman, fifteen; John Foote, nine; Charles Hall, ten; Thomas Duane, twelve, and Arthur Munsey, twelve years.

They carried the explosive to a spot near the wading pool in the playground. One of them produced a match and suggested a "Fourth of July celebration."

According to spectators, there was a blinding flash, but no loud report, when the powder exploded, indicating that the top of the can had been pried off. The force of the explosion was sufficient to hurl three of the boys into the wading pool, several feet away. Two others were thrown, screaming with pain, to the ground. The boy who set off the powder had his clothes almost completely burned off him and was unconscious. All of them were seared by the flame.

WIFE MURDER CHARGED.

Chance Remark of Neighbor Leads to Arrest of Husband.

Birmingham, Ala., June 6.—A chance remark of a neighbor that Mrs. Mitie Fulton Albright had died a fortnight ago in convulsions resulted in the coroner's jury accusing the woman's husband, Jesse Albright, of murder.

One week after Mrs. Albright's death the body was exhumed. A chemist found strychnine in the stomach, and it was brought out at the inquest that the husband had attempted to collect life insurance his wife had carried. A sister of Albright was released from custody after her arrest last week.

BRANDT A CLERK IN PRISON.

Schiff's Former Valet Will Not Have to Work Hard.

Albany, N. Y., June 6.—Foulke E. Brandt, former valet to Mortimer L. Schiff, resumed his thirty year sentence for burglary at Clinton prison. It was said at the state prison department that he had been assigned to work in the office of the superintendent of industry.

He was formerly employed in the administration office building. Unless sooner released by order of the courts Brandt will be eligible for parole in April, 1922.

Plainfield, N. J., June 6, 1912.

The directors and managers of the Plainfield Trust Company are to be congratulated on the remarkable growth of that institution during its first ten years. Beginning business on June 4, 1902, the company had a capital of $100,000 and it also had something more important—a management and a directorate to inspire absolute confidence. What better evidence of this could be had than the official statement that at the end of the first decade the deposits were over four million dollars and in addition the trust funds in its keeping aggregated a million and a half dollars. The capital and surplus has swelled to the astonishing figure of $369,838 and yet the concern is paying its stockholders ten per cent a year. Few banking institutions can duplicate this flattering record.

Union county's present Board of Freeholders, consisting of twenty members, will be reduced in size on January 1 next. At that time a board of seven members will supplant the present body and the change will mark a betterment in every way. Now, each of the twenty members is paid for meetings attended and for inspections made. Under the new plan each of the seven members will receive a stated salary, $1,500 a year. Plainfield has two representatives on the large board, Samuel P. T. Wilbur and J. Hervey Doane, both of whom are candidates for the smaller board.

The strongest advocates of the commission plan of government are to be found in cities where this form of municipal administration of affairs is in vogue. They believe in it because they have seen abundant proof of its successful workings. There are over 180 cities thus ruled in this country and one doesn't have to go far from home to learn how satisfactory is the system. Trenton and Passaic are notable examples. The contributing editor for next Saturday's issue will have something to say about this vitally important subject. You should read his views.

A list of contributors to the Washington Rock memorial fund is printed elsewhere in this issue. Continental chapter, D. A. R., invites all patriotic residents to share in defraying the expense of suitably marking the rock upon which General George Washington stood to view the movements of the Hessian troops. Those who give to this laudable undertaking will have their names placed on the lists to be enclosed in the cairn on the site. The Daily Press will be glad to give you any information you desire about this memorial plan.

Inexpensive gowns will be worn by the "sweet girl graduates" of the Hackensack High School. The young women, themselves, have so decreed. They have also ordained that no floral gifts shall be received at the commencement exercises. "If graduates of every school followed this fine example," comments the Jersey Journal, "it would be better for the cause of education." To us, it seems that these matters should come within the province of the Board of Education. The public school is the people's school and all should be alike on such occasions.

Over in Middlesex's county seat the people have adopted as a slogan "Boost New Brunswick," but the city's Councilmanic body does not seem to take to the cry. Only the other night the Common Council added seven more saloons to the list of licensed places bringing the total up to near the 100 mark. Plainfield, which is about the same size as New Brunswick, has seven retail licenses and neither the people nor their governing body would add one more under any circumstances.

Plainfield's ninth annual horse show began at 1 o'clock this afternoon where there was a big crowd at the Plainfield Riding and Driving Club's park nothwithstanding the unfavorable weather conditions. There are more than 100 thoroughbreds to be shown in some 350 classes today, tomorrow and Saturday. The time card for tomorrow's exhibition will be found on another page. It is one of the biggest and best outdoor horse shows in the country. Go and see it.

Negotiations among the four or five neighboring communities for a common system for the disposal of sewage has been renewed. It is now proposed by Plainfield's representatives that the Darling farm in Piscataway township be used as a site for the proposed plant and it appears to rest with North Plainfield whether the plan be consummated. Get together, neighbors, get together.

The catechism on the commission form of government begun in yesterday's issue is completed today, attention being directed to the initiative, referendum and recall features. Inadvertently the salaries were incorrectly stated. In a city of the size of Plainfield the mayor would draw $1,800 a year and the other four commissioners $1,500 each.

FROM CRAIGALEE LODGE, DAUGHTERS OF SCOTIA

Impressive and picturesque was the initiation ceremony last evening of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Clan Mackenzie who will in future be known as Craigalee Lodge, No. 43, Daughters of Scotia. Forty-two women attended and they were welcomed and accepted into the order by Chief John Donaldson and Past Chief Robert Murray, of the Clan Mackenzie. PASTOR'S CELEBRATION.

The sixth anniversary of Rev. G. W. Bailey as pastor of the Calvary Baptist church is being celebrated this week. Last night Rev. Dr. M. W. Vaughan, of the Mt. Olive Baptist church, spoke, and his church choir furnished the music. The speakers tonight will be Rev. Dr. M. W. Vaughan, Rev. E. W. Roberts, Rev. Mr. Sturges, Rev. F. D. Tilden, Rev. E. B. Maynard and Dr. J. J. Lawson; also Rev. G. P. L. Talliaferro, of Philadelphia. The Newport News Club will furnish the music. BIG FIGHT STARTS FOR DELEGATIONS

ROSEWATER CHAIRMAN

Indications Are That Root Will Be Chosen as Temporary Chairman—Whiting May Not Get Seat Until After Nominations Are Made.

Chicago, June 5.—The Republican nation committee met this afternoon at 2 o'clock in Convention Hall. It has had in its keeping the preservation of the rules, customs and traditions of Republicanism since the party was organized more than half a century ago.

VICTOR ROSEWATER, ACTING CHAIRMAN OF THE REPUBLICAN NATIONAL COMMITTEE.

Although the meeting was to be secret a part of the procedure was known. First was to come the roll-call and the seating of the delegates, concerning which a rumpus was looked for in the event that the newly elected committeemen demanded seats. A chairman to succeed the late Gov. Hill, of Maine, was to be selected. Indications were that Victor Rosewater, of Nebraska, the present vice chairman, would be chosen.

Each side was to have fifteen minutes in which to present its case. That the committee would take definite action in upholding the action of the sub-committee in the selection of Senator Root as temporary chairman was strongly indicated this morning.

The greatest interest centred on the delegates from the South. Both managers were trailing them and constantly conferring with them. In view of the report that a large part of the Alabama delegation had flopped to Roosevelt, P. D. Parker, its chairman, with more than fifteen delegates, called at the Taft headquarters late yesterday afternoon and gave assurances that twenty-four of the twenty-six delegates would stick. He said that the two delegates who went over to Roosevelt, B. T. Trammel and G. B. Daugherty, were postmasters.

It was alleged that thirty-five of the fifty-three national commiteemen were opposed to a violation of party precedent and will not permit Howell, of Nebraska, Borden Whiting, of New Jersey, and Neidringhaus, of Missouri, to take their seats as committeemen until after a president and vice president have been nominated in the convention.

HENRY MARION HALL WINS PL.D. DEGREE AT COLUMBIA

It is of especial interest to the residents of Plainfield that Henry Marion Hall, a resident of this city for a number of years, has just won the degree of Doctor of Philosophy at Columbia University, New York city.

Mr. Hall is the second son of the late David Prescott Hall, and of Mrs Florence Howe Hall. He is therefore the grandson of Mrs. Julia Ward Howe. He was educated at Mr. Leal's School in this city, and at Harvard University, where he graduated in 1899.

Dr. Hall, as he will now be called, has been teaching for some years at the High School of Commerce in New York city. He has been at the same time studying for the degree of Ph. D. at Columbia, having first taken the M. A. degree there two years ago. His eldest brother, Samuel Prescott Hall, is now practicing as an architect in Columbus, Ohio. The youngest brother, John Howe Hall, is metallurgist at the Taylor Iron and Steel Works, High Bridge, N. J.

Mrs. Hall now makes her home with John Hall. Her daughter is Mrs. Hugh Birckhead, wife of the rector of Saint George's church, New York city. Rev. Mr. Birckhead has accepted a call to Emanuel church, Baltimore, and will go there October 1.

Rev. Gabriel Reid Maguire will speak at the Calvary Baptist church Sunday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock.

DEWEY SAW THE POINT.

He Paid Up After His Dog Had Been Kicked Around.

Admiral Dewey had an English bull dog of which he was very proud. So marked was his affection for the dog that an atmosphere of "love me, love my dog" had sprung up around the admiral and the canine. It is further reported that the animal came near causing trouble between the head of the navy and the late "Fighting Bob" Evans.

Admiral Dewey while on a tour of inspection when he was in command of the Pacific squadron took the dog along with him. He lost sight of his pet on Evans' ship, but in a few minutes saw him hurled skyward from the companionway as if shot from a catapult. With blood in his eye Admiral Dewey rushed over to see the reason for the sudden ascent, surmising correctly that some one had kicked the dog. He saw "Fighting Bob" at the foot of the steps.

"Sir," roared the admiral, "what do you mean by kicking my dog?"

"Sir," roared Evans in return, "I'd have kicked that dog if he had been the property of the president of the United States! He chewed the legs off two pairs of fifteen dollar trousers and destroyed an edition de luxe of the navy regulations."

Dewey saw the point and paid for new uniform trousers.—New York World.

Staining Wood Dark Hues.

The appearance of walnut may be given to white woods by painting or sponging them with a concentrated warm solution of permanganate of potassa. The effect is different on different kinds of timber, some becoming stained very rapidly, others requiring more time for this result. The permanganate is decomposed by the woody fiber. Brown peroxide of manganese is precipitated, which is afterward removed by washing with water. The wood, when dry, may be varnished and will be found to resemble very closely the naturally dark woods.—Harper's Magazine.

An Aristocratic Bank.

All the clerks at Coutts' bank in London, where the king and members of the royal family have accounts, must be clean shaven and wear frock coats during banking hours. No bank in the world has so many aristocratic customers as Coutts'. Practically every member of the house of lords banks at the famous house in the Strand, and no other English bank has so many foreign aristocrats on its books.

IN WOMAN'S REALM

MRS. CHARLES D. BLANEY.

To Have a Voice In Nominating Candidate For President.

Mrs. Charles Duchesne Blaney is one of the four women delegates to the Republican national convention elected on the Roosevelt ticket in Saratoga, Cal.

How to Pack a Trunk.

A woman who is constantly traveling and yet who finds it most necessary to economize in space as well as in pennies has found the following plan for packing her one trunk a most excellent one: At the bottom of the trunk she has a partition made large enough to carry one large or two small hats. This is strongly made, so that it cannot easily be broken. At the side of this partition she places a wooden box filled with sawdust, in which are her bottles of medicine. Here, too, she lays her shoes, each pair carefully rolled in linen covers. On one set of shoes she puts her pair of rubbers, and inside the shoes she places her boxes of pills or powders which would not go into the box of medicine.

Then she has six or eight pieces of heavy cardboard cut to exactly fit the trunk. These she covers with linen or chintz, so that they look exactly like large envelopes, with straps or strings to fasten down the flaps. In these huge envelopes she pins her dresses, skirt waists, etc. Two or three dresses can usually be put in each envelope. Everything is kept absolutely flat, and nothing can be pushed to one end of the trunk when it is stood on end.

At the top of the trunk is a shallow tray, in which she puts her laces, ribbons, veils and gloves, etc. The underwear is rolled and placed around the edges of the trunk or is folded flat and laid between the envelopes.

Bathing Suit From Ball Gown.

An evening gown of white messaline was cleverly made into this dainty bathing suit. The skirt was widened with panels of striped taffeta, and the white messaline forms a bib over a bodice of the striped silk.

For the Table.

An asbestos pad for the table may be made in this way: Get enough asbestos paper to cover the table with double thickness. From a couple of old sheets cut two pieces the size of the table. Baste the asbestos paper between them and quilt it on the sewing machine, using a long stitch. This is necessary, as the paper tears and pulls apart easily. Put this pad on the table, under your silence cloth, and there will be no marks made on the polished surface by hot dishes.

Kitchenettes.

Pewter is best cleaned by washing it with hot water, rubbing it with fine sand and when dry polishing it with leather.

Matting splinters easily when swept with a bare broom. To preserve it either clean it with a soft brush or cover the broom with a gray canton flannel bag.

The KITCHEN CUPBOARD

PRESERVING RHUBARB.

HOUSEWIVES sometimes can rhubarb in order to have it for pies when the fresh plant cannot be obtained.

To preserve rhubarb in its fresh state take the stalks when young and tender, wash, pare and cut into pieces about two inches long. Then pack in jars that have been sterilized and fill these to overflowing with water. Let them stand for ten or fifteen minutes. Drain off the liquid and again fill with fresh cold water. Screw on the lids to the jars after you are sure there are no air bubbles in the water. See that the jars are air tight. When needed this will be found equal to fresh rhubarb.

A Simple Method.

Canned Rhubarb Sauce.—Wash, pare and cut up the rhubarb into small pieces. Add the sugar as for rhubarb sauce and put into a covered baking dish in a hot oven, using no water. Bake until reduced to a fine sauce. Then put into air tight jars.

With a Delicious Tang.

Ginger Rhubarb.—Dry your rhubarb after washing and cut into pieces an inch long. Weigh and put into an earthenware jar or bowl. Add an equal amount of sugar and a little whole ginger. Cover the vessel and let it stand for three days. Then stir it and pour off the sirup. Boil this in a saucepan to a third of its original bulk. Then add the rhubarb and boil until it is transparent. Then put into jars.

A Rich Preserve.

Fig and Rhubarb Jam.—Take five pounds of young rhubarb, wash and cut it into small pieces. Use a pound of dried figs to every five pounds of the rhubarb. Add to these the grated rind of a lemon, also its juice, and let these stand in an enameled saucepan or bowl all night. The next day cook very slowly for an hour. Then pour into glasses and seal.

A Wholesome Jelly.

Rhubarb Jelly.—Take some rhubarb, wipe it with a clean wet cloth, peel and cut into pieces an inch long. To each pound of rhubarb put three-quarters of a pound of white sugar. Put it to boil for about ten minutes or until the juice is well drawn. Strain the juice, let it boil quickly until it clings to the spoon, skim and put it into jars. The quickest way to know if it will set is to drop a little on a plate to cool.

HERE AND THERE.

A Hint For Making the Up to Date Muslin Skirt.

It is quite fashionable to keep the lower skirt of a muslin gown quite plain and untrimmed. There is a deep hem, sometimes twelve inches in depth and finished with one row of stitching at the top. If the gown is to serve special purposes it is not amiss to add a band of satin in a plain color to match the stripes or the figures.

Here is a suit of mohair combined with a striped material, but the model is equally good if made from pique linen or taffeta.

MOTHERS' WORK

Conducted by the Plainfield Mothers' Association. Every Thursday

Contributing Staff.
Mrs. G. Stuart Simons, Mrs. Jos. Smith, Mrs. Wm. M. Sandford, Jr.

The Daily Press for Thursdays containing the column on Mother's Work will be sent by mail for one dollar a year, in advance.

There are eighty associations in the allied Congress of Pennsylvania which employ a field secretary to organize new circles throughout the state. In 1911, Dr. Yocum, of the University of Pennsylvania, asked the co-operation of the Congress in bringing about a higher professional training among the teachers of the state, with the result that the Congress offered scholarships in the summer schools of the University to any teacher in membership. The courses were limited but the institution immediately gave special scholarships to the Congress students. This year the scholarships will be doubled. The next state conference will be held in Harrisburg at the time the Legislature meets with the specific object of interesting and informing the Legislature of the Child-Welfare work.

One thousand children are sent each year to Canada from the Barnardo homes in England. 78,000 of these children are now in Canada. The children are cared for until able to support themselves and are kept under friendly supervision even after that. The Barnardo homes point with pride to the fact that in the last six years not one abandoned child has been refused admission.

Rhode Island has appropriated $2,000 to promote the use of the school buildings as community centers for the Uplift Movement carried on by the Parent-Teacher Associations. It is hoped this small beginning will lead to no lack of support and encouragement.

The sixteenth Child-Welfare Conference held in St. Louis opened with a reception at the Planters' Hotel, where the receiving line stood so long it looked like all St. Louis had come to greet the Congress. Mrs. Nugent, of St. Louis, introduced the guests to the president. At the opening session the secretary of the Convention's Bureau presented a welcome from the business men; the Superintendent of Schools gave assurance of his co-operation and various clubs and organizations of the city sent greetings. Dr. O'Shea, of Wisconsin University, gave an address on "New Times Bring New Problems."

From the many interesting and valuable matters brought before the Congress the following are most likely to interest local readers: Miss Van Hoesan, head of the Household Department of the University of Chicago, was sent to discover in behalf of educators whether the congress was a valuable ally of educators and ought to continue to have a representation from them. She reports that she thinks it thoroughly worth while adding: "The women represented are not like the women of the clubs and the suffragists. They are literally the women 'in the home.' Club women have gone to the clubs and asked for admission; but a few people have gone into the home after these women and organized them into the one activity they have ever undertaken outside their homes and families. This is the first recognition on the part of the rank and file of motherhood that the good mother, the mother of the community and the state, is not the one who concentrates all her thought and care on her own children and her own dwelling place."

Dr. E. W. Saunders, of St. Louis, spoke on "Prevention of Infant Mortality. He defied anyone to produce a single instance of a judicial execution for infanticide in the U. S. He sighted instances where guilt was proven though the punishment was very light or none at all.

William Hard, who has written a series of articles on the laws governing women and children and has started a campaign to bring about equal guardianship laws in every state in the Union, spoke to the Congress on this subject and asked their co-operation. The Congress passed a resolution to support Mr. Hard and to recommend the law to the state Legislatures. Some states have already passed such a law. The old law which gave the father exclusive guardianship is a relic of the dark ages. New Jersey is still in the twilight, which means that the mother becomes the children's guardian if the father should die; but so long as he lives he is their sole guardian and can dictate where and how they shall live. With a good father this is, of course, all right. But how about the father who is not good? An awful tragedy was necessary to remove this same law from the statue books of Massachusetts. A shiftless father of four decided that the four required altogether too much of the mother's time and money, the latter earned by washing, and he would fare much better if they were in an institution. It was evident that the father could not support them. But the mother pleaded that she could and did. Her neighbors agreed with and upheld her. But the law said that the father because he was their lawful guardian knew best and the children must go to the institution. The mother, being a woman of action, used the only weapon with which she was familiar, a hat pin. She used it where brute strength could not defeat her, on the children. She became a raving maniac but she brought about an equal guardianship law for Massachusetts.

The New Jersey Congress of Mothers stands pledged through the National Congress to support a new law for New Jersey.

BISHOPS TO DEDICATE NEW ITALIAN CHURCH

Bernardsville, June 6.—Bishop McFaul, of Trenton, will make his canonical visitation to the Church of Our Lady of Perpetual Help Sunday morning and will also dedicate the new Italian Catholic church of the Sacred Heart.

One of the interesting circumstances attached to the Bishop's visitations to Bonardsville is that at each visitation he has had a new church to dedicate. The last time he dedicated St. Elizabeth's church at Far Hills.

The members of the congregation will gather Sunday at the new church at the 11 o'clock mass to witness the dedication of the church of the Sacred Heart.

The Bishop will be escorted from the rectory of the Church of Our Lady of Perpetual Help by the Italian societies and the Holy Name Society of that church. The societies will be headed by the Ideal Cornet Band of Stirling. The ceremony of the dedication will be performed by the Bishop, after which a solemn high mass will be celebrated by Father Biossotti, as the celebrant, Rev. Father Angelo Draghetti as deacon and Father James Ruvolo as sub-deacon. The master of ceremonies will be Rev. Dr. Griffen, secretary to the Bishop.

The sermon will be preached by Father Draghetti. Monsignor Ferrante, Italian secretary to Cardinal Farley, and Rev. C. L. Galassi, of Perth Amboy, are also expected to be present. The music will be under the direction of Father Joseph J. Antilli.

At the 8 o'clock mass, which will be celebrated by the Bishop, 150 children and adults will be confirmed in the afternoon the Bishop will leave Bernardsville to visit St. Elizabeth's church at Far Hills, where he will also confirm a class.

Decorators from New York will arrive here on Saturday morning and will decorate the church, the streets and the houses in the Italian colony.

BAREFOOTED THIEF ROBS FOUR CRANFORD HOMES

Cranford, June 6.—A barefooted thief entered four homes in the Aeolian Park section early yesterday by getting in first-floor windows which had been left unlocked. At the home of William Carruth, in Spruce street, a coat containing Mr. Carruth's commutation ticket, a child's bank containing $2 and a cut glass dish were stolen.

At the home of Henry Krier, in Orchard street, a $50 gold watch and a coat were taken. At the home of L. H. Hagan, 614 Willow street, a coat, vest and stickpin were stolen. At the residence of Miss L. Brackbush, 614 Willow street, fresh eggs and a quantity of food were taken.

Policemen James Hennessy and Thomas Woods investigated and recovered all of the property except the watch and stickpin and the money from the child's bank.

NEW TRIAL GRANTED TO UNION COUNTY PRISONER

Trenton, June 6.—In an opinion by Justice Bergen, the Supreme Court yesterday reversed the verdict of the Union County Court and granted a new trial to Vincenzo De Geralmo, of Springfield, who was convicted of an attempt to commit rape.

The defendant at this trial offered testimony tending to prove an alibi and requested the court to charge with reference to this testimony.

The Supreme Court holds that the response of the court to the request was not legally complied with, the court not having dealt with the question of the alleged alibi. De Geralmo is still confined in the county jail.

TO RIDE I. O. O. F. GOAT.

Asbury Park, June 6.—About 1,000 Odd Fellows from various parts of the state will attend a class initiation here Thursday evening, June 13, when Elizabethport Lodge will confer degrees on a number of candidates. The degree work will be performed in the old Educational Hall in Main street. Those in charge will be Grand Master Charles A. Woodruff, of Newark; Grand Secretary Harry S. Pine, of Trenton; John F. Knox, J. P. Leigh, F. J. Becker and R. Wilson, of this city.

BOUND BROOK WAS SPECKLED WITH TAGS

There were so many pretty girls around the postoffice in Bound Brook yesterday that anybody could see they knew it was a good place to catch the males.

It was "Settlement House Day" in the borough. The girls had pretty little tags, which they pinned on the coat lapels of the "its" to indicate that they had been caught and had bought the right to continue about their daily business.

Editors are always on the job, even in Bound Brook, or more particularly in Bound Brook. That is why D. D. Clark, of the State eCntre Record, was one of the first to be caught, and to pay up. Perhaps he did not know that it was the day when, in Bound Brook, the early bird caught the early tag, or perhaps he both knew that it was and hoped to get tagged a couple of times before the day was over. One of the next persons to get caugnt was Leon W. Dufour, of the Berkeley.

Of course, Mayor Robinson was tagged. He got his little wad out, right where everybody could see him, and paid up like a little man. He paid up more than once before the day was over, too.

Maybe the reason he got that roll out so careless like was because he saw Chief of Police Flammer near by, also helping a piece of money escape from his pocketbook.

"Everybody's Doin' It" was the motto of the occasion. If there was an election tomorrow and former Assemblyman La Monte was a candidate for office, there would be nothing to it if the women had votes, after the amount of money he handed over smilingly in exchange for his tag.

Collector R. B. Crompton found that it was not the day he collected, but the day he paid. He came unsuspectingly down the Main street, and could not understand his sudden popularity with the fair sex. It was soon explained to him.

And the postmaster, W. B. R. Mason—he had no chance to escape at all, except by staying home and neglecting Uncle Sam's business, and it would never do to do anything like that with the political fence so shaky, so he smiled and said he believed in settlement—he would like to have a little in the Rpublican party, he said. But that's another story.

The main thing about it all is that Tag Day was a huge success. As early as 6 o'clock a score of pretty girls, mostly High School pupils, stationed themselves at every point in town, and clever was the man who could escape their request to buy a tag.

The price was "Anything you will give." The enterprise was for the benefit of the Settlement Hous. Mrs. I. S. Whiting, the Misses Tulford, Miss Hayleg, Miss Bigelow and Mrs. La Monte were among the "willing workers."

CONFERENCE WORD OF POWER

Richards, speaking for Dunellen, likewise approved the general plan as outlined by Mr. Holt.

Councilman Duncan W. Taylor briefly reviewed what Plainfield had already done in the matter and concluded by saying that the Council was of the opinion that the Darling site was the most advantageous for a sewage disposal works.

Councilman W. J. Buttfield, acting as the spokesman for North Plainfield, brought out the fact that the latest plan proposed would mean possibly a saving of the difference between $300,000, Mr. Holt's figures, and $328,000, the figures submitted by George Fuller, the engineer, who prepared an estimate for the borough and city, but this in a measure would be offset by the additional cost of $1,000 estimated for pumping the sewage, which it was shown by further questioning would probably be $2,000 for 5,000,000 gallons of sewage a day.

Mr. Buttfield said that with the annual expense the cost of the scheme would be brought to the equivalent of $350,000 or $22,000 over the estimated cost of the Cramer site. The main objection to the Cramer site from the city's standpoint, he said, seemed to be the fact that it would have to spend $30,000 to reach the point of juncture, whereas if the joint trunk line started from the city's present disposal works, the cost of reaching that point would be thrown on the borough.

In the opinion of Mr. Buttfield, this objection was too picayune to be a factor. The borough representatives pointed out that there was no comparison in the two sites as to their isolation. The Darling farm being near the main road and in direct line of improvements, it was maintained that the first consideration was the probable permanency of any site selected. It was shown that the Cramer and Zvolenck sites are flanked with the mountains on the north and swamp land on the south, thus making this territory impossible of large development.

It was suggested by the borough that the wise course would be to submit all three plans, at the Cramer, Zvolenck and Darling sites, to the State Board of Health to find out without delay which one would as a matter of fact meet with its approval. This met with a ready acquiescence from Councilman Gloak, but not from all the members of the Council, as Mr. Holt said that the meeting was called to consider the Darling site.

Street Commissioner A. J. Gavett was frequently called upon to give facts and figures regarding the Darling site according to plans prepared and he was of the opinion that that site would offer the advantage desired. In answer to his question, Mr. Holt informed Joseph O. Osgood that the estimated cost was based on the population of the various municipalities. L. B. Woolston was of the opinion that the city and borough should approve the best plan, even if it cost a little more, for it was important to safe-guard the health of both places.

After it was decided to adjourn the meeting to Wednesday night, June 12, those who could remain did so to listen to a talk by Frank J. Hubbard, civil engineer, who explained plans drawn by himself for a proposed sewage disposal works to be located near Bonhamtown. Mr. Hubbard reviewed what he had previously brought out in a statement to the Common Council. He said that such a plant as he proposed could be built for a half million dollars and that the cost of pumping 3,000,000 gallons of sewage would be about $8,000. This plan, Mr. Hubbard contended, would offer a permanent solution of the problem. He said that he had consulted with contractors and consulting engineers and learned that his estimate of cost and maintainence was about right.

The municipalities were represented at the conference as follows: Plainfield, Mayor G. W. V. Moy, Councilmen Tolles, Taylor, Mygatt, Gloak, Dunn, Holt, Endress, Street Commissioner A. J. Gavett, Frank J. Hubbard; North Plainfield, Mayor Robert Clark, Jr., Councilmen W. J. Buttfield, Alexander Milne, M. C. Van Arsdale, L. B. Wolston and J. O. Osgood, S. St. John McCutchen, E. S. Boyer; Dunellen, Dr. Hogan, A. J. Hamley, A. F. Todd and Charles E. Richards; Scotch Plains, Henry Meyer and I. G. Walker; Fanwood, Mayor W. H. Hoar, Councilmen Cressy, Talmadge, Lott, Norton; Clerk Samuel McAnneny and Burton P. Hall. Edward F. Feickert, of North Plainfield township, was also present.

ALL FOR ANCIENT HISTORY.

The ancient history class of the North Plainfield High School has been having a scrap book contest during the year. They were divided into sides headed by Duclos VanMater and Ralph Smalley. The teams have been trying to get pictures pertaining to their study. This morning it was decided that Duclos VanMater's side had won. The one who brought in the most pictures was Miss Helen Schmit. She was presented with a picture of the poetess Sapho by Miss Eva Terry, the teacher of histories in the school.

SPORTS OF ALL SORTS

JUST TAPS BY "BUNTS"

It's King Horse in Plainfield today. Judging from the weather at noon there will not be much of a crowd out to watch the high steppers, either.

Jack Martin, who has been out of the game with the Yankees because of injury, joined them again yesterday at Cleveland. He had only one opportunity to distinguish himself, when he ran the bases for MacConnell in the fifth inning. MacConnell had been put in to bat for Quinn, who was taken out because he could not hold things down. The Yanks lost, 7 to 0.

Local Yale and Princeton alumni are looking forward to the game on Saturday in the Tiger's lair. The Princeton tossers defeated Yale on Saturday last at New Haven, 6 to 1, but for all that, it was a fine game, and gives promise that the game on Saturday will be well worth seeing. The usual big commencement crowd is looked for, and all the old grads will parade around the field in the fancy costumes prior to the game. There will be a large contingent from Plainfield.

The latest white hope, Jim Flynn, is training hard for his mix-up with Jack Johnson, which takes places on the Fourth of July, at LasVegas, New Mexico. There is not half the interest being maintained in the bout as was the case two years ago, pgior to the Jeffries-Johnson "argument." About the best way to develop a "white hope" is to let Johnson go on living in the same manner as he has been since he trimmed Jeff, and at the end of a couple of years he will not be able to come back, no matter what man is pitted against him.

There will be more matches in the novice event at tennis at the Country Club tomorrow. They will undoubtedly bring out some splendid play.

Saturday the Manufacturers' League will again be in action. The team from the banks will tackle the Commercials, who are in undisputed possession of the first place, while the Saurer players will strive to get out of the cellar when they play R. G. E., now occupying second place. The Spicer men and Public Service players will complete the day's schedule.

Leal School students will hold a track meet tomorrow afternoon. A number of good events are carded, and while there are no bright stars known to exist among the students it is possible that some will be developed during the day.

It's certainly scandalous the way Brooklyn has been able to keep out of the cellar in the National League. They are breaking all records for the length of time they have been able to keep one from the bottom.

The Yankees seem to be having a hard time this year, too, and are but a few games from the bottom. The season is young yet, however, and there are a whole lot of people who still think the Yanks will be heard from before the final bell rings.

It is mighty seldom that a sport item gets on the front page of a New York newspaper, and yet George Horine, the Stanford University high jumper, so astonished the sporting men yesterday that he got a scare head in all the papers. Six feet, eight and a quarter inches is certainly some jump, even if it was not an official record, and it is pretty certain now that he will go to Copenhagen to bring home the bacon in that event for the American Olympic contenders.

It took Yale eleven innings yesterday to beat Dartmouth, 6 to 5. This was one of the first extra-inning college games of the season. Princeton landed on the boys from Amherst, 11 to 1. That gives little chance for comparison of the two teams for Saturday's game.

JOHNNY REIFF.

American Jockey Pilots Winner of Classic English Derby.

Although Herman Duryea's Sweeper II., ridden by Danny Maher, disappointed the majority of people at Epsom Downs, especially the Americans, by failing to win the Derby, finishing seventh, the United States loomed large in the race for the blue ribbon of the English turf. It was an American jockey, Johnny Reiff, who piloted W. Rafael's gray filly Tagalie across the tape by four lengths, and it was August Belmont's Tracery, which ran for the first time, that secured third place.

HIGHEST JUMP EVER IS MADE BY HORINE

Six Feet Eight and a Quarter Inches Recorded.

New York, June 6.—George Horine, the Stanford university high jumper who apparently will be America's chief reliance in his event at the Olympic games, walked slowly toward the bar at Travers Island, took the two or three quick preliminary steps in the style which his success has made famous, and then rose into the air with a mighty bound to drop cleanly to earth the opposite side of a bar raised exactly six feet eight and a quarter inches in the air. His leap was an inch and a quarter higher than his own best previous mark and is higher than any other man in the world has ever jumped unaided.

Horine's great leap will not go down on the records though it was accurately measured with a steel tape by Simon P. Gillies and C. C. Childs, the former Yale athlete. But it was made simply for practice and not in contest and will not be counted, therefore, so far as official records go, because of the absence of the regulations which must govern all trials for records. It was, nevertheless, the greatest unaided leap for height a human being ever made.

E. is the strongest team in the Manufarturers' League and has not lost a game this season. The Royals also have their first game to lose this season. CRANFORD GETS TIGHT GAME WITH P. H. S.

Four-run Lead in the Eighth Not Enough to Save Plainfield.

The Cranford High School nine defeated Plainfield High School yesterday at Cranford by a score of 13 to 12. It was only after an up hill contest, however, that the Cranford boys clinched the game in the ninth, after tieing the score by hard hitting in the eighth inning.

The local High School boys collected three runs in the eighth inning, establishing a lead of 11 to 7, but four runs by the Cranford nine tied the score. Green went to first on Davenport's error and scored on Gilmore's single. Toole made two bases on a bingle, scoring Gilmore and continued to third on the throw to home. Tool scored on Chamberlain's single. Chamberlain went to second and third when Nash threw wild and scored when Bell was thrown out at first.

P. H. S. could only manage one run in the ninth, when Nash got a two-bagger and came home after Denny had reached first on Gross' error.

Cranford took the game in the ninth. Green was retired at first. Gilmmore came to the front with a home run hit into the woods. Tool followed suit with a two-bagger and bell finished the game with another two-bagger, scoring Tool.

LEAL'S CHAMPION WILL BE DISCLOSED BY MEET

Leal School athletes will have a try-out tomorrow afternoon at the Plainfield Driving Park, when they will hold a track meet. During its many succeesful years the school has turned out a number of young men who have become prominent in the athletic world, but of late there has been little talent found among the students. The student body will be divided, for the meet, into three seniors, juniors and sub-juniors, and the winner of the most points in the seniors will be considered the all-around champion of the school. A gold medal will be the trophy for this honor. Medals will also be awarded to the highest point winners in the classes.

Then senior events will be 100 and 220 yard dashes, 880 yard run, running broad jump and twelve pound shot-put. In the junior contests the events will be the same except that she shot will weigh but eight pounds. The sub-junior boys will have a 50 yard dash, a 440 yard run, high and broad jumps and eight pound shot-put.

DOUBLE HEADER BILL AT CRESCENT OVAL SATURDAY

The management of the Plainfield Baseball Club has arranged for another double bill at Crescent Oval, Saturday afternoon, and both games should attract a record-breaking crowd. The first contest at 2 o'clock will be between the Garwood-Rushmore team, leaders in the Manufacturers' League, and the Royal Colored Giants, of this city. These teams are playing fast ball at present.

At 3.45 o'clock, the Plainfield team will meet the Washington aggregation of the United States League. Either Smith, of Toronto, or Frederickson, will be in the box for the locals. The manager of the Washington team has promised to play his regular lineup with his best twirler.

The Plainfield team will play Bound Brook on Crescent Oval on Saturday, June 15, and it is likely that the Lincoln Colored Giants will be here for a return game on Saturday, June 22.

PITCHER ROWAN TELLS WHY HE GOT SIGNALS CROSSED.

"On the trip south this spring we had among the other candidates for the team a young catcher whose chief feature was a long nose—a snout that was really a wonder in its way, says Jack Rowan, the big pitcher of the Philadelphia Nationals. That beak stood out in pride and prominence, and the bugle bone by Wild Bill Donovan, for example, wasn't a marker to the proboscis of this catcher. Rowan took a fancy to the lad and had him assigned to catch him in an exhibition game. Just before the battle they discussed signals for the afternoon and agreed on quite a lengthy code. Among the signs they decided to use was a call for a straight ball, which the young catcher was to give by laying the forefinger of his right hand along the front of his mask, in a careless manner, the batsman, if he even noticed the move, being sure to think only that the boy was straightening his headgear. The sign for a curve would be two fingers placed on the front of the mask, and they had a lot of other complications.

"The game began, and the boy signaled Rowan with one finger for a straight ball. Whoop! In came a fast curve and hit the kid on the shoulder. He walked down to the slab.

"'You crossed me, then, Mr. Rowan,' said he. 'I called for a straight ball.'

"'You called for a curve,' said Rowan, 'for I distinctly saw you.'

"They wrangled awhile, and then the catcher, retiring to his place, again called for a straight ball. This time he got a curve that hit him on the chin of the mask and almost dropped him.

"'Say, Mr. Rowan,' he howled, 'one of us is crazy. That's twice I've asked for a straight ball and twice you've crossed me.'

"'Crossed nothing!' bellowed Rowan. 'I saw you call for a curve. Now get back there, and we'll try it over.'

"Once more the boy signaled with one finger for a straight ball. Then Rowan walked in and studied him for a minute.

"'No wonder,' Rowan finally exclaimed, 'that we got the signals crossed. Your nose is so long that it sticks way out of the mask, and I thought it was another finger.'"

STREET AFTER RECORD.

New York Catcher Hopes to Pass One Thousand Game Mark Behind Plate.

In Charley "Gabby" Street the New York Yankees have a catcher who has probably caught more games of ball since he became a professional in 1903 than any other receiver in the business. Billy Sullivan, Larry McLean and Roger Bresnahan have been hard tollers, but it is doubtful if any member of this trio has averaged more than 100 games to the season since he became a regular catcher.

CATCHER STREET OF NEW YORK AMERICANS.

Street has been in professional baseball since 1903. In the nine years he has caught just exactly 931 games, and before the curtain drops at the close of the 1912 campaign Street will likely have passed the 1,000 mark.

Rothberg's Is Commencing to Mean Something

I hear wailings of slack business now and then. I hear people chortle that the country is going to the "daschunds."

But it seems that the stores that sell the best merchandise at the lowest prices need never worry.

I haven't been established very long, but nevertheless the letters "S R" are commencing to stand for something, and the army of well-dressed, purse-caring men who "Get Rothberged" are my best advertisements.

Let me show you what smart wearing apparel really means.

MARINES IN CUBA; BATTLESHIPS SAIL

Alarming Reports Force the United States to Action.

HAVANA WELCOMES TROOPS

Sinister Phase of Situation Is Bruta Attacks by Negroes on White Women American Residents In Terror—Railroad Property Destroyed.

Washington, June 6.—The Cuban situation advanced one step further toward a third American intervention with the sending of 450 United States marines into Cuban territory followed by the order for four battleships of the Atlantic fleet, carrying 1,000 marines, to proceed at once to Guantanamo.

The moves were accompanied by and in response to the most alarming reports of conditions in Cuba. All information received in Washington from numerous sources realized fears previously entertained by the progress of the negro uprising. Depredations on American property by the negro rebels are increasing and Americans in Cuba are now demanding that the United States afford that protection to American interests which the Cuban government has failed to provide.

To Be Used Only as Guides.

The 450 marines now on Cuban soil in the Guantanamo district, under command of Colonel Lucas, are to be used at present only as guards for American sugar estates and other American properties. There is no intention of using the 1,000 additional marines which will be in Guantanamo within the next few hours for any other purpose. Reports that the American forces are to take part in the pursuit of and attack upon the negroes are false. This work is to be left to the Cuban soldiery.

Admiral Osterhaus, commander in chief of the Atlantic fleet and personally in command of the first squadron of nine warships at Key West, wired the navy department that he would send to Guantanamo the four ships of the four division. These are the Minnesota, Mississippi, Missouri and Ohio. All are battleships having on board besides 1,000 marines more than 2,000 bluejackets, who may be used for landing parties. The four ships are under command of Rear Admiral Usher.

White Women Attacked.

What is regarded as one of the most sinister phases of the situation in eastern Cuba, as it has developed in the last few days, is the increase in the brutal attacks on white women. Four separate instances of such outrages were reported to the state department.

All occurred in Oriente province, which from the first has been the principal field of operations of the negroes. In one case the home of a former high official of the provincial government was entered by a band of negroes. The father and his son were bound by the marauders, who then outraged the mother and two daughters of the family in the presence of the two men. The son, succeeding in breaking his bonds, was killed on the spot. Though no American women have been attacked thus far, fear holds sway in every American family resident in the affected regions.

Railroad Property Destroyed.

M. H. Lewis, president and general manager of the Guantanamo and Western railroad, which operates for eighty-one miles through the region in which the negroes are most active, called at the state and war departments to demand adequate protection for the property of his company. Mr. Lewis said that the railroad company has already suffered about $20,000 damage, according to advices from his managers, from depredations of the negroes, two stations being burned and other property destroyed.

Among the American sugar estates reported in critical situations are those known as Los Canos, Santa Cecilia, San Carlos, Santa Maria, Isabel and Soledad. These are all in the Guantanamo district. The managers of all these companies have appealed to the American legation, and Minister Beaupre has directed the attention of the Cuban government to their danger.

Havana Welcomes Troops.

Havana, June 6.—The majority of Americans and foreigners in Havana will be deeply disappointed and disgusted unless the American government quickly declares itself in favor of intervention. The conditions are such that when it was reported that American marines had landed near Guantanamo and that four battleships were on the way, two to Santiago and two to Havana, that business took on a boom. Stocks went up and trading on the exchange was lively.

Canada Joins In Peace Move.

Ottawa, Ont., June 6.—The Canadian Peace Centenary association has been formed here to co-operate with the United States and Great Britain in celebrating the hundredth anniversary of the signing of the peace treaty between the United States and Great Britain in 1814.

General Aquila Wiley Dead.

Wooster, O., June 6.—Brigadier General Aquila Wiley, civil war veteran and attorney, died here, aged eighty. He was defeated for congress by William McKinley in 1877.

ROOT LIKELY WILL BE THE CHAIRMAN

Taft Men Planning to Make Him Permanent.

PRELIMINARY SKIRMISH ON

Said New York Senator Has Thirty-five and Possibly Thirty-eight of the Fifty-three Members of the National Committee.

Chicago, June 6.—With the preliminary skirmish in the Republican contest over the Presidential nomination only a few hours off the leaders of the Taft and Roosevelt forces, who have been gathering here in great numbers, expressed the greatest confidence in the outcome. The patter of the musketry on a battlefield which promises to become historic in the Republican national party is heard.

The desultory firing began immediately after the arrival of most of the members of the Republican national committee. Their entrance to the convention city was coincident with the arrival of Director William B. McKinley of the national Taft bureau and of Senator Joseph M. Dixon, manager of the Roosevelt campaign, and their corps of secretaries, etc. McKinley and Dixon almost instantly issued bulletins respectively for Taft and Roosevelt. But with the national committeeman on the field little attention was paid to these statements of claims and counter claims.

Root Looks Like Winner.

The information gathered from the most reliable sources is to the effect that at today's meeting of the national committee it will be demonstrated that about thirty-five of its members, and possibly more, will uphold the subcommittee of arrangements in its stand that Senator Elihu Root of New York shall be the temporary chairman of the convention. It is even stated that thirty-eight members of the fifty-three will support Senator Root.

It was further stated in view of Colonel Roosevelt's opposition to him there is a movement already inaugurated to make Senator Root the permanent as well as the temporary chairman of the convention.

Chairman Harry S. New of the subcommittee of arrangements had long talks with Senator Crane of Massachusetts, Charles F. Brooker of Connecticut, Franklin Murphy of New Jersey, William L. Ward of New York, Victor Rosewater of Nebraska, Frank B. Kellogg of Minnesota and other influential and important national committeemen over the proposition of Mr. Taft that newspaper correspondents should be present at the hearing of the contests before the national committee.

Admit Press Associations.

It was apparent that the national committee desires to acquiesce in President Taft's wishes, but they pointed out that there are nearly 1,000 newspaper correspondents on the field at this moment. It is probable the national committee will decide to admit two representatives of each press association.

Chairman New also had a long talk with William L. Ward, national committeeman from New York, on the distribution of tickets. Mr. Ward, according to party usages, as national committeeman for New York, is to be handed the tickets for New York by Colonel New, and Mr. Ward is to distribute them among the New Yorkers.

On June 18 the Delegates Will Meet to Choose Candidates For President and Vice President—It Will Be the Largest Convention Ever Assembled—How the Big Event Will Be Handled.

By JAMES ARTHUR.

THE Republican national convention of 1912 meets on June 18, the one hundredth anniversary of the beginning of the war of 1812. If this is an omen of anything it is that there will be war in that gathering, a thing so probable that it needs no omen. One of the battles of 100 years ago was at Fort Dearborn, standing where Chicago now stands, thus lending local emphasis to the foreboding. If further proof is needed that there is to be a fight it is furnished by the fact that William Howard Taft and Theodore Roosevelt are the leading candidates. Robert M. La Follette and Albert Baird Cummins are also candidates and are also something in the fighting line.

The convention hall is Chicago's famous coliseum that has seen so many conventions in the past. It is the successor to the coliseum built for the Democratic convention of 1896, when William Jennings Bryan won the nomination by his "cross of gold" speech. The writer was present on that occasion and still remembers the tingle of that oratorical triumph.

For the coming convention the new coliseum is being remodeled and refurnished. This was all worked out on paper long before the convention, and as soon as the building was turned over to the national committee a force of carpenters began to rush the work. Railings were to be put in place, seats arranged and all the thousand and one details to be looked after throughout the vast hall.

Thousand and One Details.

Another problem has been the decorations. This contract was given separately. The state guidons, festooning of the national colors, display of flags and of portraits all had to be planned carefully and executed quickly.

The printing and giving out of tickets were also a man's job. There are many varieties of these admission cards, as delegates, alternates, national committee, stage, press and visitors in all the various sections of the building must have tickets for each session and each day and for numbered seats. The tickets are under the absolute control of the national committee. Because of the press of visitors the giving out of these pasteboards has to be carefully guarded. The hall seats something more than 11,000.

These represent only the beginning of the details. Elaborate preparations have had to be made for the press. Not only does every important paper in the country send one or more representatives, but the press associations have a large number of men, and there is a small army of telegraph operators, stenographers, messengers and other helpers.

There is also an army of doorkeepers, ushers and sergeants-at-arms. Badges must be supplied, and there are almost as many kinds of these as of tickets. Music must be provided, although this is comparatively simple, since only one official band is stationed in the convention hall. The numerous bands in the streets and hotels come voluntarily or are supplied by various candidates, delegations and marching clubs.

The foregoing covers but a small part of the machinery of the convention. There are many other details, such as doctors and nurses, for possible contingencies. Among these contingencies is not included a free fight, or at least so let us hope. Fighting there will be, but not of the physical variety. Yet there are many accidents that could happen in a convention hall, such as the breaking down of platforms or seats, fire, panics and the like. Delegates and visitors are liable to be overcome by the heat. All of these contingencies must be provided for. Various concessions, including those for lemonade, fans, flags, canes, buttons, etc., are to be given out. Noise producers are also in demand, although there are always plenty of these in human form.

The national committee makes up the temporary roll. This means that it must bear all contests, of which there is an unusually large number this year. Of course the committee's decision is not final since the convention passes on the credentials of its own members. Yet, in fact, the committee's decision will be final in most cases, for the reason that those on the temporary roll will have power to vote as to determining all contests in the convention except those in which the delegates voting are personally concerned. Thus the national committee's action on these contests may determine the actual complexion of the convention, especially if it is close.

Largest Convention Ever Assembled.

The number of delegates in the Republican national convention is 1,076. There has been some confusion on this point owing to the fact that New Mexico claimed 8 delegates, whereas the call apportions her only 6. If she is allowed 8 the total will be swelled to 1,078. In all the territories or dependencies, excepting Hawaii, the number is 2. Hawaii is allowed 6. New York heads the list with 90. Pennsylvania comes next with 76. Illinois is third with 58, Ohio fourth with 48 and Texas fifth with 40. Massachusetts and Missouri have 36 each, Indiana and Michigan 30 each, Georgia and New Jersey 28 each, California, Iowa, Kentucky and Wisconsin 26 each; Alabama, Minnesota, North Carolina, Tennessee and Virginia 24 each; Kansas, Louisiana, Mississippi and Oklahoma 20 each; Arkansas and South Carolina 18 each; Maryland, Nebraska and West Virginia 16 each; Connecticut and Washington 14 each; Colorado, Florida and Maine 12 each; North Dakota, Oregon, Rhode Island and South Dakota 10 each; Idaho, Montana, New Hampshire, Utah and Vermont 8 each; Arizona, Delaware, Hawaii, Nevada, New Mexico and Wyoming 6 each, and Alaska, District of Columbia, Philippine Islands and Porto Rico 2 each. That makes just 1,076—count 'em. The Republican national convention of this year is larger than any ever assembled before. The delegates alone would make up an ordinary sized military regiment. There are as many more alternates, several hundred newspaper men, several hundred more distinguished citizens, convention officials and Mr. Common People, with his numerous family.

Most Americans are now familiar with the scene presented by the average national convention either through having attended at least one such gathering in person or through pictures and descriptions in the press. In their main features these conventions are all alike. There are variations, of course, due to particular causes, but the scene presented to the eye, the course of procedure, the speeches, the balloting, the cheering, the decorations and the other accessories that go to make up these popular party assemblages make one national convention as like another as two peas in a pod.

Color, Perspiration and Enthusiasm.

The writer has attended eight national conventions and has kept fairly close track of others for a matter of twenty-five years. A general description of one will answer for all. They are always swelteringly hot. Pack from 10,000 to 20,000 human beings in one building in June or July and it could not be otherwise. The three chief features are color, perspiration and enthusiasm. A great barnlike structure, with girders, pillars and every other exposed projection festooned with bunting and flags; seats arranged in a vast amphitheater, sloping up from the pit in which sit the delegates; guidons on which are the names of the states on long poles attached to delegates' chairs along the aisles; beyond the circle of delegates the chairman's platform, banked with distinguished guests; up aloft in some little cubbyhole of a balcony the band, which keeps up an incessant playing as the delegates and visitors stream in; the audience divided off into sections by railings; perhaps there is a gallery or two away back on the outer fringes of the great hall; everywhere the national colors, in wreaths, rosettes and garlands, flags of all sizes and suspended at all angles; gigantic portraits of famous party leaders of the past—that is the picture.

After going through the press of the crowds, passing the doorkeepers and threading our way through long mazes to our seats we take in all these details one by one or get their effect in mass. The seats are now rapidly filling. Down in the pit there are a few knots of delegates. Soon there is a salvo of applause as some party leader enters at the head of his delegation. This is redoubled as another familiar figure takes his place. Perhaps it is a senator, a well known governor or a popular congressman. Maybe it is only a state boss.

The hour arrives for opening the session, but still there is no sign of life at the chairman's table. Perhaps he is engaged in some important caucus or conference. The delegates and spectators continue arriving, and the band industriously pounds away at ragtime, marches and national airs. Now the chairman suddenly appears at his place. If it is the opening session he is the chairman of the national committee. His gavel whacks like a distant woodpecker. The hubbub and buzz of conversation gradually cease. The chairman announces prayer, though we do not hear him, but arise because everybody else does. Possibly we catch some echo of the minister's voice, possibly not. If God doesn't hear him any better than we do the invocation is in vain. Anyway, it is ended, and we are all again seated. Then the secretary reads the call. Nobody tries to hear this, and the buzz of conversation resumes. Now the temporary organization is announced and the temporary chairman introduced amid cheers. He is usually an orator with a voice of some carrying power. Consequently we can follow him at least in spots, and join intelligently in the applause that marks the periods. This is supposed to be a keynote speech, profusely interlarded with praise for our party and abuse of the other, and we cheer both indiscriminately.

SENATOR ELIHU ROOT, ADMINISTRATION CANDIDATE FOR TEMPORARY CHAIRMAN.

Coming to the Climax.

At the end of the temporary chairman's speech confusion reigns again. The various delegations are now announcing their members of the committees on credentials, on platform and on permanent organization. This does not interest us, and we use our eyes instead of our ears. Likewise we use our fan, if we are so fortunate as to have one, otherwise our hat or a newspaper folded fan shape. The later sessions vary from the opening one, the excitement gradually mounting. The report of the credentials committee brings a clash of oratory and of voting, the permanent chairman makes another keynote speech, the platform is liberally cheered and adopted after several speeches have been made for and against it, and at last the boards are cleared for action. The hour has come for the nomination of a candidate for president of the United States.

In the Chicago convention the call to order will be made by Victor Rosewater, acting chairman of the national committee since the death of Chairman Hill of Maine. Mr. Rosewater, though a young man, is editor and owner of the Omaha Bee.

As to the other events of that great gathering up to and including the nomination of the Republican candidate for president—well, I am not now working at the trade of political prophery. However, I will hazard just one prediction—there will be a fight.

An Autocratic Suggestion.

Have you any suggestions about how this jail ought to be run?" said the philanthropic visitor.

"Yes," replied the man who had seen better days. "I think it would command more respect for the warden's authority if you were to change his title to 'janitor.'"—Washington Star.

SENATOR NIXON DIES; NO DOCTORS AT HAND

Wife Discharges Specialists For Christian Scientists.

Washington, June 6.—George S. Nixon, United States senator from Nevada and millionaire mine owner, died in the Episcopal Ear, Eye and Throat hospital in this city from serebrospinal meningitis. He was fifty-two years old.

Mrs. Nixon, who is speeding across the continent for Washington, having left her home in Nevada, accompanied by her son, Bertram, in the hope of reaching the bedside of her husband before the end, sent a telegram discharging the distinguished physicians attending her husband and appointing a Christian Science healer in their place.

During his last hours Senator Nixon had nothing to ease his pain or stay the disease except the nonmedical treatment of William H. Campbell, a practitioner of the First Church of Christ, Scientist, of this city. In accordance with Christian Science ethics no medicine was administered.

Senator Nixon had been unconscious ever since he was operated on some days ago. He had been attended by Dr. William Beverly Mason of this city and Dr. Harvey Cushing of John Hopkins university at Baltimore, who were discharged to make way for the Christion Science healer.

NEW YORKER KILLS SELF.

Adolph Meyer Ends Life In Hotel at Atlantic City.

Atlantic City, N. J., June 6.—Adolph Meyer of New York shot and killed himself in an Atlantic avenue hotel, where he took a room Tuesday night. The police gained entrance to the room through a window from a porch roof. Meyer was found dead with a pistol wound in the head. A revolver was still clinched in his right hand.

In the room were found $1.15, a pair of antique gold earrings and an old silver watch and chain. Nothing is known here as to his identity other than that he has conducted a bakery in New York. He has been in the city only two days. An envelope bearing the printed address H. C. Meyer company, 26 Leonard street, New York, was found in his pocket.

BOY KILLED IN STRIKE RIOT.

Several Others Injured In Clash Between Police and Laborers.

Newark, N. J., June 6.—A high school boy was killed, two men and two women were shot and seriously wounded and three others were badly beaten in a riot which was precipitated by striking laborers in this city. The riot followed an attempt by the police to arrest a woman who was throwing stones at a gang of laborers in the cut of the Lackawanna railroad.

The dead boy was Edward Faulks, sixteen years old, a pupil of the Central Commercial and Manual Training high school. He was shot in the head, the bullet passing through the brain. He died in the City hospital. All the injured were taken to the City hospital.

SELECT NAME FOR NEW LOCAL BUSINESS SCHOOL

The name selected from the 78 suggested for Plainfield's new business college is The Business Training Institute. It was submitted by Mrs. J. D. Macnab, 438 West Sixth street, who will receive the prize of $5 in gold offered by the management.

The proprietors of the new school are Miss S. Pauline Denton and C. H. Bowser. They are both well prepared for the work they are undertaking. During the past year they have been teaching in the Drake College. Since last June the school has graduated 32 students, all of whom are in positions, and about 10 more are soon to be graduated, making this the most successful year in the history of the college.

The proprietors feel much encouraged by the interest shown in the new school by the people of Plainfield and the surrounding towns, and they wish to extend a general invitation to visit the Institute.

Many changes in the curriculum are contemplated which will make the school one of the most up-to-date in New Jersey.

HOUDON WILL EXPOSE SPIRITUALISM AT Y. M. C. A.

An entertainment will be given in Y. M. C. A. Hall next Monday and Tuesday evenings by Houdon, the man of mystery. Working without apparatus or paraphernalia, with stage cleared and lights on, Houdon causes the most perplexing phenomena to appear in view of everybody. He first gives a remarkable demonstration of thought-reading and then, by the use of little-understood natural forces, gives a convincing exposure of spiritualism.

Houdon's ability as a thought-reader is wonderful. At a recent entertainment, he requested a committee of citizens to select a gentleman to a sit in a demonstration of telepathy. Houdon took the stranger chosen by the hand and asked him to pick out a face in the audience, keeping silent as to his choice. Houdon was then blindfolded and, holding the principal by the hand, pushed through the aisles of the hall and back to the platform where he gave a description of the man selected.

Houdon maintains that spiritualistic phenomena are due either to legerdemain or to the operation of some force corresponding to magnetism. His demonstrations, using these agencies, are wonderful. His frequent appearances before Y. M. C. A. audiences affords a sufficient guarantee of the high character of his work. Popular prices will prevail at the box office.

Told by His Tip.

While the customer dined two waiters stood behind his chair making bets as to whether his refusal of wine was due to teetotalism or parsimony.

"Wait till he finishes eating," said the one who had served the meal, "and I'll find out."

The dinner concluded, he pronounced his verdict.

"He is a teetotaler, not a miser," he said. "He gave twice the usual tip. Teetotalers always do that to prove that they abstain from principle, not stinginess."—New York Sun.

CONTESTANTS TO APPEAL KERON COFFEY WILL SUIT

Elizabeth, June 6.—The dismissal of the caveat against the will of Keron Coffey, of Rahway, entered by Judge Atwater yesterday will be appealed to the prerogative court by J. A. Kiernan, counsel for the caveators.

Four children of the testator filed the caveat, alleging that their father was unduly influenced in drawing his will by the terms of which his daughter, Mrs. Michael Sullivan, of Rahway, was made the principal beneficiary.

COURT ORDER TERMINATES LONG BATTLE OVER WILL

Elizabeth, June 6.—Litigation over the will of Sarah A. Russell, which has lasted for twenty-four years, ended yesterday when Judge Atwater granted an application to allow the share of a missing heir to be paid into court so that the claims of eleven other heirs could be settled. Mrs. Russel died in 1888. In her will she provided for the payment of the income from her $25,000 estate to her daughter during life.

At the daughter's death the estate was to be divided between Isaac W. and William W. Morris, brothers of the testator. Both men died before Mrs. Russell's daughter. Isaac left three children and William left nine, the issue of three marriages, the legality of one of which was questioned.

The complications arising from this situation were finlly settled by the court allowing all of the children to share in the estate. One of these could not be located, hence the application to have his share paid into court.

Tomorrow night there will be an automobile parade in Washington in which 9,000 machines, brilliantly lighted, will take part. Saturday morning will be the big parade. It is estimated that there will be 50,000 Knights of Columbus in line in addition to 10,000 soldiers. Saturday night a banquet will be given in convention hall, covers being laid for 1,800. President Taft, the Cabinet officers and the ambassadors will attend the unveiling of the monument. PROSPECTS OF SETTLEMENT IN THE MACHINISTS' STRIKE

Indications point to a speedy settlement of the machinists' strike. The men are hopeful of being able to resume work on Monday. The manufacturers have practically acceded to their demands, with the slight modification that the eight hour day will not take effect till January 1, 1914. That was the message that the representative of the strikers brought to the men today after a conference with the heads of the firms.

The leaders urged the men to accept the terms. But there seems to be diversity of opinion, and a discussion raged around its acceptance for two hours this morning with no definite result.

This afternoon a further meeting will be held when, it is hoped that a decision will be reached. If not, a serious deadlock is feared, and it may be several weeks or months before the matter is amicably settled. But the wise and persuasive judgment and eloquence of H. V. Reilly will it is believed carry the day. Along with J. J. Kepler he has been working night and day to bring about an eight hour day.

The firms are said to be anxious that the men should return to work as there are a number of pressing orders that must be filled. The fear of the new tariff bill still lingers n the minds of some of the manufacturers and it is the consensus of opinion that they would have given way at once to the demands of the men had it not been for that. But among the leaders of the strikers the opinion s prevalent that even if the bill receives the signature of the President it will not have the results anticipated.

Reports from the Langs & Fuchs management in Bergen county are reassuring and it is stated that they are only awaiting the action of the Plainfield manufacturers to follow suit. Some of the firms have been very hard to negotiate with, refusing to take the initiative but the example set by Walter Scott Printing Machine Company which was the first to concede a slight concession when the intention of the men was made manifest gave them the necessary intimation that they were not slow to follow.

This afternoon's meeting, it is expected, will be decisive one way or the other. Some of the men are beginning to display signs of restlessness from an enforced holiday and many of them are wishful that they were back at work. But there will be no backsliders, the leaders say.

TRADING STAMP KING'S HOME DESTROYED BY FIRE

A defective electric fuse caused a destructive fire in the home of Thomas A. Sperry, of the firm of Sperry & Hutchinson, in Cranford, this morning. The damage is estimated at $150,000, but is covered by insurance.

The alarm was given by a passing workman at 5:30 a. m., who saw flames issuing from the basement. The fire companies of Cranford and Westfield responded.

The costly residence was enveloped in a thick cloud of smoke when the firemen arrived. Mrs. Sperry ably helped the firemen and gave directions for the rescue of several of the servants who were in danger of suffocation. All the inmates were taken out safely and the work of saving numerous costly articles and bric-a-bric, which Mrs. Sperry prized, was begun.

The whole interior of the house was destroyed. Many valuable paintings and works of art being ruined. The fire was under control about seven o'clock, though it continued smouldering for many hours afterwards.

MISS KENYON'S "GIRLS" REUNITE

Alumnae Luncheon at the Seminary Yesterday Was a Delightful Affair.

TWO PLAYS PRESENTED

Enthusiastic Greeting for Principal Emeritus—Speech by Miss Arnold—Vote of Thanks to Class of 1905, Which Arranged Lunch.

The annual Alumnae luncheon was held at the Seminary yesterday, and in spite of the rain, 120 former students from all over this section of he country were welcomed back to the old school. At the southern end of the main study hall an arbor of peonies, rhododendrons and maple leaves formed a most attractive background for the tables, which were decorated with baskets of buttercups and daisies.

During the luncheon, Miss Kenyon, the principal-emeritus, who founded the Seminary 45 years ago, spoke a few words to her old girls, and was greeted with wild enthusiasm. Later, a school song written for the occasion by Miss Kenyon, was sung by all standing, with three rousing cheers at the end for its author.

Miss Arnold, the principal of the Seminary, made a most interesting speech, taking a clause of the constitution of the association as her text. Following this, Mrs. Leighton Calkins, president of the association, announced three prizes to be awarded each year by the association to pupils of the Seminary. The first, a $10 gold piece for English; the second, $10 in gold for general excellence; the third, a $5 gold piece for physical training.

Mrs. Calkins also spoke of the many letters received on this occasion from Seminary girls all over the world who were unable to be present. Following the luncheon two plays were presented.

The first play, called "The Port Admiral," sent the audience into shrieks. "Giles, a virtuous peasant," was well acted by Miss Margaret Curtis, of New York; "Lord Othemanor," a villianous land-owner, was imper-

HOLY CROSS GUILD GIVES COUNTRY FAIR

At Which an Unexpected Exhibit is a Birthday Cake for the Rector.

The Young Women's Guild of Holy Cross church gave a country fair and circus yesterday afternoon and evening that far outshone anything of the kind in the history of the parish for a long time. There were sideshows where strange and wonderful animals were exhibited by Miss Ruth Western; a palmist's booth, where for a consideration the sure future was disclosed by Mrs. John K. Roundy; a stereopticon display by Miss Madeline Ashwell and other delightful things that pleased the large number of people attending the affair. As a result a considerable sum was realized for the piano fund.

Miss Miriam Carman was the general chairman of the committee of arrangements, and she was assisted by Miss Iola Moore, Miss Dorothy Langfred, Miss Annette Van Mater, Miss Catherine Sill, Miss Catherine Elliott, Miss Helen Nischwitz, Miss Ray Pla de Vinney, Miss Agnes Van Norden and Miss Helen Sutton.

An interesting event not on the program, was the presentation of a large birthday cake by Herbert Langford to the rector, Rev. William S. McCoy. Afterward those present took the opportunity to congratulate Mr. McCoy and wish him many happy returns of the day.

PICTURE OF SANE FOURTH.

A remarkable educational film by the Edison Company entitled "A Sane Fourth of July," will be shown at the Y. M. C. A. motion picture entertainments tomorrow afternoon and evening. This film has been widely used in the movement for a safe and sane "Fourth." It shows what might be done to observe the day without the use of dangerous fire-works and firearms. Other pictures of a most interesting program will be "Further Adventures of a Girl Spy," "Brave Women of 1776," "Catching the Deep Sea Turtle," "Opening an Oyster."

STRAWBERRY FESTIVAL.

There will be home-made cake and candy on sale in addition to the strawberries and ice cream. An orchestra will enliven the evening with selections.

AUTO AND STREET CAR IN A SMASH

Five in Danger as Collision Occurs, But No One Is Hurt.

CAR DERAILED BY BUMP

Chauffeur Says Truck Hid Approaching Trolley From His View—Motorman Says He Thought the Track Was Clear.

An automobile owned by Howard McWilliams, of Hillside avenue, and being driven by his chauffeur, Clarence Mansfield, collided with an Arlington avenue trolley car run by Motorman Mark Hipp and in the charge of Conductor Michael Nevins, at Park avenue and Fourth street, at 10 o'clock this morning. The automobile, a touring type, was considerably damaged, the front axle, springs and mud guards being badly twisted and the body more or less scratched. The damage to the trolley consisted of the breaking of several stanchions and a portion of the running board.

The force of the collision threw the trolley off the tracks and it ran a distance of ten feet or more before stopping. The automobile, which was going south on Park avenue, was turned completely around and landed on the sidewalk in front of W. L. Smalley's meat market on the corner.

Mr. Mansfield was the only one in the automobile and was not injured. W. E. MacClymont, of Woodbine avenue, and a Mrs. Wheeler, of Dunellen, were the only passengers on the trolley and neither was hurt, although both received a shock. Mansfield and the crew of the car were placed under arrest and taken to police headquarters, where they were afterward released on their own recognizance to appear for a hearing tomorrow morning.

Responsibility for the accident has not been determined. Mansfield says that he was going about fifteen miles an hour and as he approached Fourth street on Park avenue, a large truck backed up to the curb obscured his vision. He declared that as soon as he saw the trolley he applied his brakes, but did not have time enough to prevent the collision.

Judging by where the trolley was hit, it must have been about half-way across Park avenue and the force of the collision threw it off the tracks sideways and started it toward the gutter. Hipp, the motorman, says that he applied his brakes as quickly as possible but there was no way of escape for his car. It is the rule that all trolley cars approaching Park avenue from either direction must come to a dead stop before crossing the avenue. Motorman Hipp says that he did stop and then proceeded as usual upon seeing a clear track.

Features of this afternoon's program of the Plainfield horse show will include classes for tandems, roadsters, sporting tandems, besides the various classes for qualified hunters, light weight, middle and heavy weight. There will also be shown harness and saddle horses as well as pairs of horses and ponies which always interest the children.

There has been a great demand for tickets for tomorrow's exhibition and it is expected that the largest attendance of the week will be recorded. Those holding tickets for yesterday's exhibition can use them tomorrow morning if they desire to attend. Persons wishing to drive out to the show will find the entrance on Randolph road. Plenty of space has been reserved for carriages and automobiles.

The ninth annual horse show of the Plainfield Riding and Driving Club opened yesterday afternoon under weather conditions that were anything but favorable for the outdoor event of the year in this city. But after waiting more than an hour for the skies to clear the officers of the club and judges decided that it would be best to go on with the show. When the first class was called at 2:30, the rain was still falling, but the spectators were enthusiastic and everyone hoped for clearing weather. Later in the afternoon the sun made its appearance and the private boxes began to fill, while many seats in the grandstand were taken.

THINK MISSING JUNKMAN WAS WAYLAID AND KILLED

Dillello's Wagon, With Bloodstains on it, Found in Kenilworth Day After He Left Home--Signs of Struggle.

It is feared that Amello Dillello, a junk dealer, of Craig place, who disappeared after starting for Newark, Tuesday, with a load of junk, was waylaid, robbed and killed. His horse and wagon were found by the police of Kenilworth on Wednesday. In the bottom of the wagon traces of blood were found and packages of provisions had been broken open and strewn about, giving evidence of a struggle.

On the shaft of the wagon was found a plate bearing the number of the license and the word "Plainfield." Chief of Police Kiely was called up by the Kenilworth police and he carried the news to Dillello's wife. The woman could not understand English, but her eldest boy translated, and when she understood the full import of the Chief's news she gave way to hysterical grief.

The county prosecutor's office was notified and County Detective John A. Galatian was assigned to the case.

Dillello set out for Newark with a load of junk Tuesday morning. He was in the habit of taking a load to the city occasionally. The supposition is that he arrived safely in Newark, disposed of his junk and after purchasing some provisions set out on the return journey. It is thought that some of the strikers in Newark, many of whom are on the verge of starvation, may have seen his roll of bills, and followed him. When out in the country road they attacked and killed him, hiding the body in the woods to cover up the traces of their crime.

That the robbery was not effected without a severe struggle was evidenced by the packages in the wagon, which were burst open, when the horse and wagon came into Kenilworth driveless.

It was not long before it was noised around that a murder had been committed. Parties armed with guns and weapons of different kinds have been scouring the roads and the country in the hope of finding the body. But up to the present no trace of it has been discovered.

Detective Galatian has gone diligently to work but owing to the large territory to be covered between Kenilworth and Newark it may be some time before he turns up a clue. Dillello, it is said, had a large sum of money in his possession.

IT IS A SCHOOL THEY WANT NOW

Netherwood Residents' Association Seeks Educational Facilities in That Section

TO STIR UP SENTIMENT

Dr. Stanley E. Gunnison, as Committee Chairman, Asks Neighborhood to Give Expression to Thoughts on the Proposition.

Every resident of the Netherwood section this morning received a return post-card from Dr. Stanley E. Gunnison, chairman of the educational committee of the Netherwood Residents' Association, requesting an expression of opinion regarding public school facilities in that neighborhood. There is no school house in the district, but Dr. Gunnison observes that commuters there have children just the same as other people do.

Here is the notice sent out by the chairman, who took an active interest in educational work when a resident of Brooklyn some years ago:

"The educational committee of the Netherwood Residents' Association desirous of knowing your feeling in the matter of better public school facilities for the section, would ask that you kindly fill in the attached card, and return at your earliest convenience. The committee feels that the sentiment on this matter is essential, before actively forcing the issue to a successful conclusion."

Dr. Gunnison could not be reached by a reporter who wanted to learn where the proposed school house should be located, and also what percentage of the children in that section attend the public schools.

As told in this paper yesterday, the association has a committee at work negotiating with the Jersey Central Railroad to build some sort of a station or shelter on the west bound side of the Netherwood station.

ITEMS OF INTEREST TO SEVENTH-DAY BAPTISTS

The June meeting of the Board of Directors of the American Sabbath Tract Society will be held Sunday afternoon at 2:00 o'clock.

The last meeting for the season of the Woman's Society for Christian Work will be held on the lawn at the residence of Mrs. Henry M. Maxson, 661 West Seythn street, on Wednesday afternoon. It will be an all-day meeting. Bring your own work, and also ten cents. As on previous occasions each one is asked to bring one contribution toward the luncheon. Bring also a fork, a spoon and a cup. Business meeting at 4 o'clock. In case of rain the meeting will be held as usual in the church.

The Men's Club will celebrate the last meeting of the season Sunday evening, by a supper at half past six o'clock, in the church, to be followed by an illustrated travelogue by Henry M. Maxson. "Getting On In the World" is the subject. The supper will be arranged by a committee of the club and will be fifty cents a plate, as good or better than any dollar uspper. We want every man of the church and congregation to be present, with any friends he may desire to bring with him. Please notify the president of the club, Dr. M. L. Clawson, or Dr. O. B. Whitford, or John B. Cottrell. Officers for next year will be elected.

Seven members of the Junior Society have been elected members of the Young People's Society. These members are especially requested to be present this afternoon when they will receive words of welcome by officers of the society and by the pastor.

The newly elected officers of the Y. P. S. C. E., are: Frank R. Kellogg, president; Roy E. Titsworth, vice president; Miss Nettie G. Stillman, recording secretary; Miss Ethel L. Titsworth, corresponding secretary, Charles F. Neagle, treasurer. The Junior superintendent and the chairmen of the committees will be announced later.

IN THE CITY COURT.

Wells Creager, a hackman at the North avenue depot, was fined $5 today for an assault upon Harold Martin, colored. In the case of Charles Giebeler against Emanuel Kapelsohn for alleged forgery of a promissory note, a hearing was waived by Judge William Newcorn, counsel for defendant, who was held in $600 for the Grand Jury. A further case against the same defendant on complaint of Ernest Hand, of 65 Laramie road, for allowing his horse to run at large and eat up his garden, was dismissed, there being no evidence to show that the city ordinance had been infringed.

NEW YORK AMUSEMENTS

The Shubert-Brady all star revival of "Pirates of Penzance," at the Casino, is quite the most interesting and successful of all the Gilbert and Sullivan renewals—and that is saying a great deal, for each of the four has been an almost sensational hit. The addition of Blanche Duffield to the company for the principal soprano role is of incalculable value, for she sings beautifully, has a sweet young personality, and acts with grace and charm. Eugene Cowles, De Wolf Hopper, Arthur Aldridge, George J. MacFarlane, Richard Temple, Alice Brady, Viola Gillette, Louise Barthel and Josephine Jacoby make up a roll of principals it would be very difficult to duplicate. I never have seen a first night in New York where the enthusiasm was greater than that which burst through the sweltering bonds of Monday evening at the Casino.

PROCTOR'S GOOD SHOW.

The aerial marvels, the Ernesto Sisters, a trio of clever wre artists, head the bill at Proctor's theatre for the week-end. Their balancing, rope jumping, running, etc., are well performed. Lillian Kingsbury & Co., present a burlesque travesty entitled "Mrs. MacBeth." Harry and Bernice Lowe, comedy musicians, are really funny. Berri and Carter, singing comediennes, and Francis Leonard, impersonator of the suffragette, and Edie Foy complete the bill.

TWIN RESORTS AWAIT LIQUOR LAW DECISION

Asbury Park, June 7.—Many persons in this city and Ocean Grove are keenly interested in the forthcoming decision of the Court of Errors and Appeals as to the constitutionality of the law prohibiting the sale of liquor within one mile of the Ocean Grove Campmeeting Association property. The court is expected to give a decision at the same time on the legality of the restrictive clause in every Asbury Park deed, prohibiting the sale of liquor on the premises. These two important point are bracketed, as it was considered by those who are behind the appeal that they are practically alike, so far as concerns the sale of liquor.

The "mile-limit" law has been on the statute books since Ocean Grove and Asbury Park were established, more than forty years ago. When Founder James A. Bradley laid out Asbury Park he determined that he would make it a prohibition resort, and so every deed to property sold by him obligated the purchaser to keep the premises free from the sale of liquor.

This restriction, as well as the "mile-limit" law, was attacked in the courts during the lifetime of the late David Harvey, Jr. It was declared by some of the progressive citizens that the bar to the sale of liquor in the city was a drawback, and was keeping the city from growing. It was contended further that when Founder Bradley laid out the place he did not see visions of such a resort as is established today; that conditions are such that licensed hotels are absolutely necessary to the growth and prosperity of the resort.

The advocates of licensed hotel bars went so far as to call a special election at which the people voted to have a Board of Excise, with power to issue licenses. It was not intended to license saloons, but to confine the sale of liquor to hotels. A license fee of $1,000 was ordained and several years ago, for the first time in the history of the resort, liquor was sold with the consent of the authorities, although it was held by the anti-license advocates that it was not sold legally.

Mr. Harvey carried the case to the Supreme Court, and that tribunal decided that the restrictive clause in all deeds and the "mile-limit" law were both constitutional. This was a hard blow to those who had fought so hard for license, among them being some of the leading hotel men of the resort.

An appeal was taken to the Court of Errors and it is the decision from this body that has stirred up Asbury Park and Ocean Grove citizens into a state of great anxiety.

VOTE FOR FAR HILLS SCHOOL.

Bernardsville, June 7.—The voters of Bernards Township, at a special meeting, favored erecting a school house on a plot to be purchased in Far Hills, adjoining the lands of Grant B. Schley and David Rinehardt. The cost of this plot is not to exceed $7,500. The total cost of building and equipment is not to be more than $17,500. The board was also authorized to spend $3,500 in improving the building at Basking Ridge and $1,500 to improve the Liberty Corner School. Bonds will be issued for the necessary money. There were 119 votes cast, with but three in opposition to the proposition. Van Cleve Meeker was chairman of the meeting and Michael Balco secretary.

ONE ALTERNATE FROM NEW JERSEY FOR TAFT

Trenton, June 7.—President Taft will have one lone representative from New Jersey in the National Convention at Chicago. He will be an alternative from the Second Congressional District composed of Burlington, Cape May and Cumberland counties, and he will go to the convention through the failure of the Roosevelt managers to nominate two candidates for alternate in this district.

William H. Bright, of Hollybeach, was the only alternate nominated in the district on the Roosevelt ticket. He was elected and as far as the Roosevelt ticket is concerned the place of the other alternate is vacant. As the District is entitled to two alternates the high man on the Taft ticket among the alternates will fill the vacancy. The high man is former Assemblyman Christopher S. Hand, of Tuckahoe, Cape May county, and so he will receive a credential from the Secretary of State entitling him to a seat in the convention.

TRADE BOARD DINNER.

New Brunswick, June 7.—Action was taken by the directors of the Board of Trade toward tendering a complimentary dinner to the Board of Aldermen. Formal action will be taken at the monthly meeting of the Board of Trade next Wednesday night. The boost week committee spent $2,800 for the week's celebration. Toward this, $2,300 was raised and the deficit was made up by the members of the committee. Some of the members were so enthusiastic that they offered their share of the expenses for another such celebration next year.

RECIPROCAL PUNISHMENT.

New Jersey's new motor vehicle commissioner, Job H. Lippincott, has evolved a new plan in automobile reciprocity whose success is dependent upon the degree of good faith exercised by himself and the commissioners of nearby States. His theory is for reciprocity of punishment for offending automobilists to be coupled with reciprocity of touring privileges. The proposition has been put up by him to the automobile officials of New York, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland, Connecticut, Massachusetts and Rhode Island and it is to be expected that they will give their hearty consent and co-operation in the matter.

Summed up in a few words, Mr. Lippincott's idea is to report to the authorities of a given State the names of any of their autoists who have violated the laws of New Jersey with a request that such punishment as the commissioner in the former State may deem proper be meted out to the offending autoists. Commissioner Lippincott makes the offer to act promptly when a commissioner of another State reports to him that a New Jersey automobilist has committed any infraction of the laws in the State from whence the complaint comes. Those who violate an auto law, Mr. Lippincott observes, quickly get out of the State and there is no legal remedy for they cannot be compelled to return.

"With the adoption of reciprocity in New Jersey," says the Commissioner in his letter, "this department has found great difficulty in regulating motor vehicles operating under licenses issued by other States.

"Unless such vehicles can be brought under the regulation of this department the result will probably be drastic amendments to the reciprocity law, which may nullify its good features.

"This condition can be corrected if we can obtain the active co-operation of your department. Our suggestion is that any car bearing a license number issued by your State and transgressing the laws of New Jersey while in the confines of our State, should be reported to you, so that your department may take such action as you may deem proper.

"In return we promise the hearty co-operation of this department in similar cases which might arise in reference to cars bearing our licenses and passing through your State. We believe that such an interchange will result in a more uniform enforcement of the State laws both here and in your own State."

A poll of the Senate reveals the fact that that body is strongly opposed to the House plan to stagnate the Navy by refusing Secretary Meyer's request for the immediate construction of two battleships of the most advanced type. The argument is made by the majority of the Senators that the United States must remain a first class and not degenerate into a third class power and that the only way to insure supremacy is by the maintenance of a powerful Navy. A first class Navy is the best guarantee for peace notwithstanding a popular impression that the building of a strong Navy portends a fight.

The Netherwood Residents' Association, a civic organization composed largely of commuters, wants the Jersey Central to erect a station building on the west bound side of its tracks at that stop. When it is considered that the passenger patronage at the Netherwood station is considerably greater than at other points along the company's line where there have been station buildings for years the request appears to be a reasonable one. Under existing conditions, strange as it may seem, there is no shelter for a patron alighting from or boarding a train.

Bids for the collection and disposal of garbage must be filed with City Clerk MacMurray before Monday night, June 18, when it is proposed by the Common Council to make a contract for this work. After ten long years of agitation by the Daily Press and the Board of Health, householders will soon find a decided improvement in the method of disposing of refuse and moreover a considerable saving in their expense account. For this they may thank Councilman George Strong Clay.

The contributed editorial for tomorrow's issue will express the opinion of one of Plainfield's foremost residents, a man of unusual talents, on a subject of exceptional interest in this community at the present time. The commission form of government will be his subject and it goes without saying that his contribution to this discussion will be a valuable one.

AT THE HORSE SHOW

Owing to the muddy and very heavy condition of the track, the judges promptly decided to postpone the classes for hunters and jumpers and these will be shown tomorrow morning at 10:15 o'clock. It would have been more or less dangerous for the horses to attempt to take the jumps under such conditions and the owners were pleased with the change in the program.

The classes shown yesterday comprised the harness, combination harness and saddle ponies and saddle horses, while two of the militia mounts were included to add interest. In all twelve classes were shown, and while the weather conditions had a tendency to dampen the ardor of the spectators, a popular award always brought forth hearty applause. The local entries had their inning, especially in Class 54, for harness horses. Charles W. McCutchen's Henry Navarre captured the blue in this event, while his Piccadilly Sweetheart was awarded the red, second honors. Mr. McCutchen handled the reins over the first named horse, and was much pleased with the decision of the judges.

Another local horse that came in for an award was Howard W. Beebe's Snip. In Class 58 for combination harness and saddle horses this entry was given third prize, after failing in another class.

Emil Seelig's entries had a most successful afternoon. In Class 17, for novice harness horses, his pair, Turkey Trot and Town Topics, captured the blue, and in Class 12, for novice harness horses over 14.2 hands and not exceeding 15 hands his entry, Enterprise, was awarded first prize. Again in Class 16, for novice harness horses over 15.2 hands, Mr. Seelig's Town Topics and Royal Victor won first and second honors.

The classes for saddle horses also aroused considerable interest. Miss H. D. Atterbury's Patricia captured the blue in Class 37, for novice saddle horses 15.2 hands or under, after being defeated in Class 36, by W. A. McGibbon's Milton. Patricia won her first blue ribbon at the Washington horse show a month ago, when she made her debut, and since then has attracted much attention.

The militia mounts attracted entries only from Troop A, of New York, and the militiamen gave a fine exhibition. The horses showed careful training and went through their paces with precision. Their performance won the admiration of the crowd. The summary of yesterdays' awards follow:

Too Busy For Work.

Dr. Donald M. Gallie, although a Canadian and president of the Canadian club of Chicago, has a large fund of rich stories. One that he told at the annual banquet of the Chicago Dental association was as follows:

"Murphy left the church one Sunday after listening to an eloquent sermon on 'The Day of Judgment' and sought out Father Kelly.

"'Sure, 'twas a fine sermon, father,' he said, 'but did you mean what ye said about all the nations getting together on the day of judgment—all of 'em?'

"'I did that, Murphy,' said Father Kelly.

"'The Dutch, the Eyetalians, the Scotch and all?' said Murphy.

"'All of them,' said the priest.

"'And the English?'

"'Yes; they will be there too.'

"'And the Orangemen?'

"'Certainly, Murphy.'

"'And will all the Ancient Order of Hibernians be there too?'

"'As sure as you are here now.'

"'Well, father, dear,' muttered Murphy as he walked away, 'I'm thinking there won't be much work done the first day anyway.'"

Who Bides His Time.

Who bides his time day by day,
Faces defeat full patiently
And lifts a mirthful roundelay,
However poor his fortunes be,
He will not fail in any qualm
Of poverty. The paltry dime,
It will grow golden in his palm
Who bides his time.

Who bides his time, he tastes the sweet
Of honey in the saltest tear,
And, though he fares with slowest feet,
Joy runs to meet him drawing near.
The birds are heralds of his cause,
And, like a never ending rime,
The roadside blooms in his applause
Who bides his time.

Who bides his time and fevers not
In the hot race that none achieves
Shall wear cool wreathen laurel wrought
With crimson berries in the leaves,
And he shall reign a goodly king
And sway his hand o'er every clime,
With peace writ on his signet ring,
Who bides his time.

—James Whitcomb Riley.

Once when President Benjamin Ide Wheeler of the University of California and his wife were visiting President David Starr Jordan of Stanford university Mrs. Wheeler was taken suddenly ill. Preparations were made for an immediate return to Berkeley, but as the Jordan automobile was in use President Wheeler was at a loss how to get his wife to the station. Upon asking the advice of his host as to how she should be conveyed to Palo Alto, Jordan said, "Benjamin, I'd wheel 'er."

—"Do you know what an oath is?" asked a Virginia Judge of an old darky, who wanted his vote sworn in at an election. "Yes, sah. When a man sweahs to a lie, he's got ter stick to it."—Satire.

OUR WORLD AS A MOON.

Fine Display a Full Earth Would Give to the Selenites.

Were we transported to the planet Venus a peculiar set of views could be obtained of our earth, enabling us to see ourselves, to some extent at least, as others see us. Venus is about the same size as the earth, is somewhat closer to the sun and has more atmosphere than the earth. When the earth and Venus are nearest together they are, of course, on the same side of the sun, and in consequence of this the earth does not see more than a very small part of Venus illuminated, but Venus, on the other hand, sees all of one side of the earth illuminated and is therefore able to claim she has something that takes the place of a moon, for the earth to Venus at this time looks very large and bright, almost as much so as our moon does to us.

If we could see all the illuminated surface of Venus on these occasions we should have quite a distinct second moon. When we do see all of her illuminated surface she is on the opposite side of the sun from us and consequently at an enormous distance, yet she is so brilliant as to prevent us from seeing her surface distinctly.

But to our own moon we appear in the best light as a moon. A full earth as seen from the moon, according to Todd and other astronomers, is a very inspiring sight. It can at once be seen why this is necessarily true. The earth is several times larger than the moon and would appear in the heavens as a disk about fourteen times the size of the moon. It would probably shine with a variable light, due to the shifting clouds of the earth, though the light is, of course, reflected from the sun, and the reflection is due in part to the upper surfaces of the clouds.

The outlines of the continents of the earth appear very clearly to the moon as if they were formed in papier mache on a globe. Cities of comparatively large size could be made out with ease in case observers were there to make them out. The intensity of the reflected earth light would be as much as fourteen moons and would enable the Selenites, if such there were, to read or work in comparative daylight.—Harper's Weekly.

IN WOMAN'S REALM

The KITCHEN CUPBOARD

COOKING CORNED BEEF.

THOSE persons who profess a great disdain for that homely dish corned beef and cabbage perhaps have never tasted it at its best.

The brisket and the rattleran are the parts most often corned. The part known as the fancy brisket makes the choicest corned beef, while the second cut of the rattleran, which contains fat and lean well mixed, is also generally liked.

Home Corning.

Fresh meat may be corned for boiling by making a brine of water and rock salt, using salt enough to float the meat. If the meat is weighted down, the vessel covered and left for three days the meat will be corned well enough for ordinary use where the meat is not to be kept very long.

For Slicing Cold.

Pressed Corned Beef.—If the beef which you have selected is very salt soak for a half hour or an hour in cold water. Then put it into a vessel with enough cold water to cover it, skimming it when it begins to boil. It should be allowed to cook until the meat is tender. At the last the water on the beef should boil away. Let the meat stand until nearly cool, then place in a deep square pan, put a thin board over the meat and add a weight to press it down.

The Old Fashioned Way.

Boiled Corned Beef.—Rinse the beef and tie into shape or skewer together. Cover with cold water and place in a vessel on the fire where it can gradually come to a boil. Let it boil for five minutes, take off and skim and then simmer until tender, allowing a half hour to every pound of the meat. Take the beef out of the broth and put aside to keep warm while potatoes, turnips, beets or carrots are cooked in the liquid. They may be prepared separately to be served with the meat if preferred.

Corned Beef Hash.—Remove the gristle and skin from some lean corned beef. Take the beef and equal parts of hot baked potatoes. Wet them with beef stock if you have it; if not take milk. Add a flavor of onion and nutmeg. After you put it in your saucepan do not stir. Put milk or stock in the pan first with a generous piece of butter. Now turn in hash and simmer till liquid is absorbed. Brown and fold.

Good Form

The Week End Party.

As the time approaches for what are called "week end" parties at country homes all sorts of questions about just the right thing to do in many ways when such an invitation is received and accepted are asked:

Whether "tips" are to be tendered for services rendered; whether a note to a hostess is necessary afterward; whether one's stay is to be exactly defined, and so on.

As far as tips are concerned, it tends greatly to making the stay of the temporary guest far pleasanter to be prepared to tip on all occasions, even if it be but small amounts. The maid who makes up the room, the man who attends the door, the chauffeur, the coachman, if there be such an important individual left in these days of motorcars and electrics; the waiters and the caddies where golf is offered—indeed, all those who serve in any capacity expect a tip nowadays.

The up to date hostess is demanding of her servants that they refuse to accept tips; that she will pay them enough to allow her guests to feel free to accept services without paying for them. Happy, indeed, should be the guest who is informed by the hostess that "tips" are forbidden!

After a visit, either short or long, a note of thanks is surely due a hostess It should be written just as soon as possible after one reaches home, and in some cases, especially where a hostess has had to extend such courtesies as paying car fare and the like, a small but appropriate gift may well be sent, something pretty for the dressing table or for the library or a fine artist proof sketch to the picture lover. These are small things to do where one has been delightfully entertained.

Such visits are usually strictly defined as to duration. From Friday to Monday forenoon is called the "week end" visit—that is, Friday evening, giving the two days of Saturday and Sunday for pleasure.

An important thing to be remembered is that a guest should try to be agreeable to other guests. There should be no faultfinding. If the weather is bad, all the more reason why guests should be careful to make the house gay with improvised pleasures.

So the guest who will make the fourth at a game, even if the other three be elderly and somewhat difficult; the other guest who will plan an evening of story telling or improvise charades or tableaux; another who will ask the artists of the party to give them of their plenty in the way of songs, dances and all such amusements—these will always find themselves eagerly sought for. They will be favored with invitations when others are not, and their coming will be welcomed and their going regretted. As one young woman said who had contributed largely to the pleasure of an evening party, "I have had such a beautiful time, Mrs. A.," to her hostess. The reply was interesting: "How could you help having a 'beautiful time' when you are so charming yourself and so entertaining?"

Announcing an Engagement.

With regard to the method of announcing an engagement, here, as in so many other social matters, the simplest is the best. We do not advise inserting a notice in the newspapers. The case of a marriage is altogether different, since the parties enter into a civil and religious contract, which is made a matter of record by the laws of most states of the Union.

The best way is to name a day in the near future when the engagement will be announced to the world at large. In the meantime the young people tell their relatives and intimate friends the wonderful tidings, asking them to keep it secret until the date selected. It is usually necessary to write some notes, especially to those living at a distance. If the young couple have a large circle of relatives and others to notify the mothers usually write some of the letters, which are of an informal character.

Some young women invite their intimate friends to a luncheon, where they announce the engagement. Various ingenious devices may be used for this purpose, but care must always be taken not to give the matter a frivolous aspect. To have the engagement ring make its first appearance at the lunch table would be to take a serious matter altogether too lightly. In these days, when we so often hear the sad news of a divorce, it behooves our young people to enter into the new bond in the right spirit. This should be a spirit of joy and happiness surely yet touched with the seriousness demanded by the prospect of a union to last "until death do us part."

If the prospective bride feels that she cannot make the pleasant announcement herself, her mother or sister may do so for her in a few simple words while the guests are still at the lunch table.

The Dinner Invitation.

The invitation to dinner or luncheon should be answered without delay, and in the reply it is well to repeat the date and the hour to prevent any mistake.

Never accept an invitation with the proviso "if nothing happens." Remember that your hostess may want to fill your place with another guest if you cannot accept.

For the Children

Princess Victoria Louise, the Kaiser's Only Daughter.

Princess Victoria Louise, only daughter of the German emperor, is very popular. She has six brothers, all of whom are older. Being the youngest of the family and the only girl, she has always been the pet of her parents and brothers. She is also a great favorite with the German people, her sweet disposition and gentle ways having endeared her to all with whom she comes in contact.

Dog Smugglers.

Previous to the year 1795 in the Netherlands dogs were employed in smuggling, which was the more easy as they are exceedingly docile. The dogs were trained to go forward and backward between two places on the frontier without any person to attend them. Being loaded with little parcels of goods, lace, etc., like mules, they set out at midnight and only went when it was perfectly dark. An excellent, quick scented dog always went some paces before the others, stretched out his nose toward all quarters and when he scented custom house officers turned back, which was the signal for immediate flight. Concealed behind bushes or in ditches, the dogs waited till all was safe, then proceeded on their journey and reached at last beyond the frontier the dwelling house of the receiver of the goods, who was in the secret. But here also the leading dog only at first showed himself. At a certain whistle, which was a signal that all was right, they hastened up. They were then unloaded, taken to a convenient stable, where there was a good layer of hay, and well fed. There they rested until midnight and then returned in the same manner over the frontier.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Game of Spillikens.

Collect a number of straws, stand them up so as to meet at the top and spread out at the bottom like a tent or haystack. Get nice little sticks and make a hook at the end with a crooked pin or else find little hooked sticks. Each player takes a hook in turn and tries to remove a straw without shaking or throwing down any of the others. The one who succeeds in removing a straw under these difficult conditions counts one. She who gets most straws wins the game.

Sometimes two or three straws are marked and called king, queen and bishop. The king, safely removed, counts four, the queen three and the bishop two. The straws thus named should be larger than the others or have a tiny flower stuck in their hollow tubes to distinguish them from the plain spillikens.

Hide the Thimble.

In this game the company generally divides in two parts, half being players, while the rest do the work of guessing. A thimble is then produced by one of the party or something equally small that may easily be held in the hand. Seated by the side of the table, the players begin passing the article from hand to hand. When the work has been done sufficiently the closed hands are all placed on the table for those on the opposite side to guess in turn whose hand holds the thimble. As soon as the right guess is made the opposite side takes its turn.

Button Puzzle.

Place twelve buttons or stones in a hollow square so that you count four along each side of it.

Now take the same buttons and arrange them so that they form another square and you can count five along each side of it.

Solution: Make a square with three on every side and place the remaining four, one on each of the corner buttons.

Moving Time.

When moving time comes round, alas,
The dollies dread what comes to pass!
They hear their little mother say:
"I'll have to give some toys away.
They say I cannot take them all,
For we must store them till the fall.
I wonder which I'll keep, dear, dear!"
Oh, how the dollies dread to hear
Those words, for fear she has in mind
Perhaps to leave some doll behind!

But moving day comes round and goes,
And when the fall arrives it shows
The dollies all together still,
Their little mother never will
The family circle break, oh, no!
She loves each precious dolly so!
The other toys of many styles
She gives away, but always smiles
And says, "Of course, my dolls, you see,
Must always, always go with me!"

HOPE FOR LYMAN.

Latest reports from the Holy Family Hospital, Brooklyn, as to the condition of Charles P. Lyman, of North Plainfield, are reassuring and hopes are entertained of his recovery. Dr. F. W. Cornwell, who accompanied Mr. Lyman and his son to Brooklyn yesterday, on examination, found that he had sustained a fractured hip, but that the injuries to the head were not serious, being merely contusions. He will visit him again tomorrow.

OFFICIAL VOTE GIVES T. R. 3,778 IN UNION

Colonel's Lead in the County Was 565—Taft's Vote 3,213.

According to the official tabulation of the county vote, which was completed yesterday by County Clerk Calvert, Colonel Roosevelt's majority is 565. Considerable delay was experienced in securing the complete returns and in some instances it was necessary to send for them. The election officers in a number of the rural districts apparently are still unfamiliar with the requirements of the new law and while they returned the ballots that count, they neglected to make returns on the number of rejected ballots and the number of names on the registry list in their districts.

The complete vote is as follows:

SPORTS OF ALL SORTS

JUST TAPS BY "BUNTS"

Bargain day once again at Crescent Oval tomorrow.

Another ten game baseball program will be run off in this city tomorrow afternoon.

It is up to the weather man to make good and repeat his last week's performance.

Plainfield's second baseball league was started on its season's journey last Saturday and the second trio of games are booked for tomorrow.

Captain Grisley, of the Hope Chapel league team, has had his charges out for a stiff practise in preparation for their game with Monroe avenue champions.

Buckle will probably do the backstop work for Hope and Heron will be shifted to another position where he can work to better advantage.

Not only will Hope have the assistance of Captain Grisley, J. Heron and Buckle, who were playing with P. H. S. last week, but their next quartet of games will take place on their home grounds.

Another good game in the Sunday-school league will be the Park Avenue and First Baptist contest to decide which team is entitled to a blank in the lost column.

This afternoon will bring forth a number of athletic events worthy of mentioning.

Leal's School will celebrate the revival of their annual field and track meet at the Driving Park.

A fast amateur game is scheduled to take place on the Clinton avenue grounds between the K. O. H. A. team, of Somerville, and the Clinton avenue lads.

The Freshman class of P. H. S. now claim the undisputed possession of the class baseball championship, thus leaving second honors open to dispute between the two middle classes.

The Sophs and Juniors will have it out on Parker field this afternoon.

The annual Senior-Faculty baseball farce is carded for Parker field for Monday afternoon.

Although defeated in every one of their inter-class games the Seniors are optimistic of a victory over their superiors.

The North Plainfield High School baseball team has brought its season to a close after one of the most unsuccessful playing seasons in her history.

The only team that showed any evidence of yielding to the Boroughites baseball prowess was the Leal's Academy nine of this city.

N. P. H. S. took two from the private school lads.

James Nash, the local High School athlete, has begun active training with the intention of joining a newly organized college athletic club, of South Amboy.

By becoming a member of this organization Nash will become affiliated with some of the best athletes in the country and will be eligible to compete under the club colors in all sanctioned meets.

Fourteen members of the Cincinnati United States League team have filed separate suits in a justice's court against John J. Ryan, owner of the club, for a month's salary.

The sums named in the above suits aggregated $1,200.

Yale's track team next year will be led by another pole vaulter, S. B. Wagoner, 1913, of St. Louis, Mo., who was elected captain.

He succeeds Jardner, who broke the world's vault record at Franklin field last Saturday.

The Athletic Association of the Stillman Grammar School have set aside Friday, June 14, as the date for their annual field and track meet.

No scholastic games are carded for tomorrow.

Notice to managers and official scorers.

Turn in your scores or leave them at the office Saturday night. It will help the Sporting Editor and also help you to secure a better writeup.

A large delegation of Plainfielders will leave for Princeton tonight to witness the annual Jersey struggle with Yale.

The first game took place in New Haven last Saturday and turned out to be a one-sided victory for the wearers of the blue.

In the event that the Tigers turn the tables on their home grounds a deciding game will probably be staged on the Polo grounds.

A large number of touring cars are expected to pass through this city en route to the Yale-Princeton baseball game, which takes place at Princeton tomorrow afternoon. The cars are generally gaily bedecked with the colors of their respective colleges and lend a spirit of jollity to the occasion. The first game of the series was played at New Haven last Saturday and resulted in a one-sided victory for the wearers of the blue. Princeton, however, are confident of a reversal of form on their own grounds and predict a deciding game which will probably be played on the Polo grounds.

George Wolf, the great home-run hitter of last season's Somerville team, will replace Cosgrove on the Plainfield team tomorrow afternoon. The latter is unable to play because of injuries received last week.

AHEAD NEW PROVIDENCE.

The strong North Plainfield baseball team will journey by stage to New Providence tomorrow afternoon and endeavor to take the ball team of that place in tow. By their victory over the formidable North Branch aggregation last Saturday, this team has placed itself in the limelight as a strong contender against any amateur team of this section.

BIBLE SCHOOLS WILL RESUME ARGUMENT

Church League Teams Come Together Tomorrow for Second Games of Schedule.

The second number of the Sunday-school Baseball League program will be executed tomorrow afternoon and a repetition of the success that attended the opening last Saturday is looked for. The First Baptist nine, who came out ahead in a close and well played game with the Monroe Avenue boys, will try conclusions with the strong Park Avenue Baptists, who administered such an unmerciful defeat to the South Plainfielders last week. Hope Chapel, strengthened by the services of Captain Grisley, Buckle and J. Heron, who were playing with P. H. S. last Saturday, will endeavor to take a turn out of Monroe Avenue, last year's champions. The Temple Baptist ball-chasers will entertain the South Plainfield leaguers with the idea of securing a more decisive grip on second place.

The schedule and assignment of grounds for tomorrow is as follows:

Park Ave. vs. First Baptist, on Hyde Field.

South Plainfield vs. Temple Baptist, on Temple Baptist Field.

Monroe Ave. vs. Hope Chapel, on Clinton ave. Field.

END OF LEAGUE'S OPENING ROUND

SPICERS MAY CLIMB

By Taking Game From Public Service the Jointsmiths Can Slip Into Third Place Tie—Other Contests Carded.

The last games in the first round of the Manufacturers' Baseball League schedule will be run off tomorrow afternoon and after this trio of games every team will have met the other five contestants in one diamond battle. Although all of last week's scores were decided by a good sized margin, the league race is not by any means decided and the Banks are carded to give the Commercial leaders a good run for tomorrow's game. In all probability the game which will prove the big drawing card tomorrow will be the Spicer-Public Service tilt. By taking this one from the Park avenue team the Joint-makers will establish a tie for third place. Although the R. G. E. are going along at a winning stride just now the Saurer aggregation has a wealth of good material and may spring one on the combination nine.

Spicer vs. Public Service, Parker Field.

Joseph Albert, the manager of the Scotch Plains baseball team has secured a strong attraction for Sunday's game—Joe Carter's Colored Giants, of Newark, being the visiting team. So that the local lads will have their work cut out to win as it is their intention of doing. The Scotch Plains line-up will be: J. Alberts, lf.; Gray, 3b.; Frentz, 1b.; H. Albert, cf.; Hand, c.; Heller, 2b.; Baldwin, rf.; Hoblizel, ss.; Slocum, ; Mullen, ss.; and Miller outfield.

DUNELLEN HAS CHANCE TO LAUGH AT PLF'D

It Lies in Tomorrow's Game With Bound Brook, Who Trimmed Dorflingers.

Dunellen will play Bound Brook at Bound Brook tomorrow afternoon. A large delegation of Dunellen fans will travel to Bound Brook to see what kind of a showing their team will take against the team that took Plainfield into camp by the score of 5-1, a couple of weeks ago.

Just how the Dunellen team will line up hasn't been given out, but it is thought by fans who have been successful in doping out the probable Dunellen lineup beforehand, that the management will hesitate to play Giles, the best batter that has ever worn a Dunellen uniform, in the up-hill-and-down-dale Bound Brook outfield on account of the poor condition of his underpinnings. According to the way they have things doped out Giles will be the first Dunellen man sent to the plate, in order to start things going right, and that he will then retire in favor of Dodwell, a lightning fast outfielder. The dopesters line the team up as follows: Giles, cf; Martin, 2b; Barnes, 1b; McLaughlin, p; Dixon, c; Elliott, rf; Giddes, 3b; Schott, lf; Coyle, ss; Dodwell, cf.

Manager Charles Newhouse will line his Bound Brook boys up as follows: Grimes, lf; Bollinger, 1b; Craig, 3b; Nolan, cf; Lidgate, c; Powers, ss; Shaw, 2b; Ortleib, p; Heageney, rf.

TO MEET NORTH BRANCH.

While the preliminary argument is being looked after by the R. G. E. and Colored Giant teams on the Oval tomorrow, the West End A. C., who were the side-show attraction last week, will hook up with the strong North Branch nine. This is the same team that gave the strong North Plainfield baseball aggregation such a run for their money last Saturday and the West Ends will have to extend themselves to the limit in order to bring home the bacon.

DOUBLE BILL FOR FANS AT THE OVAL TOMORROW

The local fans will have a feast of good baseball at Crescent Oval tomorrow afternoon, when a double bill will be offered by the management of the Plainfield Baseball Club. The first game between the Rushmore-Garwood team and the Royal Giants will be called at 2 o'clock. The second game which will start promptly at 3:45 o'clock will be between the Plainfield and Washington, United States League teams.

The locals will present a strong line-up, including Wolf, who will take Cosgrove's place in the right field. Either Frederickson or Smith will pitch. The visitors have three pitchers from which to select, and Brouthers, who covers third base, is a son of "Dan" Brouthers of big league fame. The teams will line-up as follows:

Rushmore-Garwood — Cowell cf, DeNitbio ss, Compton c, Kelps 2b, Lindbloom 3b, Hoffman lf, Jimmie Montross 1b, Foster rf, Smith cf, Fleming p.

Royal Giants—Ford 1b, Slocum 2b, Garner ss, Jackson 3b, Somerset lf, Coleman cf, Simmonds rf, Jones c, Kline p. R. H. B. Dalley and Fred Walters will be the umpires.

TO PLAY K. O. K. A.

The strong Clinton Avenue aggregation of future-greats will hook up with the Knights of King Arthur team, who hail from Somerville, this afternoon, on the Clinton avenue field. Captain VanNorden announces that he will have his regular line-up on the firing line and expects to send the count-seat boys home with the smaller end of the official scorer's argument.

CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION CONSIDERS ELDRIDGE CASE

Trenton, June 7.—The State Civil Service Commission sat here for the purpose of hearing the complaints of seven Republicans who had been removed as tax board secretaries in as many counties of the state recently. Among those were Sidney W. Eldridge, a lawyer of Elizabeth, who acted as secretary to the Union board for about three years. He was succeeded on May 1 by lawyer John R. Connolly, a Democrat.

Mr. Eldridge, through his counsel, Judge Clark McK. Whittemore, contended that he was dismissed for political reasons. William R. Wilson, Mr. Connolley's counsel, denied this and said the burden of proof was on Mr. Eldridge's side. He referred to the resolution passed by the board, appointing Mr. Connolly and providing that he should devote all his time to the work and be engaged from month to month. Commissioners Brodhead and President Scudder of the board testified in regard to this resolution. Former Commissioner Andrews also testified. It was inferred from the testimony that Mr. Eldridge was not devoting all his time to the work. Both sides were given ten days in which to submit briefs.

No decision has yet been given.

LESSON NO. 11. BACK TO THE CLUB HOUSE, SCOOP---OR OBEY ORSDER

LOW PAVING BIDDER COMPLAINS TO BOARD

Thinks Company Should Have Had South Ave. Contract—Freeholder Explains.

Elizabeth, May 7 (Special).—C. E. McDonald, representing the Warner-Quinlan Asphalt Company, of Syracuse, wrote the Board of Freeholders yesterday that his concern should have been awarded the contracts for the paving of South avenue, Plainfield and Westfield and Rahway avenues, Elizabeth, because it was the lowest bidder. The company used a substance known as "Vitoria," composed partly of tar-roofing.

Charles A. Smith, a member of the committee having the contracts in charge, explained that the board did not award the contracts to the company because "Vitoria" is an unknown and untried paving, while the paving selected is known for its good qualities. As to Westfield avenue, Elizabeth, he said that the city of Elizabeth specified the kind of paving to be used. The committee was willing in the future to give "Vitoria" a trial on some unimportant thoroughfare. He added that the company could not show to the committee any one street where the paving had been laid and had given satisfaction. The communication was placed on file.

County Attorney William R. Codington was authorized to engage an expert legal firm to investigate the bond issue of $145,000 for the paving work, to obviate the necessity of investigation by the purchasers of the bonds.

The committee on the Sycamore avenue bridge, Plainfield, awarded the contracts for work on the bridge as follows: Iron work to Arthur E. Smith, $120; painting work to Pequient Company, $51.20. The bridge is to be covered with concrete.

The board will meet again on June 20 to pay election bills.

FASS SETTLED SUIT.

Elizabeth, June 7 (Special).—The suit of Cornelius J. Light to recover $150 from Jacob A. Fass for installing a heating plant at 144 West Front street, Plainfield, was not moved in the district court yesterday, having been settled out of court.

USING YOUR EYES

Do You Think You Can Remember Everything You See?

THEN TRY THE PICTURE TEST.

Study For a Minute a Painting With a Number of Figures and Objects In It and Then Endeavor to Describe It and the Result May Surprise You.

"Seeing is believing" is an old saying which is in a fair way to lose its force. Modern psychology is proving by experiments that people do not see even a fraction of the things they confidently believe they see.

The picture test was first demonstrated in America at Clark university by the pioneer in this field, Professor William Stern of the University of Breslau. At this time two unusually intelligent children, a boy and a girl in the upper grammar grades of the Worcester schools, were shown separately for the period of a minute a colored picture entitled the "Bauerstube," giving the interior of a German peasant's home. Among other details is seen a table at which a man and a boy are seated, while a woman is standing.

The man has removed his coat, and his bright red vest is clearly exposed to view. The boy is sitting on a bench his bare feet not quite touching the floor. The woman wears a brilliant red skirt, over which is a blue-green apron. She has a yellow shawl over her shoulders.

Near by is a cradle of the same striking blue-green as the apron. At the rear of the room is a bed, and over it hang three pictures. These pictures depict landscapes, and in one is a long avenue of trees. At the foot of the bed is a window through which nothing is visible except a branch of a tree. Near the window is a clock with the pendulum swung to one side. The hands point to exactly half past 12. All of the details of the picture are extremely clear.

The children examined by Stern had an opportunity in the minute allowed for the examination of the picture to study it in some detail. They knew that they were to be tested immediately on what they had seen. Had not the audience that witnessed the demonstration been able to follow the details of the testimony by means of a reproduction of the picture thrown by a lantern on a screen at the back of the children they would have been impressed with the remarkable clearness and apparent accuracy of the testimony, particularly with reference to a certain cupboard which both testified stood near the bed.

This cupboard was described minutely with substantial agreement as to the details. The fiction of the cupboard was developed by a few suggestive questions ingeniously put, such as the following: "Is there a cupboard in the room?" (The reply was "Yes.") "Where is it?" "How many drawers does it have?"

Professor Colvin of the University of Illinois, writing in the Independent, says that he has carried on the same experiment with a score of subjects, both adults and children, and has not found one who could give a completely accurate description of what he had seen, even in the direct testimony, while under the influence of the questions the witnesses have all shown extensive falsification in one or more particulars.

Scarcely two witnesses have agreed as to the time of the clock; some have not observed that it was going (a fact clearly indicated by the position of the pendulum); several have described the shoes of the boy in detail (he is barefooted); four have seen the cupboard; several have said that the lawn is visible through the window and have embellished it with fountain and shrubs; some have seen a road winding beyond the lawn and lined with an avenue of trees, taken bodily from one of the pictures on the wall; a nonexistent tablecloth has been described as torn; the woman's apron has been given all the colors of the rainbow, but seldom the right one; the sleeves of the man's coat, nowhere visible have been described as worn at the edges; the brilliant red waistcoat has generally been overlooked. But, most remarkable of all, the entire twenty witnesses have taken their oaths that the cradle is not blue, but a red or a reddish brown.

The results of this picture test are all the more remarkable when we remember that the witnesses in this experiment are in a much more advantageous position for giving an accurate report than are the witnesses of ordinary events. In trials in court the witness is ordinarily called upon to relate what has occurred only after a considerable lapse of time. Meanwhile he is subjected to various questions, often by interested persons. He talks about the occurrence with neighbors and friends, and then he is placed on the witness stand with the injunction to tell "the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth." Under such circumstances the wonder is that there is any resemblance between the testimony and the actual facts.

Happiness.

Happiness when at a distance appears so great as to touch the sky. When it enters our door it so dwindles that very often we no longer recognize it.

Temptation rarely comes in working hours. It is in their leisure time that men are made or marred.

Democratic National Convention at Baltimore on June 25

Fifth Regiment Armory In City Famous For Conventions of the Past Will Seat Twenty Thousand People—The Leading Candidates—William Jennings Bryan a Delegate.

By WALTON WILLIAMS.

FOR the first time in forty years a national convention of one of the leading parties is to be held in Baltimore. In the old days the Maryland metropolis was the convention city of the country, even more so than Chicago is now. But with the movement of population westward the big town at the head of the Chesapeake lost her political primacy.

Almost from the day that the convention system came into vogue in American politics Baltimore forged to the front as the leading national convention town. Perhaps one reason was that she was situated midway between the north and the south. Another was that she was one of the largest cities in the country. A third was her proximity to the national capital. Baltimoreans even now speaking of Washington as a suburb. A fourth was her hospitality. She makes every guest feel that he is one of her "own folks" and that she is at his service to entertain and make him feel at home. No trouble is too great for her to take in his behalf. Subtly, but without flattery, she gives him the delightful impression that he has a distinguished place in her regard. With a fine old southern courtesy about which there is no stiffness or formality and with a graciousness about which there is no pretense, she lends a new meaning to the word "welcome."

President Jackson was nominated in Baltimore in 1832, as was Van Buren, not only for the campaign of 1836, when he was elected, but for that of 1840, when he was defeated by William Henry Harrison. In 1844 both conventions met in the Maryland metropolis, that of the Whigs naming Henry Clay and that of the Democrats choosing James K. Polk. Four years later the Democrats again assembled in Baltimore, nominating Lewis Cass.

Split on Slavery.

Both the Whig and Democratic conventions of 1852 were held in Baltimore, the respective candidates there chosen being General Winfield Scott and General Franklin Pierce. In 1860 the Democratic convention met in Charleston, but split on the slavery question, and both wings later assembled in Baltimore, placing two tickets in the field, one headed by Stephen A. Douglas and the other by John C. Breckinridge. This split marked the end of Democratic ascendancy in the government for a period of twenty-four years. President Lincoln was renominated in Baltimore in 1864, and in 1872 the Democratic convention in the same city indorsed Horace Greeley, who had previously been named by the Liberal Republicans. That was the last great national convention held in Baltimore until this year

It would be a strange coincidence if the city that saw the division of the Democratic party in 1860, a division that drove it from power practically for fifty years, should this year witness it completely reunited and ready to return to power for an indefinite period because of the division of the Republicans. Yet this very result is among the possibilities.

The Democratic convention will be held in the Fifth regiment armory, which is Baltimore's largest auditorium. The vaulted roof of this great building is more than 100 feet above the main floor. The drill room, in which the convention will be held, is capable of seating 12,000 persons without crowding. Its dimensions are 200 by 300 feet, giving 60,000 square feet of floor space. There are already two balconies, and by building raised platforms at the ends of the hall it is expected that 20,000 persons can be accommodated at the sessions of the convention. There are twenty-one smaller rooms about the building that can be used for committee and press rooms. The armory is situated in the northern part of the city near the Pennsylvania and Baltimore and Ohio stations and within fifteen minutes' ride from the business section where most of the hotels are situated.

It will be an inspiring scene when at high noon of June 25 the gavel falls calling to order the Democratic national convention of 1912—inspiring because of the rosette prospects of victory for the first time in twenty years, inspiring because at last Democratic principles are coming into general acceptance even by its political foes and inspiring because of the historic associations. Casting its eyes at Washington—if a convention has eyes to cast—it will behold the house of representatives overwhelmingly Democratic and only a narrow margin in the way of controlling the senate. Looking farther afield, it will see Democratic governors of twenty-seven states, fourteen of them being northern states. As there are only forty-eight states altogether, that is quite a healthy majority. It will see a section of the Republicans more favorable to Democratic principles than to the other wing of their own party. It will behold a vast majority of the people favorable to tariff reduction and other Democratic planks.

Four Presidents Named In Baltimore.

National conventions did not come into vogue until about 1832, and since that time the Democratic party has held twenty. This year it will meet in the city where at least eight of these twenty have convened and where four Democratic presidents, Jackson, Van Buren, Polk and Pierce, were nominated. Thus the Baltimore meeting will suggest a great past, a harmonious present and a bright future. That sort of a happy combination has not been so frequent in recent Democratic history as to have become monotonous.

The convention will be called to order by Norman E. Mack, chairman of the Democratic national committee, likewise chairman of the committee on arrangements. Mr. Mack has had an embarrassment of jobs lately, having also been chairman of the New York state committee. Each one of these places is a man's job, and, not being able to be three men at one time, Mack resigned the New York state chairmanship, which went to George M. Palmer of Schoharie.

The committee on arrangements has charge of all details for the convention, including the selection of a temporary chairman, settling contests for making up the temporary roll, decorating, furnishing and seating the hall, printing and distributing the tickets and badges, providing for music, appointing doorkeepers and sergeants-at-arms, looking out for the press, getting a first aid corps of nurses and physicians and doing the thousand and one other things preliminary to the holding of a national convention.

The music of the Republican and Democratic gatherings will not be largely different, except that "Dixie" will figure more prominently at Baltimore than at Chicago and "Marching Through Georgia" decidedly will not. If Champ Clark is nominated the "Houn' Dawg" song will also be a musical favorite at Baltimore, just as "Old Nassau" will if Governor Woodrow Wilson gets the upper hand. "Maryland, My Maryland," will be torn into ribbons by the bands at Baltimore whoever the nominee may be.

Historical Background.

"The Star Spangled Banner" should also come in for a turn at the Democratic gathering since it was at Baltimore the song was written. It happened during the war of 1812, the centenary of whose beginning occurs just ⓒ 1912, by American Press Association.

JOHN BURKE, WHO HAS NORTH DAKOTA'S DELEGATES.

one week before the assembling of the Democratic cohorts. That war was prosecuted by a Democratic administration headed by James Madison, and its chief hero was General Andrew Jackson, for whom many Democrats have continued voting to this day. Opposition to that war killed the Federalist party, which was in a sense a progenitor of the modern Republican party. There is plenty of historic background for the Baltimore convention.

Delegates and visitors will see a very different city from that which greeted those attending conventions of old. While Baltimore has not gone up by the leaps and bounds marking the progress of many other American cities, her growth has been healthy and steady. The great fire wrought a complete change in the appearance of the business portion of the Maryland metropolis. As fearful as that catastrophe was, it has proved in many ways a blessing in disguise. The portion of the city that has been rebuilded is more modern in appearance, with wider, lighter and better paved streets, better and more up to date construction and, as a result of the spirit engendered to recover from the shock a more determined and progressive business community. The spirit of the new Baltimore was exemplified by the men who made the successful bid for this gathering. They had such competitors as Chicago and St. Louis, with New York and Denver also in the running. It was a certified check for $100,000 with a promise of a supplementary sum of $15,000 to take care of convention expenses which won for the Maryland city.

Great Attendance Expected.

The Baltimore committee having the fight in charge frankly admitted that their chief reason for desiring the convention was the advertising it would give to Baltimore. That argues a public spirit which will go far toward building a bigger and better city. As already suggested, the citizens generally share this spirit and have thrown open their homes in order that the great crowds attending the gathering may have ample accommodations. Baltimore is in the midst of a most populous section, and multiplied thousands are expected from New York, Philadelphia, the Eastern Shore and the south. With her reputation for hospitality as a pledge, Baltimore promises to take care of them all.

As for the convention itself, that is another story. It is yet too early to make an intelligent prediction as to the standard bearer it will choose. The Democrats are frank in saying that this will depend in some measure on the action of the Republicans. Even with the opposition ticket named the Baltimore convention will have to go through an elimination contest, as no candidate yet has the two-thirds majority necessary to nominate. The basis of representation is the same as that of the Republicans, with the exception that each of the dependencies is allowed six delegates in place of two. This will make sixteen more delegates or 1,092, if New Mexico is allowed but six, or 1,094 if she has eight. In the last named event 730 will be required to nominate.

Of instructed and pledged delegates no one will have that number or even a majority on the first ballot. Not until the favorite sons are eliminated and the uninstructed delegates settle on their choice will the winner be known.

As matters now stand Champ Clark is in the lead, with Governor Woodrow Wilson in second place. In a breakup it is generally believed that the votes of Oscar Underwood and possibly of some of the other minor candidates would go to Clark. The other avowed candidates are Governors Harmon of Ohio, Marshall of Indiana, Baldwin of Connecticut and Burke of North Dakota.

One factor must not be lost sight of. William Jennings Bryan is a delegate at Baltimore, and there is no telling what another "cross of gold" speech might do.

A Browning Anecdote.

In Lilian Whiting's "The Brownings" occurs this anecdote: "In the last days in Venice Browning was reading to his son and daughter-in-law that 'Epilogue' which sums up his own attitude to life and its problems—the familiar verse beginning, 'One who never turned his back, but marched breast forward,' and, pausing at the stanza, said, 'It seems almost like praising myself to say that, and yet it is true, the simple truth, and so I shall not cancel it.'"

NAME ROSEWATER COMMITTEE HEAD

Taft Man Is Chosen Chairman of National Body.

WARD APPEARS CONFIDENT

New York Member Says "We Will Win Easily on First Ballot, No Matter What the Taft Men Do In the Committee Meetings."

Chicago, June 7.—Beginning the work of straightening out the 262 contests that must be decided before the temporary roll of the convention is made up, members of the Republican national committee locked themselves in their room in the convention hall at the outset to determine whether they should proceed openly or in executive session. The advocates of the "open door" seemed to be in the majority.

The first Taft victory came when Victor Rosewater of Nebraska was elected chairman of the committee. Mr. Rosewater has been acting chairman since the death of John F. Hill of Maine, formerly chairman. Mr. Rosewater's election disposed of the claim of R. D. Howell, who was elected national committeeman in the Nebraska primary, to the right to displace Mr. Rosewater and an immediate seat in the committee.

Taft Men Win Again.

Frank B. Kellogg of Minnesota for the third term candidate moved that a roll call of the committee could be ordered on the decision of contests on application of eight members of the committee. The Taft men moved that unless twenty members of the committee demanded it the decision of contests should be by viva voce vote. The motion of the Taft men was carried. As the third term candidate is understood to have only seventeen of the fifty-three votes in the committee, it is safe to assume there will not be many roll calls. The rules heretofore provided for a demand of twenty for a roll call.

William L. Ward, New York state member of the committee, seemed almost radiantly happy as he bustled into the meeting room. He had just finished an apparently satisfactory talk with Senator Joseph N. Dixon, commander in chief of the third term forces, and Lucius N. Littauer of Gloversville, N. Y., one of the third term boomers who arrived.

"There is not a doubt in the world that we will win easily on the first ballot, no matter what the Taft men do in these committee meetings," was Mr. Ward's last words.

Both sides are talking of a force of detectives to watch the proceedings.

Roosevelt Dispatches Flinn.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., June 7.—In close touch with Chicago by means of a direct wire to Sagamore Hill, Theodore Roosevelt is directing the pre-convention fight through his lieutenants upon the ground. His most significant move was to dispatch Senator William Flinn of Pennsylvania to the scene of the struggle, after a long conference in which F. A. Van Valkenburgh, Alexander P. Moore and Richard Quay, son of the late Boss Quay, also participated. The session did not terminate until a late hour, and Senator Flinn got away barely in time to catch the last train from New York to the convention city.

That Senator Flinn is hastening to the field of action fresh from such a conference to look after the interests of his commander in chief is proof enough of the character of the fight which is to ensue during the next ten days. If strong arm tactics are to be resorted to champions will not be lacking on the Roosevelt side.

Said the colonel with evident satisfaction:

"Senator Flinn is starting at once at my request for Chicago."

Questioned as to the senator's mission, he replied:

"I want him to be there in my interest. Senator Dixon will be in charge, but Flinn is to assist Dixon."

Colonel May Be There.

The colonel made it plain that he did not feel that his presence would be desirable in the early stages of the conflict, but later that is another matter. He more than intimated that the last of next week might see a change in his plans.

"I am not now intending to go, but I may at the end of next week."

This was as far as he cared to commit himself upon the oft recurring question.

HE'LL NOT RESIGN.

Senator Lorimer Again Declares He'll Not Relinquish His Seat.

LORIMER WILL STICK.

Looks as if Senate Will Have to Force Him Out.

Washington, June 7.—Senator William Lorimer of Illinois was somewhat annoyed when asked again if he was going to resign. He said that it ought not to be necessary for him to have to deny the story every few hours. Renewed pressure from senators, he declared, would not alter his determination in the matter.

"Once and for all I am not going to resign," said he. "I could not do it and retain my self respect, while I am conscious of no wrongdoing."

The total vote which can be mustered in Lorimer's favor in the coming contest for his seat in the senate has today dwindled to thirty senators—eighteen less than enough to save him from expulsion from the senate, was reported at the capital.

FIVE MEN CONTROL BANKS OF NEW YORK

William Sherer of the Clearing House Makes Admissions.

New York, June 7.—The admission that the entire banking business of this city is controlled by five men was wrung from William Sherer, manager of the New York clearing house, testifying before the congressional banking and currency committee, which is investigating the alleged "money trust."

Frank A. Vanderlip, president of the National City bank, controlled by Standard Oil interests; Joseph G. Cannon, president of the Fourth National bank; Otto T. Bannard, president of the New York Trust company and Republican mayoralty candidate in 1909; Richard Delafield, president of the National Park bank, and Walter E. Frew, president of the Corn Exchange bank—the five men who make up the committee of the New York clearing house—were the men mentioned as those controlling the money situation.

The most efficient heat producer

The Square Pot Furnace will greatly lessen the amount of coal you use, as it is impossible for the square firepot to become clogged or congested with clinkers. Therefore it gives more heat per unit of space. The square firepot is patented and used exclusively by the

BOYNTON FURNACE CO.

It is built like the firebox of a locomotive—no ashes can remain in it—the coal is given power to generate intensified heat—and the whole cost of heating the house is thus minimized to its lowest extent.

Ask your dealer to explain the many other features of Square Pot Furnaces, Boilers, Newport Ranges, etc. If you don't know him, we'll send his name on request

BULLET HITS CRAFT 700 FEET UP IN AIR

Aerial Mail Carrier Hadley Narrowly Escapes Death.

New York, June 7.—Somebody near Mineola, N. Y., who either mistook a headless biplane for an enormous eagle, or, knowing it to be an airship, tried to wreck it, shot at the machine driven by Clinton O. Hadley. The bullet broke a propeller blade and pierced the engine cylinder. As the aeroplane was 70 feet up, a deflection of a hundredth of an inch in the aim of the gun would have meant Hadley's death.

It was the day set for the first officiti aerial mail carrying trip between New York and Washington. Dr. William W. Christmas of Washington, owner of the machine, got the route from the postoffice department and commissioned Hadley to make the first trip.

He made several rounds of a wide section of territory about Mineola and had covered about 185 miles when he heard a clink, a crack and another clink. The engine "went dead." He was forced to make a long glide to the earth and did not know what the trouble was until he found the broken blade and a hole in the cylinder. Guessing the truth, he opened the cylinder. A flattened bullet lay in it.

ATE IN BED; IS DIVORCED.

Late Breakfasts Form Wife's Complaint, and Court Indorses It.

Pasadena, Cal., June 7.—Mrs. Francina Henderson, daughter of Charles G Emory, formerly owner of the Frontenac hotel in the Thousand Islands, has just been divorced from Charles Mortimer Henderson. Mrs. Henderson receives the custody of their two children—Mortimer, six years old, and Francina, five years old. She asked for no alimony.

The Hendersons were married eight years ago in Orange county. According to the wife's testimony, Mr. Henderson insisted on having his breakfast served in bed and became involved in debt.

"He always got his breakfast in bed and then lay around the house the rest of the day," she testified. "I wanted him to go to work, but he would not."

GOMEZ MAY TAKE FIELD.

To Call on Countrymen to Help Suppress Rebellion.

Havana, June 7.—Because he feels certain that if the Cuban uprising is not controlled within a short time American intervention and resulting loss of Cuban independence are inevitable, President Gomez informed his intimates that he preposes to take the field himself and call to the country to support him in wiping out the rebellion.

Notwithstanding that Washington has constantly reasserted assurances that the United States does not intend to intervene in Cuba, it is stated positively that Cuban officials are not convinced, fearing that intervention means the end of the present administration if not of the republic.

TRY A PRESS WANT AD.

The Scrap Book

A Cordial Greeting.

The late Admiral "Fighting Bob" Evans once entertained the kaiser on board his flagship, and his imperial majesty found a certain dish at luncheon so much to his liking that he said he would like to compliment the cook.

"GLAD TO MEET YOU, SAR."

"The dish was prepared by my colored servant George," the admiral said.

"Send for him," said the kaiser.

The admiral summoned the negro to his side.

"The emperor wishes to speak to you," he said in an undertone.

George, wearing a smile that seemed inclined to meet at the back of his head, stepped briskly up to his majesty, who extended his hand to be bent over and kissed. But George knew nothing of the etiquette of the imperial court of Berlin, and he grasped the proffered hand and shook it warmly.

"Glad to meet you, sar," he said cordially. "Hope de fambly's all well and you, too, sar!"

The Sweetest Lives.

The sweetest lives are those to duty wed,
Whose deeds, both great and small,
Are close knit strands of an unbroken thread,
Where love ennobles all.
The world may sound no trumpet, ring no bells;
The book of life the shining record tells.

Thy love shall chant its own beatitudes
After its own life working. A child's kiss
Set on thy singing lips shall make thee glad;
A poor man served by thee shall make thee rich;
A sick man helped by thee shall make thee strong;
Thou shalt be served thyself by every sense
Of service which thou renderest.
—Mrs. Browning.

A Good Chaser.

Probably one of the heartiest laughs which the Duke of Connaught, governor general of Canada, ever enjoyed, says the London Tatler, was that occasioned by the remark of an Irish peasant, who one day while the duke was driving in Dublin with the duchess ran alongside the carriage and kept up with it in an astonishing fashion. So persistent was the man in his endeavors to keep pace with the carriage that at length the duchess had the vehicle stopped and asked the man what he wanted. He said that he was anxious to get a good look at their royal highnesses. The duchess was much flattered and asked him how he managed to keep up with them. "Oh," he said, "shure, ma'am, and haven't I been chasing pigs all me foife?"

THE DUCHESS WAS FLATTERED.

Very Choice Steaks.

Two men had to wait in a junction town in Ohio for a train at about the time when they were perishing for food. They took a look at the hotel, didn't like it and started out to find a restaurant. A small one loomed up on one street, and as they entered it one of the men remarked, "In any dump like this the main idea is ham and eggs." They ordered ham and eggs, and the proprietor was halfway to the kitchen when he came back and said, "I've just got some nice porterhouse steaks in." The travelers looked at each other for support, changed their minds and said they'd have steaks. Replied the landlord, "What will you have—the fifteen or the twenty cent ones?"—Argonaut.

He Sidestepped.

One of our best little magazine writers called on the various editors some weeks ago. "I just dropped around," said he, "to tell you that I'm to be married soon, but before I get married I must make $1,000. I need $200 for an engagement ring, $100 for clothes, and I'll spend the rest on the honeymoon. Now, will you buy some short fiction from me so that I can keep my promise to the girl?"

He is a clever writer, and the editors are at all times glad to get his stuff. They assured him they would buy every story he turned in. Knowing his prodigious capacity for work as well as for idleness, they made bets among themselves whether he would make good on his struggle. Last week the time was up. All dressed up like a Gould child on Sunday, he called at the various magazine offices to say goodby. "I did it," he said cheerily: "wrote like a pup, doped out plots in my sleep, strained a forefinger beating the typewriter into a lather, but I did it. Put the last denaro of my $1,000 in the bank yesterday."

"And when are you going to get married?" they asked him.

"Married?" said the writer of short stories. "Married—with $1,000 in bank? Shucks! I'm going to take a trip to Europe."—New York Letter to Cincinnati Times-Star.

PAID FOR HIS HASTE.

However, He Stood the Gaff Like a Dead Game Sport.

The huge bulk of Senator Boies Penrose might have been seen emerging hurriedly from the big Washington hotel where he lives, says the Washington correspondent of the New York Press. It was no trouble at all to observe that he was in great haste to go somewhere, especially when he hailed the only taxicab in sight and bade the driver break all speed ordinances getting him to the Union station.

"But"— began the taxi driver.

"No buts," commanded the Brobdingnagian senator. "I haven't a minute to lose."

"There's a gentleman just"—

"Doesn't make any difference," interrupted Penrose. "Can't help it if you're waiting on two gentlemen or a bridal party. I've got to have this taxi. Hurry, now."

"You see, sir, the man"—

Penrose burrowed through the door into the taxicab just as if it were all arranged and said: "Union station. Quick!"

Penrose is in the habit of getting what he desires, and the taxi driver, noting the glitter of his uncompromising black eyes, waived further argument.

The scene shifts now to the Union station, where Penrose is emerging hastily from the taxicab. Bystanders look on and wonder where the big passenger could have tucked himself in so small a vehicle.

"Here; keep the change," says Penrose, handing the driver a dollar bill as he rushes toward his train.

"But the other gentleman already owed $7.50," the driver managed to blurt out.

"I've heard of such things happening," growled Penrose. But he paid it without another word.

Ready With His Answer.

An English tourist in the Emerald Isle who was telling an Irish peasant about the immense size of the British empire said:

"Well, Pat, and do you know that the sun never sets on the king's dominions?"

"No, your honor," replied Pat.

"Well, such is the case," went on the tourist. "But do you know the reason why?"

Pat immediately answered, "I suppose it is because heaven is afraid to trust an Englishman in the dark."

A Dim Sense of Humor.

Colonel Abe Gruber, the well known Republican leader in New York city, is fond of telling the following story on one of the budding young politicians of his district. "One day in the last campaign a bright young chap in my district came to me and asked to go on the stump for the Republican ticket," said the colonel, "so I arranged it so that he could speak on the following Monday in one of the up state counties. He was back again on Tuesday thoroughly disgusted. 'That was a fine place you sent me to,' he protested. 'In the half an hour I tried in every way to arouse the audience. I used my best oratorical effects and told stories which I considered good, but for some reason I couldn't get a rise out of them, and when I finished I did not get a hand.' 'That's nothing,' I replied. 'I spoke at a meeting there about a year ago and, like yourself, couldn't get a rise. Finally I told a funny story, and one fellow away back in the hall laughed uproariously. And when the meeting was over a committee waited on me and apologized for the disturbance.'"

She Was No Paul Pry.

A woman who had a very faithful servant presented her with a ticket to a fashionable theater and was surprised when the girl returned home quite early. "Didn't you like the theater?" the mistress asked.

"I did that, mum, and it was fine."

"But why did you not see the play out? You are home early."

"Indeed, I did, mum! There were grand ladies in the boxes and elegant gentlemen next me, and I had a lovely seat and enjoyed myself looking at the splendid picture as much as anybody. But when they took the picture up and I found myself looking into a gentleman's house and some ladies come in and began discussing family matters then I came away. It wasn't for the likes of me to sit and listen to family secrets. I hope I know my place better than that, mum."

"THEN I CAME AWAY."

—Napper—"Jones is so visionary! Nobody takes any stock in his schemes." Snapper (gloomily)—"I did."—Judge.

HELEN GOULD; TWO VIEWS

Contributes $1,000 to the Fund to Aid Southern Flood Sufferers.

AIDS FLOOD SUFFERERS.

Miss Helen Gould Sends Check For $1,000 to Fund.

New York, June 7.—Miss Helen M. Gould has contributed $1,000 to the fund being raised by the southern flood relief committee. This brings the total contributions in this city for the relief of survivors of the flooded territory along the Mississippi river up to $24,617. According to reports, more than 15,000 acres of fertile land are still under water.

Ernest P. Bicknell, national director of the American Red Cross, in a letter declared that the most urgent necessity in the flooded district is seed for the farmers.

BUTCHERS STORMED BY MILITANT FEMALES

Onslaught Causes Thirty Brooklyn Shops to Close.

New York, June 7.—A militant band of nine Brooklyn housewives set out to pull down the cost of living not only by boycott, but by force, and after they had smashed one butcher's plate glass window and threatened a score of others they had actually tied up the retail meat business in their neighborhood.

"Stop selling at these outrageous prices and throw your meat away," was the command the women carried to every butcher of the neighborhood. "We're not going to buy any more meat, anyway, so you might as well quit buying from the wholesalers and work the strike backward to the trust itself."

Some of the meat men closed up shop without a murmur; others who tried to argue were threatened and left to choose their own fate by either closing or keeping open their shops.

About thirty shops were closed by the band of price reformers, who declare they will soon extend their organization and their campaign through out the city.

Duluth, Minn., June 7.—Minnesota Democrats in state convention voted to send a full delegation of twenty-four delegates to the Baltimore convention with instructions to vote for Woodrow Wilson.

GAMBLE SAYS HE'S WON.

South Dakota Senator Claims Majority of 2,500 Over Sterling.

Sioux Falls, S. D., June 7.—Returns indicated the defeat in the primaries of Senator Gamble, Republican, a member of the Lorimer investigating committee, but later reports showed that he might still pull through.

The senator asserted that he had won by not less than 2,500 over Thomas Sterling, his nearest Republican opponent.

ACCUSE IMPORTER OF CHEATING U. S.

Rich Linen Man Arrested For Defrauding Government.

IS HELD IN $15,000 BAIL.

Claimed That Merchants In New York and Other Cities, by Undervaluing Imports, Have Caused Loss In Customs of Approximately $1,000,000.

New York, June 7.—Harry T. Turtle of the firm of Turtle Bros., importers of Irish and Scotch linens, was arrested by Marshal Henkle in the federal building on the charge of being concerned in extensive customs undervaluation frauds covering a period of nearly ten years. The accused importer when arraigned before United States Commissioner Shields was put under $15,000 bail for examination June 20. He furnished cash bail and was released.

According to Special Treasury Agents Williams and Coffee, who secured the evidence upon which the arrest was made, the frauds thus far investigated exceed $100,000. The linens alleged to have been undervalued when entered at the customs were mostly imported from Ireland.

Williams Is Complainant.

The complaint, sworn to by Special Treasury Agent Williams, charges specifically that on Jan. 4, 1910, Turtle Bros. "willfully, knowingly and unlawfully" conspired to defraud the United States by effecting the entry of twenty-six cases of cottons and linens on a false classification. The complaint asserts the invoice put the cost of the imported linens at $12,381, whereas their actual cost and value was $13,000.

The Turtle Bros.' case is said to be one of several now under investigation and involving linen importers in this and other cities. The total amount of the frauds, Washington reports state, is in the neighborhood of $1,000,000.

M'NAMARAS LOSE CREDITS.

Refused to Perform Tasks Assigned to Them In Prison.

San Quinten, Cal., June 7.—James B. and John J. McNamara, the one serving a life sentence and the other fourteen years in the San Quentin prison for the Los Angeles dynamite conspiracy, have lost their credits for failing to perform tasks assigned them.

They have been removed from the jute mill, after repeated warnings had proved ineffectual.

Queen Visits Orphanage.

Madrid, June 7.—Queen Victoria and Queen Dowager Christina visited the asylum and orphanage of De la Union at Vista Alegre and conversed with the invalids.

—Mrs. Muggins—"I had a terrible dream last night. I dreamed my husband was dead." Mrs. Buggins—"Oh, I often dream that." Mrs. Muggins—"Yes, but I dreamed he had allowed his life insurance to lapse."

H. W. MABIE TAKEN ILL AT KANSAS UNIVERSITY

Lawrence, Kan., June 7.—Hamilton Wright Mabie, of New York and Cummit, N. J., fainted twice here while attending the commencement exercises of Kansas University. He first was overcome at the end of his address. After the attack Mr. Mabie was revived and had taken his seat at the speakers' table for the annual banquet, when he again was overcome and fell forward in his chair. He was carried from the hall and revived.

An approaching storm and high altitude of the university made the heat in the auditorium almost unbearable.

FREEHOLDER'S VOTE TO BUY OWN LAND FAILS

Trenton, June 7.—A resolution of the chosen freeholders of Cape May county providing for the widening and relocation of the Ocean City road has been set aside by the Supreme Court upon the ground that Mr. Fox, one of the freeholders who voted for the proposition, was the owner of land sought to be taken under the proceedings.

The court held that the laying out of a public highway in such circumstances is a judicial and not a legislative function, and therefore, Mr. Fox had no right to vote upon the proposition, in which he was actively interested.

VISITOR FAINTS WHEN MAN THOUGHT DEAD APPEARS

Long Branch, June 7.—Calling at the home of Simon Glaser expecting to find him dead, one friend fainted when Glaser hmself opened the door. Floral tributes were delivered to Glaser and telephone messages were numerous. Some one circulated a report that Glaser was dead. The first intimation that Glaser received of his supposed demise was when the telephone jingled and Glaser was asked when he had passed away. Glaser declared that he had not passed away, and as confirmation cited that he had just eaten a hearty breakfast. Then came the visitor who fainted, and a series of messages of condolence and flowers. Glaser has been unable to determine the source of the report. He is proprietor of the Atlantic Hotel. Now that Glaser's friends are certain he is alive, they have come to the conclusion that there is another "ghost" in Long Branch besides the anti-commission government petition. They think that the "ghost" rumor of Glaser's death is the work of a joker who saw great possibilities for "fun" in playing on the credulity of local residents.

"When that young man asked you to marry him," said Cumrox, "why didn't you tell him to see me?" "I did," replied his daughter, demurely. "He said he had already seen you and that he didn't find your appearance especially objectionable."—Washington Star.

POLITICIAN DIES SUDDENLY IN HOME

Dennis McLaughlin, Once Jersey Power, Dead.

WAS HUDSON COUNTY BOSS

Member of the "Big Four" of Guttenburg Race Track Fames—Came to This Country From Ireland a Poor Boy and Was Reported to Have Amassed a Million.

Jersey City, N. J., June 7.—Former County Clerk Dennis McLaughlin of Hudson county, once one of the best known Democratic politicians in New Jersey, died suddenly at his home here at the age of sixty-three. Death was primarily due to acute indigestion, with which he was attacked on May 28, the day of the Democratic primary. He voted at the primary and then went to his summer home at Milford, N. J., where he was taken sick. He returned to Jersey City two days later and placed himself in the care of a physician.

Mr. McLaughlin was sitting at a window in his room while his family were in the dining room, and his nurse brought him his supper on a tray. He ate sparingly and asked for a glass of water. The nurse left the room, and when she returned a few minutes later she found him dead in his chair, with the overturned glass in his hand.

Came Here Poor Boy.

McLaughlin was born in Ireland and came to this country as a very small boy. He learned the trade of molder in the Erie railroad shops and then became a newsdealer in the old "Horse Shoe" district, Jersey City. He early took an active interest in the torrid Democratic "Shoe" politics and was elected an alderman from the Second ward in 1870. He also served as an assessor. His news stand became a favorite gathering place for Democratic politicians, and he soon became a power in his party. He was sent to the assembly in 1881, 1882, 1883, and in 1884 he was elected county clerk, being re-elected in 1889 for another term of five years.

McLaughlin shared the Democratic leadership of Hudson county with Surrogate Billy McAvoy for a time and was the real power in the Democratic ranks after the death of McAvoy until the advent of the late Bob Davis, with whom he was obliged to whack up the leadership honors. Davis became the actual boss after the defeat by General P. Farmer Wanser, Republican, of the late Allan L. McDermott as mayor of Jersey City in 1892. McLaughlin then retired from politics and gave up his time to his business interests, mainly the acquisition of real estate. He was heavily interested in Hoboken and Jersey City property and was reputed to be a millionaire.

Was One of "Big Four."

McLaughlin was well known as one of the "big four" owners of Guttenberg race track, which was put out of business in the nineties after the crusade which resulted in legislation that left nothing but a crimp in all Jersey race tracks. His partners in the "big four" were Nick Crustus, John Carr and Fred Walbaum.

YEAR FOR KEARNY RIOTERS.

Twenty-one Get Maximum Penalty For Attack on Police.

Newark, N. J., June 7.—Twenty-one Italians of the 500 striking laborers who tried to seize Kearny Monday were sent to the Hudson county penitentiary for a year, the maximum penalty which Recorder Leonard Wimmer could inflict. Seven who could not be positively identified as being among the rioters were discharged, and one on whom the police found a revolver and two knives was held for further examination.

Those arraigned were captured by the volunteer fire department, called out when the riot signal was sounded, and by business men, who lent their automobiles for the pursuit of the rioters. Police Chief Tolen, who was seriously hurt by the rioters, and Policeman Philip Belle, who sent in the riot call, were among the witnesses against the rioters.

COUPLE BURNED TO DEATH.

Blaze Sweeps Bungalow and Bodies Are Found In Bed.

Newton, N. J., June 7.—Charles C. Edgerton, a real estate dealer of this place, and his wife were burned to death in a fire that desroyed their sumer bungalow at Budd's lake.

Mrs. A. W. Knowles of Brooklyn, a daughter of the Edgertons, jumped with her husband from their bedroom window. Her right leg was fractured and she was badly bruised. Mr. Knowles escaped with bruises.

After the fire had completely destroyed the bungalow the bodies of the Edgertons were found in the springs of the bed they had been sleeping in. They probably had no warning of danger and were over come by smoke.

Fall Down Saloon Stairs Fatal.

Newark, N. J., June 7.—James Fitzgerald, seventy-two years old, whose address is not known, fell down a flight of stairs in a saloon. He died later in the City hospital from a fractured skull.

—No man ever made so much money out of a business that he knows so little about on the witness stand as Mr. Rockefeller.—Baltimore Sun.

CHARMING BOOK BY DOCTOR HALL

Former Plainfielder, Grandson of Julia Ward Howe, Author of Delightful Book.

IDYLLS OF FISHERMAN

Work Breathes Strongly the Author's Love of the Sea—Many Passages of Beauty Drawn From Ancients and Moderns.

The Columbia University Press of New York, has just issued "The Idylls of Fishermen—a History of the Literary Species," by Dr. Henry Marion Hall, of New York, son of Mrs. Florence Howe Hall, and a graduate of Leal's School. The little volume is full of the charm of the sea. One sees throughout its pages that the author loves out-of-door life and the poetry suggested by it. Hence he has given us many beautiful selections, beginning with Homer and ending with Keats and Lamartine.

We are all more or less familiar with pastoral poetry in the ordinary sense of the word, the poetry dealing with woods and fields, with the lives of shepherds and their flocks. But the existence of this large body of marine pastoral literature has been unknown to the generality of readers. Perhaps this is owing to the more cheerful nature of the former. To quote our author:

"The gray of the sea dims most ancient pictures of fishing life, and in them, as a rule, we may look in vain for the sunny warmth of Sicilian meadows where shepherds pine and sing. It is noteworthy also that the mood of piscatory poetry is usually serious or melancholy, and in keeping with the surroundings. Even legends about the deities of fishers share this quality. Proteus is almost an incarnation of the swift and awful changes of the ocean, a

INCREASE IN MIDDLESEX VALUATIONS IS EXPECTED

The Middlesex County Tax Board, figuring on reports from various districts, expects that the tax valuations of the county will be greatly increased this year in spite of the reductions caused by small coal deposits at South Plainfield and South Amboy.

It is probable that the increased valuables in New Brunswick will approach the million dollar mark. The local tax assessors have been busy since May 20 making their valuations and have it well in hand.

GREAT INCREASE IN JERSEY'S INDUSTRIES

Census Bulletin Issued by Director Durand Puts State Near Top in Manufactures.

New Jersey's manufacturers, as shown in the reports of the thirteenth census, indicate a great increase in almost every line. An advance bulletin on the manufactures has been issued by Director Durand.

Although forty-fifth in size, New Jersey, is eleventh regarding population, third in density of population and is near the top as a manufacturing state. The gross area of the state is 8,224 square miles, of which 710 square miles represents water surface. The population in 1910 was 2,537,167, as compared with 1,883,669 in 1900, and 1,444,933 in 1890. In 1900 the state ranked sixteenth in population.

In New Jersey there are 8,817 manufacturing establishments, employing on an average of 326,223 wage earners, who produce yearly $1,145,529,000 worth of finished product, the added value by manufacture amounting to $425,496,000. The total number employed in manufactures, including the wage earners, was, in 1909, 371,265. These drew in salaries and wages, $218,046,000, and the raw materials used in the factories was valued at $720,033,000.

In 1910 the state had nine cities with a population of more than 50,000. These are: Newark, 347,469; Jersey City, 267,779; Paterson, 125,000; Trenton, 96,815; Camden, 94,538; Elizabeth 73,409; Hoboken, 70,324; Bayonne, 55,545, and Passaic, 54,773. There were also twenty-three cities and other incorporated places with a population between 10,000 and 50,000. These thirty-two places contained more than sixty-four per cent. of the total population of the state and reported more than seventy-four per cent, of its manufactured products.

The chief industry of the state was the manufacture of textiles. In this line there were employed an average of 60,647 wage earners, and the value of the products amounted to $133,205,000. This represents an increase over the figures of 1904 of nineteen per cent. in the average number of wage earners and more than fifty-six per cent. in value of products.

Again does New Jersey rank first in the smelting and refining of copper. It was first in 1899 and again in 1904. The value of the output in 1909 was $125,651,000. It increased its output in this line more than 100 per cent. over that of 1904. Since 1899 it has ranked first for smelting and refining copper, and in 1909 its output amounted to more than eleven per cent. of the total manufactured products of the state.

MEN VICTORIOUS AT SCOTT SHOP

Management Concedes Establishment of 8-Hour Day and Strike Ends There.

OTHER GROUPS HOPEFUL

Potter and Hall Men Expect Conference in New York to Bring About Settlement Monday—Hall Charges Breach of Faith.

After a short and decisive fight the machinists have won one victory. Those of them who work in the Walter Scott Machine Printing Company gain their point. They resume work on Monday morning on the four quarter basis. That is to say a quarter-hour reduction will take effect now; the second quarter January first; the third quarter June next, and the full hour January 1, 1914. It is the general opinion that the foundry workers will share in this concession.

The other press shops affected, it is expected will follow suit. A conference has been arranged to be held in New York Monday which wil be attended by Philip W. Hall of the Dunellen Press Printing Company and the manager of the Fuchs & Lang Company, Carlstadt, Bergen county. It is believed that H. V. Reilly will be able to bring about an immediate settlement, and that all the machinists will be back at work before the end of next week.

The men of Scott's are naturally in a jubilant mood today, and many of them are going to the shore for the week-end preparatory to getting into harness on Monday. The remaining machinists will stay on the firing line to await the outcome of Monday's conference.

What action the Potter Company will take it is yet hard to say. The manager is out of town but it is expected that when he returns a good working solution will be reached.

Breaches of faith on the part of the strike leaders is alleged by P. W. Hall, of the Hall Press Works, Dunellen, in a notice posted outside his works and also sent to the local employers. In this notice Mr. Hall says that Riley and Keppler at a recent conference agreed that until definite action by Congress or President Taft on the Steel Bill no action on the part of the men working at the Hall Printing Press Company's plant would be taken.

Both Mr. Riley and Mr. Keppler deny ever making such an agreement, and their denial is backed by a representative of the Walter Scott Printing Machine Company, who was present at all the conferences and who avers that no mention was ever made of the Tariff Bill.

Superintendent James White, of the Hall Company, when seen this morning, bitterly inveighed against the attitude taken by the strike leaders in calling out the men. When informed of the action of the Walter Scott Printing Machine Company in conceding the eight-hour demand to come into operation on January 1, 1914, he said if that was so it was a breach of the arrangements made between them.

Asked as to what the arrangement was he would not say, but indicated their intention of persisting in the attitude adopted, namely, not to make any devision on the eight-hour day until the fate of the Steel Bill was decided; that the Hall Press Works would be willing to have the men back at work to await the result.

The Scott Works was 'phoned this morning, and in reply to a query regarding the bona fide nature of the concession given out at strike headquarters, the management refused to confirm or deny the settlement claim, but added that the "Daily Press" could regard it as official if made by Riley or Keppler.

Saturday being a holiday with the heads of the firm of the Potter Printing Press Company, none of the managers could be found at the works, but it is rumored they will follow the example of Scott's by mutual arrangement with the men.

FEAR WATCHUNG DAM IS UNSAFE

Borough Councilmen Say the Structure is a Menace to Property and Life.

HEARING AT TRENTON

Condition of the Pile to Be Inquired Into Next Tuesday—Mayor Clark, Councilman Milne and Borough Engineer Will Attend.

From the fears expressed by two of the North Plainfield Councilmen at last night's meeting it would seem that the condition of Watchung dam is such as to call for an immediate and thorough investigation with a view to its being placed beyond any danger of accident. In fact there will be a public hearing on the matter at Trenton on Tuesday next; and it was as the result of a communication inviting borough representatives to attend that brought the matter up.

Councilman L. B. Woolston spoke of its appearance, as seen through his eyes and that of Engineer J. O. Osgood. From their viewpoint it was regarded as unsafe and a menace to public property in the event of its giving way.

In speaking of its condition words were not minced by Councilman Buttfield. He went further than Councilman Woolston and said that there would be not only damage done to the streets and property in the event of its bursting but there might be a serious loss of life. For from an investigation that he made, the brick lining of the embankment rested on no solid foundation and was covered over with a thin coating of cement worn away in places; and at one spot in particular there was a hole in which, as he said, "three men could be placed." Of course it was outside their jurisdiction, but he believed that in the interests of the citizens of North Plainfield they had a right to a voice in the matter and was of opinion that they should be represented at the public hearing. Accordingly, Mayor Clark, Councilman Milne, of the Street Committee, and the borough engineer were authorized to attend the meeting at Trenton on Tuesday.

SAFEGUARDING JOBS OF THE BORO POLICE

"To eliminate policemen from politics is the problem that the North Plainfield councilmen have set themselves to solve, and in which an initial essay was made last night by Councilman Milne, and at the next general municipal election, voters will find an opportunity of marking their approval or disapproval. The borough clerk has been instructed to include this provision on the ballot among other matters to be voted on.

Poring through a volumnious tome of statutes enacted by the Legislature the other day Councilman Milne came across a law in Chapter 377, providing for tenure of office for policemen and firemen, in third rate towns, and though he did not, he said last night, want to cast any reflections on the borough by terming it a "third rater," yet he thought it would be a mighty good idea to apply its provisions here and by so doing eliminate the "force" from politics. He did not think they could apply the law to the firemen.

Councilman Rushmore cordially agreed with Councilman Milne which agreed with Councilman Milne's opinion and declared it a very sensible and admirable idea, which if approved by the citizens would provide a steady and secure position for the men, and keep them clear of politics.

Mayor Clark also beamed his approval. Although Councilman Buttfield thought the proposal differentiated from kindred laws, he offered no opposition when the roll was called.

ABSOLUTE DIVORCE.

As advised by Vice Chancellor Vivian M. Lewis, an absolute divorce has been granted to Mrs. Lizzie Binn from her husband, Howard Binn, of Berkman street, by Chancellor Edwin R. Walker. Miss Louise Doughty, of Central avenue, was named as corespondent and the offense was committed last October. The couple were married on Nov. 22, 1903. Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., was counsel for Mrs. Binn.

Subpoena Servers of Money Trust Probe Are Unable to Find Him.

That William Rockefeller, president of the Standard Oil Company of New York and a director of the National City bank and of many financial and railroad corporations, is wanted by the congressional investigators of the money trust as a witness was announced when the committee resumed its hearing in the custom house. Subpoena servers, it was said, had been unable to find Mr. Rockefeller.

SAYS MONEY TRUST BLASTED HIS CAREER

So Testifies R. W. Jones. Sound Banks Closed.

New York, June 8.—R. W. Jones, former president of the Oriental bank, which was closed during the panic of 1907, produced on the witness stand at the "money trust" inquiry a letter from Hugh Kelly, the succeeding president, to the effect that the acion of the Clearing House committee in forcing the bank to close blasted the career of Jones.

Mr. Jones also said that the order of the committee to him to refuse to clear for the Borough bank and the Brooklyn bank of Brooklyn was the cause of their failure. Following this the district attorney of Brooklyn prosecuted officials of these institutions.

The letter of Mr. Kelly created something of a sensation at the hearing. From the position of president of an important bank in this city Jones had gone to a small brokerage office. He did not look prosperous while on the stand.

CHARMING BOOK BY DR. HALL

lonely prophet voice of many waters."

Yet the fisher idylls and other forms of fisher literature have a charm of their own, as is shown by their continued popularity during many centuries. The men described in them attract us by the simplicity and elevation of their character. To quote our author again: "The earliest sketches show these toilers of the sea to be men of great age, dogged patience, bitter poverty, yet of contentment with their lot, and these characteristics after awhile become generally associated with the piscatory poem."

Fragment of ancient Greek plays that still survive, show us that fishers were always among the familiar characters on the stage. So too, "The conception of sacred and mysterious fish was very ancient and appears first in the myths about Glaucus, once a fisherman of the 'Golden Age.' According to the usual version of the story, he one day caught in his net a large number of fine fish. These he landed, and admired their beauty as they lay gasping on the turf. All at once they nibbled the herbage, became filled with fresh life and swam down the bank over the beach to the water. The astonished Glaucus plucked some of the strange grass and tasted it. Instantly he was transformed into a sea-god with green hair and a scaly tail, and plunged into the waves among the escaped prey."

When Oliver Wendell Holmes wrote his beautiful poem about the chambered nautilus, he doubtless knew that this had been considered a sacred fish from very early times.

Theocritus created the fisher eclogue. We give a portion of his twenty-first idyll, quoted by Mr. Hall:

"Tis poverty alone, Diophantus, that awakens the arts; poverty, the very teacher of labor.

"Two fishers, on a time, two old men, together lay and slept—they had strewn the dry sea-moss for a bed in their wattled cabin, and there they lay against the leafy wall. Beside them were strewn the instruments of their toilsome hands, the fishing creels, the rods of reed, the hooks, the sails bedraggled with seaspoil, the lines, the weels, the lobster pots woven of rushes, the seines, two oars, and an old cable upon props. Beneath their heads was a scanty matting, their clothes, their sailor caps. Here was all their toil, here all their wealth. The threshold had never a door, nor a watch-dog; all things, all to them seemed superfluity, for poverty was their sentinel. They had no neighbor by them, but ever against their narrow cabin floated up the sea.

"The chariot of the moon had not yet reached the mid-point of her course, but their familiar toil awakened the fishermen; from their eyelids they cast out slumber, and roused their souls with speech."

The descriptions of fishermen in poetry of the ancient Greeks cover a long period, perhaps of a thousand years, we are told, yet from first to last they differed little, being drawn from nature. "It was not until the times of later humanism that new conventions were contrived for idylls in which they figured. It remained for a later poet, Giacopo Sannazaro, to take advantages of the neglect into which the fisher convention had fallen, and to compose in the learned tongue the first set of what he called "Piscatory eclogues," although he claims to have originated this species of verse.

"Since I was the first to go down to the salt waves, daring to render in words, sounds yet untried," in reality he modelled his idylls on those of Theocritus and on the bucolics of Virgil, which in his hands "suffered a sea-change."

Like the Greek poet who wrote more than a thousand years before him, the famous humanist lived on the shores of the blue Mediterranean. Their beauty inspired alike the verse of Theocritus and of Sannazaro. Speaking of the latter's marine imitation of the Mantuan, Mr. Hall says:

"Arcadian pastures rise into the bold outline of the fairest coats in the world, the usual inland quiet is troubled by the murmur of tides, or by the tramp of surf along sounding beaches, while the melody of the lark or of the nightingale is changed to the hoarse cries of divers or of halcyons. By a similar analogy swains are transformed into fishermen, and rustic gods into ocean gods. In place of Pan, guardian of flocks and herds father of country song, we find dark green Proteus, shepherd of the seacalves, skilled in song and prophecy. The 'Carpathian wizard's hook' is wielded to prod throngs of drowsy seals, while in his webby clutch the reed pipe becomes a conch, the deep notes of which are echoed 'by scaly Triton's winding shell.'"

The adaption of the idyll of Theocritus describing "forsaken Simaetha's wild incantations to win back her lover" is especially interesting. Dante Gabriel Rosetti's powerful poem on "Sister Helen" had evidently the same inspiration. Sannazaro's fisher girl comes down to the sea at night. She shouts:

"Pluck white worm-wood from the field hard by. By these magic rites shall I strive to burn his very flesh, who has left me wretched, and destroyed may peace of mind—this dry seaweed first. Scourings of the swelling ocean, is strewn and is suddenly burned up; lo, even thus, Macon, mayest thou be consumed even to the marrow."

Sannazaro's fisher eclogues were widely imitated in Italy and to some extent in France and in Spain. This form of poetry was introduced with England, in the days of Queen Elizabeth. It is especially interesting to find that the fisher idyll in Shakespeare's play of Pericles, is reproduced from a Greek romance, the story of Apolonius of Tyre, written a thousand years before.

We think of novels, as something modern, but here, as in almost all else, we found ourselves on those wonderful old Greeks!

Mr. Hall reminds us also of the debt which the piscatory eclogues owe to the narratives of the New Testament. He quotes the beautiful story of Christ's showing himself to his disciples, at the sea of Tiberias, and says of it:

"There can be no question that his idyllic picture excels in simplicity even the analagous ones in the poems of Theocritus."

Indeed in old Izaak Walton's famous book, as well as in French and Italian literature, we find fishing looked upon as a sacred calling. This idea was of course derived from the Gospel story. "In Fletcher's poetry and in Milton's we find a companion figure (to Christ the Shepherd) Christ the fisherman."

It would be interesting to say more of the fisher idylls in English literature, did space permit. In Keats' Endymion, "We catch once more the spirit of the gray myths of ocean divinities in far off Greece, and of the story of Glaucus, the fisher of the Golden Age."

"I touched no lute, I sang not, trod no measures;
I was a lonely youth on desert shores,
My sports were lonely, mid continuous roars.
And craggy isles and sea-mews' plaintive cry,
Dolphins were still my playmates; shapes unseen
Would let me feel their scales of gold and green."

This book "The Idylss of Fishermen" was written as a thesis for the degree of Doctor of Philosophy at Columbia University; some condensation was therefore necessary. Mr. Hall is the grandson of the late Mrs. Julia Ward Howe, hence his poetic taste may be thought to be hereditary.

STRAWBERRY FESTIVAL HELD AT VINCENT CHAPEL

The Ladies' Aid Society of the First M. E. church held a successful ice cream and strawberry festival and entertainment in Vincent chapel last night. Although the weather was a trifle cool for ice cream, there was liberal patronage. In addition home-made cake, candy and coffee ice cream cones were on sale.

During the evening there were gramaphone selections, Elmer D. Cutting sang several numbers and Miss Jubilee Rowley and Miss Mildred Burnet gave piano solos. The general committee in charge comprised Mrs. Arthur H. Osmun, chairman; Mrs. John Lewis and Mrs. Samuel Clark. Mrs. Frank Rowley had charge of the cake table, Mrs. Arthur Goodenough the lemonade, Mrs. Nelson Y. Hull the refreshments, Mrs. Samuel Clark the candy, while Mrs. Arthur E. Crone was in charge of the tables. Mrs. Bessie Allen arranged the decorations and Mrs. H. R. Moyer planned the entertainment. The affair netted about $35 for the kitchen fund.

GOVERNOR AND MRS. DIX.

Snapped on Their Return on Mauretania From a Tour of Europe.

© 1912, by American Press Association.

DIX BACK FROM EUROPE.

New York Governor and Wife Toured Continent In Auto.

New York, June 8.—The steamship Mauretania, out from Liverpool, docked at the Cunard pier. On board were Governor Dix and Mrs. Dix and John Hays Hammond with his son Harrison. The governor and his wife were down in the passenger list as "Mr. and Mrs Dix." John Hays Hammond noticed the listing and quietly had it changed to "the Honorable and Mrs. Dix."

Both Governor and Mrs. Dix were well bronzed and seemed happy to have arrived home again. Mrs. Dix wore a blue traveling suit and a large black hat with white feathers. A large number of relatives and friends greeted Mr. and Mrs. Dix.

The governor and his wife have been abroad since April 20. They took an automobile with them and only on one occasion used the railroad—when leaving London in a hurry to make connections with the homegoing boat at Liverpool.

POLICE HUNT SLAYER OF SIX-YEAR-OLD GIRL

Think Left Handed Man Lured Her to Cellar.

New York, June 8.—A squad of central office detectives joined the staff of the Broux detective bureau in their hunt for the slayer of six-year-old Sigred Ekstrom, the golden haired child who was lured to the cellar of a flathouse adjoining her home and strangled to death.

The police have no other clew to work on than a vague description of a dark man with a little black mustache that was furnished by the eight-year-old brother of the murdered girl and the statement of Coroner's Physician Riegelman that the murderer was a left handed man.

The autopsy, which was performed in the Ekstrom home, set aside the first police theory that the child might have died from a convulsion or a fall and established that she was lured into the dark cellar and then strangled.

There could be no doubt, said Dr. Riegelman after the autopsy, but that strangulation had caused death, and the impress of finger and thumb marks on the white flesh of the slim little throat proved that a left handed man had committed the crime.

STRAUS MEMORIAL TEMPLE.

To Be Erected at Asbury Park In Honor of Titanic Victims.

Asbury Park, N. J., June 8.—A magnificent Jewish temple as a national memorial to Mr. and Mrs. Isadore Straus, who lost their lives by the sinking of the Titanic, is to be erected in Asbury Park.

A temporary place of worship will be dedicated July 4 at 3 p. m. in the parlors of Hotel Leroy on Seventh avenue, prominent Hebrews from all parts of the country participating. Services will be held at the hotel every Friday evening and Saturday morning until the new temple is ready for occupancy. The committee in charge of the dedication services comprises Jacob Katz and Isadore Schafran of New York, Mrs. R. Brylawski and Mrs. M. Sterne of Asbury Park.

The first meeting in the interest of building a fine temple on the North Jersey coast was held at the Deal casino last August, at which Mr. Straus presided and made the first contribution.

LOSES LIFE SAVING GIRL.

Finding Craft Won't Support Both Lets Go His Hold.

Grand Mere, Que., June 8.—Ira Holt a landscape engineer of Buffalo, sacrificed his life here to save Miss Madeline Smith, with whom he was canoeing on the St. Maurice river.

When their frail craft was upset by the swift current Holt got his companion to a place of safety on the overturned canoe, and then finding that it would not support them both let go his hold and sank. His body has not yet been found.

"SEEK TO MURDER PARTY"--DIXON

Says "Conspirators Admit Taft Can't Be Elected."

PRESIDENT'S VOTE BIGGER.

His Supporters Score Again When Arkansas Delegation Is Seated—Ex-Senator Flinn's Arrival on Scene Commented On—Roosevelt Confident.

Chicago, June 8.—Resenting what has been termed the "steam roller" of the Republican national committee in bowling out the Roosevelt delegates, particularly the unseating of the entire Roosevelt delegation from Alabama, Senator Dixon made the following statement:

"Until the roll was called on the Ninth Alabama district I was not prepared to believe that a majority of the national committee was prepared to deliberately murder the Republican party.

"The theft was cold blooded, premeditated and deliberate. With the record of the roll call in the Ninth Alabama congressional district I now deliberately charge that a majority of the national committee, in violation of their sacred trust as trustees of the Republican party, in fear and hatred of Theodore Roosevelt, have entered into an agreement among themselves to unseat all and every Roosevelt delegate, regardless of right, in the last desperate hope of being able to prevent Roosevelt's nomination.

Admit Taft's Defeat.

"These conspirators brazenly admit in private that Taft cannot be elected if nominated; that he will not carry five states if nominated, but they assert their deliberate purpose to scuttel the Republican ssip and accept four years of Democratic rule. They admit, in private, that if their program is carried out not twenty Republican congressmen can hope for election in November. They evidently are not only prepared to murder the Republican party, but to drag down to defeat in November every Republican state and county ticket throughout the nation."

After winning a victory before the national committee in the contest for the twenty-six delegates of Alabama the Taft supporters scored again when General Powell Clayton and the other three Taft delegates at large from Arkansas were seated by unanimous vote of the committee. It was said that the contests for the district delegates from Arkansas would all be decided the same way.

The first test vote, showing the maximum strength of Mr. Roosevelt's followers in the Republican national committee, came in the contest for the delegates from the Ninth Alabama district, which was bitterly fought by the minority faction. The vote was thirty-eight to fifteen in favor of seating the Taft delegates.

Flinn Is on the Scene.

The coming of ex-State Senator William Flinn of Pennsylvania as ex-President Roosevelt's chief personal representative on this field of battle has led to varied comment in the Roosevelt camp all to the effect that the ex-President is dissatified with the political manoeuvering of Senator Dixon and Ormsby McHarg.

Another report was to the effect that Mr. Dixon and Mr. McHarg deprecated this sending of Mr. Flinn here by Colonel Roosevelt and told the story that the friction between Dixon and McHarg has been revived. After investigation it is learned that both Mr. Dixon and Mr. McHarg are to welcome Mr. Flinn with open arms, and they will welcome any man that Colonel Roosevelt sends here to aid the Roosevelt corps.

Mr. Roosevelt Serene.

Oyster Bay, June 8.—To the many callers who presentetd themselves at the Outlook office, notwithstanding the fact that Colonel Roosevelt had not allowed his intention of going into town to become generally known, there was no evidence that the outcome of the first day's session of the national committee had lowered the colonel's confidence in the final result.

Nor was there any indication that he did not still put complete reliance upon the ability of his lieutenants to protect his interests in the preconvention maneuvers at Chicago. It still appears that he does not consider taking personal charge of his catapaign prematurely. He denied any knowledge of the persistent rumors from Chicago that he is expected to arrive there next Wednesday. The results of the Alabama contest disturbed him not at all.

"One district I thought was for me," he said, "but I told my managers when they went to Chicago that I did not expect one delegate contest to be decided for me which it was not entitled to. Justice is what I want, but nothing more than justice.

The colonel produced his own private table of delegates, the sheet which shows where that reserve strength lies about which his advisers are guessing. With an apology he prudently covered with an envelope all save one line, which he permitted his interviewers to read. It was—Alabama, Taft 22, Roosevelt 2.

"I haven't even counted on any of the other districts for which they were contesting," he continued, "but, then, I don't know anything about the cases I have left the details to my men."

—"What more should a man want than good health, a good job and a good wife?" "Well, a good reputation might come in handy."—Chicago Record-Herald.

THE COMMISSION FORM OF GOVERNMENT.

The lamentable state of affairs in Atlantic City, which has grown up under the existing form of a government by ward councilmen, will probably turn the attention of many to the newer form of municipal government by commission. Singularly enough, the disclosures follow an actual referendum in that city, in which it has been voted to adopt the new plan, but it has not yet gone into effect. Without doubt the vote in favor of a change was based upon the known corruption in Atlantic City; something which has been talked about, written about, acted upon by a grand jury, and partially exposed by some indictments. It so happens that more graft has been discovered, and before it is too late to call the offenders to account.

But Atlantic City is not Plainfield, nor does it follow that the vices incident to a councilmanic government there, or in Jersey City, or once rife in New Brunswick, Trenton and other cities, have existed or are likely to exist in Plainfield. Supposing—and I have no knowledge to the contrary—that what is called graft has had no foothold hitherto in this city, what shall we do about it—how shall we act—when the time comes for a decision as to whether we shall adopt the new form of government or not?

The question should be approached carefully and seriously. While a change once made can, in time, be unmade, if the voters so will, yet it is not likely than any retracing steps would soon be had.

The objects of a commission form of government in cities as in boroughs and towns, are, as I understand it: First, to confer and fix responsibility upon single heads of departments. Second, to insure constant oversight of the business of the city, the same as the heads of a business house watch and supervise their business. Third, to rid the governing body of the vices of ward politics, and, in fact, of politics of any sort. Fourth, to enable the public by the regularity, frequency and publicity of the meetings of the commission to know better what is going on (there being no closed doors,) and the better to present to a responsible head complaints or suggestions. Fifth, to enable the public to initiate legislation if it sees fit to do so. Sixth, to enable the public to recall an unsatisfactory official. There may be other advantages claimed, but these embrace the features that are supposed to give efficacy and virility to the commission.

It is clear that the latter two features, initiative as to ordinances and the recall of officials, could be made to work under the usual councilmanic form of government, were they incorporated into the present charters of cities. In other words, the new form is not required to secure these "progressive features;" although, as it now stands, it is only the commission form of government in New Jersey which does gives these features.

As to the "initiative," I doubt if such a power is needed in most of the cities of this State. I am not so sure that it is needed in any city, or in any State. But the "recall" is something I have advocated for many years. We have had in this State several concrete instances of men appointed and also elected to office, who soon proved their immorality, or dishonesty, or inefficiency, and yet could not be removed unless by a process of impeachment which rarely effects its object. The power of impeachment should remain as of course, but something more direct and closer to the people should take its place, and that is the "recall." I should not apply the recall to the judges of our courts—certainly not; there are too many good reasons why this would weaken public confidence in the bulwark of the liberties of the State and of every individual. But I should apply it to every other elected State, county and city official. When a sufficiently large percentage of voters feel that an official is no longer fit to serve out his term, the same public which elected him should be permitted to determine whether he should forfeit the remainder of his term or not. It is a "good club," if one chooses to look at it in that light, to hold over an official, that, if he defaults in his duties, he may be suspended from further carrying on his office.

I take it, however, that the other features of the act are the really important ones, and in a brief article I can only hastily give some personal views upon them.

The present system of governing cities does seem to me to have become—I will not say antiquated, but—unserviceable to the public. Its basis is fair enough. It looks well to have all quarters of a municipality "represented" in its governing board. It seems to be thoroughly democratic. When cities were small, only large towns, and street, police, fire, school, etc., departments were, in their details, quite matters of common knowledge, there seemed to be no objections to a body of ten or more men meeting regularly once a month, and despatching all the business that came before it; leaving committees at other times to act upon minor current topics. But as cities grow large difficulties begin to manifest themselves. Councilmen being unpaid, they begin to act more upon committee reports than upon their own knowledge, and the chairmen of the committees take it upon themselves to act for their associates. As in the Legislature, committees, by non-action, or slow action, defeat things which the public want, or are for the best interests of the community. Politics come in and thwart good measures, or push ahead bad ones. Favoritism to friends shows itself with frequency. The business of the city goes on, but there is a diffuseness of energy, the lack of a strong, guiding hand, an inattention to the economies, a want of system in the expansion of new municipal territory, a spasmodic attention only to the proper and permanent improvement of streets. "What is everybody's busines is nobody's." No one councilman carries the blame for miscarriages in public affairs, and the public cannot very well get at the source of leaks, or improper practices, or other forms of misgovernment.

Happily, Plainfield has had an unusual series of good Mayors; it has maintained a reputation for good local government above that of most cities of the State. Perhaps we have, on the whole, less fault to find with our Councils than almost any other New Jersey municipality. But still it has recently become evident, especially upon the sewer question, yet also upon the subject of street improvements and on the water question, that there has been too much divided responsibility; too little manifestation of sagacious business methods; too many collisions between Mayor and Council; too many secret meetings of Council and of committees; too little application to hard problems that must be solved and ought to be solved right.

If this be true, will a commission of five paid administrators change methods and results?

That depends. It ought to do so if the right men are selected and will serve the city. That is the whole answer in a nutshell. In other words, if there are in Plainfield five qualified men, who will give their undivided attention to the duties of their offices, treating the city precisely as they would a business corporation of which they were the sole corporators and officers, it must be that the net results will prove beneficial. I do not know if we can find such men to run for and hold office or not, but presumably we can. Many of the best councilmen we have had have too many engagements in New York city, and earn too much in other capacities to accept an office whose salary at the maximum could be but $1,500 per annum (or $1,800 for the commissioner acting as Mayor). Many of the best business men of this city whose engagements are not in New York would not feel they could afford to do the public a service requiring the most of their time. For it should be remembered that, while the positions of heads of the fire department, of public works, accounts and finances, public safety, streets and improvements, and parks and public property, are of somewhat varied responsibility, some requiring all one's time, and some much less, yet all are one body which must meet at least weekly, to pass upon almost every question that can arise; and while the individual members initiate propositions and carry out details, the entire body passes upon the budgets, enacts ordinances, grants franchises and really directs in the great things as heretofore. There is still in effect a "Council," although by another name; the municipal body governing is smaller, but it is still the government.

I would not desire to see the new plan of government tried and made a fiasco through an election of mere politicians, or of good incompetents. Yet the chances are against that, for it is a fact that in nearly all places where the new scheme has been tried it has been a success. In this State we had hoped to have had a conspicuous success of it in Trenton, it being the capitol of the State, where a change was sadly needed. I have watched the reports from Trenton with great interest, and feel that its first year of trial there has failed of real success, not owing to the system or the law, but owing to a total want of harmony among the officials selected. I do not believe it would be so in Plainfield, but can we feel assured of its certainty until we know that our firstrate men, our most competent business men—business men, I mean, competent for the peculiar work of running wisely, economically and with a fine public spirit a city that is growing in size and should grow into beauty, healthfulness and vigor—will be willing to make the sacrifices necessary for the public good, and take the offices as they are taken in Glasgow, Berlin, and some of the best-governed cities in the Old World, not for mere salary, but for honor? Commissioned-governed cities, rightly governed, are ideal; it remains to be seen with us whether we can secure the right governors in case we move toward a change.

NOTEWORTHY LECTURE ON "HELL" AT THE THEATRE

E. W. Brenneisen of New York city, general secretary of the International Bible Students' Association, a Bible lecturer of wide reputation and experience, will speak tomorrow afternoon in the Plainfield theatre, delivering his famous, anti-infidel lecture, "What Say the Scriptures About Hell?"

The subject is not a sensational one, Bible students say, if viewed from the proper standpoint, but is strictly reverent, Biblical, consistent with reason, and has reclaimed infidels and honest skeptics from all walks of life. It is declared that error and confusion respecting this important theme of the Bible has resulted in driving hundreds of educated men and women into the rapidly increasing field of higher criticism and doubt, because of their inability to harmonize the theories of the "dark ages" with the intellect of the day.

Secretary Brenneisen occupies an unique position as a Bible student and lecturer, appealing entirely to reason, rather than to sentiment and passion, and his simple treating of the original Greek and Hebrew text in a manner to be understood by all, is an education itself. He speaks here under the auspices of the International Bible Students' Association, for which the Plainfield Theatre will be thrown open free to the public; not even a collection to be lifted.

PROSPECTIVE BRIDE GETS SHOWER OF INVITED ADVICE

A unique shower was given yesterday afternoon, when Miss Mary E. Serrell, of Union street, entertained a number of her married friends at an "Advice Shower" in honor of her approaching marriage to Ralph W. Armstrong, of New York.

Each guest was requested to bring "a piece of advice, witty or serious, humorous or droll, poetry or prose, original or otherwise," and much amusement was afforded by the witticism and cleverness exhibited. Refreshments were served on the veranda.

DEFENDS MR. KAPELSOHN.

Editors, Plainfield Daily Press:

My attention has been directed only this morning to the fact that Mr. Kapelsohn has been accused of forging a note of this company. As the president of the company, I wish to say that Mr. Kapelsohn has been our treasurer and general manager for many years and has been entrusted with the entire management and financial matters of the company and continues to so act.

In fairness to Mr. Kapelsohn and the company, I feel that the public should be informed that he has been given a general authority to make and indorse notes and other commercial papers for our company, by the by-laws. After having handled many thousands of dollars for our company, I wish to express the greatest confidence in his integrity and unquestioned honesty.

The fact that this charge of forgery is made by a former workman, after the local District Court had decided that our company was not liable on this very note, in my opinion, gives color to the whole proceedings.

FACING THE TERRIBLE TURK.

A Wrestling Match That Was Ordered, but Didn't Take Place.

When Charles Edward Russell, the writer, was an editor he was known variously as Prince Charlie if he was in good humor and Pickle Face on other occasions. Once when he was acting as managing editor of the Chicago American and writing editorial articles as well for that paper Yusuf, the terrible Turk, about seven feet tall and weighing 400 pounds, was wrestling in Chicago. The Turk's press agent thought it would be a grand bit of work if he could exhibit the Turk to Russell as a product of perfect selection species and thereby evoke an an editorial on the wonders that may come to the human race through proper mating.

Russell is about five feet six or seven and slight. In some way the press agent jammed the Turk into Russell's office and then made his talk. Russell was writing and did not look up.

When the press agent had finished and the Turk struck a pose Russell looked over the top of his glasses, glanced at Yusuf's tremendous feet and then looked slowly at the entire length of the massive body. Then he rang his bell, and an office boy weighing about sixty-five pounds came in.

"Boy," ordered Russell sharply, "throw this unspeakable being out of my room. Throw him out."—Philadelphia Saturday Evening Post.

To Save the Fathers.

A friend of a prominent Lynn clergyman was amused recently at an occurrence which was rather at the clergyman's expense. He had been greatly interested in the no license campaign in that city, one of the features of which was a parade of boys. What was the minister's amazement when one day, watching the parade, he saw his son proudly bearing a banner with this inspiring device:

"Vote no! We must save our fathers!"—Boston Record.

A Roast For the Jury.

Henry W. Paine, the eminent Boston lawyer, once went to one of the interior towns of Maine, where a boy was on trial for arson. He had no counsel, and Mr. Paine was assigned by the court to take charge of his case. He discovered after a brief interview with the boy that he was half witted. The jury, however, was composed of farmers who owned barns such as the defendant was alleged to have set on fire, and, in spite of the boy's evident weakness of intellect, they brought in a verdict of guilty. The presiding judge turned to Mr. Paine and remarked, "Have you any motion to make?" Mr. Paine arose and in his dry and weighty manner answered, "No, your honor; I believe I have secured for this idiot boy all that the laws of Maine and the constitution of the United States allow—a trial by his peers."—Argonaut.

Willing to Do the Right Thing.

It was the polite Frenchman's first visit to a party in England, and he was very anxious to do the right thing, so when the hostess advanced to welcome him he gallantly saluted the astonished lady with a hearty kiss. Unfortunately her husband had been a witness of the occurrence. "How dare you, sir, take the liberty of kissing my wife? And before me, too!" was his indignant exclamation. "One thousand pardons!" exclaimed the polite foreigner. "I do not know your English customs. Next time I kees you first!"

Her Pious Wish.

Robert Burns' friend, Dr. Blacklock, the blind poet, was a licentiate of the church of Scotland and used to preach occasionally.

One Sunday he was supplying a country pulpit. Certain deaf old women, as was the custom in those days, had squatted on the pulpit stairs to be as near the preacher as possible. Like the mass of the Scottish people, they abominated sermons that were read.

One of them as soon as the discourse was begun said to her neighbor in a tone that was audible through the whole church, "Is he readin'?"

"Tuts, woman! No, he canna read. He's blind."

"Blind, is he, eh? That's rail fortnate. I wish they were a' blind."

—State Chairman Barnes expects trouble at the Chicago convention. He must have heard of the intention to "knock 'em over the ropes."—New York Tribune.

BORO WANTS COUNTY TO OIL MOUNTAIN AVE

Routine and Other Matters Keep the Council Busy at Monthly Session.

The following building permits were granted by the Borough Council last night: M. C. Compton, alterations to dwelling, Grove street; Adam Seader, Chatham street, chicken coop; John Smalley, Somerset street, shed; William Stewart, 129 Duer street, small carpenter's shop; J. S. Johnson, Westervelt avenue, dwelling-house.

A communication was received from H. R. Munger, 42 Washington avenue, complaining about the condition of the street and inquiring what would be the cost of having the roadway sprinkled with tarvia as in Plainfield, and also stating that he would be willing to pay a portion of the expense involved. The matter was referred to the street committee.

A communication signed by Roger L. Cooley and others requesting a cross-walk to be laid between Manning and Westervelt avenues was also referred to the same authority; as also a complaint about the condition of the street near his home at 48 Washington avenue.

Requesting the erection of a fire alarm at Duer street and Greenbrook road was the tenor of a communication forwarded by Edward Mundy and others. Referred to the street committee for report was a petition signed by 41 citizens asking for the construction of a storm sewer at Westervelt and Summit avenues, and to be extended from Summit avenue to Somerse street, and thence to Stony brook.

The cost of maintaining the streets for the past month was $787, and the maintenance from January 1 to May 1 was $1,352.40.

The recorder's book showed 39 arrests during the month and $60 in fines.

Bills to the amount of $1,636.70 were passed. The Mayor and Borough Clerk were authorized to take $1,500 for current expenses. $360 were appropriated for the Board of Health and $150 for the poor department. A resolution was passed authorizing the spending of $600 for sprinkling the streets with oil.

On the motion of Councilman Woolston a resolution was passed requesting the Freeholders of Somerset county to have Mountain avenue oil sprinkled, the Mayor stating that he had spoken to one of the Freeholders, and that the matter would be brought up at a meeting of the Freeholders on Tuesday night.

Bids were received for the construction of a storm sewer on Rockview terrace, and the contract awarded to Joseph Burke for $491.40.

An ordinance authorizing the macadamizing of Park place, between Grove street and Mercer avenue, was passed on its third reading and bids were ordered to be advertised for as soon as the ordinance became operative.

A resolution was passed calling for a public hearing on June 21, to provide for the macadamizing of Steiner place.

POULTRY RAISERS TO HOLD ANOTHER SHOW

Plainfield Association to Join With County Organization in Improving Breeds.

Owing to the success which attended the efforts of the Union County Poultry Association in its poultry show given in St. Michael's Hall, Elizabeth, last year, in a meeting of the association which took place this week it was decided to hold another show this fall. Last year's event was the first of its kind to be attempted by the association, and its success far surpassed the expectations of the members.

As the quarters for the show were somewhat crowded last year, the association is to make an effort to secure the new armory for the coming exhibition. It was decided also to have the show in conjunction with the Union County Board of Agriculture, and the combining of the two associations will give an added impetus to the exhibition. The details will be announced later.

The meeting was most interesting, and 125 members were present to listen to the speakers. President F. W. Sumner introduced President Clark, of the Plainfield Poultry Association, who said that he came to Elizabeth because of the interest which he and his associates took in poultry raising and because he wished to attend one of the Elizabeth meetings to see how the affairs of the Union County Poultry Association were conducted.

It was decided to have a field day on June 24, when the members of the association will journey to New Brunswick, where they will visit the College Farms and study the methods of poultry raising on scientific lines. New buildings costing $18,000 have just been completed, and these will be inspected by the members of the Union county association.

The principal speaker at the meeting was Professor H. R. Lewis, of the New Jersey Agriculture College. Mr. Lewis delivered another in his series of six lectures, which he is giving before the Union county association, his topic being "The Construction of and Different Types of Poultry Houses." Professor Lewis dealt with the construction of houses, both interior and exterior, and told of the different materials used and the results which were to be derived from each. He also described the different types of houses used, methods of building them and the various technicalities in poultry-house construction. He said that the best results had been secured from the shed type, which would be found most general in this locality.

This house is built sixteen feet square usually, with an eight foot elevation in front sloping to five feet in the rear. Roosting facilities should be provided in the rear, according to Professor Lewis, and the front of the building should be that known as the open muslin front. His talk was most comprehensive. Following his address Mr. Lewis answered questions from the floor in the general discussion which followed.

NAB NEGROES FOR FARMER'S MURDER

Pete and Will Trusty Accused of Killing Dubois.

BOUND AND LODGED IN JAIL

Caught by Posse of More Than a Hundred Farmers In Automobiles, Reenforced by Detectives on Foot—Negroes Took to Woods When Pursued.

Wood Town, N. J., June 8. Pete and Will Trusty, negroes and cousins, were captured by a posse of more than a hundred farmers in automobiles reinforced by detectives on foot, in woods on the farm of C. Botinghouse, three miles from here, where they are employed.

The chase and arrest followed in the finding of the body of Clinton Dubois, a farmer, near Richmantown. In searching for evidence the police learned that the negroes were within earshot while Dubois was boasting several days ago of the money possessed by him.

Following the finding of the body of Dubois, who had been killed by being struck on the head by some blunt instrument, footsteps in the vicinity were followed to the Botinghouse farm. A posse was formed immediately. The negroes were working in the fields when they saw the posse approach. They took to the woods. The automobiles whirled around the woods, the searchers on foot beating through the underbrush. Eventually they found the negroes. Both were bound and taken to the Salem jail, but not before some hot headed young farmers endeavored to take the law into their own hands.

THINK MAN WAS MURDERED.

Resident of Richmantown Found Dead Along Road With Skull Fractured.

Salem, N. J., June 8.—Clinton Dubois of Richmantown, a small settlement near Woodstown, was found dead alongside the road near Yorktown. There was a deep cut under his right eye and his skull was fractured.

Dubois lived alone and was known to have a comfortable sum of money. The supposition is that he was murdered while on his way to Yorktown to make some purchases at the general store. Carney, a detective, and Waddington, chief of police, were assigned to the case by Prosecutor Sinnickson. As yet they have been unable to get a clew as to the supposed murderer.

SOPHOMORES WIN GAME BY A ONE-SIDED SCORE

The Sophomore class team of the Plainfield High School defeated the Junior class nine in a one-sided contest yesterday afternoon at Parker Field by a score of 13 to 5. The Sophomores had the better of the argument during the entire game.

The lower classmen started with two runs in the first period, while their opponents could only harvest one. In the next period neither team could score, but in the third period the Sophomores bunched their hits and brought four runs across the pan. The Juniors retaliated with two counters. Neither team scored in the next two periods, but in the sixth period the Sophomores managed three runs by hard hitting and Birck, who had been doing the box work, was relieved by Bryniarski. Cottrell was the box artist for the Sophomores and did good work, being credited with ten strike-outs.

The lineup:

JOE CARTER'S GIANTS AT 'PLAINS TOMORROW

Manager Joe Alberts, of the Scotch Plains baseball team, has secured the strong Colored Giants, of Newark, as his Sunday attraction. This fast team of dusty ball-chasers is better known as Joe Carter's Colored Giants and always provies a big drawing card in its weekly games with such teams as the Newark Ironsides, who appeared at the Plains last Sunday; the Newark Athletics and many other teams of like calibre, both in New Jersey and New York. The 'Plains leader will present his strongest lineup with the leading role in charge of Slocum and Hand, the ex-United States League battery. Lou is at his best just at present and is prepared to give a winning exhibition of the twirling art. The lineup will be further strengthened by the return of Hoblitzel, the Rahway boy, who was a favorite among the fans in last year's games. He will take care of the territory between the second and third sacks, which has heretofore been the one weak spot in the team's makeup. Tommy Mullen, the diminutive utility man, will be held in reserve, together with Miller; and with these two cracks on hand to fill in a moment's notice, the local team should secure the fat end of the argument.

The rest of the lineup will be as follows: Gray, 3b; Frentz, 1b; H. Albert, cf; Heller, 2b; Baldwin, rf.

ing. To be won twce by members of the same military organization before cup becomes property of said organization. Won in 1911 by Alden S. Blodget and Francis J. Danforth's Justice and Bunny. First, Harrie T. Lindeberg and Shelton E. Martin's ch. g. Peter and b. g. Picket; second, Alden S. Blodget and Francis J. Danforth's b. g. Justice and Bunny; third, W. David Conrad and Isham Henderson's b. g. Prince Arthur and br. g. Robin; fourth, William Spingler Mitchell's ch. g. Dragoon and b. g. Charger.

Class 48—Jumper class, open to all. First, Blenheim Farm's b. g. Algoma; second, The Little Farm's br. g. Jerry M.; third, Donny Brook Farm's br. g. Lion Heart; fourth, Aylwards Riding Acodemy's br. g. Shamrock.

With ideal weather conditions lovers of fine horses gathered in large numbers at the second day's show and thoroughly enjoyed the attractive program, which comprised classes for harness horses, saddle horses, ponies, hunters and jumpers. As usual, the hunting classes always arouse great interest and yesterday's events furnished fine sport for the spectators. The saddle horses also attracted much attention, and the judges found it no easy task to pick the winners. Time and again the horses were put through their paces before a decision was made.

As was to be expected, there were some surprises, one of which was the defeat of J. W. Harriman's thoroughbred Nala appearing with Belleville in the tandem class, No. 18. The Avondale entry was awarded third prize, but Mr. Harriman came back in Class 7 for harness horses, and captured the blue, while the Seelig stables received second and third honors. Mr. Harriman drove his pair in Class 18, while John Donnelly handled the reins while showing Nala in Class 7.

Miss Harriman made her first appearance in the ring yesterday when she drove that matchless pair, Lady Dilham and Elegant Dilham, in Class 4, and captured the blue ribbon. H. L. Pierce's pair, Warwick Queen and Warwick Princess took second honors and Emil Seelig's pair, Energy and Enterprise, had to be satisfied with the yellow ribbon.

There was more than usual interest in Class 46, for hunters and jumpers, ladies' to ride. There were eight entries, Mrs. J. J. O'Donohue and Mrs. Adele von Ohl-Parker being chosen to ride the mounts. The latter received much applause from her friends present who admired her clever work with the jumpers, and there was a little disappointment in that she did not receive any of the honors. Mrs. O'Donohue was awarded first, second and third prizes. She first rode S. Bryce Wing's Embarta, which won the blue, then the Blenhem Farm's Algoma, which was awarded second prize and lastly her own entry, Merry Widow, with which she received third honors.

Class 19, afforded much interest among the local enthusiasts. This was for tandems, and there were but two entries, Mrs. Brown Rolston's Ironton and Crusher, and Graystone Farm's All Alone and All Around. The horses were first driven about the ring and then the leader in each pair gave an exhibition of jumping. Mrs. Rolston upon Crusher won the blue amid the applause of the spectators, who were quick to recognize the clever way in which she rode her mount.

Class 10, for harness horses, which was postponed Thursday on account of the weather, was included among the classes yesterday, and H. L. Pierce's Warwick Queen and Warwick Princess captured the blue ribbon, with Emil Seelig's pair, Energy and Enterprise second.

EDDYSTONE LIGHTHOUSE.

Its Massive Vertical Base Checks the Wildest Seas.

The Eddystone rocks form a very dangerous reef, lying in the English channel about fourteen miles from Plymouth, and here, in 1695, Henry Winstanley built the first lighthouse, which lasted but eight years.

Winstanley's tower was swept away by a tremendous storm, and every one on it at the time, including the builder, was drowned. Three years later Rudyerd's tower was built, only to be destroyed by fire in 1755, and then came John Smeaton's.

Modern lighthouses really date from 1759, when this third one was completed. Smeaton's design was faulty, but it served as a model for lighthouse construction in masonry, which has been followed in its general features ever since. This lighthouse stood for over a century, but it was not high enough to keep the waves from dashing the lantern and so was removed and the present one built in 1882 by James Douglass.

At the time of the completion of the new lighthouse two bells weighing two tons each and struck by mechanical power were installed for fog signaling purposes. Since that date an explosive guncotton fog signal has been erected, the bells being removed. Probably the most interesting thing about the lighthouse now on the Eddystone is its solid vertical base. Heavy seas striking the massive cylindrical structure are immediately broken up and rush around to the opposite side, spray alone ascending to the height of the lantern gallery. On the other hand, waves striking the old tower at its foundation ran up the surface, which presented a curved face to the waves, and, unimpeded by any projection until arriving at the lantern gallery, were partially broken up by the cornice and then spent themselves in heavy spray over the lantern. The shock to which the cornice of the gallery was exposed was so great that stones were sometimes lifted from their beds.—Lookout.

A HARD WINTER.

When the Mercury Fell to Six Feet Nine Inches Below Zero.

They were talking about hard winters. The man on the cracker barrel said he remembered a winter when the mercury fell to six feet nine inches below zero, and consequently he had never seen any weather since then that he could call real cold.

"Oh, you pshaw!" said the man with the ginger whiskers. "Six feet nine inches! Oh, you pshaw!"

"Meaning that I put you in mind of Ananias?" said the man on the cracker barrel.

The man with the ginger whiskers simply said: "Six feet nine inches! Oh, you pshaw!"

"Then listen," said the man on the cracker barrel. "It was the winter when no snow fell. Nothing fell but the thermometer that winter. We kept our thermometer hanging on a cherry tree in the yard to give it a chance. One morning the weather had been so cold the mercury went down below zero as far as it could and let the thermometer have the credit of showing it, but it couldn't do its duty by the weather by pausing there, so it busted the bulb at the bottom and kept on falling. The thermometer was six feet above the ground. We dug the mercury out in the spring, nine inches below the surface. So until you can trot out some weather that is six feet and nine inches below, don't talk to me about cold!"

The man on the cracker barrel lit his pipe and went out, and the man with the ginger whiskers just said, "Oh, he pshaw!"—New York Press.

Back In the Good Old Bowl Days.

A man of apparent means brought two boys into a barber shop for a hair cut. While waiting for the completion of the job, he said:

"I never sat in a barber's chair when I was a kid. My brother used to go over to the engine house and borrow the horse clippers. Then my mother would put a bowl on my head and cut around it. Until I was twelve years old, I always looked like a window washer's brush."—Chicago Post.

"Indeed. And what is her particular pursuit?"

The Mummies Have Been Sleeping for 3,000 Years!

But who wants to be a mummy?

Today we're living in the 20th century, the age of Wisdom, Education, Invention—ACTION. 20th century men don't know the meaning of inactivity.

Today a man lives as nature dictates, sleeping only as long as she demands, and then he's wide-awake for the rest of the day. Not idly waiting and whiling away the time, but continually searching and groping for new worlds to conquer.

These are the kind of men who "Get Rothberged"—they look forward and reach out for the good things in life, and they know real, honest value when they see it.

These are the kind of men who appreciate the wonderful value of my Summer Suits—

BIG MARINE FORCE LANDED IN CUBA

Four Battleships With Additional Force Are Due.

ESTENOZ IS HEARD FROM.

Insurgent Leader Writes State Department at Washington That Reports of Attacks on Women Are Untrue—Asks That Rebels' Rights Be Protected.

Washington, June 8.—One thousand more marines are due on the four battleships of the fourth division of the Atlantic fleet from Key West. There are already in Cuba 700 marines, the entire force taken to Guantanamo bay by the Prairie.

The Paducah landed sixty marines at El Cobre, near Santiago. This landing followed an unsuccessful attempt to burn the property of the Cuban Copper company, an American firm, at this place. Forty-two marines were landed at El Cuero, where are several American mining properties. Quiet is now said to prevail at both places.

Many Arrests Are Made.

Arrests in all parts of the island were reported, but there has been no important movement on the part of government troops. It is reported that the Toledo sugar mill, six miles from Havana, was burned. In the city and province of Havana the government continues to arrest large numbers of negroes. One of these arrested is Colonel Acea, who had previously been pardoned from a long prison sentence and placed by President Gomez in the secret police. He is charged with organizing a local uprising.

One of the interesting developments was the receipt at the state department of a manifesto said to have been written by Estenoz, the leader of the negroes. The document reads in part as follows:

"The negro under the present conditions in this country has no chance, and the object of the warfare which we are now carrying on is to secure for him the civic rights to which he in common with other Cubans is entitled under the constitution of Cuba and for which he fought during so many years. The warfare we are carrying on is a civilized warfare. We are neither robbing nor molesting women. We are not murdering white people, nor have we any intention of doing so though the Cuban government is continually stating that such is our purpose."

Blames Cuban Government.

"Any agreement," he continues, "that I might make with the government of Cuba for the settlement of this affair would have to be concluded in the presence of a representative of the United States and only under the assurance of this republic that the United States would guarantee the absolute fulfillment by the Cuban government of the agreement, as the officials of that government have made many many promises to me in the past, and so far none of them have been fulfilled. We ask only for our rights as citizens, and we hope the American people will comprehened our position and will study the matter with great care before they become satisfied that it is necessary to intervene."

POLICE BEATEN UP IN BOSTON CAR STRIKE

Shots Fired and Passengers Are Driven Into Street.

Boston, June 8.—Rioting, which marked the beginning of the strike of the employees of the Boston Elevated Street Railway company, was resumed with increased fury. Great mobs gathered, occasional shots were fired, passengers were driven out of the cars and police were beaten up.

One of the most serious disturbances occurred in front of Police Station 4 in North Cambridge and centered about an Arlington bound car closely packed with passengers, which had been stopped when the trolley rope was cut by a crowd of strike sympathizers.

The conductor had mounted the roof when a shot was fired by some one in the crowd. It did no damage, but the crowd pulled the conductor down and drove out the occupants of the car. Detective Sergeant Frederick Ellis and Patrolman Temple of Cambridge, who were in plain clothes, were badly beaten, and Lieutenant James Cox, who was on desk duty at the station and went to the assistance of the other officers, received similar treatment.

President Taft, members of the cabinet and the diplomatic corps will be present. President Taft will deliver an address.

HER DREAM FIRE A REALTY.

Paterson Girl's Vision of a Week Ago Comes True.

Paterson, N. J., June 8.—A week ago Miss Myrtle Conklin, aged sixteen, dreamed that she saw the house in which she lives in this city in flames. The next morning she gave her mother a vivid description of the dream, telling how the flames broke out through the roof and burned the gables. Now there is no roof on the house, the gables are burned and two floors and all the furniture are water soaked. Miss Conklin saw the house burn in realty just as she had seen it in her dream.

The KITCHEN CUPBOARD

EGGS FOR LUNCHEON.

THOSE of us who care to cut meat from the luncheon bill of fare and substitute eggs in the many nutritious and appetizing forms in which they may be served will profit to the extent of a clearer and better skin and an improvement in general health. Once a day is often enough for meat in summer. Eggs may be combined with cream, with stock or with chopped vegetables.

With Fried Bread.

Steamed Egg and Tomato.—Take small cups or molds, butter and put a teaspoonful of vegetable puree in these.

Break a new laid egg into each and set the cup in a pan of boiling water, cover with buttered paper and allow to steam till firm.

Have ready rounds of fried bread and turn an egg on each. Pour a little hot puree round each egg and serve.

Baked With Tomatoes.

Eggs With Cream.—Take for each person half a large tomato, a round of buttered toast, one tablespoonful of cream, one tablespoonful of chopped parsley, salt and pepper and a little butter.

Skin and wipe the tomato, then cut in half and remove the core. Bake in the oven till tender.

Next melt a tablespoonful of butter in a stewpan, beat up the eggs, add to the latter milk, parsley and seasoning to the cream. When the butter is hot pour in the egg mixture. Stir it over a slow fire till it is creamy and just lightly set.

Put a half tomato on each round of toast. Heap the egg mixture in the middle of each. Sprinkle with finely chopped parsley and serve at once

The Spanish Way.

Spanish Eggs.—Take an onion, half a pound of tomatoes, pepper and salt, butter, three eggs and a half a cupful of white stock Chop the onion fine and fry in butter until brown and add the tomatoes; also cut up, flavor with pepper and salt and add half a cupful of the stock or water. Simmer for a quarter of an hour.

Have ready three hard boiled eggs, shell them and cut in quarters lengthwise. Lay them on a hot dish and cover with the tomato sauce. A few croutons or slices of toast should be served. This a favorite Spanish dish.

COURT ISSUES WASTE WRIT FIRST SINCE THE YEAR 1830

Trenton, June 8 (Special).—A novel action was begun in the Court of Chancery yesterday afternoon the like of which has not before been instituted under the jurisdiction of this Court since 1830. Chancellor Walker issued a paper called a write of waste, and though the action was begun in the Court of Chancery, all the subsequent proceedings will be heard in the Supreme Court. This is the only kind of suit which may be started in the Court of Equity and have its subsequent hearing in the Supreme Court, of the Court of Law.

The writ was directed to the sheriff of Bergen county and was issued in behalf of John Craven & Son Co., a Jersey City real estate concern, and was directed against Moliniari & Co. The defendants are charged with wasting and destroying property of the complainants on Division street, Jersey City, and the writ requires them to show cause at the State House on June 18 why they should not be restrained from further destruction of the property. The defendants have a lease on the property for a term of years.

NEW YORK AMUSEMENTS

That tremendously interesting farce of ingenious construction and subtle wit, "Officer 666," continues to patrol his post at the Gaiety theatre, where this popular cop has donned a cool summer uniform in which to continue his trail of the crafty crook whose mysterious movements, in the play, have been the cause of continuous surveillance and convulsing cachinnation since he went on duty at that playhouse seven months ago.

"Will you please advise me how to begin to study for the musical comedy stage" ran a letter from a member of the fair sex to George M. Cohan, to which Mr. Cohan replied:

"Join the army. The discipline to be acquired there is invaluable. Besides, you will learn how to mark time, an accomplishment not possessed by 90% of your sisters already on the boards."

Luna has had an endless stream of patrons since the opening of Coney Island's new show place a week ago. The expectations of the management who foresaw the opportunity for a huge amusement place to supplant burned Dreamland and old Luna Park have more than been fulfilled. No resort of its kind ever drew as many persons as have filed through the gates afternoon and evening. There is good reason for the big attendance. Aside from the many attractions that has been provided Luna is a beauty spot worth going miles to see. With its wonderful illumination from crescents strung around its skyline and myriads of incandescents interspersed among large flaming arc lights a picture is presented that has no comparison anywhere. Almost daily sailors from Atlantic liners have flooded to Coney on their arrival in port to get a nearer view of the spectacle they have seen from far at sea. The novel diversity of the two hundred odd amusements to be found in the new park also have appealed to visitors. In selecting them the idea of providing every conceivable motion was borne in mind. There is no end of slides, glides, rides, whirls and twirls. Among them are almost innumerable fun-making devices so that no matter which way one turns there is a shout, a laugh or an exclamation of wonderment.

To those who visited the Union Square theatre during the past week it is useless to point out the point of superiority of the show at that house over the variety shows that are given at other houses. This week's program is exceptionally strong and that secured for next week contains even more sensational headliners. Any one feature is of sufficient strength to headline an ordinary vaudeville entertainment. The stellar attraction will be the clever and original Dutch playlet, "In Old Edam," offered by Sam Chip and Mary Marble, well known musical comedy stars, supported by John W. Dunne. "In Old Edam," which was written especially for exploiting the talents of these two gifted people by Anna Marble Pollock is as the name suggests, a little Dutch skit which tells a pretty and dainty story. A genuine ovation will be given the perennial favorites, Harry Fox, the funniest of comedians, and the pretty and graceful dancers, the Millership Sisters, in their new vaudeville specialty called "Artistic Oddities."

TUBERCULOSIS CLASS AND DISPENSARY.

The Anti-Tuberculosis League undertook some two years ago to form a "class" for tuberculous persons, that was roughly modelled after the very successful ones in Boston and New York. The essential features of the class, as distinguished from the dispensary, are a social element and the development of an intimate relationship between the patients on the one hand, and nurses, doctors and lay-henpers on the other.

Now these features were emphasized because of a fundamental principle, underlying all anti-tuberculosis work; that is to say, every victim of the disease must be taught carefulness, watched, and treated without regard to cost. Questions of pauperization, such as enter into philantrophy pure and simple, or of gratitude or appreciation, are of no moment here. The consumptive, if left to himself, is a menace to himself his own family, and the community; and therefore he must be treated even if he demands inducement. Hence the class was created with its club atmosphere, as an attempted solution of the problem.

At the class meetings are gathered various social and medical types, excepting the far advanced cases and other heavy germ carriers, who of course would form a too dangerous congregation. As the hour of assembling is in the afternoon, it is mostly women and children who come to eat some light wholesome refreshments, provided by the member of the visitors' committee on duty for the day, to chat or play games, and to get advice. While the members divert themselves, the nurse weighs some, makes her records, and sends those whom she thinks need attention to see the physician in the adjoining room—and those also go of their own accord who wish a medical consultation. Of course the games and eatables attract children who are not tuberculous, but as the number is not large, these mischievous guests are overlooked, for the class has an educative purpose in view that is well served by the impressions made on the plastic minds of these youngsters. Among the diversions provided, none has been more popular than story telling, and it is a picture worth seeing, these girls and boys, affected with a disease of a seriousness they cannot realize, gathered about the story-teller with their intense, absorbed faces.

A great variety of cases come to the class, and it has to serve as a dispensary to a certain extent to all comers, old and young, advanced and incipient, parents who will not give up home ties for an institution, arrested cases to be guided as they resume the old laborious life, and above all come those in whom there is the suspicion of beginning trouble. Of these last some improve quickly on a tonic, a brief rest, or the relief of some overlooked local disturbance; but others show some sign after a while, or respond to some test, that indicates the presence of the tubercle bacillus; and if such consent, the nurse takes him or her to the sanatorium examiner, who usually does his best to provide for the applicant. However, the class has more difficult situations to face, and space will permit of only two illustrations: One day the doctor handed a prescription to a woman, remarking at the same time that she should drink a quart of milk daily. At the next meeting this woman turned up in worse condition and with a longer tale of woe—and woe it was indeed—in which physical mingled with domestic misery. As for the prescription, she explained, "It's in the gutter now, and where d'ye suppose it'd be, for all the money I've got to buy it any how." And as the result of several such episodes, a small sum has been collected that provides for about a quarter of such cases.

Another women, who refused to break up her home in order to go institutional care, had received instructions about fixing up a place for outdoor home treatment. When she was visited in her backyard, it was found that she occupied an old wagon-house, completely shut in, except where an opening had accidentally been broken in half a door while her couch was an old rocking chair, with back too low to support her head, and a board stretched from the seat to a stool, making a sort of scaffolding on which she balanced herself painfully. Every now and then she would go indoors to rest on the bed and to divert herself by running the sewing machine, which stood by a window whence she could see the passing shows of the street. It is on account of many similar incidents that the class is trying to extend its jurisdiction to the home.

Such then is the work of the class—to offer diversion, to examine, to give or prescribe drugs and cod-liver oil, to ask the Organized Aid Society for milk, etc., to instruct, and to direct home treatment when there is no private physician, unless he requests it, and also to make early diagnosis for private physicians in cases too poor to pay the doctor for making the necessary tests and observations, but able to afford the subsequent routine office visits.

CAN'T DELIVER BEER AWAY FROM "HOME"

Wholesalers Can Only Sell in Town for Which License is Issued.

By direction of the County Court Prosecutor George S. Silzer, of Middlesex county, has sent copies of the rulings on the question of a wholesaler's right to deliver beer in any other city, township or borough than the one in which he is licensed to all the holders of wholesale licenses in the county.

His communication is as follows:

"Judge Daly has directed me to send to you a copy of the decision recently rendered by the Supreme Court of New Jersey in the case of the State vs. Brown, and also an opinion delivered by Judge Daly himself, dealing with the question of the right of wholesalers to deliver beer; both of which are enclosed.

"By these opinions you will see that a person holding a wholesale license has no right to sell or deliver beer in any other city, township or borough except that in which he is licensed.

"You will also observe that if the seller selects an express company for the purpose of delivery he is likewise guilty.

"Judge Daly announced this day in open court that since the law is now settled, the wholesalers of this county must hereafter abide by the law, and see that they make no sales or deliveries in other territory than the place where licensed. In this way further difficulty will be avoided.

"Yours truly,
"GEORGE S. SILZER,
"Prosecutor."

The opinion by Judge Daly follows:

"State vs. Dominick Kopek. On demurrer to Indictment for the Illegal Sale of Bottled Beer.

"The defendent, Dominick Kopek, was granted a wholesale liquor license in the Borough of Spotswood and was indicted because of sales of bottled beer in the Borough of Helmetta, and the question raised by his demurrer is, 'Can a person who holds a wholesale license for the sale of liquors sell or deliver his wares in any other municipality than the municipality wherein the license is granted?' That such a license granted in one county could not be exercised in another county was distinctly settled by the case of State vs. Kind, 80 N. J. Law, 176, 75 Atl. 438 affirmed 80 N. J. Law, 466, 78 Atl. 135; but it was contended that the decision in that case did not pass on the question of whether or not a license granted in one municipality in a county could be exercised throughout the county generally. It was contended that such a license carried it privilege throughout the entire county, and from a reading of the brief filed by the counsel in this case there appeared intelligent argument in support of this contention, but now the question involved is specifically answered under the recent case of State vs. Brown, 82 Atl. 302. A wholesale liquor license authorized to carry on the liquor business in a municipality cannot sell or deliver liquors outside of that municipality. The demurrer is over-ruled.

The Supreme Court decision follows:

"State vs. Brown. (Supreme Court of New Jersey. Feb. 27, 1912.)

"A wholesale liquor license, authorized to carry on the liquor business in a city, who accepts and fills orders for liquor for persons outside of the city, and who delivers the liquor to them from his wagon, is guilty of selling liquor outside of the city without a license.

"Where a wholesale liquor licensee, authorized to sell liquor in a city, filled orders for liquor for persons outside of the city, and delivered the liquor to a common carrier for delivery to the buyers, and the carrier was the agent of the licensee in making the delivery, the licensee was guilty of selling liquor outside of the city without a license.

"One challenging the validity of his conviction of crime under Criminal Procedure Act (2 Comp. St. 1910 p. 1863) page 136, may not obtain a reversal on the ground of inaccuracies in the instructions not producing manifest injury.

"Thomas Brown was convicted of crime, and he brings error. Affirmed."

HOUDEN WILL SEEK TO EXPLAIN SPIRITUALISM

On Monday and Tuesday evenings in the Y. M. C. A. hall will be offered an entertainment quite out of the ordinary in the demonstrations of famous Hondon the Man of Mystery. Hondon holds that spiritualism can be accounted for by scientific principles and natural laws and that all the manifestations given by the greatest mediums can be explained without resorting to the theory of supernatural power.

In his "Mystic Seance," Hondon will reproduce and explain all the wonderful demonstrations offered by such mediums as Paladino.

Among other features of the performance may be mentioned spirit-rappings, table lifting, thought reading, the reading and answering of unseen questions written by the audience and a weird "Dark Seance" during which musical instruments are played upon by invisible hands as they glide through space above the heads of the audience.

CHURCHES MARK CHILDREN'S DAY

Canary Birds Augment Choir Music at the Park Avenue Baptist Exercises.

ELABORATE SERVICES

Striking Effects Obtained at the Observance in Grace M. E. Church—Infant Baptisms add to Interest of Programs.

All the friends and relatives of all the little folks of Grace M. E. Sunday-school seemed to have turned out yesterday with the flowers and sunshine, for the annual Children's Day service. Amid these propitious conditions, the little folks, by their sweetness and unusual ability, won their way a little further into loving hearts.

Bright music and devotional exercises opened the service, after which the infant children of Dr. and Mrs. Charles Lenard Moore, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas M. Jones, and Mr. and Mrs. Hand were presented for baptism. This was followed by a procession of flower-laden children, each wearing a letter, which, when turned during the recital of pretty verses by Adelaide Jones, spelled the word, "Greetings."

"Summer's eHralds," impersonated by Clifford Nelson and Alvin Hoagland, then appeared, blowing their horns and announcing summer's arrival.

William Smalley Schuck, the tiniest lad on the program, recited "Little Drops of Water," in a manner most winning. "Mother Nature's Clock," a big one, whose hands traveled through the months of the year, telling the flowers which they brought, mystfied the children.

The forming of a large sunflower, petal by petal, proved a novel exercise. Ruth Nichols, assisted by little Mary Nichols, sang with unusual ability a song about the daises; a large basket of which they carried between them. Bright recitations were given by Kenneth Lippincott, Edna Jones, Ruth and Robert Winckler, Eugene Taynor, Madeline Walker, Ruth Conover and Kitty May Cain.

Probably no number proved more popular than the song called "Smile," given by five boys, who, near the close of the song, turned their backs to the audience, each displaying a letter which formed the word. There were motion songs and musical monologues, and girls bearing hoops of red roses, who formed pretty figures as they sang.

After a brief, interesting talk by the pastor, Rev. C. C. Cain, the little folks marched to bright music across the platform, each receiveing a potted plant. This has always been a custom in Grace M. E. Sunday-school, and it is one of the prettiest features of Children's Day. Those taking part, besides the names already mentioned, were Mildred Harden, Grace Conover, Edna Mantz, Florence and Elizabeth Hoagland, Helen Nelson, Marion Jones, Bessie Taynor, Bessie Monk, Elizabeth Burton, Lucy Bodine, Albert Monk, Lester Morgan, David Flammer, Elmer Emmons, Walter Conover.

The exercises were conducted by Miss Mary G. Steiner, assisted by Charles Nichols, precentor, and Dyckman Winkler, violinist.

The Children's Day service was held at the Temple Baptist church, last night, when a special program was followed and an excellent address was made by Rev. Dr. W. W. Pratt, of this city. There were recitations by Harry Winn, Kenneth and Flossie Bouton, Mary Moore, Edith Jones and Melvin Conover. The choir of the church, under the direction of W. A. Conger, gave special selections. The church was attractively decorated with flowers by the teachers of the Sunday-school.

Rev. Gabriel Reid Maguire, pastor of the Park Avenue Baptist church, at the Children's Day service yesterday morning baptized Freida Mowen, Irma Mowen, Emily VanWinkle, Evelyn Manley and Preston Smith. The decorations were unusually elaborate, including an abundance of daisies arranged about the pulpit by the decorating committee, Mr. and Mrs. Charles VanWinkle. American flags were also used with pleasing effect. Ten canary birds were placed about the church and during the service their sweet singing could be heard above the exercises of the children.

The following comprised the Children's Day committee of arrangements: George E. Hall, chairman; Mrs. Charles VanWinkle, Mrs. W. S. Lowry, Mrs. Ada Cuming, Miss Elmira Runyon, Mrs. John Manley, Miss Florence G. Hawkins and Charles VanWinkle.

One of the pleasing features of the Children's Day service at the First Baptist church, yesterday afternoon, was a talk by Miss Marion Thomas, of the Clinton Avenue Baptist church, Newark. She told a Bible story in such a way as to hold the undivided Baccalaureate Sermon of the College of St. Mary Commencement—Class Day.

In St. Joseph's R. C. church yesterday afternoon a bacalaureate sermon was deliverely by Rev. William Miller, who in the course of his address to the graduates of the College of Mt. St. Mary present told them that their success in life depended upon their faith in God.

HELL ISN'T HOT SAYS LECTURER

Bible Student Tells Audience Scriptures Never Described Sheol as Place of Torment.

HELL MEANS OBLIVION

General Secretary of International Bible Students' Assn. Refers to Part of Old Creed as "God-dishonoring Doctrine of Eternal Torture.

The Christian acceptation of the word "hell" as a place of eternal torment and torture is absolutely erroneous according to E. W. Brenneissen, general secretary of the International Bible Students Association, Brooklyn, who lectured at the Plainfield theatre yesterday afternoon. According to his reading of the Scriptures "hell" means the tomb, oblivion or death. He worked out a strong argument in support of this contention by rumerous Biblical citations which showed that the original Hebrew word "sheol" or Greek word "Hades" never bore the interpretation now ascribed to it by Christian denominations.

At the outset of his address he said they were there not to organize any new creed or cult of thought. There were enough of them in existence. Their object was to stimulate more live and real interest on Bibical study. Let them reason together and use their highest faculties in the consideration of this important consideration.

He deplored the fact that while intelligent people generally are quite properly no longer believing in the God-dishonoring doctrine of eternal torture in a hell by fire proof demons, that they are at the same time discarding the Bible as the word of God because the ministers in general claim that it teaches and is responsible for such terrible views. He proceeded to show that the "hell" of the

STORY OF A RESCUE FROM SURF AT ATLANTIC CITY

A despatch from Atlantic City to the New York World, this morning, has an account of a rescue from the surf of "Ralph Merrill, of Plainfield, N. J.," According to the story, Merrill entered the water about 2 o'clock yesterday and immediately started to swim out toward the end of Young's Pier. He swam a quarter of a mile and then started back. Several hundred feet from shore his strength was spent and he was at the mercy of the waves and the undertow.

Two bathers swimming beyond the breaker line hurried to Merrill's assistance and succeeded in holding the senseless man up until the arrival of the lifeboat. The rescue was witnessed by thousands of people who lined the sidewalk. Dr. Beckwith, chief of the beach corps, revived Merrill in the hospital tent and he was able to go home within a short time.

BRILLIANT CLOSE TO HORSE SHOW

Crowd Lines Rail Four Deep to See Hunters and Jumpers in Action.

RUNAWAY GIVES THRILL

"Henry Navarre" Circles the Ring at Terrific Speed Before Gus. Johnson Pulls Him in—A Novice, Wins a Championship.

The fact that the championship classes were to be judged and the program offered unusual attractions in the classes for hunters and jumpers, was the means of attracting the largest crowd of the week to the ninth annual horse show of the Plainfield Riding and Driving Club on Saturday. The successful termination of the show more than made up for the bad start on Thursday. The grandstand and privates boxes were thronged with enthusiastic spectators, while the people stood three and four deep along the rail all eagerly watching the exhibition of the finest thoroughbreds.

"My Butterfly," entered by L. M. Newgass, had the distinction of winning the championship saddle harness class. This chestnut mare made her first appearance in the novice class on Friday and won easily. Saturday she proved her worth by capturing one of the valuable prizes under the faultless riding of Jack Bowman.

Both of the champion harness classes went to Avondale Farm entries. "Nala" took the blue in Class 24, with Emil Seelig's "Royal Victoria" second. It was in this class that C. W. McCutchen's fine entry, "Henry Navarre," furnished some excitement. Driven by Gus. Johnson, the bay gelding started to run away Around the ring he went at terrific speed, but Johnson held fast and he finally had to lean way over the dash-

D. ANDERSON EXPLAINS M. E. CHURCH ORGANIZATION

Dr. James R. Joy, of North Plainfield, who returned a few days ago from the General Conference of the Methodist church at Minneapolis, gave an interesting resume of the work of that conference at the evening service in the First M. E. church yesterday. His talk was preceded by a brief outline of the organization of the church by Rev. Dr. C. M. Anderson, the pastor. He explained the sub-divisions which include the quarterly conference over which the District superintendent presided, the Disfrict conference which meets once a year, the annual conference made up of ministers and laymen, the lay-electoral conference and the General Conference which meets at the same time.

Dr. Anderson said that Dr. Joy was one of the five delegates representing the Newark conference at the General conference. Dr. Joy then proceeded to tell of some of the most interesting incidents of the General conference, explaining some of the changes in the government of the church. He described in a clear and concise manner the procedure of the conference and what it means to each individual church. The talk was listened to with great interest by the large congregation.

SCOTT WORKERS BACK ON THE JOB

Potter Management Gives no Hint of its Probable Course of Action.

CONFERENCE ON IN N. Y.

Employees of Hall and Fuchs and Lang Shops Hopeful That They Will Benefit by Settlement to Arise From Today's Meeting.

All the machinists of the Walter Scott Printing Press Machine Company resumed work this morning after a five days' idleness. The remaining strikers from the Fuchs & Lang Press Company, Carlstadt, Bergen county, and the Hall Printing Press Company, Dunellen, are awaiting the result of a conference which is taking place this afternoon in New Yorkbe tween representatives of the men and firms. The Potter Company management would not disclose what attitude they intended adopting when interviewed by a Daily Press reporter.

Regarding the statement made in Saturday's issue concerning the Tariff Bill on which a representative of Scott's firm was quoted as saying that it was never discussed at any conference held with the men's representatives, he wishes it made known that representatives of the other firms were not present at those conferences.

David J. Scott, head of Walter Scott & Co., is travelling on the Pacific Coast. His movements have been uncertain so that his company has been unable to communicate with him on the labor question.

MISSING JUNKMAN HOME; WASN'T ROBBER'S VICTIM

Anxiety for the safety of Amello Dillello, the Italian junkman, who disappeared when returning from Newark last Tuesday, and about whom sensational stories of robbery and murder were rumored, was allayed on Saturday, when it was learned that he was safe at his home in McCrea place. The members of his family are reticent regarding his whereabouts, but the police authorities are satisfied that he was not tied to a tree by robbers or mosquito bitten, and that he suffered no injury or harm at the hands of hold-up men.

NEW ORGAN HEARD AT ST. STEPHEN'S CHURCH

The new $1,600 organ recently installed in St. Stephen's Episcopal church, Netherwood, pealed out for the first time at yesterday's service. The congregation and the vestrymen were delighted wth it. Mrs. Russell R. Dorr organist is also well pleased, though she is of opinion that the best effects cannot be had by the manual system of blowing, and would like to see an electric motor installed. The slow method by which the air percalates through the pipes causes a wheezing noise which is disagreeable.

With that exception the organ is highly satisfactory. It is of plain, simple design with conclave pedals and electric action. Mrs. Dorr played the "Te Deum," an anthem and an offertory numbers and for a prelude to test the possibilities of shading and pianisimo effects the organist played the "Hymn of the Nuns." She also played the "March Romaine."

Washington, June 10.—Senator Cummins of Iowa emphatically denied a report from Chicago that he might complete the Taft ticket as vice presidential nominee. Mr. Cummins is himself nominally a candidate for the presidency and is thought to be waiting for the lightning to strike him in case of a deadlock.

"The report from Chicago," said Mr. Cummins, "must be just talk. It is known there, as it is here, that I would not accept the vice presidential nomination no matter who the presidential candidate might be."

SURGEON HURRIED IN AEROPLANE TO BOY

"Ambulance" Goes Across Lake In Five Minutes.

Penn Yan, N. Y., June 10.—Hugh Robinson, the aviator who has been flying from the aviation field of Glenn Curtis at Hammondsport for some time, converted his machine into an ambulance and carried a physician five miles to attend a patient.

The young son of Edward Petrie, while playing on the high stoop of the Urbana wire cellars on the west side of Lake Keuka, lost his balance and fell, fracturing his hip. A telegram call was sent for Dr. Alden at Hammondsport, but his automobile was out of commission. Robinson, who was flying at the time, volunteered to help the physician.

"Get in here beside me, and we'll see what we can do," he said, and the doctor, with his medicine case in one hand, accepted the invitation.

A gusty wind was blowing, but Robinson made a good start and pointed his aeroplane toward Urbana. Five minutes later Dr. Alden was setting young Petrie's fractured hip, while the populace stood around talking about the startling manner in which the physician had made his appearance.

WANAMAKER IS ANGRY.

Steamship Strike May Prevent Him From Attending Convention.

Havre, June 10.—The big new French liner France did not get away as expected. She was scheduled to sail on Saturday, but it was announced that her departure had been postponed and no reason was given. The company attributed the delay in her start to the lack of sufficient time for coaling. It appears, however, that the stokers went on strike at the last moment and demanded 110 francs a month instead of the 90 francs which they now receive. Captain Poncelet hopes to be able to secure new men and get his boat away this afternoon.

The passengers are furious. They offered to pay the difference between the present wages of the stokers and the increase demanded, but the captain declined to accept the offer. John Wanamaker, who was the spokesman of the party, was especially angry, as he is anxious to get to the Chicago Republican convention.

PHYSICIANS CONSIDER DRUG HABIT AND NOVEL

Atlantic City, June 10.—The drug habit, the attitude of anti-vivisectionists and the reading of certain kinds of novels were condemned at the fourth day's session of the American Medical Assocation.

President Jacobi called attention to the necessity for some action which would curb the drug habits. A resolution was passed calling upon Congress to place morphine and its derivatives, along with cocaine and allied preparations, in the list of the interstate commerce act.

The president also warned the members that some action should be taken to protect the pathologist against the crusade of the anti-vivisectionists, which, he said, has become so strong that there is danger that they may prevent important scientific research.

Dr. Smith Ely Jelliffe, of New York, in a paper on mental diseases, characaterized Ibsen's "Master Builder" as one of the type of novels which has done much to cause neurotics and psychopathics harm. Men and women who are subject to exaggerated mental impressions should be careful of the selection of their novels, he said.

Dr. M. L. Ravitch, of Lousville, Ky., advanced the startling theory that the germs of "American leprosy" are carried by robins and other birds.

MAY ESTABLISH PLAYGROUND.

Asbury Park, June 10.—Residents of this city are wondering whether "Hogarty Enclosure," a sign erected over property owned by Founder James A. Bradley, indicates, as some hold, that Mr. Bradley intends converting the property into a public playground. For years Mr. Bradley used the lot, at Main street and Fifth and Fourth avenues, for storing pipes, but in the last days the property has been cleared up, and a new fence erected about it. D. J. Hogarty, whose grocery store fronts the place, denied having purchased it and refused to say anything concerning the project or explain the use of his name on the sign.

—You can tell what sections of the city are developing fastest by looking through the Press real estate ads. Wherever there is real estate activity, there must be real estate advertising. And the more real estate advertising, the more real estate "activity."

Flinn Sends Out Hurry Calls For T. R. Cohorts.

INDIANA FIGHT CRUCIAL

Senator Dixon Characterizes as "Revolutionary" Plan to Unseat Roosevelt Delegates From Missouri, Colorado, Washington and North Dakota.

Chicago, June 10.—There are conferences hourly between the Taft and Roosevelt lieutenants. The tension is growing. There is an air of expectancy, and each side is watching the other when they have not been in consultation, working like dray horses.

Senator Crane has been in conference with most of the Republican national committeemen. Today's session of that committee promises to be important. The contests in Indiana are to be heard. They are supposed to furnish the real test of the contests in the northern states. The seats of the four delegates at large and those of the delegates of the first, third, fourth and thirteenth congress districts are to come up for consideration.

Charles Dick, in charge of the Taft contests, was at the conference. There is to be a terrific fight over these Indiana contests. The Beveridge organization in their state has been overthrown. The Roosevelt-Beveridge combination proposes now if possible to overthrow the Taft-New organization.

Mr. Dick and the conferrees went over the briefs submitted by the Taft-New people and the evidence to sustain these briefs. The Roosevelt-Beveridge adherents intend to make the fight of their lives on these contests in Indiana.

Telegraph to Governor Johnson.

The Roosevelt captains hear of the possibility that the California contests may be taken before the national committee, and they telegraphed to Governor Johnson to come immediately to this city. Should these California seats be contested by the Taft people in the national committee the Roosevelt delegates may be unseated. The argument against the Californians is that the direct primary law passed the California legislature over the protests of the Democrats and the Republican minority on Dec. 22, 1911, and signed by Governor Johnson on Dec. 24 did not follow the provisions affecting direct primaries laid down in the provisions of the call for the Republican national convention adopted on Dec. 12.

In an attempt to justify his primary law Johnson issued a lengthy statement attacking the national committee.

The four delegates at large from Missouri, headed by Governor Hadley, and the ten delegates for South Dakota were also taken up for consideration by the Taft managers. It was stated that if the facts warrant the national committee in looking into the election of these Missouri and South Dakota delegates it will certainly do so.

Dixon Makes Statement.

Senator Dixon seemed to be pretty well informed as to the proceedings of the conferences of the Taft managers concerning the delegates of Missouri, California and South Dakota as he issued the following statement:

The Taft managers have boldly determined upon the revolutionary plan of unseating the Roosevelt delegates from California, Washington, Missouri and South Dakota. In California Roosevelt has 72,000 majority in the Republican primaries. In South Dakota Roosevelt had 18,000 majority in the Republican primaries, his vote there being nearly three times as large as was the vote of Taft, who had run a bad third. In Washington the Roosevelt forces had 300,000 majority in the state convention, and in Missouri the Roosevelt delegates outnumbered the Taft delegates by nearly 400,000 majority.

Notwithstanding the conditions the Taft managers decided that it was necessary to unseat the delegates from the four Republican states in order to give them temporary control. After the full program had been agreed upon the Taft members of the national committee became alarmed over what they feared might be a national protest against such revolutionary methods.

Would Arouse Country.

A council of war was called, eleven men being present. Two of the men present gave it as their opinion that this wholesale disfranchisement of four great Republican states would arouse the country to such a fury that the reaction would destroy both them and their cause. One of them stated that, while he was prepared to go to any ordinary length in the matter of unseating Roosevelt delegates and while the country might stand for unseating Roosevelt delegates in the south, the attempt to steal California and South Dakota on the flimsy pretense that the delegates had been elected at statewide primaries instead of by congressional districts would be so raw and revolutionary that the whole campaign would collapse. Another Taft member of the national committee present said that California and South Dakota did not present any greater difficulties to him than did Washington and Missouri.

In one of the Missouri districts where the original plan was to unseat the Roosevelt delegates the primary returns showed 1,160 votes for Roosevelt to 457 for Taft. In this district after the primaries had been held sixteen Taft adherents met in the sample room of a hotel and "held a convention," which sent up two contesting Taft delegates.

Eight of the men present at the meeting are reported to have agreed to stand by the full program to the extent of unseating Missouri, California, Washington and South Dakota, as originally agreed upon, but three members said they wanted further time to consider the matter before agreeing to its final consummation. Whether or not the Taft managers can still get a majority of the national committee to stand for this program the coming week will determine.

Hurry Calls Sent Out.

Ex-State Senator Flinn, the chief executive captain of the Republican forces, was in conference with members of the steering organization which he has formed for proselyting work. Mr. Flinn sent telegrams to batches of Roosevelt delegates in the many states for them to come immediately here and join this organization of Roosevelt delegates on the ground. All must be here by Wednesday morning.

There is growing apprehension here of trouble. It was stated very positively by representatives of the Taft camp that Mr. Flinn and Roger C. Sullivan, for many years Democratic national committeeman of Illinois, have hitched up an arrangement by which the Roosevelt cohorts are to be swelled to thousands.

REVOLTS MADE TO ORDER.

Senator Nelson So Characterizes Uprisings in Cuba and Mexico.

MAY PROBE "REVOLUTIONS."

Senator Nelson Says They Are Financed in United States.

Washington, June 10.—"Insurrections in Cuba and revolutions in Mexico are fomented and financed in the United States. The purpose is to force the annexation of Cuba and such portions of Mexico as are most productive in mining resources. Purely selfish motives are behind both of these movements."

This was the startling declaration made in the senate by Senator Nelson. He sought to remedy the situation by an investigation and ascertain just who are behind these movements. He believed that when the actual facts were known it would be possible to apply an appropriate remedy.

WHISTLES SCREECH WELCOME TO FLEET

Crowds Line Hudson to View German Battleship Parade.

New York, June 10.—New York, in which live more Germans than in any other city in the world, save one, packed much of its population along Riverside drive. The lower spaces of the river front were thronged, until it was almost impossible to pass through the jam. Tugs, launches and excursion craft were joyously crowded.

The cause of the outpouring was the cannon heralded coming of the German squadron, Rear-Admiral von Hebeur-Paschwitz's three ships, which are here to return the visit a division of American battleships paid to Kiel.

The vessels moved past the Battery and up the North river, ferryboats and other craft screeching welcome from their whistles, the clamor punctuated now and then by the deeper roar of the sirens of steamships in their docks. Off Seventieth street the destroyers turned toward the Jersey shore and waited until the German ships had let go anchors before dropping their own.

REVOLUTIONIST HELD.

Texas Rangers at El Paso Round Up Gonzales Enrile.

El Paso, Texas, June 10.—Gonzales Enrile, until recently financial agent of the Mexican revolution, is under arrest in El Paso. Wounded by stabs and bullets from would be assassins, Enrile reached Juarez on his way to Los Angeles, Cal., for treatment. He was arrested by Texas rangers. No charge has been made against Enrile, but Mexican Consul Llorente had been busy wiring to Mexico City in an endeavor to establish a case that will warrant the United States holding the wounded man.

Irregularities in his accounts while consul for the Mexican government at Clifton, Ariz., is the charge made by the consul. Inasmuch as Enrile issued a violent anti-American proclamation addressed to President Taft early in February while in El Paso, the rangers say they can hold him for trial in the United States for that offense.

SWIFT PUNISHMENT OFTEN LEAPS OUT OF THE JURY-BOX.

The employer figuring as the defendant in a damage suit instituted by an injured employee, must not be surprised to find the sympathy of the jury with the plaintiff.

This is a frequent occurrence; and the employer, in many instances, is called upon to pay heavy damages.

The only effectual means of escaping the burden by an adverse verdict is to secure the protection of an Ocean Employers' Liability Policy. The Corporation then assumes all of the expense and responsibility incident to the defense and settlement of the case.

You can equip yourself with this safeguard at a nominal cost.

WE DO WORLD'S WRITING.

It may seem strange but it is nevertheless true that the United States does the world's writing, that is, it furnishes the machines with which the actual writing is being done. The total value of typewriting machines exported during the single month of April exceeded $1,000,000, and for the year ending June 1, the aggregate was approximately $12,000,000. The total amount for the year was eight times greater than fifteen years ago when the first record was kept. This class of exports, it is seen, doubles every five years. During the entire period, since 1897, the exportation of domestic machines of this type, has reached the enormous figure of $82,600,000.

The great majority of the American typewriters are sent to Europe, but Canada, Argentina and Australia are big buyers. Japan, China and almost every country in the world us ethe American made product. Basing the figures for 12 months upon the 10 months' figures already compiled, the exports of American typewriters to the United Kingdom will be between $2,500,000 and $3,000,000; to France about $1,500,000; to Germany, approximately $1,200,000; to Russia in Europe, about $750,000, and to all other Europe, a little more than $2,000,000. Nearly $1,000,000 worth will go to Canada; about $500,000 worth to Argentina; $300,000 worth to Mexico and Brazil; $400,000 worth to Australia and other British Oceania; $200,000 worth to the British East Indies; $100,000 worth to Cuba and about $500,000 worth to various other countries in every part of the civilized world.

The extent to which American typewriters are finding favor even in the great manufacturing centres of Europe as well as in less advanced parts of the world may be inferred from the growth in exports by countries in the period 1897-1912 covered by the official figures. Taking the 10 months ending with April, 1897, and comparing the exports during that period with those of the corresponding months of the current year, those to the United Kingdom increased from $619,386 to $2,137,297; those to France, from $80,222 to $1,105,609, and those to Germany from $201,369 to $1,059,121, while those to all other Europe increased from $142,591 to $2,301,465. In the same period our exports of typewriters to Canada increased from less than $27,000 to $745,714; those to Mexico, from $20,000 to $263,222; those to Argentina, from $10,950 to $331,849; those to Brazil, from $35,570 to $248,470, and those to the British East Indies, from $6,498 to $157,240.

Regardless of the prosecutions conducted by the Federal Government, the cash of the "trusts" continues to flow into the coffers of New Jersey. The courts have ordered the dissolution of the American Tobacco and the Standard Oil companies, both New Jersey corporations, but each of these has made a return to the State Board of Assessors upon the old basis of outstanding stock and the State will get its taxes as usual. In the same class are the International Harvester, the U. S. Shoe Machine and the U. S. Steel corporations, against all of which proceedings have been instituted. The year's statement shows an increase of 927 concerns bringing an added total tax of over $50,000.

In Roselle Park, a movement has been begun for the adoption of the commission form of government and by tomorrow it is expected that a sufficient number of signatures will be attached to the necessary petition for its filing with the borough clerk. Harwood Fish, the leader of the commission forces, anticipates a lively skirmish but feels quite confident of victory. Galveston, Texas, was the first city to be governed by this method. Now every city in the Lone Star State is thus ruled. Several communities in New Jersey have found the system works satisfactorily. It won't be long before every city in this State, too, will adopt the commission idea.

A Trenton paper expresses the belief that the action of the Republican National committee in admitting press association representatives to its hearings "will go a long way towards discrediting exaggerated, towards discrediting, exaggerated, garbled and sensational accounts of low journals are sure to give." That's all very nice, but where, for instance, in New York is there a newspaper that is not prejudiced, that is not injecting its editorial policy into political news reports; that is not belittling or suppressing the truth in many matters and is not also editorializing its headlines? And this applies to all factions and parties.

From those who feel that they can not afford to give a larger amount, one dollar will be heartily welcomed by Continental chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, for the Washington Rock fund. Send your dollar in today for he gives twice who gives quickly.

Contributed articles or letters on the commission form of government plan will be published cheerfully by the Daily Press. Taxpayers are invited to express their views and as this is an independent paper the opinions of all are welcomed.

Next Monday night, the Common Council will receive bids for the collection and disposal of garbage. Here's a chance for some live contractor.

"Cherries are not listed among the principal fruit crops of New Jersey," observes the Newark News. Mr. Fairbanks will please note.

If that saying "Laugh and grow fat" holds true, one Mr. Bryan should weigh about 1,000 pounds by this time.

Those planks LaFollette wants placed in the platform will soon be offered as old lumber.

Reciprocity doesn't seem to find any advocates at Chicago.

SENATOR BAILEY'S BILL.

Heyburn Objected to Its Passage, and It Was Thrown Out.

Senator Heyburn of Idaho, spoken of by many persons as the "chief objector" of the senate had just finished one of his characteristic protests against pending legislation, and, with several colleagues, was at luncheon in the restaurant at the capitol. In the party were former Senator Hale of Maine and Senator Bailey of Texas. The conversation had drifted to certain of the president's judicial appointments.

"Well," remarked Mr. Bailey, finishing his demitasse, "I have a bill that I'll bet will pass without objection from our friend Heyburn."

"I'm not a betting man," replied Mr. Hale, "but I'll wager you haven't."

"How much?" demanded Mr. Bailey.

"Well—say the price of the lunch."

"Done," said Mr. Bailey. Smiling, he threw a crisp $10 yellowback on the table. "Heyburn can't object to the passage of that," he added triumphantly.

Mr. Hale looked crestfallen, remarked something about a "mean trick" and mechanically reached for the luncheon check.

"Hold on!" cried Mr. Heyburn suddenly. "I object. As a law abiding citizen I object to the passage of this bill."

"On what grounds?" demanded Mr Bailey.

"It's counterfeit," replied Mr. Heyburn quietly.

And sure enough, it was one of those excellent imitations of real money that Chief Wilkie of the secret service had traced to the middle west.

"Well," said Mr. Bailey, with biting sarcasm, "I'm glad Heyburn has found one genuine excuse for an objection."—Washington Post.

Complimentary.

A popular clergyman once delivered a lecture to his parishioners assembled upon the interesting subject of "Fools."

The inscription ran thus:

Obeyed Too Well.

Lord Liverpool, who was premier of England, was a very precise and dignified man. On one occasion when he was traveling incognito, after breakfasting at a hotel in London, he ordered his valet, a raw Sussex youth, to clear the table and pack everything in a portmanteau. By this order, of course, were meant Lord Liverpool's letters and papers. But the youth took it to include the silver teapot and spoons. When Lord Liverpool was driving down Oxford street a cry of "Stop thief!" was raised, and the landlord of the hotel arrived in hot pursuit. There in the street the prime minister had the mortification of having his luggage opened, and in one bag was found the plate. Never would the statesman laugh at the episode even years after, so great was his fear that the story might get into the news papers.

The KITCHEN CUPBOARD

FRUIT COMPOTES.

COMPOTES are fruits in sirup served in such a way as to preserve their forms, either whole, halved or quartered.

Some recipes for delicious compotes are given here:

Cream and Berries.

Strawberry Compote.—Take a pint of fresh solid berries, sprinkle over them one cupful of powdered sugar. Dissolve a tablespoonful of gelatin in a little warm water. Crush one cupful of stale sponge cake crumbs. Mix the gelatin, berries and crumbs and turn into a mold.

Whip one cupful of cream until stiff. When the fruit gelatin is firm dip by the spoonful into a glass dish, alternating with spoonfuls of cream until the dish is full. Finish with the cream and a few whole and perfect berries.

Apples In Sirup.

Apple Compote.—Pare and remove the cores from six large apples, throwing them into cold water with lemon juice. Then blanch in the same water till tender enough to show if pressed with the finger. Lift out the apples and arrange on the dish on which they are to be served.

Make a sirup of loaf sugar, using one lump to each apple and either lemon or vanilla flavor. Boil all together until thick and pour it over and around the apples. Serve with or without cream.

This Looks Handsome.

Rhubarb Compote.—Take nice, well colored and thick stalks of rhubarb. Cut it into lengths of four or five inches. Put into a saucepan two pounds of sugar with a pint of water. Bring to the boiling point and skim. Then boil the sirup till it is quite thick. Add the rhubarb and simmer gently till soft. Lift each length carefully and lay it on a glass dish, then boil the sirup for a few minutes longer. Let it cool, then add a few drops of red coloring and pour over the rhubarb.

This Is Basted.

Banana Compote.—Take the skin off your bananas, cut them crossways and lengthwise. Lay these strips in a baking dish. Pour over them, for each banana, two tablespoonfuls of water, one of sugar, one teaspoonful of butter, melted, the juice of one lemon and a small pinch of salt. Bake slowly for half an hour, basting constantly, until the fruit is red and the juice is thick. Serve very hot.

Points for Mothers

Children's Play Clothes.

Dutch play clothes are the privilege of smart children, but the pretty garments which are shown in a number of the big shops can be reproduced at home for half of the store cost—that is, as far as the imported article is concerned, for there are some domestic imitations which are quite cheap. The novelties include frocks, aprons, bonnets and coarse stockings, with which are worn the usual leather sandals. Everything is very Dutch in effect, substantial and amusing, and the sizes of the various articles are two to six years of age.

Little frocks of striped drill, tan linen or white drill trimmed with a border showing designs of Dutch children can be had as low as 65 cents. If the dress is banded with embroidery it will cost from $1.25 to $1.95. In style the frocks are much like the square necked aprons or else they are in the form of high, long sleeved smocks, with front pockets made of trimming. The aprons are square or round necked, with the armhole cut very deep and the gay bordering used only about the neck, armholes and pockets or else all around. The same drills, linens and crashes are used for them as for the frocks, but of course they are only used to protect the usual nice little gown, as over a Dutch dress they would be superfluous. A number of the bonnets, which are short at the back and show turnback front flaps, are of the same textures as the frocks and aprons. Others are of coarse white linen.

These frocks and aprons can be made of ordinary denim, prettily worked at the edges with a herringbone in colored thread, or dish towel linen could be used, this ornamented with a banding of the Dutch figured calico, whose bright colors would be very effective against the brown of the garment. Again a brilliantly colored calico, with figures or without, might form the banding, for all that is needed are gayety of color and durability. Home knitted stockings would fill the place of the coarse hose offered for play, although the ribbed stockings young boys generally wear are quite good enough.

The Untrained Mother.

Probably the idea of training children aright started with Moses. Solomon prodded it along a little.

But no one seems to have given any admonitions about training the parents.

No doubt all the rules for bringing up children were laid down by the parents themselves, so, of course, they complacently think they are quite capable of rearing children properly. But many parents need training quite as much as the children. And many a young boy or girl whose life is wrecked is primarily not to blame for it. The real cause lies not with his or her willfulness or deception, but with the parents, who lacked the training that fitted them to guide the lives of others.

"Has Helen drunk her hot water this morning?" asks Helen's father. Helen hesitates and gives a shrewd glance at her mother. And the mother, because she knows Helen dislikes the hot water and that the practice is only a fad with the father, says, "Yes." In later years Helen's mother tearfully wonders how Helen can deceive her so. "I'll admit I have spoiled her," says Helen's mother, explaining to a trained nurse Helen's willfulness. And, having said this, the mother complacently thinks it is all sufficient. But this explanation will not remove from the daughter's path all the trials and hardships and suffering that "spoiling" will entail. Even then she was suffering as the result of it. And if Helen ever does remedy it herself in later life it will only be through years of earnest effort and much sorrow.

Interest the Boy.

Give him a plot of his own in the garden, or, lacking space here, perhaps there is an available space just over the back fence or in a vacant lot close by your home where the small lad can dig away to his heart's content, plant some vegetable seed and reap the profits from his efforts in due season.

The idea does not make an instant appeal to the small boy at first, but persuade him to stick at it for a few days or a week, and it will soon hold attractions that will get him out early in the morning to do his digging.

Lettuce, parsley, radishes, string beans, scallions, bush lima beans, beets, corn and tomatoes may all be raised with little skill, and if he is successful with his little garden patch he will find a ready market for the produce among the neighbors after giving mother the equivalent to the cost of the seeds, plants and implements.

Such an occupation is not only a source of health, but it encourages the boy in industrious ways.

An Outdoor Game.

A splendid way to get children out doors is to get them interested in the "architect." A stony vacant lot or open field is the playground, and the children vie with one another in gathering large pebbles, with them making "good size" bungalow plans upon the ground. This done, the pebble plans become make believe houses for the little folks to play in. Children seem to keep up interest in this simple game for months.

Woman's World

Mrs. Pitzer Delegate to Democratic National Convention.

MRS. ANNIE HAMILTON PITZER.

Scores of men the most prominent politically in the nation will go to the Democratic national convention to be held in Baltimore June 25, enthusiastically supporting the candidacy of Champ Clark for the nomination for president of the United States, but no one of these men will be so enthusiastic or cast his vote with such deep feeling as Mrs. Annie Hamilton Pitzer of Colorado Springs, sister-in-law of the speaker and national delegate from the Second congressional district of Colorado.

Mrs. Pitzer, whose maiden name was Anne Hamilton Bennett, is a native of Missouri and lived in Columbia, Boone county, for many years. Her husband was a prominent lawyer in the state, and after his death, about twenty years ago, she and her daughter removed to Colorado Springs, where they have lived ever since.

While Mrs. Pitzer desired to go to the Democratic national convention to vote for her brother-in-law for presidential nominee, she also has another purpose—a very strong desire to show the other delegates from all parts of the country that women who vote and believe in woman suffrage are neither masculine nor monsters. And one need only look at Mrs. Pitzer to know that she is neither of these.

"If there is one thing I wish to do more than anything else," says Mrs. Pitzer, "it is to show to men who are prominent in national politics what woman suffrage really is. I am a true suffragette in every sense of the word, and I am just as all the other suffragettes want to be, although owing to interference they cannot always be so.

"Universal suffrage is coming sooner or later," concluded Mrs. Pitzer, "and, while I may not live to see it, I am going to do my share toward securing it, and I consider whatever I may be able to do in Baltimore as one step toward accomplishing what I have set out to do."

Women's Sense of Humor.

In an article on women writers as humorists in the Woman's Home Companion Jeannette L. Gilder says:

"Some foolish person has said at some time or other that women have no sense of humor. Of course it was a man who said this, for men don't know women, though they think they do. Women know women better, and they know that the sense of humor is very keenly developed in their own sex. If it were not for this saving sense women could not stand a great many of the burdens that are put on their shoulders. I have in mind a woman whose life was one tragedy after another, but whose sense of humor saved her from despair. She would probably have gone mad if she had not been able to see the humorous side of situations that in themselves were anything but humorous. So widespread has this idea become—that women lack the sense of humor—that a great many people come to regard it as a truth, but I can soon prove, as far as women writers are concerned at least, that some of the most humorous books published today are written by women."

Via Wireless.

When the ship the President Lincoln left New York recently two girls on board decided to send a message to their home by wireless. This is what reached the puzzled family of the girls:

West ill eat. GRACE AND JULIA.

It looked formidable. There certainly was the word "ill," and the rest of the message looked as though the illness must be too serious for sane talk. The wireless man was just about ready to get busy with a frantic return message for particulars of the "illness" when a newspaper man in the family solved the puzzle.

"I've read proof before this, and I think this copy needs a bit of correcting," he said as he drew a line straight down the middle of "west" and joined its last two letters to "ill."

The relieved family read then, "We still eat," and knew that the girls had merely intended to give reassurance that seasickness had not interfered with their happiness to date.

"If the Titanic messages were as bad as that I don't see how wireless helped much," commented the man.

HELL ISN'T HOT

Bible in the Hebrew language "Sheol" and the Greek "Hades" is the grave, pit or tomb. It is the death state to which all mankind have been condemned on acount of the original sin of father Adam. "In Adam all die," he quoted and then proceeded to give ample Scriptural evidence that equally far-reaching to this curse, penalty or sentence of death "passed upon all men" is the assurance of an awakening from the dead. David referred prophetically to the resurrection of Christ in the sixteenth Psalm when he said, "Thou wilt not leave my soul in hell." This was proved by the reading of Saint Peter's explanation as recorded in Acts 2:27 to 34, partly as follows, "Men and brethren let me briefly speak unto you of the Patriarch David, that he is both dead and buried—for David is not ascended into the heavens (34th verse)—and his sepulchre is with us unto this day. Therefore being a prophet, and knowing that God had sworn with an oath to him, that of the fruit of his loins, according to the flesh, he would raise up Christ to sit on his throne, he (David) seeing this before spake of the resurrection of Christ."

The fact that Christ's soul was raised from the hell of the Bible—shoel, hades—is the assurance to all mankind that he has the power over death, that is "the keys of hell and of death," Rev. 1:18..

The speaker strongly emphasized the fact that "God hath appointed a day (a time—a thousand year day period) in the which he will judge the world in righteousness by that man whom he hath ordained, whereof he hath given assurance unto all men in that he has raised him from the dead." Acts 17:31. While this time for the judgment of the world is future there is now the judgment of the church or Christian class who are on trial in advance of the world. All believers in Christ now, have opportunity, if they are willing to suffer with Christ for righteousness sake, to be glorified with Him and share with Him the honors of the Kingdom to come, the calling forth of all the "prisoners of hope" for whom Christ died.

On accunt of Adam's sin, all are condemned to the first hell of the Bible—Sheol—Hades—but since as Saint Paul declared, "Jesus Christ by the grace of God tasted death for every man" all have been ransomed from this hell—Sheol—Hades—and will in due time be released—Christians by faith now, afterwards all the world actually. After this release is affected, whether to the Christian now who believes or to any of the world of mankind actually during Messiah's Kingdom reign, they are placed at once on individual trial for eternal life. All who will after this release and blessing deny the blood, the lfe of Jesus Christ who purchased them, will not be permitted to continue on in eternal life in any state whatsoever, but shall be destroyed in "hell fire"—gehenna fire, the second hell of the Bible, and this is clearly defined in the scriptural language of Revelation 20:14, "and death and hell (Hades, the first hell) were cast into the lake of fire. This is the second death." Since no one will ever be resurrected or even awakened from second death, this means the final utter destruction of all the willfully wicked in harmony with all the plain statement of the scriptures, such as "The wicked will God destroy," "They shall be as though they had not been," "In that day their very thoughts perish," "The soul that sinneth it shall die," "The wages of sin is death." As a natural conclusion the opposite reward awaits the righteous, "They shall enter into life eternal," "The gift of God is eternal life through Christ our Lord." Any one who will address Bible Students Association, Brooklyn, N. Y., a postal card request may have free of all charge a booklet explaining every verse in the Bible in which the word "hell" occurs.

NEW YORK AMUSEMENTS

Atop of the Victoria theatre is this summer known as "Le Jardin des Fleurs" (The Garden of Flowers.) The entire auditorium is a mass of flowers and each lady upon entering is presented with a beautiful rose in full bloom. Two pretty flower girls are employed exclusively for this purpose. The effect of the women wearing roses combined with the floral effects of the garden itself have a tendency to lend beauty and charm beyond description. During the intermission the "Old Farm" over the Republic theatre is thrown open. Here a wonderful transformation from last year has taken place. To give the contrast of two seasons a veritable mid-summer night's novelty, the farm is found in winter garb presenting a real ice carnival. Thousands of electric lights adding lustre and splendor to the kaleidoscopic effects creating an atmosphere of brilliancy and picturesqueness, illuminating the entire scene. A real ice pond constructed at the cost of $5,000, has been erected, upon which an exhibition of fancy skating is given by Grace Helane and Eddie Bassett, two of the most marvelous ice skaters ever seen in New York. They do Turkey Trots and fancy dancing on ice skates, the like of which has never been seen in public. They are assisted by six pretty girls who are also on ice skates. There are three separate orchestras, fifty men in all, consisting of George May's fifteen harmonists, Creatore's famous band of twenty, and the Trinidad Orchestra of fifteen real West Indians.

BAYONNE SWEPT BY $200,000 FIRE

Call Jersey City and Staten Island Apparatus.

SEVERAL FIREMEN INJURED

Believed Spark From Locomotive Started Blaze In Lumber Yards. Driver Crushed Under Wheels of Jersey City Engine and Fatally Hurt.

Bayonne, N. J., June 10.—A big blaze in the lumber yards of A. W. Booth & Bros. proved too much for the local fire fighters, and Fire Chief Alfred Davis had to get in the neighbors to help. Apparatus from Staten Island and Jersey City responded to fight what turned out to be the biggest fire that Bayonne has seen since the Standard Oil works burned up ten years ago. The smoke of it covered the Kill von Kull, and the lumber kept on burning until early today. Several firemen were hurt, one of them seriously.

The tracks of the Jersey Central railroad run close to the yards, and it is thought that a spark from a locomotive set the inflammable stuff afire. Chief Davis was making some headway when of a sudden the water supplied by the city gave out, and the disgusted firemen had to watch the flames spread over a distance of two blocks. The chief and twenty men were in the planing mill, in the middle of the yards, where the fire started, when the water gave out, and it became so almighty hot that they had to cut the hose and run. Mayor Cronin and the chief then decided that it was time to call for help, and there was some lively telephoning.

Crowds Flock to Scene.

This brought the Port Richmond (Staten Island) fire companies over on the ferry across the Kill von Kull and started the big automobile engines from Jersey City roaring down the Hudson County boulevard, while affrighted teams waved forelegs in air and people began to jam the trolleys bound for Bayonne.

When the outsiders got there they found that the flames were marching down to the frame houses across the way from the lumber yards. By this time the high pressure people came to, and there was enough water to make some impression.

The flames from the burning pine swept out across the railroad tracks, and some twenty trains that would ordinarily stop at the West Eighth street station took a chance and ran through smoke while the engineers leaned from their cabs.

The tenants of the twenty-four frame houses got their things out in a hurry, and soon they were joined by their Hobart avenue neighbors, who were also threatened. William Street, one of the volunteer firemen, fell off a roof and got badly banged up. A number of firemen went too far into the yards and were burned.

Frederick Niebling, the driver of Engine Company 13, from Jersey City, who had swallowed a lot of smoke, fell off his seat under the wheels of his engine just as his company had started off and was so badly hurt that it was said at the hospital that there was little hope of his recovery. The damage done was estimated at $200,000.

REID GOES UP AGAIN.

Gives Princeton a Thrill by Flying Down Main Street.

Princeton, N. J., June 10.—Marshall Reid, the young aviator who sailed over the crowd at the Yale-Princeton baseball game with his mechanic, Howard Hoover, went up for another joy ride. Reid spent the day with two of his relatives, who are Princeton graduates back for the commencement festivities, and later dined with Mr. A. McC. Parker, on whose property he landed.

Reid's flight was made just before dusk. His aeroplane left the earth cleanly and just grazed the tops of the neighboring trees. After ascending to a height of about 1,200 feet he headed for the Princeton campus, and as he expressed it on landing, "flew twice down the main street of Princeton." He was up in the air altogether for about twenty minutes. Reid expects to leave Princeton at 4 o'clock today and continue his flight to Philadelphia.

SMOKED PIPE WITH DEATH.

Mikar and His Team Rolled Fifty Feet, but He Got Up Puffing.

Passaic, N. J., June 10.—Though he tumbled fifty feet with a heavy truckload of sand and a team of horses, Adam Mikar of this city is alive to tell the tale. Mikar, with other men, was filling in a gully in the rear of dockyards on the Passaic river. He backed his truck too close to the edge of the embankment, which gave way. While a dozen men looked on in helpless amazement Mikar, his team and wagon rolled down the steep incline. Expecting to find the driver dead, they were astonished when he crawled from beneath the wreckage, still smoking his pipe.

"I'm all right," he said. "Get the horses out."

Mikar had a few scratches. His horses escaped with bruises, but the wagon was considerably damaged.

WE GIVE AND REDEEM SURETY STAMPS

Likely you remember our great Peddie Trunk and Bag Sale, when we bought the entire stock on hand of the big T. B. Peddie Factory.

Perhaps you remember equally well the enormous sale of Trunks and Bags we held about this time a year ago, which was also a notable sale.

Great as were these two sales, the one we inaugurate tomorrow is going to put them so far in the background as to make them but a faint memory, for in neither of the previous sales have we had such excellently made and up-to-date Trunks, Bags and Suit Cases as will go into this year's sale.

Manufacturers have met us more than half way and have made generous concessions, so that from various big factories we have secured splendid Trunks of the most dependable sorts, the most up-to-date styles; Hand Bags of the highest character in the most satisfying variety; Suit Cases of the best sort, and Women's Hand Bags that will appeal to our feminine friends.

Such factories as N. Drucker & Co., Lieberman & Bartlett, F. H. White and Headley & Farmer contribute to the enormous collection of traveling equipment that we will place on sale, beginning tomorrow.

We find in the collection Bellows Suit Cases, Combination Bags, Fitted Bags and Suit Cases, Matting Bags and Suit Cases; Suit Cases of all weights and leather, in all sizes from 12 to 30 inch—brown, tan, russet and black. There are Wardrobe Trunks, Steamer Trunks, Dress Trunks, Shirt Trunks, Hat Trunks and Bureau Bags of all sizes and colors.

If you could see the Trunks and Bags as we have seen them going thru the receiving room, occupying every inch of available space, and now, having crowded the Blanket Department out of its usual place and overflowing into the Harness Section, piled high wherever space could be had in and about the department, and if you could see the piles still in reserve and the other big lots on call, you would realize that this is by odds the greatest Trunk and Bag Sale Newark has ever known.

Whatever you need, be you tourist, local traveler or vacationist, you will surely be able to fill it from this great collection, and you can certainly save from one-third to one-half what you would usually have to pay.

HORSE SHOW CLOSES

board to bring the steed to a standstill. It was afterward explained that there was something wrong with the bit. The horse left the ring and did not show.

Miss Miriam Harriman, driving "Lady Dilham," captured the blue ribbon in Class 24, the champion harness clas, and then remaining in the ring, competed with her father, who was driving "Elegant Dilham," for the championship honors for single harness horses, Class 22. Miss Harriman won out amid great applause, while her father received the reserve honors. The Avondale Farms' entries had an easy time winning the championship prizes.

In Class 49 for hunters and jumpers, Frank Wing, son of S. Bryce Wing, had two spills while riding his father's mounts, "Embarta" and Dynamite." The first fall, while taking a brush fence, was not so serious, but when he was thrown off of "Dynamite" at the rail jump, it was thought that the rider's arm was broken. Dr. G. W. Endicott made an examination and found nothing worse than a dislocated shoulder.

J. J. O'Donohue, riding "Merry Widow," also came a cropper in Class 47, the amount loading the rider on the other side of the rail jump the first tmie around. Mr. O'Donohue was successful, however, in getting the blue, while his "Lion Heart" received third honors. Again in Class 50, "Merry Widow" got first honors and "Lion Heart" third place. The championship class for hunters was won by Blenheim Farm's "Algomar," which clearly demonstrated its right to the coveted prize. L. E. Waring rode this entry. The jumping classes were about the best witnessed at any show of the local club and frequent applause greeted the performances of the entries.

The smallest four-in-hand possibly that ever entered a ring was shown by Miss Tertia Holm, eight years old, and with her younger sister, Miss Grace Quarta Holm, shared the pleasure of receiving a blue ribbon. They were Baby Ruth, Vida, Keith and Black Beauty, all from the stable of Howard S. Starrett, and they competed with much larger horses entered by Emil Seelig and H. L. Pierce.

One of the most interesting classes of thea fternoon were those for draught stallions and mares, and they held the close attention of the spectators. The Fair Acre Farm and Thomas A. Sperry's entries divided the honors. The final awards follow:

FIRST BAPTISTS STILL AT FRONT

The second games in the Sunday-school Baseball League were run off Saturday and brought about several changes in the standing. First Baptist secured the sole right to the top notch position by taking the Park Avenue Baptists in tow by the score of 11 to 6. Hope Chapel, the other aspirant to first place honors was defeated by a 12 to 9 score by the Monroe Avenue lads. South Plainfield came back strong after their defeat of the previous week and went back to the village a victor by 18 to 14 over Temple Baptist.

The second trio of games were all close and well played and the victors were compelled to resort to heavy stick work in order to pull off a victory.

SO. PLAINFIELD WINS

After the unmerciful trouncing they received at the hands of the Park Avenue Baptists the week before the South Plainfield team of the Sunday-school league managed to hold the Temple Baptist boys in the cellar with an 18 to 14 count. Several advantageous shifts were made in the lineup of the villagers and they now present a more formidable aspect.

The game was a run-fest in which heavy hitting was the prediminating feature. Hadley and Banks each secured a quartet of healthy ones, while five others ran into the three hit column. A strange coincidence n this contest was the particular high totals of runs, hits and errors. Thirty-two runs, thirty-four hits and twenty-four errors were registered.

MONROES DOWN HOPES

The champion Monroe Avenue team of the Sunday-school league came back, after their defeat of the previous week, and nosed out the strong Hope Chapel nine with a 12 to 9 score. Although the winners were in the lead the greater part of the contest the Hope lads had numerous opportunities to tie up the score, but the necessary hit was never forthcoming. Schott had the best of the pitcher's argument allowing but six hits and compelling eleven batters to whiff at his offerings. The losers garnered twelve hits from the Monroe mound men and Angleman pounded out four of these. Extra base hits were made by Grisley, Beekman, Angleman, Dorman and Alpaugh.

The game was a particularly unfortunate one for the Hope boys as several of them were crippled by coming in contact with a Monroe base runner's cleats.

FIRST BAPTIST FAST

What was perhaps the best of the trio of Sunday-school League struggles was pulled off on Hyde Field when the First Baptist team secured a firm and undisputed grip on first place by defeating the Park Avenue Baptist team by a score of 11 to 6. Although the Front street lads were always in the lead the losers began many rallies which if completed would have tied up the score for them.

In the absence of Clarke, the Park Avenue box artist, Mills, was substituted and pitched the kind of ball that would have won an ordinary game. He struck out ten batters and walked and hit two. Smith, on the other hand, amassed twelve strikeouts, but was a little wilder, walking eight men. The First Baptist lineup contained many North Plainfield High School players, both of this year's team and teams of former years. Smith and Stine, one of the best batteries N. P. H. S. ever turned out, were in the points for the victors and exhibited their old form.

A large crowd witnessed the game and because of the unfavorable conditions under which the official scored had to work, he was unable to keep a box score.

JUST TAPS BY "BUNTS"

The Eastern try-outs for the Olympic team were held in the Harvard stadium Saturday afternoon and three world's records went to pieces.

A. R. Kiviat, of the Irish A. C., romped home a winner in the 1,500 meter run for the record beating time of 3 minutes 55 4-5 seconds.

Cramer, of the Long Island A. C. cut the world's figures to 31 minutes, 43 3-5 seconds in the 10,000 meter run.

Marc S. Wright, the Dartmouth pole-vaulter, cleared the bar at 13 feet 2 1-4 inches, putting in the shade the 13 feet 1 inch, which Gardner, of Yale, made at the intercollegiate games a week ago.

Senior-Faculty (baseball?) farce at Parker Field this afternoon.

On account of the heavy condition of the running track, Leal's School called their annual athletic meet off, which was carded for last Friday afternoon. They will try to run it off at the Driving Park this afternoon.

Yale succumbed to the willows of the Tiger batsmen last Saturday by the score of 4 to 2.

Home run and triple yielded Princeton all her tallies.

WASHINGTON NO TROUBLE TO BEAT

U. S. Leaguers Prove An Easy Proposition for the Dorflinger Combination.

GAME SEWED UP EARLY

Whacking of the Big Sticks Produce Eight Runs in First Two Rounds —Two New Forces in Local Lineup.

The Dorflingers maintained their unbroken chain of home victories when they took the much-touted Washington United States League team into camp Saturday, by a 9 to 3 score. Henderson, the outlaw moundsman, faired no better than the other twirlers who have fallen before the willows of Plainfield's mighty swatsmiths. He was hammered unmercifully when hits meant runs and this, added to his frequent spasms of wildness, cost his teammates the game.

Frederickson was at his best, disposing of eleven hopefuls by the three-strike route and allowing but nine scattered hits. Freddy walked but on batter against his opponent's four passes. The locals, by timely hitting, got to Henderson in the firs two rounds for eight counts, thus sewing up the game. Fhom then until the final round Plainfield kept on the defensive and the visitors were unable to push more than a trio of runs across the rubber.

Two new faces adorned the local lineup, thus causing the shift in the batting order. Wolf, the former Bound Brook slugger, who was hailed as a home-run hitter, returned the applause he received on his initial trip to the plate with a timely two-bagger to deep centre, which scored the first two runs. McPhilips, a former Manhattan College performer, was the other addition, and he also contributed a two base hit. Harter will be back in the local fold next week, his absence having been necessitated by a injury he received last Sunday.

COMMERCIALS INCREASE LEAD

Two game were shifted in the season's schedule of the Manufacturers' Baseball League, when four of the six teams completed the first round of games. The Rushmore-Garwood-Electric combination and the Saurer Motor team each have one more game to play before they have met every team in one diamond battle, by virtue of their lay-off last Saturday. While idle Saturday the Saurer team climbed into fourth place, when the Banks cashed in another defeat which lowered them to a tie with the Spicer team for last place. The Gas Company team reached their winning stride Saturday when they whitewashed nine black uniforms worn by the Spicer team with a kalsomine dose of 10 to 0. The Commercial nine strengthened their hold on first place by defeating the Bankers by 10 to 4. Although the season is young at present, there are a couple of teams which will have to take a decided brace if they evenwa nt to be in the running by August. The Commercial and Gas Company teams are going along at a terrible clip and the meeting of these two nines for the second time is awaited with interest.

SPICERS WHITEWASHED

The Public Service team of the Manufacturers' League held the Spicer aggregation in the cellar Saturday afternoon, when they applied the whitewash to the tune of 10 to 0. Hub. Terry, the old P. H. S. moundsman, was on the slab for the winners, and pitched one of the finest exhibitions seen in the league this season. He struck out fourteen batters and held the Spicer swatsmiths to two solitary hits. Terry also contributed a three base hit to his afternoon's work. Dolan, on the other hand, was hit often and hard and this, together with the eleven misplays chalked up against his team-mates, yielded the Gas Company ten runs.

COMMERCIALS AGAIN

The Commercial team increased their top rung advantage in the Manufacturers' League by triumphing over the Bankers to the tune of 10 to 4. Conshay was on the mound for the Commercials, with Rowell, a new and promising catcher, doing the backstop work. He allowed but five scattered hits but was a trifle wild. Conshay was backed up to perfection by his teammates, who pulled him through many pinches.

Fritz's home run and two base hits by Brokaw and Conover were features of the game.

DUNELLEN WON RIGHT TO SMILE THIS WAY

Lambasted Bound Brook, Who Lambasted the Dorflingers and on B. B.'s Own Lot.

After defeating the strong Plainfield Baseball Club the previous week, Bound Brook yielded to the onslaught of the Dunellen aggregation for a count of 6 to 1, at Bound Brook last Saturday. McLaughlin and Dixon were in the points for the victors, and aided by the stirling support given him, Warry pitched one of his season's best games, allowing but five hits. Ortlieb, on the other hand, held the Dunellenites to four bingles, but these added to the ragged support given him yielded his opponents six tallies. Capt. Brit Martin played a sterling game in the field and at bat, checking up for a two base hit, one run, seven put-outs, six assists, and all without an error. Capt. Nick Powers was the star performer for the losers, making many spectacular stops at short.

'PLAINSMEN SLAUGHTER NEWARK COLORED GIANTS

The 'Plains team toyed with Joe Carter's Newark Giant team in the contest at the 'Plains yesterday, the only interesting feature being the game put up by the home team, not an error was made and 14 hits were gathered off of Mitchell, the Giant mound man. Hand getting three two-baggers and one three-bagger in five times at the bat, the clout scoring five of the 'Plains tallies. CLOSE PLAY IN FIRST ROUND FOR JUNE CUPS

The only event at the Plainfield Conutry Club Saturday was the first round, match play for the June cups, both classes. All of the contestants took part and a majority of the matches were exceedingly close. The fact that the Princeton-Yale baseball game was being played at Princeton had the tendency to attract a number of the active members. The result of the day's play follows:

Class A—D. O. Rogers beat T. J. McKeon, 4 and 3; W. Lester Glenney beat Arthur Murphy, 6 and 4; A. J. Watson beat Morris J. Dumont, 3 and 2; H. D. Hibbard beat C. B. Morgan, 2 and 1; L. G. Carman beat S. H. Patterson 5 and 4; H. R. Stockton beat J. E. Erickson, 4 and 3; Will T. Glenney beat R. S. Rowland, 1 up; Frank O. Reinhart beat R. G. Morse, 1 up.

Class B—L. H. Van Buren beat R. C. Brown, 2 up; S. T. Perrin beat A. W. Kleinecke, 1 up; B. C. Kenyon beat R. C. Blancke, Jr., 2 up; R. B. Corey beat D. G. Weams, 3 and 2; J. V. Beekman beat L. H. FARCICAL GAME.

The preliminary game on the Oval, Saturday, proved a disappointing exhibition of baseball. It was a farce from start to finish, with the R. G. E. team, of the Manufacturers' League, and Peter Simmons' Colored Giants as the leading characters. Both teams displayed a woeful deficiency in the art of inside baseball and time after time scratch hits were turned into three base hits and home runs by the wild heaves of some fielding novice. The final score was 12 to 4 in favor of the Manufacturer's team. No official scorers were on hand to take the game so no authoritative box score was in evidence. Lineup: Colored Giants— Somerset, 2b; Garner, ss; Jones, c; Kline, p; Brown, 2b; Maiden, lf; Colman, cf; Ford, 1b; Simmons, rf. R. G. RUTGER COLLEGE NOTES.

New Brunswick, June 10.—Captain Valentine B. Havens, of the Rutgers track team, has gone to Boston to try for the American Olympic team. Havens is noted for his ability in the sprints and hurdles, holding the Rutgers 100-yard and high hurdle records.

President Demarest was recently a guest of the State Board of Education at its annual dinner.

Professor J. C. Van Dyke has sailed for Italy.

The Dramatic Club, due to unexpected circumstances, has postponed the college play, "She Stoops to Conquer," until the fall.

A new gateway, with new concrete steps and concrete seats, and stone flooring, has been erected at the Hamilton street entrance to the college campus. The gateway is a gift to the college from the graduating class of 1912. The old gate was presented by the class of 1902.

The library is undergoing extensive alterations.

The following men have been elected to the Casque and Dagger Junior Society: James A. Mason, of Newark; Stuart M. Firth, South Orange; J. E. Elmendorf, New Brunswick; L. F. Regendahl, H. K. Davies, J. S. Elliott and F. W. Holcombe.

REINSTATED AS SECRETARY.

Long Branch, June 10.—John T. Britton, Jr., who was succeeded last February by E. T. M. Carr as secretary of the Long Branch Board of Education, has been reinstated by a vote of the board and will serve out his term of three years from last September. When the old board went out of office in February last Mr. Britton, who has been elected secretary to succeed C. Asa Francis, who resigned after being appointed collector of the port at Perth Amboy, also went out of office. Mr. Britton contested, claiming he was secretary of the board until his term expired, and asked the State Board for a decision. The State Board decided that Mr. Britton was legally secretary of the board whether he was a member or not. Mr. Britton will receive pay for the time he has served. The position pays $500 a year.

JUDGMENT AGAINST PUBLISHERS

Freehold, June 10.—A judgment for $878.25 has been entered against Pennypacker Bros., former publishers of the Asbury Park Journal, in the suit of Mrs. Julia K. Leonard, proprietress of the Buena Vista Hotel, Belmar. The amount represented $750, which Mrs. Leonard, through her husband, George W. Leonard, paid to the publishers of the Journal during a voting contest for 150 yearly subscriptions to the Journal at $5 per year. The balance represents interest on the amount. It was alleged the arrangements of the contest were never carried out.

Negroes, Hounded About City, Are Becoming Desperate and Uprising Is Regarded as Imminent—Cuban Situation Takes Decided Turn For Worse.

Washington, June 10.—Two United States battleships have been ordered from Key West to Havana. This action followed information at the state department that Havana is threatened with a race war. The situation is regarded alarming.

Minister Beaupre notified the state department that since Friday morning riots have ccurred in the negro quarters of Havana and vicinity. Negroes are being goaded into violence by irresponsible elements among the white population. Retaliation upon the part of the desperate blacks in and about the city is expected at any moment, and it is believed that the results will be serious.

Americans Appeal For Aid.

Antinegro demonstrations have taken place all over the city in the last twenty-four hours, the American minister reported. The negroes are being hounded about the city and are in fear of their lives. Dread of the consequences should they make an effort to defend themselves has alarmed all Americans and other foreigners in Havana and also a great many Cubans of the more conservative nonpolitical element.

Appeals were made to Minister Beaupre by representatives of these elements of the population of Havana to ask the United States government to send a battleship.

The response of the state department to this request was prompt. Within a few minutes after Minister Beaupre's cable had been received orders were being sent to Read Admiral Osterhaus, commanding the first squadron at Key West, to send two ships to Havana at once.

YACHT OF PRESIDENT HAS NARROW ESCAPE

Mayflower, Mr. and Mrs. Taft Aboard, Near Disaster.

Old Point Comfort, Va., June 10.—President and Mrs. Taft and their party of guests on board the naval yacht Mayflower narrowly escaped a collision with the steamer Northland of the Norfolk and Washington line in the lower part of Chesapeake bay, off Smith's Point light, while en route to Hampton Roads. As the Northland was attempting to pass on the port side of the Mayflower the naval vessel crossed over the Northland's bow.

If Captain Posey of the Northland had not stopped his engines and turned the bow of his vessel away from the Mayflower's stern the two vessels would have collided. President and Mrs. Taft and their guests were asleep at the time and were not aware of their narrow escape from accident until they awakened in the morning.

SLAUGHTERED IN CARD GAME

Twenty-five Are Killed Following Charge of Cheating.

Johnson City, Tenn., June 10.—Twenty-five men were killed at Dante, Va., a mining town on the Cardena, Clinchfield and Ohio railroad, in a fight over a card game.

It is reported the dead men are Italians and mountaineers living in and about Dante, a mining town of about 6,000 inhabitants. The Italians accused the mountain men of cheating and after the fight began pistols were brought into play. Practically every man in the game is said to have lost his life. Other victims were bystanders.

MEAD FOR VICE PRESIDENT.

Vermont Governor Going to Chicago to Help His Own Boom.

Chicago, June 10.—Former State Senator J. F. Manning of Vermont, now of Chicago, made formal announcement of the candidacy of Governor John Abner Mead of Vermont for the Republican vice presidential nomination.

The announcement was confirmed by a telegram from Governor Mead, which added that the nominating speech would be made by John R. Lewis of Rutland, Vt., who, with Governor Mead, is expected to arrive in Chicago next Thursday.

ICEBERGS ON ALL SIDES.

But the Burmez Prince Escapes Them, Though In a Fog.

Boston, June 10.—Officers of the steamer Burmez Prince, which reached Boston from the far east, are wondering how she missed running into an iceberg on Sunday night while she was poking her way through a heavy fog. When the fog lifted about 8 a. m. Monday Captain MacDougal saw icebergs on all sides, four of which he said were "monsters."

Miss V. M. Wakeman of Hamden, Conn., who was a passenger, said that she offered a prayer of thankfulness for their escape when she saw the bergs.

CARDINAL FARLEY PRESIDES.

At Laying of Cornerstone of Buffalo's $100,000 Cathedral.

Buffalo, June 10.—Cardinal Farley of New York presided at the ceremony of laying the cornerstone of the new $600,000 Catholic cathedral here. He was assisted by Bishop Charles H. Colton, who formerly was vicar general of New York and pastor of Father McGlynn's old parish there.

Archbishop Quigley of Chicago, Archbishop James J. Keane of Dubuque, Bishop Thomas M. A. Burke of Albany, Bishop Thomas A. Hickey of Rochester, Auxiliary Bishop Conroy of Ogdensburg and hundreds of priests assisted in the ceremonies. The diocese signalized the event by turning out 40,000 marching men under their parish banners in review before the cardinal.

To Make Him Eligible.

Mike Garrity, once state senator for a Chicago district, had a constituent whom he wanted to place and for whom he had no position. He decided to try James A. Sexton, postmaster, and took his charge along in tow. The representation was made that the applicant was not suitable for clerical work, but could safely attend to any old kind of an odd job. Mr. Sexton demurred. "I hold those places for crippled veterans," he said. "Come along, Dinny," observed Garrity, "we'll go to the butcher shop and I'll chop a wing off you."

A Disappointment.

Two Englishmen visited China last year, and after finding quarters in Ning Po hired sedan chairs to make a call on an official to whom they had letters. It was very hot, and as there was no ventilation inside the sedans the travelers after a while asked the bearers to raise the roofs. This, to their surprise, the bearers flatly refused to do, and the Englishmen, highly indignant, were forced to take off the roofs themselves.

They soon found their chairs followed by a hooting crowd of natives that swelled into hundreds as the journey continued. The Englishmen felt rather nervous, especially in view of the unsettled state of certain districts in China, but they arrived safely at their destination and got out. The crowds following them looked disappointed. Rather worried and puzzled they made inquiries of their host.

"To ride in a roofless sedan," was the explanation given them, "is the distinctive mark of a criminal going to execution, and as the usual place of execution is near the south gate the people thought you two 'foreign devils' were going to have your heads taken off and followed joyously to see the show."

His Masterpiece.

The young novelist had had a tough time of it, as had his dear wife. She held his talents in poor esteem and often urged him to try something else, for she was sometimes hungry and all the time ill clad. But one day his luck changed. He began to make money. And there came a day when he was able to write his check for $100 and pass it to his wife.

Her eyes filled with tears as she read it.

"Willibrand, darling," she said as she hastened around the table and put her arm about his neck, "I'll take back all the mean things I ever said about your work. This is the best thing you ever wrote."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

DR. CHAMBLISS HEAD OF COLLEGE

Anderson, S. C., Institution Secures Services of Retired Pastor of 1st Baptist.

POSITION IS EMINENT

College for Women is Situated in Wealthy City With Plenty of Funds at Its Disposal—Term Begins at Once.

Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss, former pastor of the First Baptist church, has been chosen as president of the College for Women at Anderson, South Carolina. The position, with its opportunities of literary work and larger usefulness, is one that appeals strongly to Dr. Chambliss. The college is located in a wealthy city, with no lack of funds, and it has a first-class modern equipment in faculty and buildings.

Dr. Chambliss has returned to East Orange from the South, and is now preparing to remove to the new scene of his labors, where his duties claim him immediately. Mrs. Chambliss will be in New Jersey, after July 1, until the middle of September.

Dr. Chambliss was born in Athens, Ga., in 1840. He completed his college course at Howard College in Alabama, and was graduated from the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary at Louisville, Ky., in the class of 1861. His first pastorate was at the Sumter, S. C., Baptist church, when the Civil War began. He enlisted as a chaplain in the Confederate Army, serving throughout the war.

He was elected president of Washington College in Maryland, when he decided to accept a call to the pastorate of the Baptist church at East Orange. He also held pastorates at Richmond, Va., and Charleston, S. C. He taught Latin in the Maryland State College for several years. He served the East Orange church from 1889 to 1899, and gave up the pastorate to engage in literary work.

Later he supplied the Baptist church at Montclair, and it was about that time that he came to Plainfield and served the First Baptist church as pastor for seven years. He resigned about a year ago, after completing fifty years in the ministry.

PIANO RECITAL BY PUPILS OF MISS HELEN GEORGE

The piano recital by the pupils of Miss Helen George, which was given at her home, 83 Duer street, Saturday afternoon, was an enjoyable affair. It was attended by about forty parents and friends of the pupils. The younger pupils played especially well, and the older ones performed with much credit to themselves and their teacher. The program was an attractive one and varied. The rooms were decorated with roses and peonies. Herbert Price was awarded the prize for the most practicing during the last six weeks. At the conclusion of the recital the pupils presented Miss George with a handsome music roll.

The pupils taking part in the recital were Judith, Christine and Lillian Claybrook, Mildred Weiss, Lucy Douglas, Marion Blair, Dorchester and Dorothy Walsh, Gertrude King, Florence Douglas, Bertha Martin, Mary Buchanan and Lemuel Woolston and Herbert Price.

MYSTERIOUS THINGS HAPPEN AT Y. M. C. A.

Houdon Amazes and Perplexes Audience—Dark Seance Will Be Held Tonight.

Houdon, "the man of mystery," who exposes spiritualism, was greeted by a large audience at the Y. M. C. A. Hall last evening. He had no difficulty in getting a representative committee to assist him in his manifestations and to see that no trickery was practiced.

In his telepathic demonstrations, in which he was closely watched by both committee and audience, he did things which seemed little short of marvelous, such as describing faces thought of and afterwards pointing out the persons in the audience, and by thought-reading, locating a ring taken from its owner and placed upon the finger of another person and transferring it while blindfolded to the hand of its owner. His table-lifting and spirit-rappings were cleverly done, whatever the explanation may be.

Perhaps the most startling demonstration produced was a so-called message from the dead to a member of the audience. The gentleman who received the message acknowledged that Houdon's description of his deceased friend was a correct one and stated positively that Houdon could not have known anything about him prior to the demonstration.

Other mystifying features of the performance were the reading and answering of unseen questions, table-lifting, the production of "spirit-smoke," causing a silk handkerchief to dance and the production of spirit-rappings. Everything was done with all lights turned on.

Tonight, one of the features of the entertainment will be the "Dark Seance." This demonstration will be characteristic of seances given by mediums in the dark. Members of the audience will assemble on the stage, forming a circle about the medium so that there may be no possible chance of a confederate aiding the medium. The medium will also be held by some well-known man selected by the audience. After the lights have been turned out, the most weird and startling manifestations will occur. Musical instruments, played upon by invisible hands, will glide through space. Those gathered about the medium will feel hands touching their faces and clothing. Tables will be thrown out of the circle. In short, all the phenomena of a spiritualistic seance will be produced. Afterwards, the lights will be turned on and the trick exposed.

Flag Day, which falls on next Friday, will be observed by several organizations in the community.

COLLEGE SENIORS HOLD CLASS DAY

PLANTING OAK AND IVY

Tree Day Today, the Ceremonies of Which Will Be Marked by Reading of An Ode and Dance in the Grass

The class day exercises of Mt. St. Mary College were held yesterday afternoon in the Park Club. They were enjoyed by a highly appreciative audience.

The program opened with the reading of the class will by Mlle. Jacard, who leaves for Europe Saturday to spend the summer in Switzerland. Miss Loretta E. Nolan, of the graduating class, delivered a paper on "Class History," in which many pleasant and amusing incidents of college life were recalled.

Miss Irene Duchesne read the class prophecy, in which she foreshadowed pleasant and successful futures for all the graduates.

The Dramatic Society gave three scenes from King Henry VIII. The dancing of the little misses in the last act was keenly enjoyed.

Today is set aside as Tree Day, when the class oak and ivy will be planted with appropriate ceremony. One of the features will be the reading of the class ode composed by one of the students, and another the dancing of the children on the green.

The commencement proper will take place tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock, when the Right Rev. James A. McFaul, Bishop, of Trenton, will present the diplomas to the graduates.

STATE GIVES HINT TO BORO SCHOOL BOARD

Recommends Changes to Be Made in High School for Safety and Health.

The bond issue to finance the new heating and ventilating systems for the Somerset buildings was taken up by the North Plainfield Board of Education at a special meeting last night, and advertisements for bids were authorized. The State Board of Education recommended the following alterations in the High School: That the light area in the old building, wherever necessary, be increased so as to equal twenty per cent. of the floor space; three stairways in the old building to be torn out and replaced by fireproof construction, and some of the old floors to be removed and replaced by new ones.

A. L. C. Marsh, an architect, was present and was asked what these changes would cost. He estimated $800. The building committee of the Board was instructed to confer with the State Commissioner as to how many of these changes would be absolutely necessary to be effected, and Mr. Marsh was requested to confer with the Commissioner as to the details now required by law in the making of these changes.

Bills to the amount of $8,800 were ordered paid, and a note for $2,500 to meet current expenses was authorized.

Four bids for the coal contract were received and opened and after consultation it was decided to defer the award until the next meeting.

A communication was read from the State Trust Company regarding the establishment of a savings bank in the schools, and was referred to the finance committee for consideration.

TWO BOYS MISSING; ONE HAD EMPLOYER'S MONEY

John H. Clouse, of Muhlenberg place and West Third street, reported to the police that Arthur Bandle, 206 Manson place, a young man he employed in delivering goods, had disappeared with his horse and wagon. The police of Lincoln called up early this morning to say that the horse and wagon had been found in a vacant lot there. Clouse states that the youth collected $10, and the police surmise that another boy named John Kane, who is missing, accompanied him.

No trace of the boys has been found. The wagon was brought back by the owner this morning.

Mr. and Mrs. James Kerr Branch and Miss Branch, of Richmond, Va., have been visiting friends here and were among the interested spectators at the horse show on Saturday.

STRIKERS LOOK TO WASHINGTON

Will Win at Hall's if Free Press Clause of Tariff Bill Fails.

FIRM MAKES AN OFFER

Situation at the Potter Shop Remains the Same—Business Agent Reilly Conferring Today With the Carlstadt Workers.

The situation in the machinists' strike as far as it affects the Hall plant in Dunellen was not unchanged today. This firm offered the same terms as those conceded by the Walter Scott Press Printing Machine Company with this condition, that they be not binding unless the Tariff Bill, now before Congress, providing for the free importation of printing machinery fail of enactment.

The result of Congress' action will not likely be officially announced before June 17, so that the men will rest on their oars and not return to work until they learn what will be done.

It is the general feeling that if the bill is passed the strike will continue.

No change in the situation is announced at Potter's. Business Agent Reilly, of the union, has gone to Carlstadt today to have a conference with the strikers of the Fuchs & Lang shop. It is deemed probable that this firm will follow the example of Scott and grant the men's demand without any conditions.

POLL FAVORABLE TO NEW SCHOOL

Netherwood Residents Assn. Instructs Committee to Consult Board of Education.

A SITE IS SUGGESTED

Report is Also Made on the Progress of Agitation for West Bound Station Building at Netherwood—Meeting Largely Attended.

Consideration of a plan to obtain public school facilities in that section of the city was had at a meeting of the Netherwood Residents' Association at Truell hall last night. Stanley E. Gunnison, chairman of the educational committee, reported that he had received over fifty replies to a return post card sent out to 200 residents to obtain their views on the proposition. Only two, he asserted, had objected to the idea, and he expected that the number of favorable answers would be doubled within a few days.

Where the suggested school should be located was a topic that occupied much attention. Charles R. Banks advanced the idea that St. Stephen's parish house, at South and Woodland avenues, might be suitable, but most of the other forty or more members present seemed to agree that a school building more in keeping with the tone of the Netherwood neighborhood should be had. Some asserted that there could be no better site than that at Woodland and Putnam avenues and Charlotte road. The school in intended for the elementary grade.

Chairman Gunnison and his colleagues Joseph K. Larkin and W. H. Druse were authorized by a resolution to consult with the Board of Education regarding the proposed school facilities.

Chairman Druse, of the railroad facilities' committee, reported progress regarding the agitation for a station building on the west bound side of the Netherwood stop. He reminded the members that the Jersey Central officials had promised to do something provided it could be shown that the Netherwood business warranted it. It had been ascertained, Mr. Druse, who is an employee of the road, said that during one single day, over 1,000 people alighted or boarded trains at Netherwood. These figures were obtained by a detail of members who kept count.

A. C. Niedermeyer, as president, occupied the chair at the meeting.

AGED NEGRO DIES.

Manning Field, an aged colored man, who had been an inmate of the Industrial Home for several years, died at Muhlenberg Hospital last night. Some time ago he injured his leg, which necessitated amputation about six weeks ago. He was apparently improving when there was a sudden change for the worse. So far as known the dead man had no relatives and the city will arrange for the burial. Field for many years was a gardener.

FIRE DESTROYS VILLAGE HOUSE

New Market Firemen Prevented from Saving Dwelling by Weak Water Pressure.

SOME FURNITURE SAVED

Adjoining House Threatened Until Firemen Devote Their Attention to Wetting It Down—Origin of the Flames Not Known.

A destructive fire, the origin of which is unknown, broke out at 7:15 this morning in the dwelling house of William Norton, on Prospect avenue, New Market. The flames entirely gutted the dwelling. Several of the inmates of the house were in bed asleep at the time the fire started, but they made their way safely out and most of the furniture was saved.

The village fire company, shortly after the alarm was sounded, arrived on the scene and laid two lines of hose, but there was no water pressure and their efforts were unavailing to save the burning building so the firemen mainly directed their efforts to keeping the flames from reaching an adjoining house, in which they were successful.

The Dunellen fire company also responded to the alarm, stretching a line of hose. The fire burned itself out. The damage is estimated at several hundred dollars.

COMPANY K SHOOTS ON SEA GIRT RANGE

Military Practice With Careful Attention to Sighting and Guaging the Wind.

The crack of the Springfield army rifle resounded about Sea Girt yesterday for the first time this season, Company K, of this city, and Companies C, F and I, of Elizabeth, occupying the range. The Elizabeth guardsmen met in the armory about 6:30 o'clock, and, with rifle and light equipment, marched to the Central Railroad station where they boarded a special train leaving for Sea Girt at 7 o'clock, accompanied by the Plainfield company. These companies comprise the first battalion of the Second Regiment, this brigade having been picked to open the Sea Girt target season. The battalion is under command of Major William B. Martin. Members of the Second Regiment will occupy the range the entire week, other battalions following the first battalion.

The target season which opened yesterday will continue until September when the annual shooting tournament of the New Jersey State Rifle Association will be held. All the infantry organizations of the state will engage in practise between now and July, when the batteries, cavalry and signal forces will follow in turn.

The dates assigned to the local troops and all the infantry regiments are much earlier this year than usual. This is because the Second Brigade, of which the Second Regiment is a part, will not camp at Sea Girt this year, but will go to Mt. Gretna, Pa., while the First Brigade will take part in the War Department maneuvres to be held in the neighborhood of New York.

There is every reason to believe that the shooting this year will be superior to that of former years. This time the guardsmen go to Sea Girt for tagret practise and nothing else. Heretofore they were compelled to busy themselves in the routine of camp life, parades, drills, hikes and other features, in the midst of which they were hurried to the range occasionally.

In the practise beginning yesterday the guardsmen will be given careful instructions in the art of shooting. They will have plenty of time to adjust their sights, experiment with the wind guage, and correct all defects that develop as their shots are recorded on the target. It is believed that yesterday's shooting will raise the individual marksmanship of the local marksmen, as well as the standard of the entire regiment.

The ranges are in excellent condition and the work can be carried on with the least possible delay.

SEWING CLASS SOCIAL.

The girls of the sewing class of the North Plainfield High School held their last lesson yesterday afternoon. After sewing, they had a social hour. Those in the class are Helen Woodruff, Mary Bennett, Edna Green, Virginia LaPorte, Emma Ryno. Miss Elizabeth Pound is the teacher.

JACK MARTIN HURT ON CHICAGO DIAMOND

Spiked by Baserunner and Injury Will Keep Him From Game for Weeks.

Chicago, June 11.—Misfortune after misfortune keeps crippling the Highlanders and holding the team back from making the right kind of a showing in the American League race. The injury to Shortstop Jack Martin in yesterday's game is going to keep him out of the line-up for several weeks, for his toe was so badly cut when he was spiked by Weaver at second that it was nearly torn off. Martin is surely in hard luck, for he had just returned after a long absence, having been badly hurt by one of Walter Johnson's "spitters." He just missed death by an eyelash on that occasion.

Manager Wolverton is planning a shakeup in his infield, and it is quite likely that he will do so as soon as he can find the right man to fit into the combination. Manoney is expected to report today and he will be sent to centre field as soon as he comes, for Zinn needs relief. Wolverton is on the lookout for one or two new infielders that will help him out in that department.

DINNER COMMEMORATED RACE FOR REYNARD CUP

A dinner was given last night at the Watchung Hunt Club by R. H. Towner to commemorate the race for the Reynard cup at the Watchung Hunt meet last May. The invited guests were the owners and riders of horses which were entered in the race.

A musical entertainment followed the dinner. Those present were Rufus C. Finch, M. F. H., Henry L. Finch, Jack O'Day, C. W. Holland, Schuyler Casey, J. J. O'Donohue, Lawrence B. Smith, William Palmer Smith, Jr., Marshall Clapp, W. H. Wildey, Stuart Hollis, H. A. Bourne and Lieut. Fred Alpers.

PROMOTING TEMPERANCE WORK IN THE SCHOOLS

Under the auspices of the Scientific Temperance Instruction Department of the W. C. T. U., and for the purpose of promoting interest in that work among the teachers and children of the public schools, a parlor meeting and entertainment was held at the home of Mrs. F. A. Dunham on Madison avenue, last night. There was a large attendance of members of the W. C. T. U. and school teachers.

Several prize essays prepared by pupils of the public schools were read. These essays were selected by the committee in charge of the meeting and were pertinent to the general topic of scientific temperance instruction.

During the evening Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Glover gave vocal selections, Mrs. Thomas MacDonald sang several solos, Miss Edith Hamilton gave piano and whistling solos, and Wendell Glover entertained with piano solos. There was a social hour, during which refreshments were served. Rev. Edwin Shaw, pastor of the Seventh-Day Baptist church, opened the evening's exercises with prayer.

ENTERTAINED BRIDAL PARTY.

Miss May Serrell, of Union street, who will be married this week, entertained the members of her bridal party at a dinner at her home last night, after which there was a rehearsal at the Park Avenue Baptist church, where the ceremony will be performed.

Mrs. Theodore Reynolds, of Orange, has been spending several days with relatives in this city.

BOROUGH REACHES THREE DECISIONS

Net Result of 'Steenth Sewer Conference is Firm Stand by North Plainfield.

RESERVES VETO POWER

Refuses to Build With any Municipality but Plainfield, and Wants 75-25 Basis—Plainfield Officials Evince Weariness Over Discussion.

The conference between the Mayors and Councils of Plainfield and North Plainfield was held last night in the room of the City Council, when there was a further discussion of the sewage question, resolved itself into three definite decisions, as follows:

In the first place North Plainfield will not join with any other municipality except Plainfield; secondly, North Plainfield will only agree that the other municipalities to be taken in shall be on a rental basis, and not as partners; and thirdly, North Plainfield will only enter into a joint enterprise with Plainfield upon a basis which gives the borough a veto power, and divides the cost in proportion of 25 and 75 per cent.

These things being understood, the meeting adjourned at 11:50 o'clock with the feeling apparent on the part of the Plainfield officials that further discussion would be useless.

Councilman W. J. Buttfield, of North Plainfield, who acted as the spokesman for the borough, raised the question of percentage basis in relation to the several towns suggested for the joint sewer proposition, stating that on that basis, which provided that the borough should pay 22 per cent. of the cost, North Plainfield would lose its power to veto future plans that it considered undesirable and was unwilling to agree to any such arrangement.

Mr. Buttfield still favored the idea of submitting all three proposed sites for a sewage disposal works to the State Board of Health and let that body decide which one could be used. It was pointed out to him that by going to the Cramer farm it would cost Plainfield approximately $68,000 more than by going to the Darling farm.

North Plainfield was willing to allow the expense of installing a siphon, whether the Cramer or Darling sites should be chosen, to go into the general budget. As the hour was getting late and little or nothing had been accomplished, several members of the Plainfield councilmen one by one left the meeting and went home. Some of them plainly evinced disgust.

Percy H. Stewart and A. A. Tilney, two of the signers to the petition requesting the Common Council to appoint a committee of twelve representative citizens to investigate the sewerage subject, were present in the interest of that plan, but the Plainfield councilmen did not feel disposed to delegate their powers to such a committee at the present time.

There is to be a meeting tomorrow night when W. Barton Hammond, of the Hammond Iron Company, will present a definite proposition for installing a demonstration plant to operate the electrolytic system. The company proposes to put in this plant and operate it for six months. If it does all that is claimed for it and the system meets with the approval of the State Board of Health, the company, according to its proposition, will expect the city to give it the contract for installing a plant large enough to take care of the whole city.

KEEPING TABS ON THEIR CUSTOMERS' LIABILITIES

The Plainfield Business Men's Association, at its meeting in the Chamber of Commerce rooms, last night, authorized the secretary to procure each week all judgments, chattel mortgages and liens recorded in the office of the county clerk at Elizabeth, for the benefit of the members of the association. The secretary was also authorized to institute several suits against debtors, and the members were requested to report all accounts three months in arrears to the secretary so that proper action may be taken.

The association decided to make the membership fee $5 and the annual dues $2. There are now 135 members in the association, five new ones being elected last night. There was unusual interest in the work being carried on and several members reported that bills of long standing had been settled recently as a direct result of the efforts of the association.

USE OF STOLEN HORSE IS FIXED AT $2 A DAY

Trenton, June 11.—The East Orange District Court has been sustained by the Supreme Court in the rule it adopted for fixing the measure of damage sustained by the loss of the use of a stolen horse. The decision upholds a judgment for $270 obtained by Samuel Black against Thomas Hoy.

Black owned a horse that was stolen from him, which he subsequently discovered in possession of Hoy. Hoy refused to return the horse upon demand, and it was seized in an action of replevin. Hoy gave bonds and retained the animal. The trial court charged the jury that if it found a verdict for Black it might award damages at the rate of $2 a day from October, 1911, for the loss of the use of the horse.

Hoy claimed that Black did not suffer pecuniary loss, so far as profits for use were concerned, and asked the court to charge that the measure of damage was interest on the money expended to replace the horse. This the court refused to do. In upholding the measure of damages of the trial court, the Supreme Court said:

"A horse, either in price or efficiency, cannot be considered in the same light as a machine, the counterpart of which can be procured in the market."

SPECIAL CLASSES FOR CHILDREN BELOW NORMAL

Trenton, June 11.—It is now up to the local school boards throughout the state to comply with the law requiring special classes for children "three years or more below the normal," and the deaf and blind. Following the recent conference at the State House of the State Board of Education with the county and city superintendents, at which this special training was discussed, Dr. Calvin N. Kendall, State Commissioner of Education, has issued a pamphlet on the treatment of sub-normal children in the schools which sets forth the legal requirements, the method of ascertaining what children are below normal, and qualifications for teachers of special classes, etc. This pamphlet has been given wide circulation so that the school authorities throughout the state have been made acquainted with all the requirements for this training.

CONFIRMS 750 AND DEDICATES A CHURCH

Bernardsville, June 11.—Many residents here turned out in large numbers Sunday on the occasion of the canonical visit paid by Bishop McFaul to the Church of Our Lady of Perpetual Help. At the 8 o'clock mass the prelate performed the ceremony of visitation and confirmation. About 150 received the sacrament. At 10:30 the Stirling Band marched to the rectory of the church, followed by a large number of Italian residents of Bernardsville and the Holy Name Society, and escorted the bishop to the new Italian church, which is situated on one of the highest hills of Bernardsville. The bishop dedicated the church, and was assisted by the rector, Rev. Joseph A. Ryan, and many other priests.

The solemn high mass was celebrated by Rev. Father Blossoti, of New York; the deacon was Rev. James Ruvolo, of Brooklyn; subdeacon, Rev. Father Gelassi, of Perth Amboy, and master of ceremonies, Rev. Dr. Griffin, secretary to Bishop McFaul.

The preacher was Rev. Michael Angelo Drachetti, who had just closed a week's mission for the Italians in Bernardsville. After the mass the bishop addressed the congregation and imparted his blessing to all present at the ceremony. The music on this occasion was a special character and under the direction of Rev. Father Antliff, who administers to the Italians. In the afternoon the bishop performed the ceremony of confirmation at the Church of St. Elizabeth, Far Hills.

TAFT IS GIVEN 12 VOTES OF INDIANA

T. R.'s 24 Delegates From California Undisturbed.

CUMMINS IS LOOMING UP.

Sharp Exchanges of Personalities. There Were Protests Against "Steam Roller" and Open Charges of Fraud. Taft's Managers Are Very Confident.

Chicago, June 11.—The Republican national committee awarded the twelve contested delegates from Indiana, including the four delegates at large, to President Taft. The twenty-six delegates from California, except two from the Fourth district, will go to Mr. Roosevelt. This makes eighty-four contested delegates so far decided in favor of President Taft.

The action of the national committee in the Indiana contests was a big victory for the Taft new organization in that state. The Roosevelt people had been declaring all along that it would be a different story from that told in the southern state contests when the contests for the northern states came before the committee, especially Indiana.

Senator Dixon declared that the Roosevelt members in the committee would fight to the death on these Indiana cases. Not only were the Taft delegates at large seated in Indiana, but the Roosevelt committeemen permitted the seating by viva voce votes of the Taft delegates in the First Indiana district, and the Taft delegates in the Third district, while in the Fourth district the Roosevelt contestants did not put in an appearance, and it was announced they had withdrawn. The only contest from Indiana which the Roosevelt committeemen found any merit in at all was over the two delegates from the Thirteenth district, and in this instance the Taft delegates were seated by a vote of thirty-six to thirteen.

Protest on Steam Roller.

The expectation was strong among the Roosevelt forces that the twenty-six delegates from California were to be turned over to the Taft side.

There were sharp exchanges of personalities throughout the day. There were protests against the "steam roller," open charges of fraud in connection with the primaries in Indianapolis and of high handed methods at the Indiana state convention, which was controlled by Taft's followers.

The Taft managers insisted more strongly than ever that the president will be nominated in this convention; that he will have 576 votes easily, which are thirty-six more than are necessary to accomplish their purpose. Most of these Taft managers also declared that Vice President Sherman is to be renominated.

Cummins May Be "Dark Horse."

The first real talk of a "dark horse" to be nominated for president by this convention was started when Senator Kenyon, speaking for Senator Cummins and the Republicans of Iowa, said:

"Iowa stands ready to present a candidate who at least has behind him a harmonious and enthusiastic party in his own state. If Republicans pause long enough to forget their present animosities Albert E. Cummins will be the next president of the United States."

The Taft campaigners were disturbed by Senator Kenyon's talk. They had received word from Washington that Senator Cummins had refused all overtures to enter either the Roosevelt or the La Follette camp. Senator La Follette has thirty-six delegates in this convention and Cummins has ten. These forty-six delegates of La Follette and Cummins may prove interesting factors before the sessions of this convention end.

Taft campaigners believe that ex President Roosevelt is to name a candidate for temporary chairman of the convention from among La Follette's delegation in the state of Wisconsin, thereby hoping to compel La Follette to support the Wisconsin man for temporary chairman.

T. R. Holds Conference.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., June 11.—George Perkins, Frank A. Munsey and Walter F. Brown lunched with Colonel Roosevelt at Sagamore Hill.

Mr. Perkins and Mr. Brown, who is the Roosevelt leader in Ohio, came on for this conference with their chief, and it is understood that they are returning to Chicago today. The result of the conference was not disclosed. Although it has been said that their purpose was to prevail upon their candidate to make an immediate and spectacular entry upon the scene of contest, there is nothing to indicate that Colonel Roosevelt has modified his intentions as given out. He flatly denied any knowledge of a special train held in readiness for his departure. Some of his friends may have ordered a special for themselves, he said, but not he.

Today Mr. Roosevelt is going in to town on an early train. He let it be understood that he would return here this evening.

Nothing in the news from Chicago shook in the least the colonel's equanimity. He emphatically declined to explain the unanimous action of the Republican national committee by which President Taft was credited with the four delegates at large from Indiana.

"I requested Senator Dixon and all my committemen to support no Roosevelt delegates in the contests unless the case was clear. I want no delegate about whom there is any question."

The threat of the Taft majority in the committee to go after his California delegates disturbed him not at all. It was preposterous, he said, to talk of flying in the face of the overwhelming expression of opinion in his favor which was registered in that state. And he seemed amused at the prospect of such an attempt being made by gentlemen "whose political life will be extinguished next Saturday or thereabouts."

"The people wouldn't stand for it," he exclaimed.

SENATE JOINS MOVE TO OUST GEN. WOOD

Accepts Bill Making Him Ineligible as Army Head.

Washington, June 11.—By a vote of 27 to 24 the senate adopted the conference bill report on the army appropriation bill. It modifies radically the law applicable to the army and is regarded as most obnoxious by the friends of the administration and the army. The vote was absolutely nonpartisan, fourteen Republicans and thirteen Democrats voting for the report and eleven Republicans and thirteen Democrats against it.

The amendments to the conference report, around which gathered the greater part of the discussion, provided that after March 4 next no officer of the army who has not had ten years' service in the line before becoming a general officer shall be eligible for designation as chief of staff.

This is aimed directly at Major General Leonard Wood, now chief of staff, and it is the common belief that the idea and even the actual language of the amendment came from Major General Fred C. Ainsworth, who was recently retired by Secretary of War Stimson for using language in his routine work which it was held to be objectionable and unbecoming an officer.

LUNATIC ASLEEP IN PALACE.

Dowager Queen Has Unpleasant Experience Returning From Funeral.

London, June 11.—The dowager Queen Alexandra, returning from the funeral of the King of Denmark, narrowly escaped an unpleasant experience at Marlborough House, which is now her home. Just before her arrival a lunatic, who was formerly a servant in the palace, had to be ejected and turned over to the police. The palace, which is on Pall Mall, was formerly the home of Queen Alexandra when she was the Princess of Wales and was later the residence of the present king and queen.

The man's discovery caused great excitement in the palace because it illustrated the ease with which the house could be entered without arousing the guards. After he was turned over to the police the man was identified as William Wodley, who escaped from Norwich asylum about a year ago. He will be sent back to the asylum as a precaution.

Taft Back From Virginia.

Washington, June 11.—President Taft returned from his trip to Hampton, Va. He left the yacht Mayflower at the navy yard and was driven at once to the White House, where the latest reports on the Cuban situation were in waiting to be placed before him.

Prussian Statesman Dead.

Plainfield, N. J., June 11, 1912.

The people of Plainfield will wish Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss all success and happiness in his new field as president of the College for Women at Anderson, South Carolina. The eminent position to which he has been chosen with its manifold opportunities for literary, executive and generally larger usefulness, is one that will make his labors a pleasure. His more intimate friends are fully cognizant of the fact that the good doctor is singularly equipped to discharge the duties of a college president and will predict great things for the Anderson institution of learning with the scholarly clergyman as its head.

The members of Morristown's Board of Education are much disturbed because they will all be legislated out of office at the end of the present year. Their retirement is made mandatory by the provisions of an act passed by the recent Legislature providing that in incorporated towns of over 10,000 inhabitants the mayors shall be empowered to appoint boards consisting of five members. In Morristown the voters elect the directors of education and many of the residents do not take kindly to the prospects of a change.

The distinguished son of a distinguished sire, George B. McClellan, whose father, General George B. McClellan, once was the chief executive of New Jersey, has stepped into the shoes of the late President Grover Cleveland at Princeton University. The former Mayor of New York will occupy the chair of economic history at the famous old institution, much to the satisfaction of a host of personal and political friends who believe that he has chosen the right sphere for a future career.

In these days when mud-slinging and muck-raking are so popular, some wonder what the country is coming to, but after all personal villification is no worse now than in days gone by. Great newspapers referred to Abraham Lincoln as an "illiterate Western boor," a "slang-whanging stump speaker" and a "fourth rate lecturer who cannot speak good grammar."

Although their campaign has just been begun, the members of Continental chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, report contributions amounting to $800 for the proposed memorial to be placed at Washington Rock. Is your name on the honor roll to be enclosed in the cairn?

All our readers will find real food for thought in the contributed editorial to appear in next Saturday's issue. The editor will be a former member of the city government who retains a deep interest in matters pertaining to the municipality's welfare.

The powerful New York World, whose political editorials are undoubtedly the best of any newspaper in the land, is doing more effective work in one day for Woodrow Wilson's candidacy than the Governor's press bureau can accomplish in a month.

Atlantic City's voters today select the men who will guide that municipality's destinies under the new commission government. There are fifty-four candidates in the field representing all sorts of political belief and affiliation.

Our good old friend, James E. Martine, notwithstanding precedent to the contrary as the senior official, will not have the honor of placing Woodrow Wilson's name in nomination at the Baltimore convention. But we'll wager a big red apple that the junior United States Senator from New Jersey will be heard from on that occasion.

Next Friday will be flag day and in all the public schools the event will be observed as authorized by law. Flag day means a lot when properly considered and there can't be too much instruction about the emblem of liberty and what it represents.

AUTO SPEEDERS IN TOILS OF THE LAW

Youths Arrested in Car Alleged to Have Been Stolen —One Escapes.

Three young men, Robert Kurtzner, of Plainfield; Edward Fitzgerald, of North Plainfield, and George Bowers, of Bound Brook, were arrested by the Somerville police early this morning, on a charge of automobile speeding. Bowers and Fitzgerald were lodged in jail; Kurtzner escaped. Consequent communication with the Plainfield police brought out the fact that the car had been taken from "Dick" Overland's garage on Watchung avenue, and was the property of N. S. Nicolaysen, of Dunellen.

A warrant was sworn out today by Nicolaysen before City Judge William G. DeMeza for the arrest of Kurtzner. The other two young men will be brought here and given a hearing tomorrow morning.

According to Nicolaysen, Kurtzner was formerly employed by him as chauffeur, and often took his car out on his own initiative. Last year he took a party to Flushing, Long Island, Nicolaysen said, and got stranded there, wiring for money to take him home. He forgave him on that occasion on condition that he would not repeat the performance. About a month ago he discharged Kurtzner, and he alleges that it was Kurtzner that broke into the garage and stole the car.

The car when he found it at Somerville was considerably damaged and it woll probably cost $100 to repair. The front springs were broken and the bearings overheated and burned as if it had been driven at high speed. In the car was found a rifle. It was ascertained that Bowers had joined the party at Bound Brook, where the party stopped.

A policeman in Bound Brook, noticing the high rate of speed at which the car was running, called on the chauffeur to stop but his request was unheeded. So he 'phoned ahead to Somerville, where the arrests followed.

Kurtzner, as he jumped from the car, said he was going to get a bucket of water to cool the bearings. This he procured and ordered Fitzgerald to sprinkle it on. Then he remarked casually that he needed cooling and disappeared.

SPOILED HIS DEBUT.

Sullivan Made the Youngster Forget He Was In a Ball Game.

Umpire Billy Evans, one of the greatest story tellers in the big league, recently told an interesting little narrative of how Billy Sullivan, the brainy catcher of the Chicago White Sox, coaxed a recruit Brownie to whiff the ozone. Ed Walsh was flinging for the Sox, and the kid Brownie, who had a reputation as a hitter, made his first appearance at the plate.

"What league are you from, sonny?" asked "Sully" in a kindly tone.

"I've played in the Southern Michigan the last two seasons," responded the youngster.

"Know 'King' Cole. I believe he came from your hustling league?"

"No, Cole was a year ahead of my time."

The call of strike one reminded the young Brownie he was in a ball game.

"I see by the records that you were one of the best hitters in your league," continued Sullivan, not noting the umpire's interruption.

"Yes. I got along pretty well there," continued the busher proudly. "I was hitting over .300 when the Browns bought me."

The umpire called two strikes and the youth looked crestfallen. He suddenly awakened to the fact that he was not paying any attention to Walsh's pitching and made a secret resolve to aim at the next ball.

"Have you any spitball pitchers in your league?" asked Sullivan, totally ignoring the fact that any strikes had been called.

"Not many," answered the juvenile.

"I don't think you will have any trouble making good in this league," "Sully" reassured him. "I like the way you stand at the plate." As the youngster was thinking over this bit of salve the umpire called "Three strikes, you're out!" Sullivan gave the youngster another kindly smile and said: "Don't worry; Cobb, Crawford, Collins, Lajoie and all the boys do that once in awhile. Pleased to have met you." The youngster turned and gave Sullivan a hard look. He opened his mouth to say something, but changed his mind and did a slow Marathon back to the bench. — New York Press.

His Brand of Beauty.

It seems that Governor Wilson has no illusions about his claim to good looks. William Bayard Hale, in World's Work, says that the governor told the people during his New Jersey campaign that they might as well prepare themselves for a busy governor, for the Lord never intended him to be ornamental. "Yes," he remarked once:

"For beauty I am not a star.
There are others handsomer, far.
But my face—I don't mind it,
For I am behind it.
'Tis the people in front that I jar."

A Difference of Opinion.

A friend once asked Uncle Joe Cannon for information as to the prospects of a politician who was at that time generally thought to be "on the ragged edge."

"He seems to think he's getting on all right," said Uncle Joe, "but others entertain a decidedly different opinion. His situation brings to mind the story of the old lady up in Maine. When she was asked as to the whereabouts of her husband the dame replied:

"'If the ice is as thick as Henry thinks it is he is skating; if it is as thin as I think it is he is swimming.'"—Lippincott's.

A Thrifty Scot.

Truly Scottish is the tale of the highlander that was told by Professor Stuart. The professor was making a tour of the land of the thistle, and one blistering hot day in a wild corner of the Pass of Glencoe he came across a fierce looking man, half stripped and reeking with perspiration, who was hurling great bowlders about him like one possessed.

"WHAT ON EARTH IS HE DOING?"

"What on earth is he doing?" asked the professor of another fierce looking Scot, who stood breathlessly by watching the task.

"Hist, mon!" was the awed reply. "Sandy's droppit a fourpenny bit!"

His Treat.

A farmer boy and his best girl were seated in a buggy one evening in town, watching the people pass. Near by was a popcorn vender's stand.

Presently the lady remarked: "My! that popcorn smells good!"

"That's right," said the gallant. "I'll drive up a little closer so you can smell it better."—Everybody's.

—Wigg—"The trouble with Hardupe is that he doesn't meet his obligations." Wagg—"Meet them? He wouldn't recognize them if he did."

IN WOMAN'S REALM

The KITCHEN CUPBOARD

WHAT TO SERVE WITH SOUP.

GARNISHES for soups may be multiplied indefinitely according to the ingenuity of the housewife.

Croutons of bread are most generally served. One way of making these is as follows:

Bread in the Soup.

Croutons.—Cut bread into small cubes, heat some butter in a frying pan, toss the bread in. Shake and turn until the bread is nicely browned.

If the oven is hot the bread can be buttered lightly before cutting and browned in the oven.

An attractive crouton is cut three or four inches in length and about a half inch thick. These may be eaten from the fingers.

When croutons are used the smaller ones should be sprinkled over the plate of soup when it is served, as they lose their crispness if allowed to stand too long.

Eaten From the Fingers.

Toast Strips.—Trim all the crust from a loaf of fresh bread. Now divide the loaf through the center, tearing it apart rather raggedly. Now divide each half, and the quarters are again pulled apart. This makes eight thin frayed looking strips. Place on a flat tin in a hot oven and toast a golden brown.

Sprinkled With Crumbs.

Toasted Crumbs.—Save dry pieces of bread and toast them a golden brown. When toasted crush with a rolling pin and serve in a bowl. Spoonfuls of the crumbs may be strewn over the soup by the individual when it is served to him.

Rich Croutons.

Puff Paste Croutons.—These may be served with chicken soup or with puree of game. The puff paste is cut into squares of half an inch each and baked a delicate brown.

Egg Rolls.—Pass the cooked yolks of two hard boiled eggs through a sieve, mixing in about a tablespoonful of sifted flour. Add a half teaspoonful of melted butter, pepper, salt and enough raw yolk of egg to make a paste. Shape into little rolls, coating these with white of egg and then with flour. Fry in butter till golden brown. Serve with consomme.

Made of Chicken Livers.

Sauted Balls.—To serve with chicken soup balls made of chicken livers are delicious. Take two ounces of the livers, the yolks of two eggs and a quarter of a teaspoonful of finely chopped parsley, with salt and pepper to taste. Saute the livers in butter, pass through a fine sieve, season and mix with the yolks of eggs to make balls. Treat these with egg and breadcrumbs. Saute in butter and drain on paper for use.

Woman's World

First Chinese Girl to Become a Legal Voter.

MISS MYRA LEE.

Miss Myra Lee, a comely Chinese girl, is the first woman of the orient to register as a voter in this country. Miss Lee is an ardent suffragist and will make teaching her life work. First she will teach in a Los Angeles school and later will go to China, probably to Canton, where she will inculcate the principles of woman suffrage, as well as English and literature, into the minds of Chinese children.

Miss Lee, after graduating with honors from the grammar schools of Los Angeles, received a diploma from the Polytechnic high school, specializing in literature. Her father, Lee Kwai Sing, is a wealthy resident of Los Angeles and is on intimate terms with many of the republican leaders in China.

THAT HOMEMADE LOOK.

The Value of the Flatiron In Dressmaking.

Few home dressmakers fully realize the value of the hot iron when making a garment. It is not enough to finish a skirt or a gown and then flatten it here and there at the bulkiest places. The irons should be ready for use throughout the whole making, and the additional trouble will be well rewarded. On thick cloth the seams should be spread out on an uncovered round wooden surface, opened with the iron or finger and then covered with a cloth wrung out of cold water and ironed over this until dry. In this pressing process the iron should not be too hot, but great strength and weight should be put upon it.

Lighter materials should be pressed over a soft cloth laid over the pressing board, and the opened seams should be slightly dampened by dipping the finger tips in water when necessary. Very delicate materials, like crepe de chine, mousseline and satin, do not require damping at all.

Velvet and plush may be pressed by placing the material—with the open seam slightly dampened by the fingers—over the bristles of an ordinary clothesbrush or by setting a hot iron on end and drawing over the face of it the dampened seam on the wrong side of the material.

To make dress material impervious to water spots dip in cold water two muslin cloths large enough to cover the entire width of the material. Lay the dress material between these two cloths with the right side up. Smooth both the material and the muslin cloths with the hands until perfectly flat and press with a hot iron.

Jane Addams to Deliver Address.

Miss Jane Addams of Hull House, Chicago, is the first woman to be asked to deliver the commencement oration at Bryn Mawr college. Miss Addams recently attended the exercises at which the fellowship awards were announced and was unanimously chosen by the board to deliver the oration. Dean Sophonisba P. Breckinridge of the University of Chicago, and Dr. Anna Shaw both took part in the awarding of fellowships. The European fellowships, which are the chief academic honors of Bryn Mawr, were awarded to Norah Cam of Herefordshire, England, and to Frances Allen Foster of Providence, R. I. Miss Cam has held the Maria Hopper fellowship for two years. Miss Foster took her A. B. degree at Brown in 1909, since which time she has been studying in the graduate school of Bryn Mawr, holding a scholarship in English for two years and the fellowship in English for the present year.

Cotton Corduroys.

So many women like the velvet finished corduroys that they will doubtless be glad to see the same weave introduced into the cotton fabrics.

The new spring cotton corduroys much resemble the velvet ones, though they have not, of course, the same brilliant finish. There is the same cordlike weave, however, and the cotton corduroys will doubtless prove as good for hard service as the other members of the corduroy family.

And, being of cotton and nothing to be hurt about them, these new spring fabrics may very easily be washed, which will make them more useful than ever.

—"Have you any references?" asked the lady of the house. "Yes, ma'am; a lot of 'em." "Why didn't you bring them with you?" "They're just like my photographs, ma'am. None of 'em does me justice."—Detroit Free Press.

HOUSEWORK FOR HEALTH.

A College Professor Says Women's Domestic Duties Afford Her the Most Desirable Exercise For Perfecting the Figure.

AN expert in physical culture has been assuring women that they do not realize the blessing of having to do their own housework. When women engage in their household tasks nearly every muscle of the body is brought into play.

This gentleman asserts that—

Nothing is better for the development of the thighs or for the reduction of fat there than running up and downstairs.

No better exercise can be devised for strengthening the chest and straightening the spine than scrubbing the floors on the hands and knees, especially if the left arm as well as the right be used.

Sweeping with a long handled corn broom, if the broom is used on both sides, so that both arms may be used in the same way, furnishes an admirable means of development of the chest and shoulders.

If a carpet sweeper is used instead of a broom the abdominal muscles, as well as those of the back, are brought into action, and the extensor and flexor muscles of the arms are much used.

Working a lawn mower brings the same group of muscles into still more powerful action.

Kneading bread is a specific for a finely shaped forearm.

An hour's work at the washboard is equal to similar efforts with the chest weights as a developer of the upper arms, back and shoulders.

All of which may be true, but housework, like any other exercise, can be regarded only as a beneficial agent when it is not indulged in to excess. Like too much golf or too much tennis or too much of anything else, it may have the very opposite effect from that which is expected.

NEW OUTING DRESS.

One great essential for all exercise is that it should be pleasant, for if it happens to be a distasteful occupation the ill effect on the mind is likely to counterbalance the good effect on the body.

An exercise that does not enable the subject to obtain the benefit of fresh air is not likely to be adopted for the sake of its wholesomeness.

Walking up hill is one of the finest exercises in the world. It is said to be responsible for the springy, erect carriage of the women of hilly countries. Yet no one would deliberately choose a hill for the benefit it might do her figure.

Walking, riding, motoring, golf, tennis and croquet are likely to find their adherents in no way decreased in number because of the learned professor's recommendations of housework. The fact is for most women housekeeping is a business, and for recreation they must naturally look to something else. The house on hot summer days is not the atmosphere most conducive to placid thoughts and pleasant exercise.

One of the charms of the outdoor life is the picturesque garb that is possible in these days. It is responsible for the white outing dress and the vogue of linens, piques, cotton corduroy, linen homespun or duck.

The wash skirt of today that is good looking and fashionable is cut with four gores or with two if one wishes to adopt the ultra narrow skirt of last summer. The majority of women prefer the four gores, but they must be quite certain that the seams are straight and not flaring from the knees and that the hips and spine are smoothly fitted.

The illustration shows one of the newest outing gowns in white linen. The Russian blouse held in at the waist by a patent leather belt is not only attractive, but comfortable.

—Wigg—"How did Henpeckke first meet his wife?" Wagg—"I don't believe he met her. I have an idea she overtook him."

OPERATION FAILED TO SAVE EINSTEIN'S LIFE

Louis Einstein, of 410 Plainfield avenue, who, about three months ago, fell from a building on West Fourth street on which he was working and injured his spine, died at Muhlenberg Hospital at 10 o'clock this morning. There was little hope for Einstein's recovery from the first, but a New York specialist came to Plainfield to operate on another patient at the hospital, and his attention being called to the former, he was also operated upon.

The operation proved of no avail, however. Mr. Einstein is survived by a wife and several children. The funeral and burial will take place this afternoon in the Jewish cemetery at Bound Brook.

CLAN AND ITS AUXILIARY HOLD A JOINT SOCIAL

A joint social was held last night in the Clan rooms at 109 Park avenue by Clan Mackenzie and the newly organized Craigalea lodge, Daughters of Ecotia. More than one hundred members and friends were present also a delegation from Clan Gordon, of Elizabeth and Kearney.

Champion piper James MacIntosh, of the Clan Mackenzie, was present in full Highland costume and played several selections. After a brief business session the evening was opened up to dancing. Piper MacIntosh played the Mackenzies' march composed by himself. In the course of the social John Donaldson made a speech of welcome. Robert Brown took a snap shot of the party.

Several recitations and addresses were delivered by the following "lads and lassies": Miss MacInness, Miss L. Prickett, Miss Carmichael, Miss M. Nelson, Thomas Hendry, Allan Anderson, Arthur Campbell, Andrew Potrie, William MacPherson, John Donaldson, Donald MacInness, Robert Brown. Miss Marill and D. MacPherson played the accompaniments.

PROCTOR'S COMEDY SHOW.

Any person suffering from the "blues" is advised to witness the vaudeville show at Proctor's this week. It is said to be a sure cure. Edward Esmonde & Co., present a burglar sketch, "The Curio Room;" "Happy" Holland, the clever blackface comedian is clever; Mack and Mayne, offer a refined singing act; Pearl Stevens, the banjo girl and Collins and Hawley, eccentric dancers, together with moving pictures completes a fine bill.

AUTO OWNER SUES P. S. R.

Mayor G. W. V. Moy has been retained by Howard McWilliams, of Hillside avenue, in his action against the Public Service Railway for damages to his automobile on Friday morning last, when the machine and an Arlington avenue trolley car were in collision at Park avenue and Fourth street.

—When the ice man comes around his customers take the cake.

The Scrap Book

Hard Hunting.

Frederick Glabe of Chicago, the originator of the free lunch, was once talking to a reporter about new ideas. "They are always misunderstood," he said. "Take hair singeing for example. I was sitting in a barber shop one afternoon at the time when hair singeing first came out, and a middle aged chap with a thin, sparse thatch was having a singe at the hands of the head barber. Two laboring men sat and watched the singe for awhile with awed eyes. The burning taper passed to and fro across the thin, scant crop of hair, and the laboring men couldn't understand it at all. But finally one of them brightened up and, putting his big rough hand to the side of his mouth, he whispered to his companion hoarsely:

"'He's lookin' for 'em with a light.'"

HAVING A SINGE.

What Is Good?

"What is the real good?"
I asked in musing mood.
Order, said the law court;
Knowledge, said the school;
Truth, said the wise man,
Pleasure, said the fool;
Love said the maiden;
Beauty, said the page;
Freedom, said the dreamer;
Home, said the sage;
Fame, said the soldier;
Equity, the seer.
Spake my heart full sadly,
"The answer is not here."
Then within my bosom
Softly this I heard:
"Each heart holds the secret.
Kindness is the word."

—John Boyle O'Reilly.

Followed Her Mistress.

The bride had engaged Sarah, who had been only a week in America, as a housemaid. On her first day her mistress said: "Now, Sarah, I will go over the house with you and show you exactly what you are to do." The bride then kissed her husband and went on her rounds of instruction with the new girl.

The next morning as the bride and her husband were sitting at breakfast the young wife was horrified to see Sarah enter and, blushing furiously, go up to the young man, throw her arms about him and give him a hearty kiss.

THE YOUNG WIFE WAS HORRIFIED.

His Mild Penalty.

Representative Bell of Georgia was showing a rural constitutent about the capitol, and among other places took him into the supreme court room.

"I think we have too many courts," remarked the constituent. "I know what I'm talking about, too, because I happen to be a judge myself—that is, a justice of the peace. Year before last I had a fellow before me for snatching a pocketbook from a helpless girl, and I gave him such a sentence as he deserved, but danged if one of the higher courts didn't undo it all."

"What was your sentence?" inquired Bell.

"I sentenced the blamed cur to be hung," replied the visitor.

She Saw the Joke.

Mrs. Helen Hambidge, the writer, has an English friend who is "a perfectly dear girl," but has no more sense of humor than a clock. Mrs. Hambidge tried some humor on her the other day, but never a smile came. "Then," said Mrs. Hambidge, "I told her an anecdote.

"'Of course,' I said, 'you have heard the old story of the girl from Iceland who was sent to a Harlem flat by an employment agent to do the housework. The mistress asked her to state her accomplishments. She could not cook, it seemed, nor wash dishes, nor do the weekly wash, nor make beds, nor sweep, nor dust.

"'"Then what in the world can you do?" asked the exasperated housewife.

"'"Vell," said the girl shyly, "Ay skoll milk dan reindeer."'

"My English friend looked at me solemnly. I laughed a little in a perfectly ladylike way just to show her that it was really a funny story. So she relaxed.

"'Isn't it odd,' said she, 'what fun they make of Harlem?'"—Herbert Corey in Cincinnati Times-Star.

Keeping Up Appearances.

A typical aristocrat was the first Marquis of Abercorn. He died in 1818, but is still revered in Ulster under the name of "The Ovid Marquis." This admirable nobleman always went out shooting in his blue ribbon and required his housemaids to wear white kid gloves when they made his bed. Before he married his first cousin, Miss Cecil Hamilton, he induced the prince regent to confer on her the titular rank of an earl's daughter, that he might not marry beneath his position, and when he discovered she contemplated eloping he sent a message begging her to take the family coach, as it ought never to be said that Lady Abercorn left her husband's roof in a hack chaise.—"Collections and Recollections."

—Muggins—"Do you think a woman can keep a secret?" Buggins—"Perhaps, but the average woman is woefully out of practice."

In the pocket of the coat were some valuable papers.

FACULTY MIGHTY ON THE DIAMOND

P. H. S. Seniors Take Second Place There as in the Class Rooms.

SCORE WAS 20 TO 14

And a Veracious High School Correspondent Says it Was a Good Game—"Ben" Evans Star Hitter Among Professors.

The Faculty baseball team of the Plainfield High School defeated the Senior class nine yesterday afternoon at Parker Field in the annual game by a score of 20 to 14. This was the best contest that has been played between the teachers and the graduating class for some time as the addition of Mr. Beers and Mr. Doggett to the old Faculty line-up made it a fast aggregation while the Senior nine put up a rattling game.

The Faculty scored in every inning except the eighth. Things looked bad for the Seniors in the fifth period when the teachers had the lead by a score of 15 to 4. The Seniors pulled themselves to this, however, when they came to bat and started a rally which resulted in ten runs. Mr. Doggett, who had been pitching a steady game up to this point was hit freely and allowed two passes in succession. With two men on bases Manley got a two-bagger.

"Ben" Evans led in batting for the Faculty, getting five hits, including a two-bagger out of five trips to the plate.

The Seniors used three pitchers during the contest. All were hit freely. Line started and was relieved by Champlin, who pitched a steady game after the second inning. Veghte followed in the eighth period and finished the game.

O'DAY MAY BE SUCCESS.

Reds' New Leader Fortunate In Picking Up Two Promising Youngsters.

Hank O'Day is very apt to make a success of the Cincinnati team, not because he has any more ability than the man who preceded him in the position, but because the team seems to have filled in the holes which caused its failure in former campaigns.

When the Reds developed Jimmy Esmond into a star shortstop and secured Benton, a left handed pitcher of ability, much strength was added to the aggregation. Clark Griffith had these players during the closing weeks of the last season, and they have undoubtedly improved a lot since then It takes a good ball team to make a good manager, and O'Day seems to be blessed with one.

BASEBALL CLUBS LOOK TO FUTURE

Major League Coin In Many of Minor Circuits.

IS FOR SELF PROTECTION.

Big Magnates Reaching Out For More Profits and New Recruits—Detroit Owner Bought Providence Club Outright Last Winter.

It will not be long before every baseball club in the International league and the American association is controlled by major league promoters. The minor circuits, particularly those in Class AA, are gradually increasing their patronage to such a degree that the big magnates see handsome profits therein. Not only the chance to cut minor league coupons actuates this desire to increase their baseball holdings, but the major fellows also figure that in due time they can develop their own ball players without resorting to the purchase or draft system. Some persons may call such plans greedy, while others may say it is good business policy, but the fact remains that the big magnates are making their influence felt in the smaller leagues.

The International league consists of Jersey City, Newark, Providence, Baltimore, Toronto, Montreal, Buffalo and Rochester.

How many of these clubs are controlled by residents of the cities named? The Jersey City club is owned by J. D. Lillis, an attorney of that city, and Hugh McBreen, formerly business manager of the Boston Red Sox. McBreen purchased a half interest last winter, backed presumably by John I. Taylor, half owner of the Boston American league club. McBreen paid about $10,000 for his share in the club and brought along Janvrin, McHale, Purtell, Mains, Callahan, Killilay and other men who doubtless belong to the Sox and will be "sold back" next summer if their services are desired.

Joseph McGinnity, weary of owning the Newark club, sold a block of the stock last fall to George Salmon of New York city. Salmon is a traveling man; also a fan who discovered Zach Wheat and promptly recommended him to the Brooklyn club. The discovery earned for Salmon the position of chief scout, but he never found another Wheat. It may be a case of friendship or it may be strictly business that President Ebbets of the Brooklyn club has turned over to the Newarks such men as George Bell, Bergen, Zimmerman, Dalton, Ragon and several others. Ebbets never has taken the trouble to deny the report that Salmon bought the stock with major league money.

The Providence club was sold lock, stock and barrel to Owners Yawkey and Navin of the Detroits last winter. The price paid was $75,000, and it is believed that Hugh Jennings has been let into the good thing. Jennings has turned over half a dozen players to Manager Fred Lake.

It has been reported from time to time that Connie Mack of the Athletics has a piece of the Baltimore club. This belief became general when he was reported to have paid $12,000 for Lefty Russell, a pitcher who never has made good with the world's champions. When Mack turned over Lavigne to the Orioles and grabbed Catcher Egan last year many sharks winked knowingly. He has turned over several players to the Monumental City this season.

The New York Americans have no financial interest in the Rochester club, but the managers have close business relations. Wolverton has turned back Osborn to Ganzel, while last fall the latter purchased Walter Blair. A year ago Ganzel secured Hughes and Mitchell from the Highlanders, who later purchased Simmons and McConnell. If Simmons and McConnell do not come up to Wolverton's standard they'll go back to Rochester.

President Brush of the New York Giants does not believe in outside investments, but Manager McGraw prefers to do business with the Toronto club, managed by his old friend Joe Kelley. When McGraw wants to have a player developed he turns him over to Kelley. Tesreau, picked up in Texas a year ago, was groomed in Toronto during last season and has gone back to the Polo grounds looking like the real article.

The Cleveland club is generally recognized as the owner of the Toledo American association club. President Somers of the Naps has financed Toledo for several years, while many Cleveland players have been sent there to have the rough edges smoothed.

Charles Webb Murphy of the Chicago Cubs denies that he is behind the Louisville American Association club, and President Grayson corroborates him. But the fact is that these clubs have frequently exchanged players. Jack Pfeister, for instance, was recently turned over to the Cubs by the Kentucky magnate. If the inside machinery in other Class AA clubs could be disclosed it is believed that major league magnates would be found to be more than casually interested—the old story of wheels within wheels.

HAS TEAM OF GIANTS.

Columbus, Ga., Boasts of Its Big Ball Players.

The team at Columbus, Ga., claims to be the real roost of giants and challenges any club in the land to show its equal in average longitude. Manager Fox is six feet five inches; Catcher Krebs, six feet one; his brother, one of the all round men, is six feet two; Pitcher Morrow is six feet four, and Shortstop Ward is six feet three and one-half inches.

Five other men of the team are just at the six foot mark, and the average of the whole club would be on the Larry McLean order but for Second Baseman Breyette, who is only five feet six and one-half inches.

JOHNSON LIKES HARD WORK.

Washington's Star Pitcher Is Never Idle While on Ball Field.

Walter Johnson, the Washington Americans' star pitcher, is one of the few ball players who need no watching or instructions about getting into right condition. He is a very hard worker, but is very careful of his arm. He works that out at regular periods, but he is never idle at other times. If he is not chasing flies in the outfield he is batting out fungos.

Johnson believes that a pitcher should be in the best possible condition. He argues that it is quite a strain to pitch through an entire game and that unless the physical condition of the pitcher is what it ought to be his arm is sure to weaken, if it is not permanently injured.

To Inspect Pitching Boxes.

The raised pitchers' boxes in all major league cities will be inspected from time to time this year, as the rule-makers believe that a reform is necessary. The inspection will be left to Umpires Connolly and Emslie, members of the joint rules committee, who will report in the fall.

HERE'S A PITCHER WHO PERFORMS IN BARE FEET.

How would you like to root for a ball team, Mr. Fan, which carries a pitcher who works in the box without his shoes or stockings?

Montgomery of the Southern league had such a hurler last season whose name was Deacon Davis. He was located in the bushes, and in his first game he removed his shoes and stockings, explaining that he always pitched that way. Of course the fans gave him a merry time of it, and the poor fellow had to go back to the jungles.

ATHLETES TAKE ON WEIGHT.

Get Fat When Aboard Ship, and Olympic Team's Condition Is Problem.

One of the most perplexing problems that confronts the men interested in maintaining America's supremacy in the coming Olympic games is that of keeping the Yankee athletes in condition during the voyage from this continent to Europe.

The greatest danger to a sea going athlete is that of gaining too much weight. Some of the American athletes who visited Athens in 1906 gained as much as fourteen pounds during the trip from New York to the largest city in Greece. On that trip fully 40 per cent of the men who started from New York on the Barbarossa in fine condition were no good athletically when they reached Athens. Some were hurt, and others got sick with a disease resembling mumps, but the majority of those who failed to perform up to their standard in the Grecian games were simply too fat.

STRUNK A SPEEDY BOY.

Athletics' Utility Outfielder One of Fastest Men In American League.

Amos Strunk, who played left field for the Athletics during Bris Lord's absence, is one of the fastest men in the league.

Mack has been carrying this youngster for several years, and he has gradually improved to such an extent that it is possible he may become the regular left fielder before the season is half over.

Coast to Coast Walk Planned.

Willie Hayes, brother of the famous Johnny, and Sergeant Julian W. Murphy of the coast artillery have planned a walk from New York to San Francisco. They will walk in heavy uniforts and will cook their own meals. The start will be made on May 20, and the walkers expect to reach the coast on Oct. 1.

FLIPPANT PEEPER GOES TO JAIL FOR THIRTY DAYS

Westfield, June 11.—A man who said he was Samuel R. Thomas was before the recorder Sunday morning, charged with annoying the people of Lawrence avenue by going upon porches and peering in windows. He seemed to be in a rather flippant mood and told the court that he "had no home to speak of." Several times the court requested him to explain why he went on the porches and looked in the windows. He finally answered:

"How can a gentleman explain anything to a dam fool?"

To which the court replied: "I will try to show you. Thirty days in the county jail."

As the court officer led him away, Thomas remarked: "Gee, he's done it all right."

WARSHIPS ANCHOR IN HAVANA HARBOR

Gomez's Emissary Makes Call on Secretary Knox.

TOLD "NO INTERVENTION."

Incident of Attack Upon American Marines Minimized at State Department. Battleships Sent to Protect Americans Who Are Fearful of Disorder

Washington, June 11.—It is not the policy of the United States to intervene in Cuba. Secretary Knox so informed the speaker of the Cuban house of representatives. The warships Rhode Island and Washington are at anchor in Havana harbor.

In conference with Osteros Ferrarra, speaker of the Cuban house, who has come here as the personal representative of President Gomez, Secretary Knox listened to a presentation of the Cuban view of the situation in that republic. Mr. Knox then declared that the United States is not now contemplating intervention in Cuba, but hopes and believes the Cuban government will, by prompt and active measures, be able to suppress the insurrection.

The battleships were sent, the secretary explained, solely to provide some place and means of safety and protection for Americans and other foreigners in the event of disturbances that might seriously menace their safey.

Speaker Ferrarra said his mission in Washington was to lay the situation before the Washington government in the light in which it is viewed by the Cuban government. The speaker then sketched conditions in the island, drawing a much softer picture than has been presented to the state department through other channels.

To Talk Again With Knox.

Beyond the declaration of policy by Mr. Knox, nothing definite resulted from the conference. Speaker Ferrarra will return for further talks with Secretary Knox within a day or two. The report of the attack upon Company A of the marines at El Cuero was the only disturbing item in the day's grist from Cuba. There were no casualties among the marines, and the rebels were repulsed, according to dispatches received here. Only about 100 shots were fired.

Startling as the fact that American arms have been attacked, the incident did not cause even a flutter when communicated to the state department. Not a word was vouchsafed indicating any opinion in official quarters that the incident called for any departure from the present policy of nonintervention.

Though great excitement seems to exist in Cuba there has been in the last few days very little disorder or violence, according to state department advices.

POLICE QUELL RIOT AT DINNER TO FLEET

Strong Arm Squad Quickly Routs Striking Waldorf Waiters.

New York, June 11.—A demonstration by the striking waiters, who gathered in front of the Waldorf-Astoria while the dinner to the officers of the German fleet was in progress, was put down with ease by Lieutenant Becker and a strong arm squad of sixteen. The patrol automobile was kept in constant motion between the hotel and the police station.

There were six general engagements between the strong arm men and the waiters, which resulted in the arrest of strikers in groups ranging from ten to forty-two. Adding to these the stragglers who were arrested in twos and threes throughout the evening the total was close to 100.

Because of the danger of serious embarrassment to the city, if the strikers should interfere with the dinner to the guests from the German fleet, Commissioner of Police Waldo ordered a strong guard to be maintained at the Waldorf-Astoria. Forty uniformed police and thirty plain clothes men under Captain McElroy patrolled the hotel. It looked as if these precautions were more than justified. The striking waiters marched by hundreds past the hotel.

PRINCE HENRY HERO.

PRINCE IS A LIFE SAVER.

Quick Action on Moltke Rescues Imperiled Women and Children.

New York, June 11.—Prince Henry of Reuss, the democratic young lieutenant of the Moltke, proved that he was as quick a commander as he was worthy descendant of an ancient duchy. By his personal orders, given instantly and with firm decision, the lives of many women and children were taken from jeopardy.

An overloaded "bumboat" containing six men, fifteen women and several babies swung alongside the Moltke's gangway in the stiff tide that was running down river. Prince Henry, who had been on his post as junior officer of the deck, was standing by the rail. He saw the bow of this boat swing under the lower step of the gangway and begin to be pressed down by the strength of the tide.

The water had begun to come in over the bow of the heavily laden boat when the prince himself rushed half way down the ladder, yelling in English to the boatman to reverse his engine. Then he called to two of the Moltke's seamen, who were standing at the foot of the steps, to fend off the boat with their boathooks. His quick action prevented a catastrophe.

EIGHT FOUND SLAIN; SEARCH FOR LUNATIC

Prominent Man's Family and Visitors Are Victims.

Villisca, Ia., June 11.—Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Moore, their four children and two young women visitors at the Moore home were found murdered, their heads being literally chopped to pieces with an ax. The crime was discovered when neighbors called at the Moore home on an errand.

There is no clew to the murderer, but the authorities believe the crime was committed by the supposed insane man who several months ago perpetrated similar crimes in Colorado, Kansas and Illinois. Bloodhounds have been placed on the scent.

The visiting girls were the Misses Stillingers, one nineteen, the other twenty years old. They lived in the country near Villisca. Moore was the most prominent citizen in the county. He had lived in Villisca all his life and conducted a big implement store.

THROWN FROM CARRIAGE.

Califon, June 11.—A horse hitched to a buggy driven by John Hockenbury, accompanied by his son, Harvey, twelve years old, of Johnstown, took fright at the Wilson J. Apgar farm, near Cokesbury, and ran away. The occupants were thrown to the road and severely bruised. The animal ran toward Lebanon, where it was caught by Wesley Brown.

THREW BACK SOME FISH BUT NOT QUITE ENOUGH

Stanhope, June 11.—Daniel J. MacDonald, of Hackettstown, fell into the enemy's hands after a fishing trip on Lake Musconetcong Saturday. When about ready to quit for the evening two other fishermen rowed near him and asked what luck he had. Mac Donald replied that he had a pretty good string, but he had to throw a number back, as "you know how the blamed fish laws and wardens are nowadays."

Mac Donald, however, had several pickerel on his string that measured less than twelve inches, and the men in the boat happened to be John J. Park, fish warden of Hunterdon, and W. E. Young, fish warden of Morris county. They brought Mac Donald before Justice Isaac Kinnicut, who fined him $40 and costs, which he was unable to pay. He was placed in the lock-up and unless his fine is forthcoming he will have to go to Morristown for ninety days.

PRINCETON GETS BIG GIFT OF LAND

One Hundred and Seven Acres From Nine Friends.

CHANGES IN THE FACULTY

George B. McClellan, Former Mayor of New York, Now Professor of Economic History—Annual Sophomore Reception Is Elaborate Function.

Princeton, N. J., June 11.—After the commencement meeting of the board of trustees of Princeton university it was announced that nine friends of the institution had together presented the university with 107 acres of land on the north side of Carnegie lake. The gift will make a notable addition to the Princeton grounds. The cash gifts for endowment totaled $95,206, the trustees announced, and $31,105 for current expenses. The class of '87 has notified the trustees that it will give $35,000 for the erection of a boathouse on Carnegie lake.

Commencement time brings many changes in the faculty. George B. McClellan, former mayor of New York, is promoted from lecturer on public affairs to professor of economic history. He will assume his new duties in September.

The annual sophomore reception, the most elaborate social function of the year, was held in the gymnasium, which was decorated with bunting and masses of flowers. There were 250 guests. Just before the opening of the dance the sophomore committee made public an order forbidding the "turkey trot" and other banned dances.

The list of patronesses included Mrs. Andrew Carnegie, Mrs. J. S. Morgan, Mrs. Charles Scribner, Mrs. C. L. Blair, Mrs. C. H. Lodge, Mrs. Parker D. Handy and Mrs. Archibald L. Russell. Among those who attended the reception were Mrs. John Grier Hibben, Mrs. Cyrus McCormick, Mrs. Henry van Dyke, Mrs. George A. Armour, Mrs. Robert Garrett and Mrs. Henry J. M. T. Finney.

Princeton was officially in the hands of the class of '12, President Hibben said, when he opened the Class day exercises in the morning, and this was the order of the day.

Missed Footing and Is Thrown Under Car.

New Brunswick, N. J., June 11.—James M. Burns of this city was instantly killed on the Pennsylvania railroad at Metchuen station as he was about to board a train for this city.

He was thirty-eight years of age and was formerly employed by the New York and New Jersey Telephone company as lineman, but had been out of employment for several months. He jumped for the step, but missed his footing and was thrown by the train against the guard rail and back under the train.

TURKEY TROT KILLS WOMAN.

While Practicing Dance She Bursts Blood Vessel.

Atlantic City, N. J., June 11.—It became known that the death of Mrs. Agnes Day was caused by the turkey trot.

She saw the dance at one of the pier reports and next day tried to show the movements to other members of her family. This excited much laughter. Suddenly she straightened up and complained of a pain in her side. She had burst a blood vessel and died in a few minutes.

Camden Boy Drowned In Creek.

Mount Holly, N. J., June 11.—Playing on the boat landing, Herbert Durand, ten years old, son of Mrs. Ida Durand of Camden, fell into the Rancocas creek here and was drowned. George Hults, a small boy, was the only person to witness the accident. The body has not been recovered.

"The number of people in this country who make use of Life Insurance as a means of saving exceeds the total number who avail themselves of all the other recognized modes of thrift. Thus if we add together the nine millions of savings bank depositors, the seven millions of persons who own their own homes, the two million building and loan society stockholders, and the million and three-quarters of corporation stockholders, we shall have, not reckoning duplications, not more than twenty millions of investors, whereas the number of persons who hold policies, Ordinary and Industrial, in life insurance companies, exceeds twenty-eight millions." --Moody's Magazine

ESSEX ROOSEVELT DELEGATE FORFEITS RIGHT TO SEAT

Newark, June 11.—Through his failure to file his personal financial statement within the five days allowed by law, President Edmund B. Osborne, of the Progressive Republican League of New Jersey, has forfeited his seat in the Chicago convention as a Roosevelt delegate from the Tenth District of this state.

The Roosevelt forces are taking it for granted that the disqualification of Mr. Osborne throws the place of delegate to one of the alternates in the Tenth District, and Harold J. Howland, of Verona, has been selected to sit in Mr. Osborne's place.

The corrupt practices act, however, is obscure on the matter of who is qualified to serve as delegate. It would cause no surprise in case two or three votes may decide the convention choice one way or the other if the Taft forces raised the contention that Osborne's failure to qualify gave the place of delegate to the Taft candidate.

BUSY WEEK-ENDS FOR ROAD COMMISSIONER

Trenton, June 11.—For the purpose of gathering the necessary data as the basis for establishing the system of state highways authorized by the last Legislature, State Road Commissioner Edwin A. Commissioner Stevens has asked the county engineers to prepare for him maps showing the location and plans of county roads and of the improved township and borough roads, also the location and description of all bridges on the public roads.

Dr. B. VanD. Hedges returned today from Spring Lake.

Mr. and Mrs. Everett Colby, of Orange, have been visiting relatives and friends here for a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. D. N. Groendyke and Mrs. John Gray Foster, of Mercer avenue, have gone to Magnolia Mass., for the summer.

HOSPITAL BOARD'S ANNUAL SESSION

Meeting Marks the Close of a Year of Activity and Development.

PRESIDENT RE-ELECTED

Increased activity, attendant on increased demands for service, marked the year 1911 at Muhlenberg Hospital. That part, familiar enough to the public through the recent campaign for contributions, was again emphasized by the report of President George P. Mellick at the annual meeting of the Board of Governors.

The medical report for the month also showed the steadily increasing call on the hospital facilities. The total "patient days treatment" again reached a record figure. The report showed 48 patients remaining in the hospital on May 1 and 97 patients admitted during the month, or a total of 145. Eighty-four were discharged cured, and 13 improved; 3 patients died. The total patient days treatment for the month was 1,512, the largest in the history of the hospital. The free ward treatment amounted to 41 per cent.; pay ward treatment 38 per cent.; private room treatment 17 per cent.; free isolation ward treatment 3 per cent.; endowed bed treatment 1 per cent. In the dispensary 144 patients were treated and 276 visits were made. In all departments during the month there were 289 patients treated. There were 11 ambulance calls, and 10 patients treated in the tuberculosis pavilion.

The election of officers and committees for the coming year resulted as follows: President, George P. Mellick; first vice president, P. H. Stewart; second vice president, H. L. Hall; secretary, J. P. Stevens; treasurer, J. E. Erickson; executive committee as follows: F. J. Hubbard, E. H. Ladd, H. W. Marshal, P. H. Stewart, John M. Whiton, Mrs. John Gray Foster, Mrs. Frank D. Warren; finance committee, Louis K. Hyde, J. W. DeGraff, C. W. McCutchen, Henry A. McGee; printing and press committee, Leighton Calkins, S. D. Lounsbery; auditing committee, E. H. Booth, Herman Schwed; insurance committee, John M. Whiton; special committee on City Contracts, Herman Schwed.

On the recommendation of the Executive Committee an agreement was entered into with the Dental Society for the establishment of a Dental Clinic at the hospital.

President Mellick's report in full is as follows:

"The past year has been one of accomplishment and progress for Muhlenberg Hospital. In reviewing the list of patients cared for during the year, we find there has been an increase in the number of admissions, a total of one thousand seven hundred and seventy-five having received care and treatment in all departments, an excess of one hundred and seventy-five over the previous year; seven hundred and ninety-five operations were performed in the hospital during the year, an increase of one hundred and fifteen. Total patient days treatment fifteen thousand four hundred and seventy-three, an increase of two thousand one hundred and sixty-eight. Of this number, seven thousand seven hundred and sixteen were free days treatment.

"The large number of free patient days represent to a great extent the amount of work done for the poor of the City of Plainfield. After a number of conferences between the finance committee of the Common Council and representatives of the Board of Governors of Muhlenberg Hospital, a contract which promises to be very satisfactory, was entered into between the city and the hospital, by which for the balance of the year 1912, the city will pay $1 per day for medical and $2 per day for contagious cases.

"A number of improvements have been made in the hospital to add to the convenience of operation during the past year. An ice plant has been installed, which is now in active operation; the exterior woodwork of the administration building has been repainted; the interior of the Nurses' Home decorated and other improvements made.

"All electric light fixtures in the hospital, Nurses' Home and isolation ward have been taken down and installed and replaced in a satisfactory condition.

"The ambulance service has been improved, by discontinuing the arrangement which existed for many years in having the ambulance cared for at a public stable in Plainfield; the city having agreed to have the ambulance placed at the police station, and since this change was made the service has been much more prompt and satisfactory. Ambulance

HIS CONGREGRATION WANTS DR. M'CREA ANOTHER YEAR

At the first quarterly conference of the Emery M. E. church, Jersey City, last night an unanimous call for the return of Rev. Dr. A. C. McCrea was extended amid much enthusiasm. This vote of confidence and expression of esteem for the pastor is considered an unusual honor coming as it did at the first instead of the last quarterly conference as customary.

Rev. Dr. McCrea, who was formerly pastor of the First M. E. church here, thanked the congregation and assured the conference that subject to the confirmation of the bishop at the next Newark conference he would accept the call. Under his ministrations the rich and influential Emery church has had a remarkable career.

TEMPERATURE REPORTS FROM STATE TRUST CO.

The State Trust Company has erected on its clock post a large self registering thermometer, so that when extreme temperature is experienced, be the season summer or winter, the passer-by may learn just how hot or cold it is right in the business section. This thermometer will be quoted from by the Daily Press each day as official temperature of the business district.

As a rule "official temperature" means not the temperature that ordinary mortals experience on the street but the temperature high up in some tall office building, where the refreshing breezes blow, and where the weather man never knows what it is to be really "hot." The State Trust Company deserves credit for its continued enterprise and it is certain that the public generally will appreciate this additional convenience.

HOUDON'S DARK SEANCE FOLLOWED BY EXPLANATION

The "great Houdon," man of mystery, entertained another large audience at the Y. M. C. A., last night, and the program proved to be of greater interest than the previous one. Houdon gave a series of dediumistic demonstrations of an exceedingly mystifying character, after which he explained and fully exposed the method by which he accomplished his seemingly supernatural work.

The audience enjoyed the entertainment. In his expose Houdon proved his cleverness and skill beyond cavil. He will remain in the city for several days, and it is possible that he may give another entertainment before his departure.

COMMISSION WILL INSPECT ICE CO. DAM

Corporation Says Barrier is Safe But Will Improve It —Officials at Hearing.

Mayor Robert Clark, Jr., Councilman L. B. Woolston and Borough Engineer H. C. VanEmburgh, representing North Plainfield; W. deLa. R. Anderson, of North Plainfield Township, and J. Worth Coddington, Harrison Coddington and Patrick McDonough, of the Plainfield Ice Company, appeared before the State Water Commission at Trenton, yesterday, in reference to the condition of the dam at Watchung Lake.

It was the contention of the borough representatives that the dam is unsafe and should not be allowed to remain in its present condition. It was pointed out that it is a dirt dam and that the cement covering the stillway is cracked, it being possible to run a stick four of five feet between the cracks. It was also shown that the natural outlet from this lake is the borough. The lake covers about 2,000 acres.

The representatives of the ice company, while claiming that the dam is safe, informed the commission that it was willing to do anything to meet the requirements tending to greater safety. The Commission informed the delegation that it would visit Watchung next Tuesday morning at 11 o'clock and personally inspect the dam.

C. O. S. HAS UNUSUAL DEMAND FOR RELIEF

Heroic Mother Must Have Artificial Teeth or She and Family Will Suffer.

A somewhat unusual case of need which the Charity Organization Society brings to the attention of the public, in its monthly report, is that of a delicate woman, the mother of five children. This poor woman has made an heroic struggle against ill-health. Lack of proper support has added to her burdens but she has kept her family together and the children are beautiful examples in health and cleanliness of what a mother's care can do.

One more calamity now threatens the mother, the main-stay of this family. Her teeth, long neglected, and the cause of great suffering and additional ill-health, must all be removed. Artificial teeth will, of course, have to be provided. This luxury, which is more a necessity, will cost, through the kindness of a local dentist, only $25. But until this amount can be raised the poor mother must continue to suffer and allow her general health to become further impaired. Anyone interested, should telephone 103.

The month of May showed the natural tendency for this time of year in a falling off of applications at the Charity Society. There were 100 cases of distress being dealt with May first, and but 87 June first. 263 persons called for assistance of some kind during the month and 309 persons called to consult with the secretaries about matters of relief.

The secretaries made 459 visits and 372 letters were written in the office, showing that the work keeps up whether the number of applicants falls off or not. 323 Babcock building is a busy place from 9 to 5, outside of the relief activities. 80 persons met there during May for committee work. Among others 12 volunteers visited 17 families. These friendly visitors also had two talks given them during the month, one by Dr. Hughes on tuberculosis and one by Dr. Murray on the Board of Health.

The relief secured during May totaled $261.79. Of this, $108 was for board, $43.51 for milk, $27.97 for clothing. $11.56 was spent for provisions, about one-quarter of what is given for provisions in winter months.

MIDSUMMER FESTIVAL.

The Ladies' Auxiliary of St. Mary's parish will hold their annual midsummer strawberry festival and dance on Friday evening. The committee, with Mrs. Linke as chairman, are making preparations to make it the "biggest success ever." The T. A. B. fire and drum band will be in attendance and play several selections and afterwards will take part in the dancing, the music for which will be furnished by Suhr's orchestra.

TENNIS AT P. C. C.

The women's singles in tennis for the club championship of the Plainfield Country Club will be started Monday, June 17, at 10 a. m. Entries will close Saturday night at 8 o'clock with Miss Barbara Fleming, telephone 638-W.

CAPIAS SERVED ON CLARENCE B. BROKAW

Deputy Brings Paper From Elizabeth in Connection With a Civil Suit.

Clarence B. Brokaw, of 147 East Fourth street, was served with a civil warrant known as a capias last night by Deputy Sheriff Harris, of Elizabeth. The local police profess ignorance of the cause leading to the arrest, but it is understood that the capias was sworn out in connection with a civil action. The sheriff's office at Elizabeth also professed to know nothing of the history of the action taken against Mr. Brokaw.

A number of weeks ago Mr. Brokaw figured in an automobile accident in Elizabeth, in which a woman pedestrian was injured. The Elizabeth police, after investigation at that time, concluded he was not to blame.

He was released, it is understood, today on a substantial bond. Winfield S. Angleman is Mr. Brokaw's counsel, but he was out of town when efforts were made to obtain a story of the case.

Emma E., Ethel and Frances Fitz Randolph, of Philadelphia, and Wilson Fitz Randolph, of Jersey City, were ribbon-bearers. The best man was Fred K. Armstrong, of North Plainfield. The wedding march was played by Miss Frances J. Nimmo, of Jersey City, an intimate friend of the bride.

SCHOOL BUYS LAND.

The tract of land, 50x200, adjoining the Groszmann School, now known as Herbart Hall, which was owned by the Mary E. Holton Estate, was sold today to The National Association for the Study and Education of Exceptional Children, which conducts Herbart Hall. This was the last parcel of land held by the estate for sale, and as it was of more value to the above association than anyone else, the latter arranged to purchase it. The consideration is not known.

SALVATIONIST HAS THREE MEN ARRESTED

Capt. Hewitt Charges Trio With Rowdyism on Trolley Car—Hearing Friday.

Captain Samuel Hewitt, of the Salvation Army, called at police headquarters yesterday afternoon and complained that three strangers on the trolley car coming from Somerville to Plainfield had been acting in a rough manner and jostling the passengers. With a description of the trio, Sergeant Flynn went after and located them on East Front street, where he rounded them up and held them until the patrol wagon arrived.

The arrest caused some excitement on the street as the strangers were respectably dressed, and there was no apparent cause for their apprehension.

On being arraigned before City Judge William G. DeMeza this morning the names given were: Michael Malone, of Jersey City; Thomas O'Brien, Elizabeth, and Edward Casey, Newark. Although Malone said he lived nine years in Jersey City, and O'Brien seven years in Elizabeth, they were unable to tell who the mayors of each city were when questioned by the City Judge. Casey demanded to be represented by counsel and the others likewise, and in compliance with their wish they were each held in $500 bail for hearing on Friday morning.

EXHIBIT OF MANUAL WORK AT THE P. H. S.

How Pupils Are Taught to Use Their Hands in Diverse Ways.

The annual manual arts and drawing exhibit at the Plainfield High School opened in the gymnasium of the school yesterday afternoon. The exhibit this year, larger and more complete than in the preceding years, includes work in drawing under the direction of Miss Anna Bennett, domestic science under the supervision of Miss Mildred Parker, dressmaking taught by Miss Caroline Frame and metal work and jewelry taught by Miss Mary Decker. Charles B. Bostwick is the supervisor of manual arts at the High School and has charge of the wood turning and manual training.

The drawing includes perspective work, still life, illustration and book illustrating, work in posing figures, and landscapes in water color. This year there is also an exhibition of dressmaking design.

Another new feature of the exhibit is the work in jewelry which includes the making of rings, watch fobs and hat pins which are all attractively set with stones.

The work by backward pupils in the Whittier School is also an interesting exhibit and includes work in woodworking, basketry and chair caining. These pupils, under direction of Miss Johnson, spend nearly one-half their time on manual training work. More classes of this character will be started next year.

The exhibit will be continued this afternoon and evening and an added attraction will be the wood turning department at work.

The manual training exhibit includes work of all grades and is very interesting. The High School work in wood turning, shaving bowls and hat racks and other pieces and the work of the girls in dressmaking from patterns is more advanced this year. This exhibit is opened to the public.

FANWOOD READY TO JOIN IN SEWERING

Citizens Voice Their Feelings at Mass Meeting—Plainfield Officials Present.

Mayor G. W. V. Moy, Councilman F. L. Holt and Street Commissioner A. J. Gavett attended a citizens' meeting at Fanwood, last night, to discuss the sewage problem. The meeting was arranged by the Fanwood Council for the purpose of getting an expression of opinion of the electoráte.

The sentiment was in favor of joining with Plainfield in a trunk sewer, but it was agreed that nothing definite could be done until an official estimate of the cost of piping Fanwood and Scotch Plains is obtained, as well as the cost of connecting the towns with the point of juncture in Plainfield. However, a viva voce resolution was passed in which Fanwood decided to take the first step in securing plans and estimate of cost.

The Plainfield officials went over the situation craefully, making suggestions and answering questions pertinent to the subject. There did not seem to be a dissenting voice to the general proposition and the Plainfielders were given to understand that Fanwood and Scotch Plains would be glad to join with the city in solving the sewage problem.

A sewage committee comprising Mayor W. H. Hoard, Dr. F. W. Westcott, A. I. Nichol, F. W. Cressy, Spencer Tallmadge and A. D. Beeken was appointed to attend the conference to be held in Plainfield tonight, at which it is expected there will be representatives from Dunellen and North Plainfield. This is the conference adjourned from Wednesday night of last week.

END COMES TO TIMBO'S PLACE

Restaurant, Widely Known Throughout This Section of Jersey, Closes its Doors.

ASSIGNMENT EXPECTED

"Tommy" Timbo Has Been Host to Widely Known Men in Eating Rooms on North Avenue—No Plans For Future.

Timbo's restaurant on North avenue, one of the best known places of its kind in this section of the State, was closed, last night, and it is expected that an assignment will be made today by Thomas Timbo, the proprietor. The closing of the widely-known eating place is a source of regret to many friends of the proprietor.

Since 1897, when Mr. Timbo first engaged in the restaurant business, his eating rooms have been a popular meeting place for men more or less prominent in city affairs. For a long time politicians found it a handy place to gather from time to time and on more than one occasion Mr. Timbo has entertained distinguished guests from all parts of the State. It is not likely that the place will be reopened by Mr. Timbo.

When "Tommy" Timbo first came to Plainfield as a young man he engaged in the selling of New York newspapers and in time he saved a substantial sum of money. In 1897 he and Erwin Neighbor decided to open a restaurant. For a short time this was located where F. M. Wagner now conducts a newsstand. A little later they removed to Woolston & Buckle's building, a few doors away, where the business was continued until last night.

Mr. Timbo also conducted a fruit and candy store on Watchung avenue and this has also been closed. He says that he has no plans for the future.

STONE-THROWING BOYS BROUGHT BEFORE JUDGE

Pasquale Lacaviello, of 313 Cottage Place, had John Long, of 823 George street; Fred Hoffmeister, 248 Jackson avenue; Vincent Stebor, of 914 George street; Irving Wahl and George O'Brien arraigned on a charge of throwing stones at him as he was passing in his wagon. Lacaviello stated that one of the stones had hit him on the shoulder and another narrowly missed hitting a two year old baby that he held in his arms. Long admitted to having hurled the stones but denied any intention of trying to hit Lacaviello. He was only having a "shy" at the wagon. It was decided to have the boys brought before Major Irwin, the probation officer, on Saturday morning. The case of the three boys arrested for bicycle thefts was adjourned until Saturday morning. John Walsh, of Chestnut Place, was discharged on a suspended sentence after giving assurance that he would provide for the maintenance of his family.

CYCLIST HIT BY AUTO DIES OF HIS INJURIES

Perth Amboy, June 12.—Owen Revell, who was run down by an automobile while riding a wheel at Ford's Corner, May 31, and seriously injured, died yesterday at the City Hospital here. Oscar Schonerstidt, driver of the auto, who had not been arrested, was taken from his bed by the police and locked up at police headquarters on a charge of manslaughter. Later he was removed to the county jail at New Brunswick to await the action of the grand jury.

Schonerstidt, who is employed in a garage, picked up Revell after the accident and hurried him to the hospital, despite the injured man's protest that he was not seriously injured. Schonerstidt then reported the accident to the Perth Amboy police and was allowed to go.

Revell's injuries were at first thought trifling, but were soon found to be serious, although it was not believed until Monday that they would prove fatal.

SUMMIT WILL SPEND $2,000 ON SANE FOURTH

Summit, June 12.—Further plans were made at the meeting of the committee that is arranging for a "safe and sane" celebration of July 4. It was decided to invite every merchant in the city to have his business wagon or wagons appear in the parade in the morning of that day. The wagons are to be decorated, and for the best decorated vehicle the committee will offer a prize. City Clerk Frederick Kentz was named to take up the subject with the business men.

Chairman Thomas B. Adams appointed the following special committee: Finance, H. H. Johnson, T. E. Kaley, Norman Schultz, Carroll P. Bassett, T. N. Waterman and C. J. Canda; publicity, John W. Clift, Charles Grant, C. W. Hawley; platform, Robert J. Murphy, Miles S. Sherwood; floats, Frederick Kentz, Schuyler Cady, Harry Garlick; fireworks, Chester N. Jones.

On the platform, which is to be erected on the tract of land near the city hall in Springfield avenue, the school children will present several fancy dances.

It was also decided to furnish with a band the fire companies that will participate in the parade.

The committee will meet again next Monday night. It is planned to spend about $2,000 in the celebration, and while the subscriptions have not been received as rapidly as anticipated, the committee is confident that the necessary amount will be forthcoming.

FIND TWO TRAMPS DEAD; THIRD PTOMAINE VICTIM

Red Bank, June 12.—Two tramps were found dead in different spots here Monday night. A third, who said he was Richard Caldwell, of Newark, was found critically ill with ptomaine poisoning on the lawn of an Oceanic residence.

The police have learned that a number of tramps have been in the custom of camping together and buying cheap meat, and it is believed that the three victims may have been affected by the same diet.

Sitting in an upright position against a tree, the body of the first tramp, who was known as "Paterson Joe," was found in White's Woods near the railroad. Another tramp, known as "Blackie," made the discovery and notified the police.

Blackie said that, in company with "Paterson Joe" and several other tramps, he had been camping in White's Woods for several days. Sunday afternoon he said "Paterson Joe" complained of feeling sick, and wandered away from the others and had not been seen again.

It was learned that the dead man was released from the county jail at Freehold Saturday night where he had been serving a ten days' sentence for being drunk and disorderly at Long Branch.

The body of the second tramp was found in a woods on Black Point, on the North Shrewsbury River, near Rumson, Monday night. The body was found by a laborer.

Caldwell was found on the front lawn on the Allen estate at Oceanic by Harry Ford, of Red Bank. A doctor was summoned and declared the man was suffering from ptomaine poisoning.

"WILL REPUDIATE COMMITTEE"—T.R.

Declares That's What Convention Will Do.

KENTUCKY GOES TO TAFT.

President Gets Seventeen, While Roosevelt Receives One—William Barnes, Jr., Arrives on Scene—La Follette Men Deaf to Pleas of Roosevelt Supporters.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., June 12.—After a hard working day in town Theodore Roosevelt returned to Sagamore Hill and immediately gave out a statement. He had been occupied the greater part of the day conferring with Governor Stubbs of Kansas, who came from Chicago. Mr. Roosevelt begins his statement by saying that a fight for decent citizenship is being made.

"This is more than a mere party fight," he urges. "We are fighting for the cause of every decent citizen in the republic, no matter what his politics may be. We are fighting for the fundamental principles of American democracy, the rights of the people to be their own masters and to nominate their own public servants."

Besides attacking the general position of the national Republican committee and its relation to the bosses of the party and to President Taft, he offers some sort of explanation of his attitude as to the Indiana contests even which his own committeemen voted to award to Taft.

"The members of the national committee who are my supporters," he explained, "have leaned backward in every case where there was so much as a color of a claim that the question was even in doubt. They have divided only where the case was so clear that no honest man could doubt. That they inclined so far beyond the requirements of each case can be attributed only to the misplaced hope that by so doing they might seem to offer a fairer and more effective front when a serious contest was deemed worth while."

Predicts Repudiation.

Such a case, he contends, was presented in the Thirteenth Indiana district. He rehearses in detail the facts presented and points out that affidavits were submitted showing that a clear majority of the members of the convention by their sworn statements had voted for Roosevelt. By overruling such evidence of the people's wish the combinations of privilege in politics and business hope, he contends, to nominate Mr. Taft. And he concludes with these prophetic words:

"If the national committee continues as it has begun I believe its action will be repudiated by the convention."

Among others who conferred with the ex-president today were Amos Pinchot, who was all confidence and announced his intention of leaving for Chicago; William N. Prendergast, who will make the nominating speech, and Nicholas Longworth.

Taft Gets Seventeen.

Chicago, June 12.—After nine hours' continuous session the Republican national committee disposed of the eighteen contests from the state of Kentucky, including the four delegates at large. Of this number seventeen Taft delegates were seated and one Roosevelt delegate.

The Roosevelt delegate was seated in the Eleventh Kentucky congress district, where the two Roosevelt delegates were apparently the regular delegates, while the two Taft delegates appeared before the committee as contestants.

Upon motion of A. Vorys of Ohio the two delegates were split between the Taft and Roosevelt factions on the ground that while the Roosevelt people controlled the congressional district convention they violated the rule of the Republican party in organizing the convention.

"There is no justification for dividing these delegates," said Senator Borah, the Roosevelt leader in the committee. "You should take both of them or none."

"I suppose its too raw for you to throw out both of the Roosevelt delegates," roared Francis J. Heney of California, proxy for Thomas Thorson of South Dakota.

Then the committee, by a vote of ayes, 19; nays, 33, refused to seat the two Roosevelt delegates and voted to split the delegation.

Taft Has 101, Roosevelt 1.

As a result of the action of the national committee 101 delegates, whose seats were contested, have been awarded to President Taft and one to Colonel Roosevelt.

The national committee so far has listened to arguments in these contests for four days and disposed of forty-four contests. There remain fifty-nine contests to be argued before the committee, and the committee has five days remaining to pass upon them. Today the committee will meet an hour earlier than usual and night sessions will commence tonight with a view of cleaning up this work by Saturday night.

Senator Borah was aided in the committee in his fight for the Roosevelt interests by Governor Hadley of Missouri, proxy for Sidney Bieber of the District of Columbia, and Francis J. Heney, proxy for Thomas Thorson of South Dakota.

The Roosevelt campaigners realize that the situation is that the Taft campaigners will control the temporary organization of the national convention, the committee on credentials and the committee on resolutions. The Roosevelt chieftains are continuing their efforts to organize a combination by which they can defeat Senator Root for temporary chairman. They have had further negotiations with Senator La Follette adherents in Wisconsin. In a word, the proposition of the Roosevelt people to the La Follette folks was to the effect that Governor Francis C. McGovern of Wisconsin should be made temporary chairman of the convention through a combination of the Roosevelt delegates and the La Follette delegates. The La Follette delegates could not see it that way.

Barnes Arrives on Scene.

William Barnes, Jr., and a number of New Yorkers, including William Berri of the Borough of Brooklyn, have arrived. Judge Charles A. Duell, New York's Roosevelt chieftain, is convinced that Roosevelt is to have twenty of the ninety delegates of the state.

Coincidental with the arrival of Mr. Barnes there was further talk of a compromise candidate to come out of the convention, and the name of Justice Hughes came to the front again. One of the closest friends of President Taft said concerning Justice Hughes:

"The president is perfectly aware that Justice Hughes is not a candidate and will not be a candidate for this nomination. That is positive."

Lucius N. Litteaur has a tabulated list of New York delegates which alleges that Colonel Roosevelt will have fifteen of the delegates for the state.

Taft Boomers Sent For.

The Taft people started in to frame the platform which will be submitted to the committee on resolutions. This platform will be made up largely of the national planks adopted by the Republican state conventions of New York, Ohio and Connecticut. In a general way the ideas to be submitted by Senator La Follette will be considered, but there has been no understanding or arrangements, it was asserted, by which Senator La Follette is to receive recognition in the makeup of the platform. His views will be considered, it was added, just as the views of Colonel Roosevelt's friends in the committee will be considered, but the majority of the committee will represent the administration policies of President Taft.

The Taft men sent word to their followers to arrive in Chicago not later than Friday or Saturday. This call was issued to offset that sent out by William Flinn to Roosevelt followers. If Colonel Roosevelt is to have a vast army of shouters here the Taft people are to confront them with a like number.

The indications all point to wild scenes before the convention adjourns.

RUSHING TO CHICAGO.

Governor Johnson of California to Appear at Hearing Today.

GOV. JOHNSON TO CHICAGO.

Summoned by Dixon to Be Present at California Case Hearing.

Sacramento, Cal., June 12.—Responding to urgent telegrams from Chicago and Washington, Governor Johnson is on his way eastward, his presence being desired in Chicago not later than this afternoon, when the California delegation contest will be taken up by the Republican national committee.

Governor Johnson departed on Sunday after an exchange of telegrams with Senator Dixon, Colonel Roosevelt's manager.

WANAMAKER'S SPECIAL TRAIN

He Must Be in Chicago in Time to Second Taft's Renomination.

Philadelphia, June 12.—In order that he may be present at the Republican national convention and cast a vote for President Taft, John Wanamaker, who was held up in Europe by the strike of French seamen, will have a special train to carry him from New York to Chicago immediately upon his arrival in New York.

He will sail on the Kaiser Wilhelm II. today, and he expects to arrive in New York on June 18. At the request of President Taft Mr. Wanamaker will second the renomination of the president.

Lack of ready cash may make it necessary for the Plainfield Anti-Tuberculsis League to close its camp during the summer months, the most important season of the year. On June 1, the League's bills payable amounted to $477 and it is estimated it will cost $1,900 to keep the camp open during June, July, August and September. Of the $1,900, it is figured that $1,200 will be needed for the Pavilion. When it is considered that the expenses of the League average $125 a month more than for the corresponding month last year, it can readily be seen that the association's burden is a heavy one. Its work is one that should appeal to all. Let us suggest that before you go away for your summer vacation, you send a check to Dr. F. E. DuBois, the League's secretary, to be used in providing comfort and proper care for the unfortunate ones who are attacked by the Great White Plague.

The Senate has joined the House in determining upon the abolition of the Commerce Court; a body created but two years ago for the purpose, many consider, of defeating the good work of the Inter-State Commerce Commission. The Senate has defeated a proposed amendment to make provision for maintaining the court in the legislative, executive and judicial appropriation bill. Only the signature of the President is now needed to end the life of a court which the Supreme court recently declared had exceeded its powers.

A clever trick is being played in New Jersey by not a few resident automobile owners. It consists in placing a foreign license number on a local car thereby robbing the State of the fee. Edward Johnson, chief inspector of the motor vehicle department, noticing how widespread is becoming this abuse, has issued a circular letter to the various inspectors telling them to keep a sharp look-out for this class of offenders. As there is a fine of $100 for this offense, "the punishment will fit the crime."

What excuse the Jersey Central may had for not providing a shelter, at least, on the westbound side at the Netherwood station disappeared when the Netherwood Residents' Association gathered figures to show that the number of passengers alighting and boarding trains at that point clearly warranted some sort of shelter for them particularly when the weather is bad. As it is now, they have to stand on muddy ground in rainy weather.

Don't talk lightly of the strawberry; it has done much for this country. Consider for a moment what wonders it has done for the spread of the Gospel, strange as it may seem. More church mortgages have been lifted, more church carpets laid; more pastors' salaries paid and more church edifices painted by that luscious little berry than by any other single agency. And this is the season for the strawberry festival.

Six independents, three organization men and one Democrat were selected at the primaries in Atlantic City yesterday as the ten from which five will be elected on July 9 to act as commissioners in that municipality. The prediction is made by the knowing ones at the coast resort that the commission will consist of three independents and two organization Republicans.

It will be a hundred years ago next Tuesday when the United States declared war against Great Britain. After a strife lasting two and a half years, the Republic, then but thirty-six years old, won. So indissoluble are the bonds of friendship between these two great nations that it would be hard to conceive of a situation arraying them against each other in bloody conflict.

Following New Brunswick, Elizabeth has started a "boost" campaign. It costs no more to boom than to knock in this world and it is a good deal more pleasant and profitable.

"Easy come, easy go"—the founder of Luna Park has gone into bankruptcy.

NATIONAL GUARDSMEN'S SKILL ON RIFLE RANGE

Sea Girt, June 12.—Of the twenty-eight men of the First Battalion, Second Infantry, who so far have shot in the marksman class, that is 200, 300 and 500 yards, three qualified for tryouts as sharpshooters, three failed to qualify by small margins, while the other twenty-two succeeded in qualifying in their class.

Under the present rules on the three ranges in this class, 150 points can be made. It is necessary to make 98 to qualify as a marksman and 120 or better makes a man eligible for a tryout as a sharpshooter. The three who will try for the sharpshooters' class are Private Oliver R. Pearson, Company K, who made 124; Private George B. Howell, same company, who scored 122, and Sergeant James R. Daab, Company C, who made 127.

The greater part of the scores were 100 or better, and Brigadier-General Bird W. Spencer, inspector-general of rifle practice, and his aids are well pleased with the auspicious opening of the season.

In the sharpshooter and expert class the same total of points is possible and the same percentage to qualify necessary.

The sharpshooter class, which began firing yesterday, shoot on the 500 and 600 yard range and at 200-yard skirmish run, while the expert class fire at 800 and 1,000 yards.

Corporal George W. Bowe, 95; Sergeant James B. Conklin, 123; Sergeant J. Arthur Dow, 111; Sergeant George L. Apgar, 98; Private Thomas W. Rochford, 101; Private Ernest S. Bird, 98; Private Oliver R. Pearson, 124; Private Gunnar W. Hanson, 103; Private George B. Howell 122; Private Augustus Van Arsdale, 100; Private Sdson C. Gardner, 91.

ENGINEER SMASHES TWO CARS.

Whitehouse, June 12.—The Harrisburg flier, east bound on the New Jersey Central Railroad, was delayed at the county line near this place by a slight mishap. The engineer of a mixed train was about to pull in on the siding to let the flier by, and ran his engine past the switch. Then he parted his train and went down and backed on to the side track, his intention being to back up and pull the remainder of his train in. In doing this the two sections of his train came together with a crash, resulting in two cars being smashed. The crew from Elizabethport was summoned, and soon opened up the road for traffic again. The flier was run around on the west bound track.

NEW C. R. R. STATION IS PROMISED NEWARK

To Be Built Within a Year, According to Vice-President W. G. Besler.

The Central Railroad of New Jersey is going to have a new Broad street station in Newark—and this within a year.

A definite statement to this effect was made by W. G. Besler, vice president of the road, last night.

On May 13 Mr. Besler told the promoters of the Newark Industrial Exposition that the Central intended making some extensive improvements in that city, and contemplated, among other things, the erection of a new station. The following day Mr. Besler said that the company hoped to have a new station shortly, but that no definite plans had been made.

Now Mr. Besler says the plans for a new station have been prepared and the railroad is merely waiting for an opportunity to start construction work.

"Plans for a new station have already been drawn by a Central Railroad artchitect," Mr. Besler said. "Hitherto, to have attempted to go ahead with our project of supplying Newark with a new station would have meant the spoiling of everything—making dough out of our cake, I might say.

"You can see for yourself that the Central has spent millions in Newark, and I can assure you that the railroad has never been penurious when it saw that the expenditure of money would serve some good purpose. The present delay is caused merely by good judgment, the directors of the road realizing that the tme is not ripe to start the actual work of construction.

"I can't give you any idea of the scope of the work the road is going to undertake in erecting a new station, further than to say that we shall erect a building of which we and the city of Newark may be proud."

MRS. ROBERT G. NEWMAN ENTERTAINS AT BRIDGE

Mrs. Robert George Newman, of Madison avenue, entertained at bridge at her home, yesterday afternoon. There were about forty guests, the majority engaging in play. The home was elaborately decorated with roses from Mrs. Newman's garden, and they were the admiration of all present.

Mrs. Harry Bouton, Mrs. Millard F. Elderton, Mrs. Edward T. VanWinkle and Mrs. Arthur T. Gallup received the prizes, while Mrs. Frank W. Weed was presented with the "booby" prize. Refreshments were served after the play.

STRIKERS MARK TIME.

The situation in the machinists' strike still remains unchanged today. No further word has been received from the Hall's firm than that detarted yesterday. The Potter firm is silent, awaiting D. E. Titsworth's return. The men are killing time by playing cards in the association rooms or talking over the situation. They expect to hear something definite on Thursday.

THE FORUM.

Editors, Plainfield Daily Press:

As one who took a prominent part, fifty years ago, in Mellourne, Australia, in securing the eight-hour day labor, it may not be out of place if I tell how the eight-hour principle was won close upon half a century ago, in that happy country, when "three out of every four mechanics, who have reached middle age, live in their own neat cottages." (Page 838, vol. xv., Encyclopedia Britannia.)

We formed organizations, the principle object of which was to secure that great boon to both employer and employed.

We agreed to ask for eight hours, and eight hours only, leaving the wage question to settle itself, according to the law of supply and demand. By this means we did away with the chief objection raised against us, and we won.

At the commencement, about one-half of the employers of labor gave their men nine hours' pay for the eight-hour working day, of their own free will.

In about six months almost all the men were receiving the same pay for eight hours as they did for ten hours.

At the end of the first year of the eight-hour work day, all but one of the employers were so pleased with the new system that they signed a paper saying that the men did better and more work under the eight hour than they did under the ten-hour system, because the men were not today using up tomorrow's strength.

It is my opinion that the men would have won the eight hours long ago if they had used more discression and left the wage question to settle itself, as it would have done here, just as it did in Australia.

Many people think that by adopting the eight-hour system, that more men will be needed to do the same amount of work, as under the ten hours. That is a mistake, for such will not be the case.

One thing the eight hours will do, though. It will produce a much more intelligent class of workmen, which intelligence will more than compensate the employers for what they at present think shortcomings in other directions.

Cost of heat reduced 25%

Square Pot Boilers—like illustration—are equipped with the famous square fire pot, which has done more to banish heating troubles than any other improvement ever brought out. It increases the effective radiating area 25%, thereby lessening the cost of heat commensurate.

Sectional view of the famous Square Pot Boiler

The old style round bottom fire pot chokes and clogs with ashes—which retards heat and causes much disagreeable work. This is impossible in the square fire pot, as the corners are square and there is no place for ashes to cling. The square-pot boiler gives heat from basement to farthest radiator—instantly regulated to just the temperature desired. WAYS OF USING MINT.

THE usefulness of mint is appreciated by few. It is excellent for nervous persons. Such will find it soothing to their nerves, no matter in what form they take it. It is also helpful in many forms of stomach trouble.

For Invalids.

Mint Jelly.—Clear apple jelly should be used as a foundation for this. Grind the fresh mint leaves and press the juice through a piece of fine cheesecloth. Flavor the apple jelly with the mint juice. The jelly must be in the liquid stage, of course, when the mint juice is stirred in. The apple jelly should be a little thicker than it would be if used without the mint.

A Dainty Confection.

Candied Mint.—Mint leaves may be candied to look quite natural if they are dipped in gum arabic. The latter is prepared by dissolving an ounce of the gum in half a cup of cold water. The vessel containing the gum arabic should be stood over the fire while the gum is dissolving. It must be stirred constantly. When cold dip the leaves or flowers of the mint in this and let them dry.

Then make a sirup of half a cup of water to one of sugar. Let it boil as for fondant. When cold dip in the mint. The leaves my be embellished by dredging with granulated sugar. Set aside to cool. These may be used to ornament cake or confectionery.

A Delicious Ice.

Mint Ice Cream.—One quart of cream, three well beaten eggs, half a pound of sugar. Pour into a saucepan and place on fire. Stir and when the mixture boils remove and strain. Add two tablespoonfuls of mint juice. When cold stir in a teaspoonful of lemon juice. Pour into a freezer and freeze.

Mint Souffle.—Boil together in a saucepan a pint of cream and milk with the peel of a lemon, sugar to sweeten and the chopped leaves of freshly gathered mint. Melt a lump of butter and add flour to make it stiff. Strain the boiling milk over and boil till very stiff, stirring all the time. Add a dash of salt and when the mixture has cooled add one by one the yolks of six eggs. Whip the whites to a stiff froth, fold them into the mixture, pour into dish and bake in oven three-quarters of an hour. Serve powdered with fine sugar.

THE BALLOT AND THE WORKING WOMAN.

Would the ballot help the working woman? Miss Minnie Bronson says, "The history of labor legislation shows invariably that suffrage States instead of being in the vanguard of industrial legislation, have usually lagged behind, and have only enacted labor laws when the majority of male suffrage States have pointed the way." But to prove Miss Bronson in error requires only a little study of the statute books, which study Alice Stone Blackwell has made for us. When Colorado passed the law limiting to eight the number of hours women might work on their feet, no other States made such limitations. When Washington passed its eight-hour law for women not three other States had eight-hour laws. When Utah passed its nine-hour law more than two-thirds of the States allowed women to be worked more than nine hours, and still allow it.

There are six suffrage States—California, Washington, Colorado, Utah, Wyoming and Idaho. California and Washington have eight-hour laws for women. Miss Bronson says that these were enacted "under male suffrage." In point of fact the advocates of shorter hours in Washington tried for eight years to secure an eight-hour law for women without success prior to the granting of equal suffrage. After equal suffrage was granted the Legislature promptly passed the bill.

In California it is true that the eight-hour law was passed a short time before the franchise for women was secured. Colorado passed an eight-hour law for women in 1903 but in 1907 it was thrown out by the State Supreme Court as unconstitutional. In the last Colorado Legislature, a more comprehensive eight-hour law for women passed the lower house with only one dissenting vote, but was blocked in the Senate, like almost all other legislation in that year, by the deadlock over the U. S. senatorship. Utah adopted a nine-hour law for women in 1911. Mrs. Elizabeth M. Cohen, chairman of the Industrial Committee of the State Federation of Women's Clubs, told in the Woman's Journal of May 27, 1911, how the passage of the bill was secured. It was backed by women's organizations numbering 50,000 members. Mrs. Cohen says:

"The large number of women represented was both inspiring and appalling—inspiring the women's committee to give the best that was in them, and appalling to the legislator who would like to be re-elected two years hence, and realized that 50,000 votes stood back of that representation."

Idaho and Wyoming as yet have no laws for the protection of women in industry because they have so few women engaged in industry outside their homes.

Mrs. Eva Hunt Dockery, for ten years a member of the Legislative Committee of the State Federation of Women's Clubs, wrote in the Woman's Journal of December 17, 1910: "Idaho has no factories where women are employed, so the need of this law has not been felt. Up to a very few years ago there was not a department store in the State, and the clerks in the stores were treated as they were in the good old days in the East, like members of the family." The census of 1900, says Alice Stone Blackwell, showed only 59 women in Idaho engaged in factory work and only 47 in Wyoming, as against 126,093 in Pennsylvania, 143,109 in Massachusetts and 230,171 in New York. It so happens that all the States in which enormous numbers of women are working for wages outside their homes are non-suffrage States.

The need of protective legislation for working women, therefore, has not been so urgent in suffrage States as elsewhere; yet a much larger proportion of the suffrage States have passed eight or nine hour laws for women than of the non-suffrage States. They have also done it with more ease. Massachusetts has just secured a 54 hour a week law as the culmination of about 40 years of effort for improved conditions for working women. The Utah women got the nine-hour law from the first Legislature from which they asked it.

MONTCLAIR WOMEN WORE NEW SAFETY HATPINS.

All the women of the Montclair Equal Suffrage League who marched in the New York parade wore hatpin point-protectors, invented and made by one of the League. They were cut by hand out of cork, and then colored. This was the contribution of one who was physically incapable of walking.

All the men who have suffered from sharp hat-pins will agree that those New Jersey women deserve the vote.

The American Unitarian Association at the annual meeting just held in Boston, adopted a resolution in favor of woman suffrage for the first time.

At the 96th annual diocesan convention of the Episcopal Church of North Carolina, in session at Durham, N. C., women were given the right to vote in church affairs in the diocese.

UNIVERSALISTS FOR SUFFRAGE.

The Massachusetts Universalist Convention, at its 53d annual meeting held last week in Brookline, Mass., passed with but few dissenting votes a resolution offered by Rev. Ada C. Bowles squarely endorsing woman suffrage and committing the church to aid the reform.

That has been my slogan for years. I aim to do the best possible painting—using only the best materials that the manufacturers can furnish and employing the most skilled mechanics that can be procured. I stand back of every job I do, and when I am allowed to use my own judgment in regard to the best method of doing it, I will gladly make good any work that by any chance proves defective.

HOSPITAL'S ANNUAL SESSION

calls for the year were one hundred and ninety-two.

"In August last, Miss Hughes, for a number of years an efficient and trustworthy superintendent, resigned, and on the first day of September, Mrs. Frances Allen Worrall succeeded Miss Hughes as superintendent of nurses, having as her assistants Miss Cardwell and Miss Atkinson.

"During the past year the following additions were made to the medical staff:

"Dr. H. V. Hubbard, junior attending surgeon, eye, ear, nose and throat department; Dr. Raymond T. Munger, clinical assistant, eye, ear, nose and throat department; Dr. D. C. Adams, special homeopathic attending surgeon.

"The graduation exercises of Muhlenberg Hospital Training School for Nurses occurred on the evening of May 23, at the Hartridge Auditorium, when the following nurses received their diplomas: Olga Nataliz Anderson, Mary Leonora Cleaves, Lillian Earl Fritts, Katherine Kaudenback, Catherine Stewart Knox, Rose Anne Spillane, Elizabeth Mae White.

"The usual dance followed the graduation exercises.

"The assistance rendered by the Women's Auxiliary Board has been gratifying, and I feel that the Board of Governors are under great obligation to the women of Plainfield who for many years past have lent their aid in furthering the interests of the hospital.

"A committee of ladies representing the Auxiliary Board has met with untiring devotion with the executive committee, and it is further recognized, that it has proved of great value to have had a sub-committee from the medical staff meet frequently with the executive committee to discuss ways and means for furthering the work of the hospital.

"An important event in the history of the hospital during the past year was the successful campaign under the direction of W. A. Bowen for the raising of funds for additions and improvements to the present hospital buildings.

"Owing to the conscientious labor of Samuel Townsend, to whom we are indebted for the suggestion of the campaign, and also to the efficient efforts of over three hundred men and women of Plainfield, cash and pledges were received amounting to about $133,000.

"A deep sense of gratitude is felt toward the community for its generosity in making possible this satisfactory result.

"A New York firm of architects, Messrs. Crowe, Lewis & Wickenhoeffer, has been employed, and they are now preparing plans for the new private rooms, children's ward, fireproofing old buildings, and the construction of a maternity ward, cost of the latter to be defrayed from the bequest of the late Mrs. Edgerton.

"The campaign did much to win more closely the hearts of the people of Plainfield to our hospital, and there should be in the future, more than ever before, a determined effort on the part of the Board of Governors to so administer the affairs of the institution as to merit the highest approbation on the part of the community. This can only be obtained by self-sacrificing effort so that those who have occasion to accept the service which the hospital offers will find its administration such as to insure the best medical and surgical skill and such thoughtful and intelligent care as to make apparent to all the great good which is being accomplished.

"I desire to express my appreciation to the members of the Board of Governors, the Women's Auxiliary Board, and the medical staff for their faithful work during the past year and to thank all who have given aid, either in personal service, money or other gifts, thereby making it possible for Muhlenberg Hospital to have accomplished so much towards the relief of the sick and suffering."

FIRST BAPTIST G. P. S. HOLDS BERRY FESTIVAL

The Young People's Society of the First Baptist church gave a strawberry and ice cream festival on the lawn adjoining the church, last night. The affair was arranged for the purpose of raising money with which to purchase a typewriter for Miss Stella Relyea, a missionary in China, and about $40 was realized.

Miss Hattie Demler was the chairman of the affair, the general committee comprising Harold Robins, Sidney Mackey, Hollis Cubberley, Heber Cubberley, Miss Ruth Day and Miss Helen Armstrong. Miss Marie Fountain and Miss Ruth Day had charge of the cake table, Miss Marguerite Lee and Miss Marjorie Cubberley the candy table; John Perry, Mrs. Louis Matlack and Miss Leora Henry the rose garden; Hollis Cubberley and Miss Marjorie Cubberley the "clipping" table; Miss Helen Armstrong and Miss Lillian Teeter the lemonade and Miss Lillian Fountain the tables. The waiters were in charge of Robin Brown.

Children's Day will be observed at Warren chapel next Sunday morning at 11 o'clock. There will be infant baptism.

The Junior Endeavorers of Trinity Reformed church will hold a social at the church this afternoon. The closing exercises will be held on Wednesday, June 19.

STRAWRERRY FESTIVAL TO HELP CHURCH CLEAR DEBT

The Loyal Band Class, No. 24, of Trinity Reformed church, of which Henry Seader is the teacher, held a successful strawberry and ice cream festival at the church last night. The affair was held for the purpose of raising the band's proportion toward liquidating the church debt, and it is believed that the profits will amount to about $30.

The Sunday-school room, where the festival was held, was attractively decorated in green and white crepe paper and flowers. The entertainment and reception committee comprised Henry Seader, chairman; Mrs. A. B. Coles, Mrs. William Smith, Mrs. Howard Alleger. During the evening there were duets by Miss Gertrude Schleif and Miss Elvira Hoerster, Miss Louise Seader and Miss Laura Smith; also cornet solos by Miss Dorothy Seader and selections by a quartet comprising Thomas Connelly, Edward Harding, Fred Miller and William Tunison.

The other committees in charge were as follows:

Social, Mrs. William Tunison, Mrs. William Trembath, Mrs. William Pangborn, Mrs. Chauncey F. Colthar, Mrs. Henry P. Seader; Decorating, Miss Mamie Koller, Mrs. Edgar F. Y. W. C. A. HOLDS CHARMING FESTIVAL ON ITS LAWN

Under the auspices of the Silver Bay Club of the Young Women's Christian Association a very enjoyable lawn festival was held yesterday. Daisies and paper lanterns formed the scheme of decorations, converting the lawn and veranda into a fairyland scene.

There was a large attendance. A number of beautiful stereopticon views of scenes at Silver Bay were shown in the gymnasium, and explained by Mrs. Frederick Mead. Next followed a very delightful exhibition of folk dances on the lawn given by the girls of the gymnasium class in costume.

Other interesting numbers were songs by Mrs. Konnelly and Mrs. W. Mowyer in costume, and monologues by Mrs. Maxwell E. Perkins.

Of course, there were the ice cream and other refreshments. The proceeds will be devoted to defraying the expenses of the Y. W. C. A. delegates to the Silver Bay conference on July 1.
